It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

HOME MISSIONS.

One Hundred and First Annual Report.

The Board of Home Missions herewith respectfully submits to the General Assembly the One Hundred and First Annual Report of its work:

Before beginning the review of the year it may not be improper to briefly set forth how the Board carries on in the offices the work committed to it by the Church.

The Board consists of twenty-one members, eleven ministers and ten laymen, most of whom must needs live in New York or its vicinity, not only to attend the monthly and special meetings of the Board, but also the frequent meetings of some of the committees.

The Committees of the Board are—

THE APPLICATION COMMITTEE, meeting monthly to pass upon the applications from the churches seeking aid. There are about seventeen hundred churches under the care of about thirteen hundred and fifty ministers. These applications are considered one by one. They have previously been considered by the officers of the Board, who, by study and correspondence, are in a position to furnish detailed information to the Committee in regard to every case.

THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE, having under its care and supervision the entire work of the Woman's Board. Last year nearly one-third of a million of dollars was spent by the Woman's Board in the payment of 491 missionaries and teachers, in the support of 159 missions, schools and academies; five dispensaries and one hospital; six physicians, and in the maintenance and repair of school and other property in value of about $901,000.

THE FINANCE COMMITTEE, responsible for all the financial affairs of the Board, especially the investment of the Permanent Trust and Annuity Funds, which now amount approximately to $600,000. They meet frequently to consider and make provision for the financial exigencies of the Board. Upon their reputation and that of the other business men of the Board the banks are willing to loan the Board money upon its notes so that the missionary can get his salary promptly. The Board has had loans outstanding as high as $240,000 at one time, and begins its borrowing early in the fiscal year because the churches do not send their contributions early enough. The investigation and settlement of from two hundred to two hundred and fifty estates, in which the Board is interested by reason of bequests made to it, require almost daily conference. The active person in all financial matters is the Treasurer, whose duties are many, responsible and often delicate, and who could not think of assuming them without the constant co-operation of the Finance Committee. They are experienced business men, daily handling large affairs.

Another member of the Board with whom the Treasurer is in frequent conference is the Counsel, for many legal questions arise. Mr. John E. Parsons has served the Board in this capacity without remuneration many years.

THE HOUSE COMMITTEE, of business men, representing both the Home and Foreign Boards, care for the Presbyterian Building. This property has an annual rental value of over $120,000, not counting the space occupied by the two Boards. This Committee supervises the renting of the 272 rooms, keeps the property in repair and looks after the force of men needed to keep it in good running order.

THE AUDITING COMMITTEE, also composed of business men, secure the careful supervision of the Treasurer's accounts every month.

All matters considered by these various committees are submitted to the Board at its monthly and special meetings.

THE WOMAN'S BOARD, by its executive officers, by its various committees and by its semi-monthly meeting attended by nearly one hundred and fifty women gives diligent and constant study to its many and perplexing problems. Its recommendations are considered by the School Committee and through them are submitted to the Board of Home Missions.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEPARTMENT belongs jointly to the Home Board and the Woman's Board, having a secretary whose duty it is to stimulate for home missions all the young people's societies.

Each officer of the Home Board has his particular field of work. All meet in daily conference concerning the whole field.

The Secretary directs the general correspondence of the Board, and has supervision of every department.

The Treasurer's duties are outlined above.

Dr. Dixon's duties have reference to the applications from the churches for help, obtaining all needed information about the fields and the workers and then making a report to the office conference.

Mr. Baer's duties have reference to the sources of supply. His work is mainly with churches and individuals, in an inspirational and educational way.

Dr. McAfee is Superintendent of School Work. He arranges the courses of study, selects the teachers, and has general charge of the school property.

The year now past has been noteworthy in the following respects:

The extension of the work has made necessary, in the judgment of the Board, the increase of the executive force by the election of another Assistant Secretary. Mr. John Willis Baer, so widely and favorably known as the Secretary of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, was selected for this important position. He began his official duties on the first of October and has been warmly welcomed in the office and heartily approved by the Church.

This has been a year of unusual evangelistic effort. Through the labors of the Evangelistic Committee, many churches have been quickened and many fields have had carefully planned services that could have had none but for the help of this committee. We express again, therefore, our appreciation of this work and our purpose to co-operate with it to the fullest extent possible.

Another significant fact is that with the 1st of April two more Synods enter on the support of their own work. They are Wisconsin and Iowa. While this means for the present less than formerly for our treasury from those Synods, yet, by releasing the funds hitherto contributed to them, additional work in newer sections of the country may be taken up.

That the full work of home missions in all its unity may be presented to the Church, we publish in connection with this report statements of the work of the self-supporting Synods. The various plans of these Synods have their unity in equal loyalty to the general work of home missions, and their success along various lines is hailed by the Board with the liveliest satisfaction. It will welcome the tidings that other Synods are joining the same noble ranks and will cooperate with them to the full extent of its power.

Another fact of interest and value is the missionary campaign carried on this year, as last, in eastern presbyteries, in conferences, conventions and individual churches. The needs and opportunities of the great home mission work have been presented by men from the field. There have been immediate results of quickened interest, and we believe an impulse has come from deepened knowledge which will tell in the years to come. The missionary spirit waits only on missionary knowledge.

The Board desires to record its hearty appreciation of the labor of love and the painstaking co-operation of Presbyterial Chairmen of Home Mission Committees in the Presbyteries receiving aid through the Board. It is indebted also to the Chairmen of Presbyterial Home Mission Committees in all the self-supporting Synods, for their assistance in aiding its representatives in the presentation of the needs of their fields. It confidently expects a closer and more practical relation in the coming year as the Board suggests methods for stimulating the churches to larger offerings, and seeks to give fuller information of its needs and deeds.

The Board has made a new departure in calling the Rev. Charles Stelzle of the Markham Memorial church of St. Louis to a special mission to workingmen. The hold of the Church on this large and important element of the population is not what it should be. The past year has signally illustrated the power of the workingmen at any moment seriously to affect economic conditions. It is believed that only the gospel of Christ can solve the grave problem which is thus presented to the country. It is of the utmost consequence that the Church should be aroused to the necessity of doing more than she has ever done to strengthen her hold upon the working classes. Mr. Stelzle has had exceptional success along these lines. On the first of April he begins a campaign of the western cities, the outcome of which will be watched with eager interest.

The large reduction on the debt of the Presbyterian Building also calls for grateful recognition. The little that remains will, it is believed, soon disappear and that great building become a perennial and large source of income for home and foreign missions.

The following names are to be starred in Presbyterian history. They rest from their labors and their works do follow them. Not unattended have they entered into their honored rest.

SYNOD OF NEW YORK.

In the western part of New York State as in former years the Board is carrying on mission work among the remnant of the Iroquois Indians. Two ministers have charge of six churches with a membership of five or six hundred. The past winter has witnessed a remarkable spiritual blessing upon these missionaries and their work. The Rev. M. F. Trippe, long in charge of that entire field, writes, "Some lifelong pagans have been led to Christ. We have received fourteen into the churches this last week and feel that seed has been sown for a much larger harvest."

aided by the Board.

Its conditions are certainly not helpful to great and speedy advancement, but they are hopeful of slow and substantial gain. Our Presbyterian people here are in general comparatively poor, and consist largely of Scotch and Scotch-Irish and a constant fluctuation of Canadians from and to the eastern provinces of Canada. They are chiefly of the artisan class, living in large towns and cities.

In the past two months the presbyterial missionary, the Rev. James Todd, D.D., has visited most of the mission fields, conducted evangelistic services where desirable among the churches visited, met with their officers in the evening and discharged executive duties during the day. He brings hopeful and cheering reports.

Professions of conversion were made in every church where evangelistic services were held. In Globe Church, Fall River, Mass., five young men and three young women openly confessed Christ in the services, and the pastor expects to receive about a dozen into church membership as a result of these services. The churches received much needed inspiration and stimulus. Difficulties were reduced or removed and financial problems made easier of solution.

South Framingham will wipe out its mortgage debt, which has hampered it for so long. Nearly every home mission church is asking for less from the Board for the ensuing year, and one church—Graniteville, Vt.—will be self-supporting after this year. In several other mission churches debts which have embarrassed them are being reduced and an increase shown in benevolences. Indeed, this last-mentioned progress has been shared also by many of the self-supporting churches.

Dr. Todd says: "Our churches are growing in experience which fits for leadership and are becoming better able to successfully seize their opportunity and utilize well their privileges. Immigration continues to come steadily from the motherland and Canada, and, as most of the immigrants have been brought up Presbyterians, they have first claims upon our Church. Thus we have a field full of hope and a future great with possibilities. True, there are great difficulties; but to every true Church great difficulties mean great endeavors. If this work, so auspiciously renewed, is continued and extended, as necessity demands, to other places throughout New England, we shall see greater things accomplished by our beloved Presbyterian Church."

SYNOD OF ATLANTIC.

The Board aids churches in only two of the Presbyteries of the Synod of Atlantic-East and South Florida.

There has been a good deal of development in Florida during the past year. In eastern Florida, from Jacksonville to Miami, the Flagler East Coast Railway has opened up for settlement large areas of desirable country that hitherto had been well nigh inaccessible. There has been consequently a decided increase in the population. The climate of the east coast south of Palm Beach is unsurpassed. Dr. H. M. Field pronounced it the finest in the world. Along this coast the palatial hotels erected by Mr. Flagler from St. Augustine to Miami have given an ever-increasing tide of winter tourists.

Miami is doubtless the most important point on the coast. The government appropriation of $350,000 and a similar gift from an individual will deepen the channel for the admission of ocean-going steamers and make this place a large seaport city when the Isthmian Canal shall have been completed. The country north of Miami will share correspondingly the prosperity of that city and our mission enterprises between Palm Beach and Miami, with proper cultivation, ought to grow accordingly.

Large tracts of land available for the growth of winter vegetables and vast areas of other soil found to be the congenial home of the pineapple, situated so far south as to have almost complete immunity from the frosts so prevalent in the upper portions of the State, have attracted large numbers of settlers from north and middle Florida, from Georgia, and also many from northern States. New settlements have sprung up all along the line of the railroad and are rapidly developing the rich resources of the country.

The west coast of Florida in the extreme south has also shown a marked development since the memorable freeze of 1895, which well nigh destroyed the orange industry in middle Florida and drove the population to seek safety for their groves in a milder climate.

Our churches at Arcadia and Punta Gorda are consequently full of encouragement. Ft. Myers, twenty-five miles south of Punta Gorda, has also greatly increased in population. A church was organized there two years ago, but its growth has been hindered by the fact that we have not been able regularly to supply them with a missionary.

There has been considerable activity also in church building. Preparations for such buildings have begun along the east coast at Boynton, Ft. Lauderdale and Ojus, and a parsonage has been provided at Delray. The new church buildings at Punta Gorda and Arcadia are beautiful and creditable. The latter is a growing town of about two thousand inhabitants and the county seat of one of the prosperous counties in the State. Orange industry, the phosphate mines, the cattle industry on the flat woodlands and the raising of vegetables for the northern market will constitute sources of permanent prosperity for all that region.

The Rev. H. Keigwin, the presbyterial missionary, says as to the present moral condition: "The population will compare favorably with other and older sections of our land. The mania for money getting which so characterizes our country is everywhere present among us and sadly interferes with religious development. We have perhaps no more than our share of the world, the flesh and the devil; but there is a general indifference to spiritual things which requires the most aggressive efforts to arrest attention to the great eternal realities and the building up of Zion."

He says again: "Our manifest and immediate needs are vigorous, consecrated and aggressive ministers and more money to sustain them. Our salaries are small. The pioneer work requires self-denial, and the indifference of the people to religion is discouraging; hence the difficulty in securing the class of ministers we so much need.

"The Presbytery of Southern Florida is on most cordial terms of comity with the Southern Presbytery of St. Johns. We have had eight joint meetings and now we have a joint committee appointed to secure the establishment at Eustis of a Presbyterial Academy for both bodies, and I am sure there is hardly a man in either Presbytery who would not hail the day of organic union between the two Assemblies."

It is estimated that there has been an increase of a hundred thousand in the population of this State during the last two years, and, while there are some Swiss, Germans and Irish among the new settlers, they have principally been people from the East and from the North. The mountain region in the eastern part of the State has had a year of prosperity. All its fields have been supplied. Our Church is easily in the lead in its efforts to reach those mountain people. Ten academies and twenty-five churches represent our equipment for that part of the field.

The Rev. Donald McDonald, D.D., our synodical missionary, says: "Many of these places can be considered for the present only as life-saving stations, but some day, when the immense natural resources of the mountains are reached and developed, it may be seen that our investments were wise even from a pecuniary standpoint. The day of the mountains seems to have already come. Attracted by the wealth of timber, coal and oil, capitalists and syndicates are buying up large tracts of land for good prices. Railroads are coming, men and money from other States are coming, and our opportunity in the mountains has come, and two things must be done. A few more strategic points must be entered and occupied, the very meagre garrisons by which we have held the forts must be largely augmented. Brave men and women have been attempting work which was almost impossible; they must be relieved and upheld, and we must begin to develop the fields and gather in the abundant harvest accruing to the heroic labors of our pioneer missionary teach-It has been more apparent every year that what has now become an articulated system of schools must have a head, and that head or base must be in the mountains. During the last few years we have had great difficulty in securing teachers and preachers for our mountain work. We have been trying to do specific work with workers who had no special training. We must have specialists to do the work of specialists."

The evangelistic features of the work in the Synod have been especially encouraging. Three Presbyteries have taken up the work in a systematic way. Not only do the mountain regions of Kentucky, as elsewhere, claim our sympathy and help,—we must do more for the larger towns and cities. Not one-fourth of the young men of Louisville have any connection with any Christian church. There are two and a half times as many saloons as there are churches and about three times as many bartenders as ministers. If the population of Louisville should wish to attend church, the Protestant churches could not provide seats for more than one-third of tion of educational institutions. But the work would be strengthened by a larger measure of co-operation between the churches of the two denominations.

Our work in this Synod is confined to the eastern or mountain part of Tennessee and the northwestern part of North Carolina. It is both educational and evangelistic. Its general conditions of need and promise have often been presented and remain as in other years.

Gradually our mission stations are being pushed up into the mountains, and the loneliness of those settlements is relieved by the mission schools, which become a fountain of life for the community. Our large institutions at Asheville and Hot Springs have attracted wide attention to the splendid work they are doing and the great influence they exert through the mountain region, while the smaller schools in North Carolina and in Tennessee furnish in many cases the only opportunity the children have for either secular education or Christian training.

The attention of the whole country has been directed during the last year by the campaign of the Southern Education Society to the need of more interest in southern schools. Our work in that direction should be greatly expanded. The gospel work in this Synod has been greatly blessed and strengthened in many places by evangelistic services. Times of refreshing have come to many of the mountain churches.

While there has been no great increase of population, the opening of coal mines and iron works in many places have made centers which demand our attention.

The Rev. Calvin A. Duncan, D.D., the synodical missionary, after speaking of the older churches where the removal of the people to the cities and the great West have made the conditions difficult, but where the faithfulness of the missionary and the few who gather around him have made the nucleus for future growth as new settlers take the place of those who have gone away, adds: "The good fruits of the Board's work are equally apparent in our new fields in the mountains. Here we begin with the school. Faithful Christian teachers diligently sow the seed daily in their schools, and on Sabbaths teach in the Sabbath-schools.

Soon they are able to organize a Christian Endeavor Society. As they have time they also visit from house to house. Often they are called to speak words of comfort to the bereaved and pray with the dying. With such work conducted by Christian teachers, it is easy to see how the school prepares the way for the evangelist and church organization. It would greatly interest our friends to look into the eager faces of the hundreds of mountain children who are in the home mission schools of this Synod and to learn the rapid progress they are making in their studies and how many of them are giving their hearts to the Saviour."

With this new year this enterprising State assumes the support of its own work. Its purpose is heroic in the highest degree because of the predominence of the foreign element. Its strong churches are not numerous and its mission field is immense. Its strenuous endeavor will be regarded with wide and deep interest.

"The increase in Wisconsin's population during the past few years has been remarkable. The cheap lands advertised by railway companies and lumber firms; the opening up of tracts of timber, hitherto inaccessible, by new railway lines; the development of water power and the discovery of valuable mineral deposits; the rapid rise in land values (the price per acre having doubled, and in many instances quadrupled, in five years); these and other reasons have caused an influx of speculators, manufacturers and settlers to a degree hitherto unprecedented.

"While it is difficult to approximate the increase in population, it is almost as difficult to classify the new population according to nationality. The Germans are in the great majority, but the home seekers who have swarmed into our State are of all nationalities, many being young married people and young men who speak English readily and who are thorough Americans. They are of fair intelligence and desire schools and churches for their families.

"Thus far most of the mission work has been carried on along railway lines. The lack of men and means has hindered the extension of the work as fast as the needs of the fields demanded. Our strategic points are considered to be county seats or towns on the railroad, at junction points or where large factories are planned or natural conditions make it evident that there will be an important town in the future. While it is impossible to always judge fairly the future of a lumber town in its early days, still there is little danger of making a mistake in reference to the more important places.

"Home mission aid is needed in both old fields and new. It is natural to suppose that a church will reach self-support after a reasonable time, and the majority gradually do come to self-support. In some of the oldest churches in Wisconsin, however, conditions are such as to demand aid more urgently now than twenty years ago. Many a church has become steadily weaker through removals and death till only a handful remains of a once strong organization.

"While the increase of population has been general all over the State, in some of the oldest sections the religious character of the people has changed, Lutherans and Catholics taking the place of Presbyterians.

"In Chippewa and Winnebago Presbyteries the need for new work is most urgent. These two Presbyteries cover the whole northern half of the State, and within their bounds conditions are constantly changing.

"The relation of Presbyterian home mission work to that of the other denominations working in Wisconsin is of a cordial character. The superintendents of the different missionary bodies are warm personal friends and labor in entire harmony. The claim that mission money is wasted is not true in Wisconsin. The fact is we have not enough money to throw any of it away.

"With many fields unoccupied because of lack of men and means, with opportunities for work multiplying from year to year, with the consciousness that we are hopelessly behind, our only hope is that we may rouse our churches to see the opportunity and the necessity, and that men and means may be provided to go in and take for God this fair land which has been providentially opened and which our God has bidden us possess."

SYNOD OF MINNESOTA.

2.	Number of churches aided by the Board of Home Missions	160

5.	Number of churches reaching self-support	1

This great State, with others in the West, is substantially increasing in population. The increase during the period covered by the last census was something over three hundred thousand, and it is conservatively estimated that during the last two years the increase has been at the rate of fifty thousand per annum. The character of the population has also improved. About one-third of the increase has been Scandinavian, and the remainder principally from adjoining States, as Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois. The intelligence is said to be of a higher order than the accessions of former years.

The strategic points are of course the large cities and the growing towns. St. Paul and Minneapolis must be more strongly fortified. Duluth is the gateway to a vast region north and west of it. The Iron Range Railway, extending north from Duluth to Vermillion Lake and Rainy Lake, and the Northern Pacific, from Bemidji to Koochiching, have opened the great mineral wealth of the Biwabick region and attracted large capital as well as greatly increased population. The immense freightage which these railroads carry to Duluth is illustrated by the fact that a year or two ago the tonnage of this city on Lake Superior exceeded that of any other port in the world—greater even than either London or New York.

The recent opening of the Red Lake Reservation has thrown into prominence points like Thief River and Crookston. In view of the anticipated action of Congress during its recent session thousands of people pitched their tents in the region of Thief River Falls and on the borders of the Red Lake Reservation.

If any inquire why the churches in these newer towns of the Northwest do not more rapidly rise to self-support it may be somewhat of an answer to say that these towns are the center of eastern capital and much of the revenue in the way of interest goes back to enrich those who are not citizens of the State. The churches, therefore, cannot do what to all outside appearances it would seem they ought to do. A large amount of the trading capital of the State passes the churches by unnoticed and unhelped.

Last fall in the north central part of the State the new Presbytery of Adams (named in honor of our synodical missionary) was erected, composed of twenty-two churches taken from the Presbyteries of Duluth and Red River, and numbering fourteen ministers. A Sabbath-school missionary for Red River Presbytery and for Adams Presbytery has been secured, and the plan is to employ a pastor-at-large to cover them both. The churches in Minnesota have been fairly well supplied.

One of the heavy losses which this Synod has sustained during the past year was the death of the Rev. Newton H. Bell, pastor-at-large of the Presbytery of Mankato. Capable and faithful in his work, greatly beloved in his life, he is greatly mourned in his death.

Dr. Adams says: "We need fourteen new men in the Synod — married men as a rule, but with small families — men of energy and common sense, sound in body and sound in theology."

North Dakota is a large State with many resources. Indiana is only one-half its size, Pennsylvania four-sevenths and New Jersey one-tenth. In agricultural resources it surpasses any of those States. It is estimated that fifty million bushels of wheat, which command the highest market price, and twenty million bushels of flax, which is more than is produced in all the rest of the United States combined, were shipped out of this State in 1902. Millions of dollars' worth of cattle and sheep were put on the market the same year by North Dakota ranchers. Millions of acres of coal underlie the counties adjacent to the Missouri River. The population increased 74.6 per cent. between 1890 and 1900. Since 1900 the influx of people from the central States is estimated to be from 150,000 to 200,000. These people are starting new homes and new communities and are building new towns and new cities. They take naturally to the Presbyterian Church, many of them being of Presbyterian heredity. is only necessary that we send to each community a good minister and assist in supporting him until these people struggle with some of the problems and overcome some of the difficulties which are always met in frontier life and the churches will become self-supporting.

In North Dakota we have one hundred and thirty-four churches, twenty of which have been organized within this year. Twelve fields have become self-supporting in two years. There are one hundred and two preaching stations, in many of which churches should be established the coming year. There are eighty-six ordained ministers, twenty-six of whom have gone to North Dakota during the fiscal year. Besides, there are ten workers who are classed as students or local evangelists. These churches and ministers are by no means adequate to the demands of the population

Recent developments in North Dakota are indicated by the erection last fall out of Minnewaukon Presbytery of Mouse River Presbytery, which now includes upon its roll nineteen churches.

Rev. Andrew Christy Brown, D.D., our synodical missionary, writes: "Now is the time to take these new settlements for Christ and our beloved Church. The harvest is ripe and it is now or never for the Presbyterian Church in many of these towns now building. To plant churches and nurture them to self-support in this great and fertile land is to establish a basis of supply for missionaries and mission money in the near future. Is it not more important than any other home mission work to which our great Church is invited? Is our highly favored Church, with all her resources, not able to afford the support of all the missionaries required to do the work among exceptional populations, among the newly acquired possessions and also among the hardy American settlers in the newer regions of the United States? If she is unable or unwilling to enter the open door in all of these important fields, upon which of these special fields shall she make her largest investment in new work? From the standpoint of patriotism, with a keen foresight as to the economy of forces in future development, with a strong feeling of responsibility in relation to those who are our own blood and descended from those of our own faith, will not the Church see to it that the Board of Home Missions is provided with the means to care fully and faithfully for those who may be said to be of 'the household of faith' to which we belong? The early settlers in North Dakota are building an empire in their splendid State. Shall it be Christian? What part shall the Presbyterian Church have in Christianizing it? A nobler company of patriotic and self-sacrificing men can nowhere be found than the band of home missionaries in North Dakota who are laboring to build up the Kingdom of Christ."

The large areas of fine agricultural land in Canada have drawn a good many of the old settlers away from South and North Dakota to make their homes in the Dominion. Nevertheless there has been a marked increase in the population during the past year. Many of those who have gone were Presbyterians. The new comers in large measure are Scandinavian or German. Under these circumstances the work of home missions has been one of difficulty. The churches are pressed with efforts to keep up their work.

The work in the eastern part of the State has been well developed. Some progress has also been made in the Black Hills region. But comparatively little has been done for this western end of the State. The time is not far distant when there will be large developments there and a pressing need for more church work.

Dakota Presbytery is composed of twenty-seven churches—all Indian. Of the twenty-two ministers, four are white and the rest Indian. These Indians have had the gospel now for more than two generations, and alike the number of their churches and their gifts indicate the fruit of the work.

Rev. Harlan P. Carson, D.D., the synodical missionary, says: "We have never before had in this Synod so warm and widespread interest in evangelistic work. In studying the record which this Synod has made along all lines during the year just closed I discover still further need of evangelistic work. The shifting of population incident to the immense increase of land values in this State and changes of land owners has taken away nearly as many actual settlers as it has brought. It has rather reduced the old time membership of our churches, and the increase of new ones has scarcely equalled it. Expenditures for church beneficence and all church purposes have hardly kept pace with former years."

Iowa now joins the list of self-supporting Synods. The conditions are favorable. The population is largely American. There are no large cities with which to contend, and while there are few large churches, there are many well placed for growth, and the conditions in the State argue well for a steady increase in the giving capacity of the churches.

The Rev. Charles H. Purmort, D.D., synodical missionary, writes:

"We have in Iowa 428 churches. One hundred and fiftyeight of these are home mission churches. About thirty of our churches have become self-supporting in the past two years. Two-thirds of all our Iowa churches—277 the number—have a membership of less than one hundred. We are a Synod of small churches, and this very fact gives zest to our work, since we are still in the growing period. We are small and weak because of adolescence and not because of decrepitude.

"The evangelistic spirit is rife all over the Synod and many precious revival seasons have been experienced this past winter by our churches. It is yet too early to count up results. Last fall the Synod of Iowa voted unanimously to undertake self-support, beginning April 1st, 1903. The Home Mission Board at New York very generously volunteered to carry our home mission churches till April 1st, 1903, and in the meantime, from November 1st, 1902, to April 1st, 1903, allow the Synod to gather and hold her home mission offerings as a fund to start out on self-support.

"The Presbyteries were very slow at first to take hold of the work, but are now all hard at it with good prospects for great success. But until our experiment of self-support is assured we must withhold from new work that presents itself.

"While the romance of home mission work in Iowa is not so exciting as formerly, or as it is on the frontier, or in our new possessions, yet it is as important and far more assured in speedy returns and permanent results. Iowa is no longer experimental, but established, and conditions are now ripe for Presbyterian occupancy and establishment."

This State, with others, has had a year of financial prosperity. A good deal of progress has therefore been made in the building of new churches and of manses. More than the usual number of ministers, however, have removed from the State and their places were only partly supplied by new men. Many of the vacant fields have been supplied by students from Omaha Theological Seminary, which is always a source of supply for home missions. A number of churches have also reached self-support and many others are reaching toward this desired end. As in other States, the work of the Evangelistic Committee has been undertaken and pushed forward. Little new work was undertaken during the year, although the new line of the Elk Horn Railroad extending through Boyd county has opened up an inviting field for planting new churches. Several points have developed along the main line of the Union Pacific Railroad, but they have not been occupied for lack of men and money.

The plan of self-support, but now styled more appropriately "The Synodical Plan of Self-Help in the Synod of Nebraska," inaugurated about a year ago, did not make the progress anticipated for it, largely because it was not fully understood, and largely also, perhaps, because it overloaded the churches by asking more than they could do. They are pressing on, however, in the hope that self-help may ultimate in self-support in due time. Meantime it is hoped that the little which they are able thus to raise may relieve pressure at points which the Board of Home Missions is not able to touch.

The Rev. Charles F. Graves, pastor-at-large of Kearney Presbytery, was taken from his untiring labors in November. His death brought sore loss not only to the churches which had learned to long for his coming, but also to his brethren in the ministry.

The Rev Thomas L. Sexton, D.D., our synodical missionary, says: "The population of Nebraska is very much mixed, being made up of all nationalities. We have, besides the natives of our own land, Bohemians, Germans, Swedes, Danes, Welsh and a few Italians. The most of these foreigners are industrious and are the making of good citizens. As to intelligence, our State has the honor, according to the last census, of having the least amount of illiteracy of any of the States in the Union. What we need most is a genuine revival of religion all over the State."

Missouri consists of a hundred and fourteen counties, with a population of over three millions. In eighteen of these counties neither the Northern nor the Southern Church is represented. Approximately one-thirteenth of the entire field is untouched by either of these Churches. Of the remaining counties seventeen have only a single church each of either Synod within their bounds. Our Synod is at work in sixty-eight counties. In thirty-seven we have the field to ourselves, and in eleven of these we are doing all our work through a single church. The difficulties are those of sparse population in some places, crowded cities in others, poor and defective systems of education, the rapid influx of miners, and vast farming regions almost wholly neglected.

There is no synodical missionary in this Synod, so we condense the following statement from the last annual report of the Rev. Samuel J. Niccolls, D.D., chairman of the Home Mission Committee:

The past year, though one of prosperity, shows some decrease from the contributions for general home mission work over that of last year, although there has been an increase of over three thousand in the membership of the churches.

The past year was one of increasing material prosperity, but not of corresponding advance in the liberality of God's people. Dr. Niccolls says: "There are, however, some encouraging features in our work. More of our churches are earnestly reaching after self-support. We must also recognize the efficiency of the various organizations of the women and the splendid work they are doing in the education of the children in habits of beneficence. But there is need of instructing our people more fully with reference to the work of home missions. It is to be feared that our pastors are negligent in bringing this matter to the attention of their congregations. There is abundant and helpful literature on this subject prepared by the Board and to be found in the Assembly Herald, and if pastors would see to its distribution your committee is quite sure that favorable results would follow in enlarged liberality upon the part of the people and in increased interest in the work."

The Synod appointed a committee of five to report at the next meeting the advisability of adopting some such plan of self-support as is in operation in the self-supporting Synods.

The reports of the Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture for March, 1902, indicate that in the year then closing there was a loss of 3,239 in the population. The loss was occasioned partly by consolidation of farms in the western part of the State and turning them into cattle ranches and partly by the drift of population to large business centers, and somewhat also by the opening up of Oklahoma.

The character of the population in Kansas has always been remarkable. Of the 1,464,569 which comprises the present population, a little over 91 per cent. is American born, leaving only about 8 per cent. of foreign birth. The character of the foreign population is also worth noticing. There are about 40,000 Germans; about 18,000 Swedes, Norwegians and Danes; about 15,000 English; about 11,000 Irish and 10,000 Russians. The south of Europe contributes a very small part of the population—in all less than 8,000.

From this analysis of the population it might be easy to conclude that Kansas would rank high among the States of the Union as to general intelligence. This is indicated by the great preponderance of her American-born citizens, her more than $10,000,000 invested in school property, her 9,000 schoolhouses, her 12,500 public and private libraries, her 1,400,000 volumes in these libraries and her 600 newspapers.

The State has always been noted for certain moral conditions. The following facts attest a good moral tone:

First, the attitude of the State on the liquor question. Though prohibition has never been thoroughly enforced in her large towns, yet it has lessened the sale and consumption of liquor and proves that form of legislation so much of a success as to make the people unwilling to give it up.

Then there are $7,000,000 invested in church property. She has 5,500 church organizations, and finally a record of crimes which is much less than that of other States in proportion to the population.

Thanks to the activity of the missionary interests of that State from the days of Dr. Timothy Hill to the present time, the country has been fairly well covered with Presbyterian We have churches in 83 of the 105 county seats. We have churches in all the counties of the State except eight. The towns have been pretty generally seized and our strength has been spent upon them, which of course was But the country districts are now filling up slowly but surely, being settled by a thrifty set of farmers who have come to make homes for their families and who are The great work of home demanding churches and schools. missions, therefore, in Kansas for years to come is the filling up the country with Presbyterian churches. These become feeders for the towns in Kansas as well as in other States. As in many of the churches in the older East, the young people go off to other places and are often lost to the community in which they were reared. Yet it is absolutely necessary to hold these points for the sake of the larger towns and so for the sake of the State.

Rev. S. B. Fleming, D.D., the synodical missionary, says: "There are probably twenty places in the rural regions where it would be in the interests of Presbyterianism to organize churches."

The Indian Territory is perhaps increasing in population more rapidly than any other part of the country. Between 1890 and 1900 the increase was 116 per cent. Outside of Oklahoma there was nothing in the country approaching Since 1900 all indications are that the increase has been going on at a far more rapid rate. In one Presbytery alone there are not less than a score of towns which have practically sprung up in the last three years. With the extinguishment of the tribal government three years hence another impetus will be given to immigration, and pending that there is no likelihood of any diminution in the rate of increase. In the last year three new towns have come to us saying they will build churches and raise half a minister's salary if we will raise the other half for them. We cannot let go of the Indian work, for they need our help now more The older churches are being urged towards than ever. self-support, but the fact that all municipal expenses have to be met by taxing personal property, together with the great amount of public improvements which are demanded immediately from a people who came without any great wealth, makes it difficult to secure such rapid progress in this direction as is important.

The population of Oklahoma has increased at a marvelous rate. To the Kiowa country alone fully 100,000 have gone in the last year. Thriving cities are being built, among which are Lawton, Hobart and Anadarko. The population in the Synod is distributed as follows: 65,000 Indians, probably 40,000 freedmen and 700,000 whites. The white population is largely English-speaking, except a small, scattered German contingent. In the mining camps are a good many Italians.

In Oklahoma the population ranks high in intelligence. In Indian Territory the conditions are not so favorable. There have never been any schools for the whites in the country districts and consequently a generation has grown up in ignorance. What an appeal to the Christian Church! In the towns school privileges are fairly good. In Oklahoma a fine school system prevails.

The churches in both Territories have made commendable progress during the year; quite a number of them have become self-supporting. But, on the other hand, many churches now upon the Board will, by reason of strenuous conditions, need to be supported for years to come, and new churches should be organized in every direction.

Among the new fields that are about to be opened are Eufaula and Bristow, in Sequoyah Presbytery; Kaw City and Asher, in Oklahoma Presbytery; Auburn, Lambert, Taloga, Snyder and Cement, in Cimarron Presbytery; Haileyville, Phillips and Coalgate, in Choctaw Presbytery. Eight new men are earnestly sought immediately in these Territories.

The Rev. F. W. Hawley, our synodical missionary, says: "We need the very best men for work in this Synod. The people here are too busy in building up a great State to listen to any but the strongest men. We have been fortunate in securing men and have as fine a body of men as can be found in any Synod.

"These Territories are making great strides commercially. The people are absorbed in money making. We are now in a transition period. Now is the time for aggressive work here, and any assistance which can possibly be given us will fall far below our needs and our opportunities."

The vast region vaguely described as the "Southwest" promises to be the theatre of unusual economic advancement in the next decade. A few years ago cattle ranches held, without occupying, southwestern Kansas, Oklahoma, northwestern Texas and eastern New Mexico. But the farmer is coming. "The man with the hoe" will cut the barb-wire fences with which the cattle kings have fenced in vast areas. Railroads are pushing into the Southwest more rapidly than any other part of the country. The railroad building of the nation last year was about six thousand miles; of this the Southwest had about one-half. Oklahoma led all the States with 570 miles. Texas was second with 496 miles.

During the past year the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad has opened new lines across northwestern Texas. The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé has opened a new line farther east which may ultimately become the main line for California business, while the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad is building a line from Kansas City southwest through Oklahoma, Texas, Mexico to Port Stillwell on the Pacific. This tremendous railroad development is taking people into that region at an unprecedented rate. Oklahoma has a population of a half-million. Northwestern Texas has added three hundred thousand to its population in the past five years. The great ranches are being broken up and distributed into farms. The order of the government that fences on the public domain must come down is the result of the settlers' demand.

In the census of 1900 Texas led all the States in the number of farms and only one-sixth of her area is under cultiva-With the incoming population, sure to be large and increasing year by year, more must be done for the religious culture of the people. The population is chiefly American and easily accessible. The Synod at its last meeting presented to the Board a statement of the large immigration to Texas through the combined action of the railways and of the new and awakened industries which it is evident will attract multitudes to Texas, and also of the incoming population which will have a right to look to our Church for religious instruction. In view of these facts they urge that exceptional grants should be made for the work in that State.

Dr. Henry S. Little has been the efficient synodical missionary there for almost a quarter of a century. He says: "The tide is just beginning to turn. Northern people are coming into the State in great numbers, in far larger proportion to the total immigration than in other years. Cumberland Presbyterian Church is in an attitude for turning toward us and there is more fraternal attention from the Southern Church in the past year than in twenty years before."

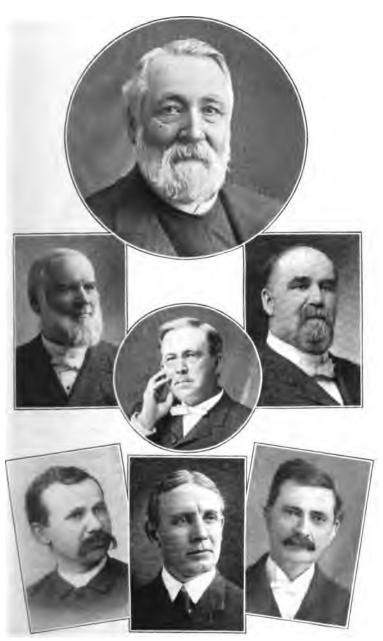

In view of these facts our Church will be wise to move strongly into the Lone Star State.

The Synod of New Mexico embraces the Territories of New Mexico and Arizona. They are of special interest just now because of the effort which has been made to have them admitted to the Union. It is a question, however, in the minds of those best able to judge whether they are as yet fitted for such honor and responsibility.

The Territory of New Mexico in 1900 had a population of 195,000, Arizona had 122,212, making the total population of both Territories 317,212. The increase during the last two years has not been very large, so that the present population probably does not exceed 325,000. They are distributed as follows: 40,000 Indians, 175,000 Mexicans and 110,-000 Americans. Of this latter number probably 10,000 are Mormons, while every country under the sun has its repre-The intellectual and moral conditions vary. In different parts of the Territories, where the American population is comparatively large, there are school advantages and the people are progressive. But the Mexican people, like the Spanish-speaking people in other countries, have been kept in ignorance, and a large per centage (probably as much as 40 per cent.) can neither read nor write, and of this number few read intelligently. The Indians, of course, are largely illiterate, except those who have been in government schools.

The moral conditions in both Territories are bad. Mexicans, Indians and Americans all have a mania for gambling. Sabbath desecration is common. There is no Sunday law in Arizona. Though there is such a law in New Mexico, it is not enforced save in one judicial district, in which the judge has closed the saloons except during the time that the Legislature is in session.

The saloon and everything that accompanies it is to be met everywhere. Corruption in politics is deplorable. In such territories the home mission work is urgent and increasing. New lines of railway are being built, mining interests are being developed, and in many sections agricultural and lumbering interests also, and undoubtedly there will be a steady, if not a rapid, increase in population of both Territories. A glance at some of the strategic points may illustrate alike the home missionary opportunity and duty.

Beginning at the point of entrance into the Territory of New Mexico, we come to Raton, one of the highest points in the Territory, where we have a church which will soon be self-sustaining. The population is increasing, the town has recently become the county seat and railroad interests are bringing in large numbers of families.

Farmington and Aztec, twenty miles apart, have good water privileges and good soil, increasing population, and railroads are heading in that direction. It is the best fruit-growing region in the Territory. The churches there need help for the present, but will rapidly advance toward self-support.

At the extreme northwestern part of New Mexico and the northeastern part of Arizona is the reservation for the Navajo Indians. We have recently come into possession, partly by gift from the National Indian Association and partly by purchase from the Indian Industries League and from the Methodist Missionary Society, of a very valuable property at Jewett, which consists of a well constructed hospital building, a school building and an industrial building. The Board has sent to that important station the Rev. Claude R. Brodhead and Dr. Brodhead, his wife. They are engaged in missionary and medical work.

The Rev. R. M. Craig, our synodical missionary, says that this is one of the most important mission fields in our Church, and earnestly recommends that the work be enlarged by the addition of other workers, as mission school and industrial teachers, and another physician for the hospital. It is on the banks of the San Juan river, which furnishes excellent opportunities for irrigation. It is believed that a large number of Navajos will soon be located along that river, which will therefore become a source of supply to the Indian mission. We hope for money to enable us to take full advantage of this opportunity. As is known, the Navajo Indians are among the best of our tribes, and so far very little has been done for them.

We have one other station among them in the Presbytery of Arizona, where the Rev. Charles H. Bierkemper and his wife for more than a year have been giving themselves to missionary service in that part of the tribe which is settled around Ganado and Cañon de Chelley. They are at a lonely station working at a good deal of disadvantage and praying for the sympathy and interest of the Church.

Attention needs to be called again to the important work among the Pima and Papago Indians in the Presbytery of Arizona. We have there five churches with about twelve hundred members who, for the most part, are honoring their profession with sincere and earnest lives. There is scarcely a work in the Presbyterian Church that has been more grandly successful than this, and it shows what can be done in other Indian tribes with patient, persistent and consecrated labors.

Another part of our Indian work in Arizona which appeals to the sympathy of the Church is that which needs to be done for the Mojaves on the Colorado River. It is a difficult field. The Indians are far down in the scale of manhood but their helplessness appeals to our Church. For many months a special salary had been waiting for the right missionary. But only in the last weeks of the past year was a self-denying man found to take up that difficult but glorious work—the Rev. Alfred C. Edgar, the successful pastor at Richmond, Kansas.

As related to the Indian work mention should be made of our school at Tucson, which continues its successful endeavors to train up Indian boys and girls to intelligent Christian manhood and womanhood.

The Spanish work in this Synod is exceedingly important because of the increasing interest shown by the Spanishspeaking people and because of the fact that there are large Mexican populations likely to be permanent because of the agricultural interests in those regions.

One of the most important departments of the Spanish work in the Synod of New Mexico is the training school for Mexican evangelistic helpers the past year under the direction of the Rev. Henry C. Thomson, D.D. Its eleven students have made encouraging progress. It promises richly for the future of home missions among our Spanish-speaking peoples.

The work of our Church in Arizona has been remarkable for the number of recent organizations that have been practically self-supporting from their birth. In this list are Bisbee, Tucson, Clifton and Morenci. Important stations are Flagstaff and Chloride in northern Arizona—Chloride being the only church in the great Mojave county; and at the south the town of Douglas, backed by a New York mining company, and Congress. Solomonville and Peoria also are important on account of their agricultural interests. A number of strong, capable and adaptable men are needed for the work in these two great Territories.

This Synod covers the State of Colorado and most of Wyoming. The new Presbytery of Wyoming was erected at the last meeting of the Synod. Our work in this mountain State has just begun, being confined almost wholly to its southeastern portion. Developments are coming, however, along the line of the Burlington Railroad in northeastern Wyoming. We have a few stations near the Montana line. Churches are called for at other points along the line of that road.

The central part of the State has as yet scarcely been explored by settlers but movements are being made now in that direction, and the missionary must keep pace with the advancing line.

It has been a year of difficulties in this Synod bravely met by a band of self-sacrificing missionaries. The low price of silver has depleted some camps and communities. The lack of educational opportunities has driven a good many people from the smaller places to the larger towns and cities. There has not been any great increase of population in the State during the last few years. The newcomers are, however, mostly Americans. There are about twenty thousand Mexicans in Colorado and an increasing number of Italians in the coal-mining camps.

Denver, Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Trinidad in Colorado, Cheyenne and Sheridan in Wyoming, are some of the strategic points, because in them the populations are massed. In some of these cities—as Pueblo, Denver and Trinidad—new fields need to be opened. The same is true in Thermop-olis and other points in Wyoming.

The Rev. T. C. Kirkwood, D.D., the synodical missionary, says: "The Synod made notable progress last year in the way of bringing churches to self-support. We shall not be able to do as much in that line this year, nor yet in organization. But the work of exploration along the lines of several new railroads must be pushed with great vigor. We shall need good financial backing from the Board of Home Missions."

This is one of the largest Synods in our Church. It embraces an area somewhat larger than all of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware and Pennsylvania. Western Wyoming constitutes a part of There has been a large development of the oil this Synod. and coal industries there this year and therefore a considerable influx of population. There has also been large immigration into Idaho, drawn by the fruit and grain interests and the great gold mining interests of the State. crease in the population of Utah outside of the mining regions has not been large. The character of the incoming population, as elsewhere in the West, is of course very varied. There is a mighty current of secularism in all the material progress of the Synod. Coal mining, oil production, gold mining and land speculations thrust everything else out of the way.

The immigration is largely American, except in the coal regions, where Scandinavians predominate, with a small element of English, German and Italian. Among these foreigners there is a low grade of intelligence, and the Americans coming in are not of the highest type. Moral conditions are such as demand vigorous help. Extensive Mormon colonies from Utah are pushing into the best watered and agricultural portions of Idaho, without weakening the political or financial power of Mormonism in Utah.

Dr. Wishard, the synodical missionary, names a long list of strategic points which should claim our immediate attention.

Then the old work in the Synod of Utah pathetically appeals for the help of the Church. At Parowan we have had no minister for the last four years. There is a population of Nephi, where we have two mission teachers, one thousand. is a town of over two thousand, has an excellent house of worship, but the church is languishing for want of a minis-The church at Hyrum, where the Rev. Philip Bohback labored for over twenty years, needs a man. He is disabled by deafness, but remains a noble Christian man in the town. Smithfield, with fifteen hundred people, has been without a minister since last August. Lago, in Gentile Valley, with a church building and manse, is in a rural district, with many non-Mormons in the community. A man is needed there who will bring salvation to the perishing ones. The church at Montpelier, recently left vacant, is a promising field, well organized and ready to follow a leader. ulation of one thousand is about half Mormon.

Dr. Wishard, speaking of these fields, says: "I have been pleading for men all the year, corresponding and giving facts to candidates, but when they run against the facts they go round us, to China, Africa, or any other spot on earth rather than Utah. We have been able to anchor just three men in Utah in the last year," and then, speaking of the kind of men that are needed, this veteran remarks: "We curb our aspirations in looking for great men, but we do want missionaries—men who are sent. We do not want men who are seeking place, position or earthly glory. They would not fit in. A few sky pilots would fill the bill well. We need men with fair preaching ability and rare touching ability, who are not afraid to shake with a miner, or rancher, or prospector—'Jesus Men,' as the heathen call them. We need men of scholarship, but especially men 'who have been with Jesus and have learned of Him.'"

He closes his report to us by the astonishing statement that we have in Utah thirty-three towns, each having a population of more than five hundred, in which the gospel has never been preached. There are also 182 towns and villages, with a population in each of less than five hundred, that have never heard the gospel from the lips of any Christian minister. These facts ought to appeal to the Christian and the patriot.

The conditions in Utah are not becoming easier, nor are they becoming less urgent. While, under the pressure of public opinion, Mormonism has been obliged to modify some of the evil practices of by-gone years, it remains a compact and aggressive alien force in the heart of the Republic. Its missionaries go abroad through the length and breadth of the land and lead silly people astray. It is believed it has more missionaries in the field outside of Utah than the whole home missionary force of the Presbyterian Church—ministers and teachers. Its hold upon Utah and its growth in the States and Territories around it are appalling. Its ungodly system of doctrine remains what it has ever been, and its claims to control the Western States and Territories have not in the least abated.

How long will the Church of Christ be comparatively indifferent to the menace which Mormonism presents, and when will young men of mettle and capacity and missionary spirit be ready to respond to the appeals for help which come to us from the Synod of Utah?

There is strategy in home missions as certainly as in war. Here in this Synod are the embattled hosts of Mormonism, drilled and confronting the work of the Church and corrupting the State. These conditions demand a strong missionary force. The facts, however, show that our Church has put no adequate force in this imperiled field. Men, more men, twice the number of men, with the same increase of ministerial help from the other denominations, would hearten the brave missionaries and give promise of large victory.

Montana is the third largest State in the Union and is as large, as has so often been told, as the States of New York, New Jersey, the six New England States and half of the large State of Pennsylvania combined. The arable lands are said to be greater than the area of New York, New Jersey, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts, Maryland and Pennsylvania, and from this fact alone the future possibilities of Montana as an agricultural State may be easily and safely prophesied. There are the most extensive coal measures in the West, in all probability a greater extent of oil territory than in any other State, the largest wool-producing capacity and the richest copper mines in the world.

The population is increasing. Now is the time to give the gospel impress. The Rev. Charles F. Richardson, our synodical missionary, says: "There are strategic points in Montana which should at once be seized and held. Here is the town of Kendall, in the largest wool-producing country in the United States, yet a mining town of about six hundred people, all growing from about a dozen tents less than two years ago, and with enough ore in sight to probably take a quarter of a century 'to work.' And yet in this town there is not a single denomination regularly giving service. Here are the towns of Chestnut and Stores, the first on the Northern Pacific Railroad, rapidly growing, having now about seven hundred inhabitants, yet no regular service by any Church being held, and all the religious work ever done has been by our own Church during the past four months. Here is the great Flathead Valley with only one Presbyterian church and the Great Northern Railway preparing to build an extended cut-off from Kalispell, which means already more new towns and hence more new ministers. Here, twenty-five miles north of Missoula, is a rich agricultural valley twenty miles long with no religious services held by any Church. Here is a strip of country five hundred and eighty miles long on the Northern Pacific Railroad and only one Presbyterian church, but five points calling for the services of a minister. Our needs therefore are manifest and immediate. Here are our new fields crying for help to stem the tides of evil that are against their highest good. We must have men to meet the infidelity and ungodliness of our new communities and the sodden sin and cruel crime of our mining camps.

"Yet there is also much sustaining of old work still to be done and more men needed to do that work. Here is our work at Chinook, Harlem and the Bear Paws. No one man can cover a territory like that—twenty miles wide and forty-five miles long—with any degree of satisfaction. There should be an additional minister and the people are ready to give for that purpose but cannot give all that is needed. Here again is our work at Victor, Stevensville and Corvallis. For many years they have asked for another minister. We should have another in this famous Bitterroot Valley. Insufficient pastoral care, too infrequent preaching, result in gradual disintegration of our Church. We want therefore at least eight more men—men of consecration, courage, tact, adaptability; of push, energy, grit and determination; men who will do things.

"We are endeavoring to do our work on the basis of strict Christian comity, so that there shall be no re-duplication of forces, no rivalry of denominations, but rather loyal-hearted and sympathetic co-operation."

Washington has shared in the prosperity which has come to the whole Pacific coast. The increase in population during the past year at a conservative estimate is put down at 65,000. The character of that population is largely American. There are some from Germany and Scandinavia; not many from southern Europe. The Japanese are increasing in the cities of the Sound. The intelligence of the people is said to be equal to that of any portion of our country. There are many college graduates and the population everywhere is a reading population. They are of course saturated, as in other parts of the country, with commercialism and indifference to vital religion, and there is no place where new religious fads find a more congenial soil than in that Northwest.

The strategic points, such as Seattle, Spokane, Tacoma, Walla Walla, Whatcom, Everett, North Yakima, Wenachee and Lewiston have had years of remarkable prosperity. They are the centers of trade tributary to growing communities round about them and are educational and religious centers. Our Church must be strongly established in these cities if we shall hope to reach the surrounding communities. Missionaries are needed for several points in the Presbytery of Spokane, for some in the Presbytery of Central Washington, Olympia and Puget Sound. Fifteen new men, Dr. Ghormley writes, are needed, though many more could be used to advantage. "Strong, Biblical preachers, tireless pastors, with good executive ability and great faithfulness and patience in dealing with men stimulated by the environment of a new and rapidly growing country."

ment of a new and rapidly growing country."

The work in the Presbytery of Walla Walla was never more encouraging. Several new churches have been organized during the year and demands for more work come from many places where the fertile country is attracting an increasing number of settlers.

Our work among the Indians in this Presbytery is well understood. Last summer an Indian camp-meeting was held on the mission grounds about Miss McBeth's home. The Indians came from far and near. In addition to the usual religious exercises of the camp-meeting a sort of summer school was inaugurated; new songs were sung—the people catching readily the spirit of the music. In addition to this an hour was spent each day in Bible study and another in church government. A goodly number of heathen Indians were in attendance.

A new Indian church was organized last winter for the Presbyterians living in the neighborhood of Stites, Idaho. The people in that community have been obliged to go to the Kamiah churches—many of them a distance of twelve or fourteen miles, and to reach Kamiah for services they would be obliged to start as early as four o'clock, riding through the storms of winter and the heat of summer, but seldom failing to be in their places in church on the Sabbath. Some also attend the weekly prayer meeting. This new Indian church thus made necessary adds one more to the roll of our Indian churches in the Walla Walla valley.

There has been a good deal of development in the bounds of Spokane Presbytery, in northeastern Washington. A station on the Colorado River within a few miles of the British possessions, Northport, is a town of two thousand people and ours is the only Protestant church. There are iron works there employing over five hundred men on a monthly pay-roll of $50,000. They have fourteen saloons and five teachers in the public schools. There is a resident Protestant minister in the town and a Roman Catholic priest comes once a month. We own a good church building, well located and free from debt. This is regarded as one of the finest missionary fields in Washington at the present time.

The Spokane Indians on their reservation, northwest of Spokane, suffered somewhat from our inability to find a man suitable for the work there. The synodical missionary writes of a series of services in the Wellpinit church last summer, when the Indians formed an encampment about the church building. Dr. Ghormley preached eight sermons, moderated six meetings of session, administered the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, baptized one infant, received two persons into the church on confession of their faith. Twenty-three members of the church came before the session, confessing sins committed since they last came to the Lord's Table and asking permission to renew their vows. The services grew in interest from the beginning and the church was filled at all the Sabbath services. The people are not so far advanced as the Nez Perce Indians, not having had so many advantages. But they appreciate earnest work on their behalf. The Rev. Hiram F. White went to these Indians last fall. He is devoting himself to reducing to writing the language, which has hitherto existed only in spoken form. In spite of the long, severe winter, he has gone into the work with increasing zest and joy. There is large promise of important and long-needed development for these Spokane Indians along the lines of ordinary, every-day civilization as well as in gospel truths.

In the new Presbytery of Central Washington the federated church at Sunnyside continues to have large prosperity. The Sabbath-school numbers 240; large audiences attend both morning and evening services; large classes of adults and young people are present and Senior, Intermediate and Junior Endeavor Societies are in a prosperous condition. This is an effort to concentrate all the Christian forces of the town in the one organization on a federative basis.

There is a strong demand for educational work in Douglas county along the line of the Great Northern Railway. Hundreds of new settlers have gone in there during the past year and there is very little government land remaining. Such places as Coulee City, Bridgeport, St. Andrews and others call for more help than has been given them.

The Wenatchee valley, which is one of Washington's favorite garden spots, needs special consideration. That valley offers a strategic field. The travel and traffic for all points on the Columbia River for a hundred miles above Wenatchee must be distributed from that center.

Our stations east of the Columbia River on the line of the Great Northern are Ephrata, a growing town and a distributing point for a large region around it; Stratford, a new town, but growing; Wilson Creek, a community where ours is the only church that sustains regular services; and Krupp, a village where a year ago there was only a farmhouse, but where now there are large business interests and into which the people are rapidly moving. We are the only English-speaking people who sustain services in that town.

The Presbyteries of Puget Sound and Olympia have had a year of good work. The development around Puget Sound promises to make that one of the most important mission fields for the Presbyterian Church, and our line of churches from the British possessions down to Vancouver on the Columbia River attest the wisdom of those who are blocking out the work for the generations to come.

The first home mission work worthy of special mention within the State as we approach from the East is the Pendleton Academy. Under the wise leadership of the principal, Rev. F. L. Forbes, D.D., it is one of the most effective home mission agencies in the Presbytery. Dr. Forbes is aggressively Christian and therefore emphasizes the spiritual side of the academy's work. The result of this is that members are constantly added to the Church from among the body of students. A notable feature in the academy's life for the current year is the erection of a splendid brick building for its use. This is the only protestant Christian school in eastern Oregon. The quality of its work, and the character of the principal and his carefully selected teachers are powerful helpers for the development of our church life in that great country.

There has been increased activity in the churches. For the first time in the history of the Presbytery of East Oregon there are self-supporting churches on the roll. Last April the church at La Grande, under the leadership of Rev. W. L. Van Nuys, and the church in Baker City, the Rev. J. R. N. Bell, pastor, became self-supporting. As might be expected, this move has reacted upon the churches to their advantage.

We have been able to occupy one new field, namely Rufus, Grant, Biggs, Blaylocks, China Hollow and adjacent region. When our man was located there, largely through the efforts of the Sunday-school missionary, there was no preaching in the entire district. The Rev. Edward F. Green, late of Oriskany, New York, came to the field last September, and has made full proof of his ministry.

Three new church buildings have been erected. One at Temple, a country district adjacent to Pendleton; one at Meecham, and in both these places our Church is the only one doing any work; the third building has been erected on the Umatilla reservation for the use of the Indian church. This Indian mission is now well equipped. Mr. Cornelison, with the aid of his faithful wife, is doing fine work, and now with comfortable parsonage and a comely church building, they are giving to the Indians an object lesson in decent, civilized life in addition to their evangelistic work. Every church in the East Oregon Prestery is supplied with a minister and opening fields are calling for new men.

One new field was opened in Portland Presbytery last year, namely, southern Tillamook county. The condition of the churches within the Presbytery at the present time is exceedingly hopeful. The Mizpah mission church has equipped itself with a fine building costing $6,000, and it is paid for. The Westminster Church has paid its debt and left the Board joyfully on the 31st of March. The other churches are making as rapid progress as it is possible for us to expect.

The Presbytery has suffered the loss of two excellent menduring the year. One of them, the Rev. Robert McLean, went to Porto Rico. Another, a home missionary, Rev. Carl P. Metzler, we gave to the Foreign Board work in Shantung.

New work has been undertaken in Woodville, in the Presbytery of Southern Oregon. A church building has been erected, and now we are hoping to put a man on that and adjacent territory. Marshfield has taken on a new lease of life. The church building has been renovated, a parsonage purchased and paid for, and the church is now well equipped for its future work, which is exceedingly hopeful.

Glendale has been compelled to build a parsonage in order to have a place for its pastor to live. This Presbytery is asking for two new men—one to relieve the pressure of work in Curry and Coos counties, now held by two men, Revs. George Gillespie and Adolph Haberly. These men try to cover one hundred and forty miles of territory, and, of course, cannot possibly do it. The Presbytery calls loudly for an extra man to take a part of this extensive field, in the most of which there is no worker but our own.

Lower Coos Bay, with the towns of North Bend and Empire City, are a growing district that demands immediate attention. We hope to be allowed to occupy that field at once. The other mission fields of the Presbytery are pushing on as best they may. We look for self-support on the part of at least two of the churches within a year.

The home mission churches in Willamette Presbytery are largely in small places where no rapid growth can be expected. Many of them are near to growing cities and all that the churches can hope to do is to raise up the young people and lead them to Christ, and see them go to town to swell the numbers and influence of the city churches. It is a necessary work and we cannot possibly afford to neglect it, and we are not to be despondent if many of these churches continue long to be dependent upon the Home Board. Some of the churches show gratifying growth in numbers and the evangelistic spirit is abroad throughout the entire Synod. The Rev. W. S. Holt, D.D., synodical missionary, writes:

"The Presbyteries have held special meetings, and church conferences, and pastoral visitation to encourage and stimulate the active interest of the church members in the work of evangelism. In many instances we have realized substantial additions to the churches during the current year, as will appear in the annual reports to the General Assembly. We are expecting a great incoming population this year. Efforts are now making in that direction and the churches already organized are ready and waiting for those who come to their localities, while we are hoping for new men to enter districts now unoccupied by any church and demanding immediate attention.

"There is a growing tendency toward federation in Oregon. The current year we have sent fraternal delegates to the M. E. Conference and the Congregational and Baptist Associations and hope to meet other evangelical bodies in the same way in the interest of church comity and unity."

The great State of California, extending for a thousand miles along the ocean that is just rising into such commercial importance, is of special interest at the present time. The national events of the last years and the international movements have thrust that whole coast into prominence which, a generation ago, statesmen declared it would soon reach, but which it has reached with leaps and bounds a generation ago could not have dreamed of.

Our work in that State has not had the support from the Church at large which the exigencies of the situation require. The presence of the General Assembly this year within the bounds of that State will, we are sure, attract the attention of the Church at large more directly and sympathetically toward the vast field which is open for Christian mission work. The city in which that Assembly meets has already a population of about 125,000, increasing more rapidly in proportion than any other city in the United States. San Francisco, at the Golden Gate, has an estimated population of four hundred thousand, about one-quarter the entire population of the State, and is perhaps the most important home mission field in the United States, because of the increase of population, because of the overwhelming foreign element and because of the relation of that city to the Orient and foreign missions.

The Rev. George W. Lyons, synodical missionary of northern California, says: "This entire coast is important, as it lies over against the great heathen nations beyond. But especially do I regard the Golden Gate as the most strategic point on the globe to-day with reference to the world's redemption. Every point about the San Francisco Bay is strategic and every center of population in every considerably populous community in both California and Nevada. In general I think the cities and towns on this coast exert more influence on the rural population than almost anywhere else. San Francisco is the nerve center of the State. Population is increasing about the Bay more rapidly than elsewhere, and this is the open door through which our influence for good or evil shall go out to the nations across the seas."

The character of the population is of course varied. There is a large Asiatic element in the larger cities and towns. In the San Joaquin valley several towns, as Fresno and Bakersfield, have made progress, but the incoming of the population has been largely that of foreigners—Italians, Swedes, Syrians, and so forth. In the southern part of the State the increase has been largely of a better class of Americans, drawn thither by the salubrious climate and the attractive fruit industries of various kinds. The whole work all through that State needs to be substantially supported.

California Synod last fall erected the Presbytery of Riverside. This new Presbytery includes nine churches with eleven ministers formerly within the Presbytery of Los Angeles.

The Rev. William B. Noble, D. D., the synodical missionary for southern California, pleading for the better support of the missionaries of that coast, says: "The meagreness of support produces a spirit of unrest which is far from conducive to good work and high success. Changes from field to field are frequent, especially in Los Angeles Presbytery; and if they are less frequent in the other Presbyteries, it is rather from lack of opportunity than from lack of desire to change. Could our missionaries have a support that would free them from anxiety and restlessness, results would be much more satisfactory and self-support would sooner be reached by the churches."

Some of the new fields which are inviting our coming are Mojave, in Kern county, in the Presbytery of Stockton, with no religious privileges; Millwood, in Fresno county, where a lumbering company employs five or six hundred men is equally destitute. There are three whole counties in the southern part of the State which are without a Presbyterian church and with scarcely any church—such places are Alpine, Mono and Inyo, on the eastern slope of the Sierras bordering on Nevada.

Nevada. The State of Nevada is part of the Synod of California. There are few large towns, but there are stations up and down all those valleys, isolated, passed by, almost forgotten by the Church; places where boys and girls can grow to manhood and womanhood almost without hearing a sermon, and where one of our missionaries, who made a tour through the State last summer, was welcomed as only people who have been religiously starved can welcome the messenger of the gospel. Not many of these points are strategic in the ordinary sense of that word, but those scattered little flocks should appeal to us as with a divine pathos when we consider their loneliness, their friendlessness and their separation from all that makes for the better and higher life.

A beneficent movement within the Synod worthy of attention is resulting in increased interest in not only the operations of local church finances but in the larger work of both home and foreign missions. It is The Missionary Substitute Company. Having proved itself worthy of our appreciation in California, it is warmly commended to ministers of other Synods who are seeking for effective plans of systematic beneficence.

ALASKA.

The conditions in southeastern Alaska continue much as indicated in our last report. The record tells of faithful work with good results.

Beginning our review at the first station reached, Saxman, the Rev. Edward Marsden tells of labors abundant and joy in them all. In the summer the natives are scattered in their fishing places and the work of our missionary is to follow them up, preaching to them at Moira Sound, North Arm, Quadra, Gravina and Ketchikan. In all of these places he has organized Bible classes and a Sabbath-school. The meetings, he reports, have been full of interest. The great trouble there, as elsewhere in Alaska, is the evil influence of white people who bring supplies of liquor with which to tempt Christian Indians from their fidelity. Mr. Marsden says there is need in that part of Alaska for a medical missionary who can assist in the services and give the natives such medical attention as they require.

They are still at work upon the new church building in Saxman and are clearing wild ground for new buildings for the natives, so that a model Indian village may grow up at that station.

In December Mr. Marsden invited the Tongas people to come to Saxman for a three days' conference and about sixty responded. They signified their desire to join the Christian settlement and give up their old ways of living. It is hoped to make this station the center of Christian activity and a model for the regions round about.

Wrangel. Our missionary, the Rev. H. P. Corser, has continued successful in all his dealings with the natives. The church has been strengthened; the white population is small, but, it is hoped, will increase.

One of the notable features of the work at Wrangel during the last year was the gathering in November of a Christian Endeavor Convention in the native church. About a hundred Indians came from different parts of southeastern It was the first Christian Endeavor Convention ever held in that territory. The following incidents illustrate the fidelity of many of the members of the society. At a recent consecration meeting the missionary asked all those who had been true to their pledge to respond to their names with a prayer or testimony. If they had not been true, they were simply to answer "Present." All but five answered with a prayer or testimony. Among the backsliders who had been reclaimed was a young man who owns a small boat. expects now to make it a missionary boat, visiting Indian camps on mercantile business and holding services at the places he visits. He said to the missionary, "I want you to explain the Bible to me so that I will be able to interpret it right to the people."

Mr. Corser has continued the editing and publication of the Northern Light, the little missionary paper for Alaska, which has given good information of the progress of the work.

Jackson. The work at this station has been somewhat interfered with, as in other places in Alaska, by the curse of the liquor traffic. Some of the natives have been led astray. The wonder is rather that any of them remain firm in the storm of temptations that surround them on every side. Our missionary, the Rev. D. R. Montgomery, has had a year of hard but faithful seed-sowing and is waiting longingly for the harvest.

Klawock. The Rev. David Waggoner reports the Christian Endeavor Convention at Wrangel as having had a most blessed result on the relations of the Thlingets and Hydas to each other. During the period when the Hydas were stormbound at Klawock on their way to Wrangel, meetings were held which were the greatest unifying power ever seen in southeastern Alaska. Old scores and troubles were forgiven and wiped out as the people mingled together in praise and prayer.

Among the sixteen who at the beginning of this year were received into membership of the Klawock church was Russian Bob, a half-breed, who is probably the most influential person among the natives in that part of the country. He came voluntarily to unite with our church, influenced thereto by the Christian life of his son, who had been at our Sitka school. He is not only influential, but now a consecrated Christian, and will be a strong helper to our Klawock work.

A sad experience connected with the work of the Indian church was the death of Frederick L. Moore, the pastor's faithful interpreter and his assistant in the work on Douglas Island. For years he struggled on with failing health, faithful and trusting to the end. His last report was written only four days before his death. In it he says (and it may be accepted as the testimony of a dying man): "While I was taking my rest at Westward I had a good opportunity to speak a word for my blessed Master. preached his words to my dear Thlinget people in that place where I was stopping, called Yakutat Bay. There were over three hundred natives there and a few white people. white people came to our meetings to hear the Word of God. The natives that are working in the fishing here have learned one thing, and that is not to work on Sunday. Every Saturday I always see them coming home to their village for Sunday, and Sunday morning I always find them in the church. I know that God has a great work for me to do, and do pray that the Lord may yet spare my life to do His blessed work in bringing lost souls to Him." He adds one more to the witnesses of Alaska to the loving and sustaining power of the grace of God.

The Rev. Livingston F. Jones, pastor of the native church at Juneau, speaking of the scattering of the people during the summer, says: "It just shows how important it is that we should have churches planted in as many places as is feasible here in Alaska. Nearly every town is composed of a shifting population. Where the natives winter, that is considered home. But when spring comes the majority of them are up and off."

The Northern Light church at Juneau is responding very creditably to the effort to raise a part of the support of its minister, the Rev. J. H. Condit. They are pushing on as rapidly as possible toward entire self-support. To secure this they have appointed a finance committee consisting of three trustees and two ladies from the Aid Society, which meets quarterly and stimulates the people in every way possible toward the larger measure of giving. They have a weekly subscription plan and are trying to put the finances of the church on a strictly business basis. The church is in better condition so far as organization is concerned than at any previous time in its history and is growing in its power over the community.

Haines. Mr. A. R. Mackintosh remained in charge at this station and he and his family gave themselves with great fidelity and success to the work among these natives until a minister could be sent. That time has happily come, and Mr. Mackintosh is retained as an industrial superintendent and instructor. The Rev. Norman B. Harrison, who carried our church at Skaguay to self-support within two years, has been appointed the missionary pastor. His heart has long been set on doing work for the natives. He is now at work at Haines, superintending also the work in Klukwan where many of the Indians are members of the Haines This station has become one of the most important in that part of Alaska. The government has made it a military post and several companies of soldiers will be quartered there. The Board has some fine land which it has directed Mr. Harrison and Mr. Mackintosh to use for the agricultural education of the natives. They will also be encouraged and taught to build cottages on land allotted them by the Board.

The following from Dr. S. Hall Young's account of a number of days' service at Haines will illustrate the interest and power of the work.

"That night (Friday) we held services and Saturday spent the whole day conferring with those who wished to unite with the church and those who had children to baptize, and marrying four couples, and so forth. Sunday morning every inch of space in the school-room was occupied, the children sitting upon the desks, the aisles filled, and many standing. About one-third of my audience was invisible to me, as they were in the two side rooms, which were as full as the school-room. There were about two hundred and fifty present and some who came, seeing the crowd, went The program, besides singing and praying, was ordaining Paddy as elder—he has been in training for the office for a year; ordaining Dennis and Johnston as deacons —they have also been in training; baptizing thirteen adults and ten children; short sermon, and administering the Lord's Supper to about one hundred and twenty communicants.

"The perfect order, the deeply devotional spirit of all present, the inspiring singing led by an Indian choir trained by Miss Mackintosh, the good appearance of the Indians-all impressed and moved me strongly.

"At 2:30 there was another crowded house—the Sunday-school. Mr. Mackintosh's class numbered considerably over a hundred—the adults who could not talk English. Mrs. Schuknecht and Miss May Mackintosh each had a large class of children—one class of those who could talk and read English, and the other of those who could not. I taught Judge Stout's class of the young men and women who could talk and read English—a class of about twenty, as intelligent and well instructed in the Bible as the average Bible-class.

"In the evening I preached to twenty-five whites and about forty English-speaking Indians.

"Monday was spent in conferences with the natives and meeting in the evening. Tuesday evening, the weekly social for the young people took place in Mr. Mackintosh's house. About seventy were present, overcrowding the parsonage. These young people were well dressed, cleanly, polite, orderly, and seemed very happy. A dozen different games were going at the same time. I think everybody present (and all the young people of the town who were behaving themselves rightly were there) had a good time. I know I enjoyed myself.

"Wednesday evening one of the two regular prayer meetings held every week convened. The house was as full as on Sunday. Two hours were spent in the liveliest kind of singing, praying and testimony. About eighty persons spoke, and as many more wanted to speak. They kept to the text of my talk and showed considerable intelligence and much earnestness."

Twenty-five miles above Haines—on the Chilkat river—is our work at Klukwan. It is now supplied by Mr. Fred. R. Falconer. It is a place of blessed missionary activity. "Klukwan means," Dr. Young says, "Fast Town, Hurry Town, or Rapid City, just as you please. I consider this mission at Klukwan one of the most important and, since the Falconers have gone there, one of the most promising of our native missions in Alaska. Although there is no government money available for a school, yet one is held, our missionaries cheerfully doing this work in addition to their spiritual duties. There being no white people at Klukwan the whole village is like one great family, with Mr. and Mrs. Falconer as the parents. These grown-up children are often naughty and obstreperous, but they love their 'papa' and 'mama' and readily yield a remarkable obedience."

An illustration of conditions of life in Alaska and the response of the people to missionary work is thus indicated by Dr. Young: "Thursday morning early I started (from Haines) up to Klukwan—twenty-five miles. A very cold and high north wind had been blowing for several days. Although I have taken many harder trips in my life, I never took one before that was so hard upon me. Guess I am getting old. I had with me two Indian boys, a sled and two little Indian dogs not much bigger than cats. I started out bravely and ran along ahead of the dogs for seven or eight miles, getting into a profuse perspiration. Then the icy gale The ice was smooth as glass and sometimes, struck us. when a squall would strike us, men, dogs and sled would all go skating backwards for rods and bring up in a tangled The temperature was fifteen degrees below zero, and the wind about forty miles an hour. After struggling in the teeth of this wind for eight or nine miles I was suddenly struck by some form of rheumatism or cramps that not only caused me intense agony but completely paralyzed me so that I could not walk at all. I had to be hauled the last third of the way, and was carried into Falconer's house at Klukwan a total wreck. They put me to bed, thawed me out, and gave me hot drinks, and in the morning I was able to be up, though very stiff and with the hardest cold of my life.

"I held preparatory services Friday and Saturday evenings. Many of the natives had gone down to Haines and Chilkat for work and the holiday festivities, but about fifty remained to attend the services. Mr. Falconer has erected a large tent inside of the great barn-like Indian house, in which he holds his services. But there was rather cold comfort, as it was between twenty and twenty-five degrees below zero and stormy. I baptized two adults and ten children and administered the communion to about twenty-five persons. An excellent spirit was manifested."

The building of churches at Haines and Klukwan is an imperative necessity.

Hoonah. The Rev. William M. Carle has had the encouragements and discouragements attendant upon Alaskan work. He says: "We have been going to the shacks, a half-mile south, to hold meetings, where we sit on the ground with the smoke rising from the fire to the drying salmon hanging just above our heads. Not an ideal temple in which to worship, some would think, and yet perhaps God was more pleased than with the gorgeous ritual of many a cathedral. The wretchedness of some of the old and helpless is beyond description. I trust they may find the way to a better mansion.

"Our church building is now painted inside — walls, ceilings and seats. The outside is half done, and we are now moving for a carpet on the aisle and better lights. We think a neat house of worship is a continuous sermon in itself and we will let our people pay for it themselves, that they may appreciate it when it is done.

by putting down a new sidewalk from the manse to the church. It is four feet wide and of two-inch lumber. That is finished and now Mrs. McFarland has ordered lumber to do likewise in front of the schoolhouse. We feel confident that we will find this sort of preaching so effective that ere next spring we will have a good walk the whole length of the village. There is quite a spirit of enterprise rising among our people."

Killisnoo is the Indian village between Hoonah and Sitka. So far we have been able to give the five hundred Indians gathered there only occasional services. Our missionary from Sitka has visited the field and we are now making earnest efforts to secure a man to settle among them. They have had some meetings by officers of the Salvation Army and will welcome a minister who shall come and identify himself with their lives and interests.

Sitka. At this center of our Alaskan work the native church, the school and the industrial and medical work have been pushed faithfully throughout the year. The native church has elected additional elders — excellent and helpful Christian men. Mr. Bannerman writes: "It is a great encouragement and satisfaction to know that we have not only two but quite a number of young men who would, we believe, very worthily fill the office of elder. Indeed, we have a large number of young men in our church, and quite a few older ones, of whom we have reason to be proud — decent, industrious, self-respecting men."

In interior Alaska there have been some marked changes. The Rev. James Wollaston Kirk and wife, after three years' exhausting service at Eagle, came out last autumn for rest and work among the churches in the East. Mr. and Mrs. Kirk expected to return this summer, but God moves in a mysterious way. Mrs. Kirk, after a few months of inspiring service among Woman's societies, in which she pleaded as only she could plead, for her beloved Alaska, fell suddenly ill, and in a few days went to her heavenly home, whispering as she went, "I will lift up mine eyes to the hills from whence cometh my help."

The Rev. and Mrs. Charles F. Ensign, of Sioux City, Iowa, had just brought to self-support the Third Church there. They heroically turned last summer from the comforts of that pastorate to the hardships of the Eagle field, left lonely by the necessary vacation of their predecessors. Their sacrifice has, however, met its recompense in opportunities for ministering in His name both to Indians and winter sojourners in this river town of the north. Through the snow and ice echoes have reached the Home Board office of appreciation felt, even by those not church members, of these worthy successors of our pioneer missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk.

The military garrison, which forms a part of the business and social structure of the town, is being enlarged to double the number of officers and soldiers this year. The erection of additional buildings was begun last summer. This adds greatly to the commercial features of the place and keeps employed a large number of men in the capacity of carpenters and other tradesmen, to keep up repairs and supply fuel.

There are now telegraph lines from Eagle to Valdez, on the coast, and to the States via Dawson. The line to St. Michael will be completed this year. There have been great improvements in the houses and home furnishing, in the maintenance of a public school, in the observance of Sabbath by Sunday closing of business places, and by the encouraging attendance on the religious services.

There is, therefore, a field of considerable activity on the Yukon contiguous to the Canadian border and one that the Church should surely continue to maintain, as during the past four years. A building affording a comfortable home for the missionary, attached to which is a spacious reading room, used as a chapel for Sunday services, is conveniently located. It contains a good library, with many reference books, and is equipped with magazines and various illustrated papers.

Rampart. The Rev. M. Egbert Koonce, Ph.D., after a journey of six weeks—four of them covering 1,200 miles by dog sled over the snow, represented the Presbytery of the Yukon at the last General Assembly. After a short campaign in the churches, securing one more man for interior Alaska, he at once retraced his steps to Rampart.

With the opening of 1903 exciting news came to the towns along the Yukon of a new strike at Chena in the Tanana region. The expectation there is that it is destined to rival Dawson and Nome as a gold-producing field and that there will be a large population. Recent reports from Dr. Koonce say that three or four hundred men are already upon the ground. It is 225 miles from Rampart. Dr. Koonce says: "Undoubtedly it is going to be a great camp, and there is more in sight now than there was in the Klondike when it was stampeded from Circle, pay on three or four creeks, twelve miles apart, with pay streaks two or three hundred feet wide and seven to twelve feet of pay gravel, averaging ten cents to the pan—this is the report from many different sources.

"I just came in from a seventy-five mile 'mush,' but will start to-morrow for Chena. Nearly all our people are going or have gone. I have no dogs, but combine with two other fellows and pull our sleds."

He proposes while there to secure a lot and raise the money for a church building. He speaks nonchalantly of that trip without dogs, dragging his provisions on a sled by hand—no road-houses, camping in the snow where night finds him, and counts four weeks sufficient for making the journey and accomplishing his errand.

It will undoubtedly be necessary to supply that region with a missionary, for in addition to the "pay gravel" it is in the midst of what it is declared will be a large agricultural region.

To this distant, difficult and lonely station the Rev. Herman M. Hosack went last summer, giving up for the privilege of such work a happy pastorate in western Pennsylvania. Recent tidings from him tell of the increasing prospects of that harbor town in upper Alaska, calling to our attention also the needs of Council City, ninety miles northeast of Nome. He has recently visited the latter place and pleads earnestly for a missionary to be sent to them. It is a town of 500 people with many more in the neighboring woods and creeks, in the center of the best mining territory in the Seward Peninsula and has neither a school nor a church. It has ten saloons, seven stores, three hotels, several restaurants, an electric light plant and a weekly newspaper. telephone line connects it with Nome. The Wild Goose Railroad runs from the town to Ophir Creek, with the prospect of extending it to White Mountain on Golovin Bay. The people were so anxious to have church services established that, after Mr. Hosack had preached to them on Sunday, a subscription was started for a church building, resulting promptly in $540, which the missionary says can easily be raised to $800. It makes a pathetic appeal for church and school.

Point Barrow. Our lonely toilers at this far-away station are holding the fort with characteristic courage and with good success.

Rev. H. Richmond Marsh, M.D., and his wife and the Rev. Samuel R. Spriggs and his wife constitute the missionary force. In a report written at the beginning of this year, Dr. Marsh says: "The meetings have been very well attended, and the accommodations so small that we have been compelled to have two meetings in the morning besides the Sunday-school, and a general service at night. During the morning services Mrs. Marsh has a concert on the gramophone for the children, who would otherwise annoy Mr. Spriggs at the service. It also makes room for a few older persons. She has them of the ages of about two to twelve and a big roomful of them. In Sunday-school we have taught the children the books of the Bible, and they now know almost all the Commandments, both in English and in Eskimo. They can all say the Eskimo catechism, of which Mr. Spriggs has now over sixty questions.

"You may be interested in the line of talks we give these people. We have for the morning services translation of the Gospel of Matthew, with remarks by Mr. Spriggs. These relate altogether to the life of Christ. In the evening I have translations of miracles illustrated by Sunday-school pictures. The midweek services are entirely on the catechism.

"Instead of a single preparatory service for our Easter communion we had a meeting every night for a week—Mr. Spriggs and I alternating in the services. As a result five people came down to attend the meetings last week—two of whom were taken into the church. There were admitted to membership eighteen persons, eleven of whom were baptized, and four suspended persons were restored to membership. There were also eight children baptized."

The general conditions in Alaska, both in the southern archipelago and in the interior, strongly invite increased missionary activity. There is no longer any doubt that the next few years will witness great development in this territory. The expectations of sanguine Alaskans that there would be a large population in the interior is likely to be realized much more quickly than had been believed. Our Church is now easily at the front of the Alaskan work. We must not fail to keep pace with the advance of the population.

PORTO RICO.

The past year in Porto Rico will ever be memorable as that in which the Presbytery of Porto Rico was erected. This action was authorized by the General Assembly in May and the organization was completed on the 28th of October in the newly dedicated church at Aguadilla. It is unique among the Presbyteries of the United States in that by common consent its deliberations are conducted and minutes kept in the Spanish language.

At Mayaguez, where our Board in 1899 opened its first station, with the Rev. M. E. Caldwell, D.D., as the missionary pastor, there is now an organized church of a hundred members. Dr. Caldwell is the representative in Porto Rico of the Central church of Rochester. Last spring he came to the States to collect funds with which to secure a church In October he returned, having the promise of sufficient money to meet the estimated cost of lot and build-During his absence his assistant, Mr. Joseph W. Jarvis, whose salary is pledged by the First Presbyterian Sabbath-school of Scranton, Pa., took Dr. Caldwell's place Sunday evenings, maintaining his own services at the Playa on Thursdays and Fridays. Another worker who efficiently filled the gap in Dr. Caldwell's absence was the Rev. James Greer Woods, of San German. He preached in Mayaguez on Sunday mornings and Wednesday evenings.

Since Dr. Caldwell's return renewed interest has been manifested, and it is hoped that ere our next report is presented the Mayaguez church building will be an established fact. Bi-monthly meetings, with an attendance of between two and three hundred, have been held at Las In the autumn a new work was started in the barrio called Sabalo, a little more than a mile south of Mayaguez. One hundred and fifty were present at the first service and at the second over two hundred. The house loaned for the services proved unequal to the demand and a beam broke under the weight of the throng. A letter says, "We need there a Sabbath-school right away and regular weekly meetings." Another new work started in connection with the Mayaguez field has been at Añasco. The first gathering was in the old theatre, and it was estimated that not less than four hundred were present. Other neighborhoods are pleading for help, but our missionaries are already bearing burdens to the limit of their strength. In order to meet the special demands of the Añasco field, the Board authorized Dr. Caldwell to employ a native helper for the last two months of the year. But the need is for more, thoroughly equipped missionaries of the Cross.

Our second station to be occupied in Porto Rico was Aguadilla, on the northwestern coast, whose missionary is the Rev. Judson L. Underwood—a worthy representative of two laymen in the central West, who have found their pleasure in thus investing in the Lord's work. Last summer was marked by the building of the church, which was completed and dedicated on September seventeenth. The story of the seven hundred dollars contributed by the people as their willing offering out of their poverty contains many touching incidents. Generous friends from the States sent special gifts in response to appeals from both Mr. Underwood and the Board.

The building is a stone and brick structure, plastered outside and in, the stones being taken from the hills near by. With numerous doors and windows for light and ventilation, it is a model for coolness and comfort, as well as from an architectural point of view. Into the audience room opens a lecture room, and the whole is so arranged that the interior can be thrown into one auditorium. It seats nearly four hundred, and the excellent financiering done in connection with the building has kept the cost below $9,000.

Mr. Underwood tells of the dedication as follows:

"A number of our friends came up from Mayaguez to help us with their presence and enjoy the occasion with us, and among them the Rev. James Greer Woods, whom we had asked to preach the dedicatory sermon. When the new five-hundred-pound Meneely bell pealed forth in sweet vibrations over the town, the people began to gather in great numbers and every seat was speedily filled, and eager feet came and stood in the aisles and doorways, and some feet that were not only eager but dirty with sand from the street stood in the chairs at the back of the church, that their owners might see over the heads of those who stood in the aisles. The new church home was well 'warmed' that night both from without and within; for we were told, and the sound as of a sea of many voices confirmed the statement, that there were over a thousand people outside at the windows and in the street who sought and could not find entrance. Considering the great press of humanity that had gathered to see a thing hitherto not witnessed, the order was good. We had arranged to follow the dedicatory service with meetings every night of that and the following week. Thursday night the Rev. S. L. Hernandez, the Congregational missionary from the neighboring town of Lares, preached. The house was comfortably filled and a splendid sermon was well listened to. The following evening Brother Hernandez gave a lecture on Palestine, illustrating the same with a magic lantern. On Saturday evening the Rev. Donald McLaren, D.D., of the Bible Society, preached what was, I believe, his second sermon in Spanish and did it well. On Sabbath evening the pastor's assistant, Mr. Frederick Garcia Davila, preached, and during the evenings of the following week the pastor preached. It was a season of real rejoicing to our people, and we feel confident that we have now entered upon an era of more extensive and satisfactory service for evangelizing this region and building up here a strong church."

The all-absorbing work in Aguadilla has not diverted Mr.

Underwood's attention from his outlying stations, Espinal, Moca, Montana, Malesa-alta and San Sebastian. To aid in his labors the Board appointed his assistant referred to above, and supported by the Endeavor Societies of Iowa. He is one of our elders and is studying for the ministry under the care of the Presbytery of Porto Rico. He has developed special gift for ministering to his own people.

During the winter there developed a stronger opposition than had been met before in this part of the Porto Rican field. Realizing the swiftly increasing power of the evangelical truth, the Romish priests have busied themselves with all their ingenuity to counteract the influence of Mr. Underwood, Mr. Garcia, and the excellent Bible reader, Doña Adele Sousa, who is supported by the ladies of the Madison Square Presbyterian church of New York.

"Children already neglected," says Mr. Underwood, "are being gathered together and inducements offered to secure their attendance in the classes where the Romish doctrine is being taught. Church festivals are numerous. The priests have been following our example and are even condescending to go out into the country to preach. Everything is being done to cause the people to forget the past ages of arrogant domination of the old Church."

But in the midst of opposition our missionary workers are keeping on their accustomed way, inspiring confidence in those who have joined themselves with our Church. Our audiences continue large and are on the increase, the people standing like rock against a tide of criticism and opposition.

San Sebastian, formerly one of Mr. Underwood's outstations, has now been given the prominence of an independent field. The Rev. E. S. Lheureux, a pastor in western Pennsylvania, soon goes to this point, difficult yet full of promise.

Isabela and Quebradillas are occupied by the Rev. J. A. McAllister, who more than a year ago went from the Seminary at Princeton to work under Mr. Underwood's direction while acquiring command of the Spanish language. With the first of the past year, having spent a few months in hard study, he was able to take independent charge of Isabela. His salary is paid by a consecrated elder in a western church.

The work in Quebradillas was taken up late in August. It is six miles distant from Isabela and a larger town, but more ignorant, superstitious and fanatical. Our missionary is cordially received. They are eager for tracts and have bought a number of gospels and New Testaments. Our last word from Mr. McAllister says of Isabela:

"From being a new and curious thing, the work has settled down to a regular pace. There is but little open opposition. Most of the people have shown themselves friendly to us personally, but they do underhand work, prejudicing people and even making threats. A preparatory class was begun in November looking toward the organization of a church."

Of Quebradillas he writes that "A more friendly spirit is manifest. Twice during the celebration of their patron saint large processions, with the priest, bands, image of saint and huge mob, passed in front of the building in which we were holding our services. Once threats were made to break in and mob the place, but nothing was done. Several good men have taken a decided stand for the gospel in that town, and there is now a much better spirit shown toward the work. They are fond of singing and have learned to sing very well, comparatively.

"New work has been taken up at Jobos, a rich country settlement three miles distant. We were well received and attendance is good. The best attention I ever had was in a little old store-room, people seated on a few old benches and boxes and standing all around me, listening for the first time to the story of the gospel. Invitations have come from other points in the country, some of which were accepted, the people themselves arranging, the time and place and inviting their neighbors."

San German is strongly held by the Rev. James Greer Woods. During Mr. Caldwell's absence last summer, as was stated above, Mr. Woods held services in Mayaguez, not neglecting meantime his own field. The tropical rains rendered these labors exposing and dangerous. Nevertheless, he has been marvellously preserved and his work has abundant results.

He is making unique use of a printing outfit which was supplied to him by the Madison Avenue church of New York City, who also pay his salary. With the printed page he reaches many who otherwise would not be attracted to his services.

The most prominent of Mr. Woods' outlying stations is Sabana Grande. Here he has been vigorously prosecuting the work since relieved by Dr. Caldwell's return to Mayaguez. The one difficulty there is the absence of any building in which to hold services. Here is an illustration of how he reaches the people:

"The last time I went to Sabana Grande, besides making calls on interested people, endeavoring to sell the Scriptures, distributing tracts, I held an open-air service on the corner of the public square. I presume this is the first time such a service was held in these parts. I determined to preach, and so I stood on the corner, addressed the nearest individuals, and thus attracted their attention and so collected the crowd. Interest and order prevailed. I neither asked permission of the authorities nor did I seek police protection. I argued to myself, If the Roman Catholic Church may have religious parades, with all their paraphernalia, I can see no reason why I may not preach in the streets."

Another of Mr. Woods' stations is Cabo Rojo. Something of what is involved in maintaining service there may be gathered from the following incident:

"On Tuesday last I visited Cabo Rojo. During the five previous days there fell 6.21 inches of water. The road over which I had to travel was either a running river or a mud bed. It was almost impassable. I had the choice between this road and another three times as distant, one-third of which was equally bad. I was practically three hours going about twelve miles. It was a hard trip for the horse—each time he put down his hoof he went to his knees in mud. To make sure of getting through, for many times one could easily step into a ditch in which his horse must suffocate before relief could be obtained. I had to dismount and lead my horse. Of course my shoes filled with water and my trousers were soiled with mud, but I couldn't turn back on this ac-Discomfort or appearances must never be consid-All day long I made calls, distributed my literature, announced the service for the evening, and while I so worked my shoes and socks and trousers dried."

In San Juan our work has endured change and made progress. The Rev. John Knox Hall was physically unequal to the tension of the tropical climate and the arduous toil demanded of our missionary in the capital city, and was obliged early in the summer to return home. Through the courtesy of the American Bible Society, our services were kept up by their agent, the Rev. Donald McLaren, D.D. Mr. J. A. Lopez, a native of the island, a licentiate of the Porto Rico Presbytery, and supported by the Endeavor Societies of Brooklyn, did what was in his power to aid Dr. McLaren before the coming of Mr. Hall's successor.

He is the Rev. Robert McLean, who came from Portland, Oregon, with the benedictions of the brethren in that city and Presbytery, where he was well beloved and highly esteemed for his work's sake. His salary is assigned to the Endeavor Societies of New York Presbytery. He went in September to San Juan. A new center for English services was established in Tetuan Street. English Sabbath-school is held there every Sabbath morning at 9.30, followed at 11 o'clock by an English service at which Mr. McLean preaches.

A Spanish Sabbath-school is held at 2.30 on Sabbath afternoons and a Spanish preaching service at 7.30 in the evening.

In addition to this Mr. McLean preaches in Spanish alternate Sabbath evenings at Santurce. Other services there have been under the direction of the Rev. H. T. Jason, a graduate of Lincoln University, who has been supported by the Presbytery of Chester, Pa. With the responsibility for the work of our Church in this large and influential city, Mr. McLean is working indefatigably day and night and his strength is taxed to the utmost. He has begged for an extra helper. No salary is in sight for such aid. The need is imperative. Who will offer to "hold the ropes?"

Outlying stations are calling for our services. Mr. Mc-Lean writes: "There is special need of pastoral visitation, but as the greater part of that work in the ward of Santurce falls upon the missionary, it is impossible to do anything in that line among the natives in old San Juan. Many of the better educated natives stand within the doors during our morning service, and seeing so many of the best of the American residents regularly attending the service has deeply impressed them."

Perhaps the strongest hold of our Church upon Porto Rico is through the medical work. Dr. Grace Atkins, who has been in charge of the medical work in San Juan, has now an assistant, Dr. Jane Harris. Every Monday morning, before the treatment of the patients who come to the Doctor's office, Mr. McLean reads and explains the gospel. On other days Dr. Atkins reads and talks to them. The number of patients at the hospital has constantly increased, on Sundays reaching nearly a hundred. In gospel work both of our physicians are a power. Few other missionaries in the island cover more territory than these doctors in their work among the poor patients of the shacks. They reach Humacao, Caguas, Cayey, Agnas, Beunas, Corozal, Manati and the country included between them and the coast, as well as occasional patients from Aguadilla, Mayaguez and Ponce.

They thus influence hundreds of people unreached by any other missionary worker. Among the office patients come some who have traveled all night for the sake of receiving the ministry which our doctors can give. All hear the reading and explanation of the Bible, receive a tract and are invited to our church services. Many have joined the church through this work. Here is just one case:

"Two weeks ago Saturday I opened a large abscess on the arm of a man. At first he had to come to the office for treatment every day; later he has been dressed once in two or three days. That man has not missed one Bible reading at this office and but one church service, and that because of fear of the night air, which might hurt his arm. He comes and drinks in every word of Scripture and then goes quietly home."

One who has held a high official position in the government of Porto Rico, and who has had much to do with the shaping of our policy there, gives it as his emphatic opinion, that now is the time for our denomination to do its most energetic and wisest work on the island. He says that within the next two years it will be possible to give our Church and its interests a tremendous lead, but that if advantage is not taken of the opportunity, it will be forever lost.

CUBA.

The past year has been a time of earnest and untiring effort on the part of all our workers in Cuba. The Rev. J. Milton Greene, D.D., is our general superintendent there, and is supported by the First Church of East Orange. He has given himself with unremitting effort to the prosecution of his duties under our Board. He has been contributing to the American Tract Society in furnishing material for the little Spanish paper which they are about to publish, in addition to giving lessons in Spanish to our American workers who are not proficient in that foreign tongue.

The number of our stations has recently been increased over the number we were holding a year ago. The location in Havana for various reasons proving undesirable, a change was made about the first of July. Our centers in Havana now are three, Manrique and two districts less centrally located, Jesus del Monte and Regla. In this work in the capital city Dr. Greene is assisted as he was last year by the Rev. Pedro Rioseco, who is also a representative of the Presbyterian Board of Publication and Sabbath-school work; and by the Rev. Antonio Mazzorana, regarding whom he writes warmly, speaking of "the high esteem in which he is held for his downright goodness as well as ability."

"Ever since we started in Manrique," says Dr. Greene, "the work has taken on a more substantial and stable character. Our chapel is well filled at nearly every service and a large number of the better class who live all about us look in upon us and are undeceived as to our spirit and work. So that the sentiment in our favor is being surely and steadily formed. There has been a steady and solid growth. The school has drawn in new pupils week by week, not far from forty-five being enrolled.

"At Jesus del Monte the work is under Mr. Rioseco's special charge. Mr. Mazzorana and I are with him as a rule each Tuesday evening, and he is with us at Manrique on Wednesday evening. On Thursday evening we have a service at Regla, over the bay on the east side, where the chapel is generally filled with a very interesting and attentive congregation. The Sunday-school there is attended by from forty to fifty and an excellent work is being done in a stronghold of Romanism. This also is under Mr. Rioseco's special care.

"Here in Havana I have started another preaching service in the home of one of our Manrique people as a feeder to our central work. This service is held every Monday evening."

Mr. Mazzorana's help in connection with this neighborhood prayer meeting has been marked. The people of the Brick Church of Rochester who pay his salary are to be congratulated upon having him as their representative in the field.

About thirty-five miles from Havana is the important center of Guines. This place is occupied by the Rev. A. Waldo Stevenson, who went out as the representative of the Central clurch of Brooklyn and Shenango Presbytery. He went to this field as soon as he had acquired sufficient command of the Spanish language to be placed in charge of an independent work. Of Guines Dr. Greene says that it has peculiar elements of hopefulness. A recent letter from Mr. Stevenson gives the following interesting information:

"As to our work here in Guines, we are enjoying it much. So would you if you could meet our people here for one week. Our Sabbath-school is growing in interest, in numbers, in enthusiasm for study of the Bible. It is an inspiration to see them vying with each other in the reciting of Bible verses each Sabbath morning. Many other things are encouraging, such as the results of our meetings in the jail; but more than any other one thing is the little band of men who gather around me on Sabbath night before the service, in a small room apart, and pray. They are learning to pray. It may be only six or eight each night, but you do not know how much it means to us down here to save even that many earnest men, and to hear each pray in his own tongue. One who joined this circle last night was one of the men converted in the jail, a colored man. Two others are colored and the rest are white; one is a school-teacher; some have property and social position, and others are from the poorest working people. But we are all on perfect equality in this meeting around the throne of grace and pray that the light may come to other men and that they may accept the Saviour."

The Rev. Herbert S. Harris, who went to Cuba at the same time as Mr. Stevenson, when he had acquired command of the Spanish language was placed in charge of our work at Sancti Spiritus in the province of Santa Clara. Mr. Harris' salary was pledged by the Fourth church of New York City, which he had served acceptably as assistant pastor. He has formed a class of catechumens with a view to the organization at an early date of a Presbyterian church. The following interesting picture of services at Sancti

Spiritus is given by Mr. Mazzorana:

"The sittings were entirely insufficient and it was necessary to ask for chairs from the neighbors, and even then a large number were obliged to stand. Although the chapel has a capacity of three hundred, the attendance was so large that many were obliged to hear the preaching from the street in front, where the most perfect order was preserved. So many attended the song services that it was necessary to give them the character of regular preaching to satisfy the eagerness of the crowds to hear the gospel. At first I noted the absence of the women, only five being present; but little by little the number increased so that at my last service I counted ninety-seven. On that occasion it was necessary to seat the children on the platform so as to make room in the body of the house for the adults.

"Sancti Spiritus is a genuinely Cuban city. Its inhabitants are not without culture. They are noble, frank and hospitable. They have received the missionaries who have visited them with true cordiality and reveal an interest in knowing and embracing the eternal truth, so that the field is most propitious for evangelizing effort."

The last fields to be entered are under the shadow of the capital city. Dr. Greene pleaded long and earnestly that another helper might be sent to enter the door swung open to our Church in Guira and Alquizar, but there was no money in hand and none in sight for the payment of an additional helper in Cuba. It is the policy of the Board to appoint missionaries to the Antilles only so fast as special funds can be secured. Finally another salary was promised by the First church of New Castle, Pa.

The man who was chosen for the new work was the Rev. E. P. Collazo, a native Porto Rican, ordained in the Southern Church and spoken of most highly by Dr. Greene and others. He is proving himself a most useful and acceptable missionary, and while engaged in active service is pursuing his theological studies further with Dr. Greene. In the war he was a patriot and faithful soldier. Unlike most Cubans, he is a child of the covenant, his aged mother being a devout and intelligent Christian of the evangelical type.

The opportunity in Guira is well shown by the following report of the first Sabbath there, sent us by Mr. Collazo:

"Last evening the chapel was entirely filled, twenty-two women being present besides fourteen young girls of the best families, and these occupied the front seats. The rest of the sittings were occupied by a gathering such as we had At the hour appointed every chair was at the first service. filled and I counted one hundred and five present. within doors,—while without at the window and door a crowd gathered and remained during the whole service. There were men and women of all classes, and yet during the whole hour the order was perfect both within and without the chapel. In the audience were six public schoolteachers, the wife of the city judge, the hotel keeper's wife with several friends, and the families of two physicians. The chief of police was in attendance and two policemen had been placed at the entrance to preserve order. I distributed about two hundred tracts, for after the service large numbers asked for them. At the close of the service many expressed their satisfaction with the truth preached, and the ladies offered to gather to-night to learn the hymns, as also to come frequently for this purpose."

Regarding Alquizar, Dr. Greene says:

"I was with Mr. Collazo at Alquizar last Friday evening when we held our first service, which proved to be all and more than we had anticipated. More than one hundred eager souls were in attendance, curious to see and hear, most of them for the first time, an evangelical service. All classes and both sexes were represented and the best of order prevailed. I asked Mr. Collazo to preside and conduct the services, which he did in excellent taste and in a graceful manner. Close attention was given to the preaching, and many took part as best they could in the singing. The organ will aid us very materially. The lady who rents us her large salon is one of those choice spirits found here and there in these countries who, like Simeon, have long waited for the consolation of Israel. She received from her mother a Bible and has secretly read and cherished it. She has seen and deplored the errors and idolatry of Romanism and kept herself aloof from the confessional and other superstitions almost universal among her neighbors. She will be invaluable to us for her influence in the community. The chapel has a capacity of about one hundred, is a little way from the center but on a principal street and amidst a dense pop-The intervening country between Guira and Alquizar is dotted with homes, and Mr. Collazo hopes to traverse these six miles often on horseback, visiting the families and scattering Bibles and tracts among them, as well as inviting them to our services. The whole region is exceedingly fertile and under favorable conditions must be prosperous. It is the choice tobacco country and is also famous for its fruits. It yields also vast quantities of starch (yuca or cassava) and no little sugar cane. On Saturday Mr. Collazo had the children gather for a Bible school, as he could not be with them on the Sabbath. His regular services will be preaching in Guira on Sabbath and Wednesday evenings and a Sabbath-school at 3 P. M.; in Alquizar, preaching on Friday evening and a children's service on Saturday at 11 A. M. The places are contiguous stations on the Pinar del Rio Railroad.

"In all our fields we have to contend with a greatly increased activity on the part of the priesthood, who are imitating our methods and bringing threats, persuasions and bribes to bear to hinder our work; but they will not use the simple gospel, and that is what is bound in time to win the day, with the Spirit's blessing. Of course we have to contend with much instability, great defects of character, a lack of serious purpose and any number of distractions in the way of Sabbath desecration, spectacular processions, theatregoing, carnival balls, circuses, etc., so that the heart is oftentimes disappointed and saddened; but there is, after all, a hungering and thirsting for the truth as it is in Jesus, and God knows and we know that our work is the only possible way to the regeneration of Cuba."

BARBER FUND.

This is a special fund left by the late Phineas T. Barber, of Philadelphia, for work among the Negroes, which yields a present income of about $2,900. Grants have been made from this fund to ten churches and missions situated in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Indian Territory.

LITERATURE DEPARTMENT.

Our literature department records with gratitude the most successful year of work in its history; not only is it able to report better financial results but increasing demands for printed information. By mail 11,760 requests have been received from all sources. Of these 2,667 came direct from pastors, and the rest were received from young people's and other missionary organizations and from individuals. From the Committee on the Distribution of Literature 2,581 requisitions for literature and envelopes have been received and filled by our department. Besides these about 38,000 copies of leaflets on the regular topics have been distributed monthly among 534 different churches for their Concert of Prayer.

During the year the department has printed 9,410,000 pages, which have been bound into 1,360,000 copies of leaflets treating various phases of home missions. These figures do not include the Annual Report of the Board. Collection envelopes to the number of 600,000 have also been printed and distributed. The leaflets published by the Board of Home Missions number 990,000 copies, containing 6,049,000 pages, and those published by the Woman's Board 370,000, containing 3,361,000 pages. The collection envelopes printed and distributed for the Board number 300,000 and those for the Woman's Board also 300,000. About 60,000 have been distributed for thank-offering collections and about 8,000 copies of the Praise-meeting Programme.

A portion of this increase is due the Prayer Calendar, which has sold in larger numbers this year than ever before. Those who faithfully use the Calendar say it creates and stimulates interest and gives in concise form information regarding the work not to be found elsewhere. The missionaries on the field test its value by the answers to prayer, and express their sincere appreciation of a publication the use of which creates such a bond of union between them and the churches at home.

Our stereopticon lecture department gives promising results for this, the first year of its existence. Though only three lectures—"Alaska," "Indians," and "The Mexicans in the United States"—are in use, the slides for these have already been exhibited 140 times, and by all who see them are considered as presenting the cause of home missions in a most tangible form.

It is the aim of the literature department to create a greater interest in the dissemination of information regarding home missions in all Presbyterian churches connected with our Assembly. Increasing success is shown by the fact that the average number of requests for literature per month received this year exceeds that of last year by 157. It is not possible to state just the number of churches using our publications, but one fact is certain, namely, unless pastors depend upon their women's organizations to supply home mission information to their congregations, there are at least 2,000 churches where our leaflets have not been used this year.

For the future we bespeak the co-operation of synodical missionaries, home mission committees in Synods and Presbyteries, and church sessions to aid in this most important work of placing facts regarding the work of home missions in the hands of every member of our Church.

WOMAN'S BOARD.

The following report from the Woman's Board has been received and approved:

The Twenty-Fourth Annual Report of the Woman's Board of Home Missions is respectfully submitted with a record of work done during the past year along the specific lines of the mission schools.

Called into existence by the General Assembly for the purpose of establishing schools as evangelistic agencies, the Woman's Board, in the prosecution of the educational work in its varied forms, lays strong emphasis upon the evangelizing value of the mission school—a value which is never subordinated to mere classroom work, nor to industrial training. The mission schools are established first and preeminently for the purpose of carrying the gospel message into those communities where the church organization would be impossible without this educational preparation, or where the training of the young by the missionary teacher supplements the work of the missionary; each rendering the labor of the other more effective.

The past year has been one of growth and "this day is a day of good tidings." From one and another of our schools come glad messages. "Every member of our graduating class is a Christian;" "Not one of our whole number who has not expressed a desire to serve Christ," and "Our hearts are full; many of our pupils have accepted Christ as their Saviour, and will unite with the church." Thus is this "a day of good tidings" and we render joyful praise to Him who has so blessed the service of the missionary and the missionary teacher that in a twelvemonth from the ranks of school-boy and school-girl life 759 souls have been born into the Kingdom.

One does not measure the results nor the successes of the year by the number of conversions, but looking forward through time sees changes wrought by the lives of these youthful Christians, who bear witness in their homes to the transforming power of the Spirit. Songs of praise arise from mountain cabins where never before the truth was known; the prayer of faith ascends to the Heavenly Father from many a Mexican plaza where superstitious rites and penitential scourgings have long held sway; Indians carry the gospel message to brother Indians of other tribes, and from the lips of their children Cubans and Porto Ricans hear the "old, old story."

Two more churches have been organized during the year, one at Chimayo and one at Las Truchas, New Mexico, making a total of 98 church organizations as a resultant of the work of the Woman's Board—an average of one every three months since the establishment of the first mission school twenty-four years ago.

THE FIELD.—The forces that are at work on the field, achieving these gratifying and far-reaching results, are found in the 159 mission schools, with 492 missionaries and teachers located among the un-Americanized and un-christianized populations of our country and reaching out directly to the 10,638 pupils who are receiving a Christian training, and indirectly to thousands more among the Alaskans, Indians, Mexicans, Mormons, Mountaineers, Foreigners, Cubans and Porto Ricans. Field statistics show these schools to be distributed as follows:—

* Of these, thirty-two are missionaries of the Board and twelve are native evangelists and interpreters, whose salaries are paid either in whole or in part by the Woman's Board.

Our societies have also contributed, as usual, to the support of schools and teachers under the Freedmen's Board, details of which appear in the report of the secretary of that department.

Greater appreciation of the Christian training in the schools has been evidenced by increased regularity of attendance, while the large number in every field that seek admittance to the school and are denied for lack of room shows the attitude of waiting communities. A practical phase of work undertaken at Sitka, Alaska, is the clearing of ground and preparation of soil for garden vegetation, and the opening of a road to the mountain to secure lumber and wood. The home at Chilkat was reopened, but the question of a larger work there enters into the plans of the coming year, that of training adult natives to build cottages, to make gardens and to farm on a small scale, and thus to establish the permanent Christian home. The Makeh Indians at Neah Bay have now their church building and the patient, faithful missionary has her little home. "She is good and she knows the book," is the testimony her people bear; words which prove the Book is finding entrance into heart and life. Henry Kendall College at Muskogee rejoices in the new building, with accommodations for an additional fifty, while Tucson exults over the new water plant, which was so generously bestowed and is now being rapidly installed. Enlarged work among the Indians is in the schedule for the coming year — the needs of the Navajos are so apparent, the opportunities to help so great. A hospital at Jewett, New Mexico, a building for school purposes, a missionary and his wife on the ground, a medical missionary on the way, on one side,—and on the other, thousands of Navajos needing all kinds of training—mental, moral, physical and spiritual—that is the situation—and the question, not how much can we do, but how much do we dare to leave undone?

Advance in New Mexico is marked by the opening of one new plaza school and by the funds in hand for enlargement at Albuquerque, whereby the enrollment may be increased 50 per cent., and a glad welcome given to a number of the 170 boys whose knock for admission last year was met with a refusal. Santa Fé closes a most successful year, but with a regretful note as Miss Allison asks the Board to release her from duty at the post where she has valiantly stood for twenty-two years. In the plazas throughout the whole length and breadth of the Territory Mexican womanhood has been uplifted because of those years of consecrated service in Christian education. There can be no more fitting recognition of the work of this earnest, self-sacrificing, devoted missionary teacher, than the Santa Fé School which through her labors has been crowned with success, and henceforth to be known as "The Allison School."

We have enlarged at two points only on the Mormon field—schools having been opened at Rigby and Preston, Idaho. The academies, with their corps of efficient missionary teachers, report satisfactory results, but all call loudly for increased accommodations that more pupils may be gathered into the home. Shall the coming year see larger plans devised and greater measures taken to overcome, and overcome in this dark spot of our land?

"Cottage industries" among the Mountaineers form a progressive feature of the work, tending as they do to thrift and enterprise, while the status of the mission school has stimulated the schools of the counties to better educational methods, longer terms and the employment of more capable teachers. From our own training schools have gone forth many who are filling these places, and wherever they go Bible study forms a part of the school curriculum.

In four Synods, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Pennsylvania, we are working among the foreign population, the salaries of the workers being secured as an extra within the Synod in which the work is undertaken, and the amount to the pledged work in no wise lessened. The Bible readers of West Virginia also reach out to the foreigners, their location bringing them in contact with the miners of Coal River Valley. These are but beginnings; compared with the great mass of foreigners we have only touched the margin.

Much interest has centered in the medical work in Porto Rico and the funds are in hand for the needed hospital, which would have been in operation but for the difficulties in securing a site suitable for the purpose and reasonable in price. The land has now been purchased, and all interested may be confidently assured that a day not far distant will see our faithful missionary physicians comfortably installed. From missionary and missionary teacher in our Island Possessions come only encouraging words; but discouragements loom up when the great need is placed side by side with the small equipment the Board is able to place in that field.

THE ORGANIZATION.—For gathering funds to maintain and forward this great missionary enterprise, the work is regularly and systematically apportioned and sent down through twenty-nine synodical and 194 presbyterial societies of the organization to the 5,000 auxiliaries, which have an approximate membership of 125,000.

The call at the beginning of the year that an effort be made to advance along the line of organization met with a cordial response from synodical officers, and to-day we have enrolled 100 new societies. We record with interest that in the number reported are several in our own mission schools—a plain demonstration that those receiving aid are trained to help give to others similar opportunities.

As a means to stimulate prayerful interest, thank-offering meetings have become general, bubbling up like springs all over our land and adding to our treasury many a sum given with praise and thanksgiving for blessings received. No unusual methods have been employed to increase the gifts to the treasury, nor have many large sums been received from individual givers; it is due to the large number of steady, consistent, though relatively small contributions that we are enabled to report for the year the goodly sum of $444,078.15. Over $56,000 have been gathered on the field, a confirmation of the wisdom of the Board, which seeks to train to self-help those whom it educates.

Of the total amount received, the sum of $71,442.16 is for work among the Freedmen, leaving $372,635.99 for the special work of the Woman's Board, a gain of $22,357.85 over last year. For the support of the distinctive school work $322,889.40 have been expended. Of the remaining amount $26,866.18 have been specifically contributed for the erection of buildings and will be used for this purpose. In addition to these sums $22,880.91 have been paid by the Woman's Board into the treasury of the Board of Home Missions for the support of ministers and evangelists on the various fields where the results of mission school work have made their services necessary.

The value of the school and chapel property, with necessary equipment, is conservatively estimated at $901,000. This large amount entails upon the Board of Home Missions, which administers our funds, much care and responsibility, and we would gratefully acknowledge the unwearied attention given to the details of our administration and the uniform courtesy extended by the executive officers of the Board.

Young People's Work.—Working down the lines of the women's organization, the Young People's Department of the Board and the Woman's Board through its synodical and presbyterial young people's secretaries, has vigorously prosecuted its work, presenting impartially the claims of the missionary and the missionary teacher. Young people's societies contributing toward the support of a special missionary are kept in close personal touch with their representatives on the field by letters sent from the Young People's Department, which embody, in detail, the work of the special missionary and also that of all missionaries in the same field who are supported by young people's organizations, the object being not only to increase contributions, but to so present the whole work that the young people of the Church may gain such a knowledge of the conditions in our land, such a conception of the vastness of the enterprise, as will render them alert, as patriotic Christians, that coming to mature years and taking up the work which one and another is forced to lay down, they will do it with the earnest resolve that this "goodly heritage" of ours shall be held for Christ. The Woman's Board received this year from all young people's organizations $44,752.17, an excess of $784.68 over last; this shows an advance of $120.58 from C. E.'s and $664.10 from young people's societies and bands. Contributions for special objects are always used as designated, but, according to agreement, the sum total of gifts from C. E. societies for current work is divided and applied equally to the work of the Board and the Woman's Board, this division being made practicable from the large amount of funds received which are undesignated. The Woman's Board by this arrangement transfers this year $6,778.59 of C. E. funds to the treasury of the Assembly's Board.

The standard set by the Sunday-schools last year has been maintained; $22,435.64 have been contributed, a gratifying advance of $2,293.87 over last year.

LITERATURE.—The Literature Department records the most successful year in its history, reporting not only better financial results but increasing demands for printed information. Over three million pages of leaflets have been issued, besides thousands of collection envelopes and special programmes. The receipts from sales amount to $2,275.75, a slight advance over last year. The Prayer Calendar is again received with great favor, those who use it testifying to the interest it creates and stimulates. A new plan for "leaflet subscription" by which societies may receive issues as soon as published is meeting with success and the stereopticon lecture department gives promising results.

Over Sea and Land closes a successful year with a largely increased subscription list and every prospect of future gain.

The Home Mission Monthly still maintains its rôle as a

The Home Mission Monthly still maintains its rôle as a valuable helpmeet; not only does it hold its record for self-support but pays $2,500 into our treasury. Again we report a thousand new subscribers and extend cordial thanks to the faithful secretaries of literature.

To meet the demand for more general and also more specific information the Board of Home Missions and the Woman's Board are planning to issue, jointly, early in the new year, a series of books which will give a complete survey of the home mission field.

The forward movement in missions, which has touched the life of the whole Church, must have its counterpart in increased facilities for obtaining information. We owe it to the Kingdom's King to keep ourselves informed concerning the fields to be won and the victories He is winning. Knowing these, we shall be the better prepared to pray, to work, to give, and thus become in a real way a part of the forces which God is using for the uplifting of our nation.

The ranks have been broken many times during the year; workers at the front who have served faithfully and workers in the Church who have labored with equal zeal since the earliest days of the organization have been called to a higher service. These shall not be forgotten, but are held in grateful remembrance as those whom God appointed to the work. Upon us who remain is placed a binding obligation. If we have been diligent in the past, we must be still more diligent in the future and have a more active part in the redemption of our land. We have an open Bible; let us open it to others. We have Christian privileges; let us share them with the Christless. We have joy in the gospel; let us send the message to others, for to us has come "the day of good tidings;" "we do not well" if "we hold our peace.

. . . Now, therefore, come, let us go and tell."

Respectfully submitted,

(Mrs. John F.)

SUSAN H. PINGRY,

Acting Secretary.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEPARTMENT.

The following report from the Young People's Department has been received and approved:

	1902.	1908.
Sunday-schools	$38,691.35	$41,013.58
Christian Endeavor Societies	28,026.92	29,257.60
Other Young People's Organizations.	222 824 41	23,791,97

The annual review of work accomplished by the Young People's Department does not present an impressive statement of great financial progress, but records rather a process of continual development. Therefore we ask a careful attention to details, for each statement means more than mere words or tabulation of statistics; it is the result of patient, prayerful effort on the part of two hundred and twenty synodical and presbyterial young people's secretaries who are in constant communication with the secretary of this department.

METHODS.—Various plans are adopted to secure the cooperation of societies. One secretary divides her large Presbytery into districts and holds meetings in each with officers from all young people's organizations. Several city secretaries hold quarterly conferences with the chairmen of missionary committees, and are helped by visiting officers of the presbyterial society, who explain their various duties to the young people. Others are working in close harmony with Presbytery's Committee on Young People's work. One secretary visits each society at least once a year and "gives a map talk on home missions to each new organization." The books on "things of interest" kept by several show their systematic methods. These books record comparative pledges and payments for successive years, reasons for failure to meet either, and "a glance shows the encouraging, discouraging and indifferent cases and where to direct our forces."

The young people's hour is now an important feature of the annual presbyterial meeting, being made attractive as well as instructive by definite preparation on the part of the leader.

The majority of the secretaries must do their work entirely through correspondence—the expense of which should be met from the contingent fund of the presbyterial society. An immediate acquaintance with societies is not possible, hence a frequent change of secretary is to be deplored except in cases where such a change will advance the work. Fifty new secretaries are elected each year and as soon as their names are reported at headquarters, a letter is sent giving full instructions regarding methods, special objects, etc.

INFORMATION.—The aim of this department is to arouse and stimulate an interest in home missions among Presbyterian young people, and to this end the presbyterial young people's secretaries are furnished free (from the New York office) with all necessary ammunition in the shape of literature, and a constant supply of letters from missionaries is flowing to contributing societies through the corresponding secretaries or chairmen of missionary committees. With few exceptions these letters are mailed to the society direct from headquarters. The number furnished during the past year is as follows:

General printed letter from the Alaskan, Indian, New Mexican, Mormon and Mountain fields, 17,200; Sitka letter for Bands and Junior Societies, 4,500; Neostyle copies of letters from missionaries and mission schools, 7,350.

The United Society of Christian Endeavor has suggested a number of home mission topics for 1903, and in January a general letter was sent to 5,500 Christian Endeavor Societies, offering programmes and letters for use with these topics. This proposition met with hearty response, and the coming year will show a still greater interest because of more general meetings for the study of our country and its needs.

STUDIES. — The demand for home mission books for study classes is so urgent and the supply so inadequate that plans have been made to provide a small book on each of the fields among the exceptional peoples in time for next winter's study. During the past year we have recommended "Our Country" by Dr. Josiah Strong and "Presbyterian Home Missions" by Dr. Doyle, for which a complete series of questions has been prepared.

The outline studies on the different fields furnish as elaborate a course as the average society can pursue. As we take the initiative in this matter (no other denomination having prepared home mission courses of study) we feel that a decided advance has been made along this line during the year. Two young people's secretaries, assisted by presbytery's committee on young people's work, have prepared for their own presbyteries studies on the life, work and fields in which their special representatives are located. All of this indicates the demand for information, and proves that first of all this department is educational.

SUNDAY-SCHOOLS. — In order to assist Sunday-school superintendents to comply with the annual recommendation of General Assembly that a "special offering for the general work of the Board be taken on the Sabbath nearest Washington's Birthday," and one for the mission school work on "the Sabbath preceding Thanksgiving," special programmes were prepared, samples sent to superintendents, and supplies furnished free of expense to all who requested them. Officers of the Women's Societies were active in urging the use of the "Harvest Home" programme on our mission school work in Cuba and Porto Rico, and over 60,000 copies were furnished to 455 Sunday-schools. In addition to the samples of "Our Land for Christ" sent to superintendents, the programme and a letter were sent the chairmen of Presbytery's committees on Sunday-schools and home missions. Although as a result we have reached the maximum number of Sunday-schools ordering-579-and of programmes—92,000—the returns were small in comparison with previous records.

The advisability of providing these programmes is sometimes questioned because of the large expense incurred, but we believe many Sunday-schools would send no home mission offering were it not for this special effort on our part. Therefore the necessity for attractive programmes, which we plan to make within the compass of any school. The total contributions from Sunday-schools amounted to—

SPECIAL OBJECTS. — The entire work of the Board of Home Missions is presented impartially by this department, and each year shows a marked advance in the demand for special objects. While the usual number of salaries (fourteen ministers and ten teachers) have been assigned as synodical objects, more missionaries, scholarships and shares have been provided at the request of societies, Sundayschools or groups of either, than in any previous year.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR SOCIETIES. — An unusual number of changes has been necessary in the assignment of objects, owing to resignations or varied conditions in the Synods, but the new work has proved attractive, and in some instances the contributions are larger because of the change. At the request of pastors, but one salary — that of a missionary teacher — is recommended in Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, in order that the young people may contribute more generally toward self-support in their own Synods.

Many Intermediate Societies have been reported during the past year, but their objects are the same as those of the older societies of which they are a part.

As will be seen in the reports of the treasurers, contributions from Christian Endeavor Societies are equally divided between the evangelistic and mission school work. Money is appropriated for salaries as designated, the division being made from undesignated or "general" funds.

Total contributions are as follows:

$956.82 of which is for the Building Fund of the Woman's Board. Other young people's organizations, $23,791.97; gain, $967.56.

MISSION BANDS.—The advance in mission band offerings would indicate new organizations, and occasionally one is reported; but the old cry, "disbanded for lack of a leader," is heard too frequently when we know that our future women's societies are in the mission bands of to-day. This reason is still more alarming as we hear of mothers who will not allow their daughters to assume such leadership nor act as young people's secretaries because of "too many social duties." With the wealth of interesting missionary literature at command, less of a task confronts a mission band leader of to-day than one of a few years ago.

Bands are auxiliary to the women's societies, but usually have an independent object for their offerings. The general object for bands and juniors continues to be the Sitka Training School. This has been popular with the children, their interest being sustained through Miss Willard's letters and the occasional stories in leaflet form.

OFFICE WORK.—Office correspondence has steadily increased during the year. For illustration, 125 more letters were written during January, February and March, 1903, than in the corresponding period of 1902. Owing to this continued pressure, it has not been possible to accept many invitations to visit societies, although your Secretary has traveled hundreds of miles and attended many meetings—local, presbyterial and synodical—where, beside the formal address, much time has been spent in discussing means and methods of work. As usual, a page has been furnished each month for the Assembly Herald and Home Mission Monthly, giving suggestions for work or messages from mission-aries supported by the young people.

Young People and Missions.—A new movement has been inaugurated which aims to "deepen spiritual life and missionary purpose in the churches of the future. This movement furnishes a medium of co-operation for the various denominational Boards, Home and Foreign, in the prosecution of their denominational work among young people." In connection with this a conference was held in July, 1902, at which the young people's departments of fifteen missionary Boards, including our own, were represented, and it is gratifying to report the manifest interest in home missions.

This brief summary of the year's work demonstrates the fact that this Young People's Department is not a separate organization, as sometimes stated, but an integral part of the home mission work of the Presbyterian Church, and as such should enlist the earnest co-operation of all who are interested in young people. But we need above all the active support of the mothers, Sunday-school superintendents and pastors. Thus aided, it will be possible to accomplish fully and effectively the results for which we strive—the intelligent, loyal service of every member of every young people's organization for our country and for Christ, for the sake of the whole world.

M. Josephine Petrie, Young People's Secretary.

CONCLUSION.

The following facts justify special emphasis:

1. We have endeavored, according to the direction of the General Assembly, to secure on all home mission fields the observance of the rules of comity laid down by the Assembly, and we are happy to report an increasingly ready response to all such efforts. There is a growing disposition to jealously guard the honor of the Church by putting the Kingdom of Christ before the denomination and by refusing to enter new fields where the entrance is not justified by manifest and absolute necessity.

How earnest is the desire for co-operation with other evangelical bodies for the evangelization of our country is variously indicated by reports from the field.

The superintendent from Montana writes: "Some working principles of comity should be adopted. There should be a committee from each body in the State which should meet and agree upon a working plan. This should be submitted to each Board for ratification."

The superintendent from Oregon writes: "We are making a special move this year. The Congregational Church has a comity committee. The Baptists have taken steps in the same direction, as have the Methodists also. Our Church has the honor of taking the lead, and I have served as the first fraternal delegate ever appointed in this Synod to the Methodist, Baptist and Congregational bodies. They have responded favorably. We hope for church federation to prevent crowding and promote brotherhood."

The presbyterial missionary of the Presbyteries of East and South Florida says: "The Presbytery of South Florida is on most cordial terms of comity with the Southern Presbytery of St. Johns. We have had eight joint meetings, and now we have a joint committee appointed to secure the establishment of a Presbyterial academy."

The superintendent from Oklahoma and Indian Territories writes: "We constantly have in view the needs and prospects of the community and try to work in perfect harmony with the sister churches, and good feeling prevails in this respect throughout the Synod."

The superintendent from Kentucky writes: "I want to suggest a conference between representatives of the several churches to formulate rules of comity that would prevent crowding in some places and neglecting others."

It will thus be seen that the spirit of fraternity is abroad in the home mission work and the federation of churches for united endeavors is a cause which is gaining in the West as in other parts of the country.

2. An examination of the work of the Presbyterian Church among the foreign populations of our country makes it plain that we have scarcely begun to do our duty in this important respect. During the past year the claims of the foreigners have been thrust upon the attention of the Church and the country at large as never before. We must evangelize them or their increasing coming to our shores will bode no good to the republic.

We have at the present time only about thirty German churches, only a few Holland churches in South Dakota, Montana and Iowa; twelve Bohemian churches, four French churches—all in Wisconsin; a Norwegian, an Armenian and a Jewish mission in California; and an Italian and a Chinese church. This brief statement almost exhausts the list of our workers among the foreigners. It carries its own appeal. Especially should the attention of our Church be directed to Hungarians and Bohemians, who largely belong to the Reformed Church and for whom, therefore, we have special obligation. The Board proposes to take as strong advance steps in this direction as the liberality of the Church will justify. We make appeal for special funds for this special service.

3. From all over the home mission field come earnest calls for men. The kind of men are indicated in notes like the following:

"Men of snap, godliness and common sense who can teach and preach."

"Strong Biblical preachers, tireless pastors, with good executive ability and great faithfulness and patience in dealing with men stimulated by the environment of a new and rapidly growing country."

'It is wasting money to send cheap men to these fields."

"The people here are too busy in building up a great State to stop to listen to any but the strongest men."

"We need the very best and can give them something worthy of their steel."

"We need men with fair preaching ability and rare touching ability who are not afraid to shake hands with a miner, or rancher, or prospector—'Jesus Men,' as the heathen call them. We need men of scholarship, but especially men who have been with Jesus and have learned of Him."

It is a high standard our home mission churches are setting. No one conversant with the home mission field will say the standard is too high. We have many such men now. We need a great many more. "Pray ye, therefore, the Lord of the harvest that He will send forth laborers into His harvest."

4. A campaign of inspiration and education, to which the Board is committed, will be most aggressively waged during the coming year. Young and old are to be appealed to in a direct and personal way, through correspondence, conferences and conventions, with the hope that churches now satisfied with "doing what the average church does" will become impatient of anything less than their best. To stimulate the church and to put it in touch with the field, the Board is to develop and distribute its literature; to promote and provide mission studies; to suggest interesting missionary meetings and methods; to inspire systematic giving and to encourage individuals and churches to support home missionary pastors and teachers. During the last ten weeks, ten churches have each taken a representative on the "firing line," and have become financially responsible for that part of the missionary's salary provided by the Board of Home Missions. Thus bound to the field by this "living link," the home church is certainly to deepen its missionary spirit, to open wider its heart and purse, as it follows with its prayers the work of its own home missionary pastor. These plans and others will, it is hoped, bind the churches and the Board closer together in hearty co-operation, while God helps the Board and the churches to make America—Christian.

The Rev. James S. Ramsay, D.D., on account of distance and consequent inability to attend regularly the meetings of the Board, resigned his membership, which was accepted with high appreciation of his services, and the Rev. Robert Mackenzie, D.D., was chosen to fill the unexpired term.

The term of service of the following members expires with this General Assembly:

Secretary.

SELF-SUPPORTING SYNODS

SYNOD OF NEW YORK

How the cause of Christ could be best advanced in the neglected regions and amid the ever-changing conditions of the older States had been a question before the General Assembly for years. Lines of travel had changed, populations shifted with business changes, many strong churches had been depleted by death, removal to larger towns and by other causes; churches were being closed and extensive regions of country left without gospel privileges. Again, there were large stretches of country left beyond the Church's influence—as one says: "Three miles distant from the church you reach a heathen country." Again, new villages were springing up and new sections being added to our cities; natives of foreign lands throng our country; Hollanders, Danes and Norwegians enter our agricultural districts. Italians build our railroads; Slavs, Poles and Hungarians swarm to our manufacturing centers. Asiatics drift into our large cities. Hebrews throng our trading marts and colored people pour in from the South. The population increases rapidly and nothing short of the gospel can assimilate these varied elements and safeguard the interests of the State and its people.

To accomplish such needed results and to stimulate home evangelization, the system of synodical missions, five years ago, was inaugurated in our State, our motto being, "For Christ and the State," and our aim to secure the maximum of results with the minimum of expense; and while the results have not always reached the highest expectations of the most sanguine, still there has been marked progress all along the line, and our beloved Church has been signally advanced during these years of testing and service. Each year there has been a steady increase in the amount contributed to this object. The Presbyterial Committees are giving much time and energy to the work; a practical upward trend is everywhere manifest. During these five years twenty-one new churches have been organized, twenty aided churches have become self-sustaining, and over 3,200 persons have been added to the dependent churches on profession of faith.

Of our 828 fully organized and well located churches in the State, 190 are to some extent dependent on outside aid. Fifty-five stations not organized as churches are regularly supplied with the gospel, 166 missionaries being in commission. One thousand one hundred and thirty-nine persons were added to these dependent churches last year, showing that the aided churches are alive and thrifty. One church edifice has been erected and forty-four repaired. Ten thousand six hundred and three dollars of church debts have been canceled.

As we see the rural churches from which many of our best citizens have come and from which their moral greatness has been derived—when we see these churches depleted in membership and shorn of financial strength, we declare with another, "These rural churches must be kept up that they may continue to be as springs in the mountains to purify and strengthen the life of the city churches," and in the suburbs of all our great cities there are opportunities which must be met, and though such churches do not attain self-support at once, they are developing the very bone and sinew of the land for future usefulness; and when we remember the large foreign element which is constantly pouring into our State, alike in city and country, we have both home and foreign missions brought to our very doors, as we strive to mold, assimilate and prepare this heterogeneous material for true earthly and heavenly citizenship.

There is scarce a town in our State where faithful, patient prayerful effort in pulpit and pastoral work will not bring rich rewards. Some fields need earnest, sympathetic pastors at once-men mighty in spirit and in prayer rather than mighty logicians. Each year there is a steady increase in contributions made. New churches are being planted and weakened ones revived and strengthened. To continue this good work is our constant aim—to establish and maintain more Sabhath schools, to preach a pure gospel, to strengthen the things which remain, to enter new and open doors and thus extend the boundaries and mission of our Redeemer's Kingdom.

J. WILFORD JACKS,

Superintendent of Synodical Missions.

SYNOD OF NEW JERSEY.

The last year, which was the sixteenth year of synodical home missions in New Jersey, was, in many respects, the best year of all. More fields were aided, more new work was undertaken, more new church buildings were erected, more extensive repairs were made upon old buildings, more enterprises which seemed ready to perish were revived, more money was raised and expended, more enthusiasm for the work was awakened and maintained than in any one previous year in the history of the work. And, while there were not quite as many added to the missionary churches on confession of their faith as in some previous years, still the percentage of increase was larger for the missionary churches than for the Synod itself.

In detail, the record is this: Four churches organized; five church edifices completed; six aid-receiving churches attaining selfsupport; more than a dozen more of these churches voluntarily taking long steps in this direction; one hundred and seven fields occupied; five hundred and ten souls added to the missionary churches on confession of their faith; about half as many more added to these churches by certificate; eighteen thousand dollars raised and expended at a cost, for printing, postage, traveling expenses, etc.— no salaries of any kind to those having charge of the work having been paid—of only two hundred and eight dollars; over fifty-four thousand dollars more given to the Home Board; nearly eighty thousand dollars, additional, to the Foreign Board; and the whole State so alive to the importance of the work, and so eager for its immediate and wise performance, that broader plans have been formed and more determined efforts are being put forth than ever before.

For all of which we praise and magnify the Lord.

EBEN B. COBB,

Chairman Synodical Home Mission Committee.

SYNOD OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The Synod of Pennsylvania cares for the weak and struggling Presbyterian churches in the two States of Pennsylvania and West Virginia. During the past year 200 churches and missions received support in whole or in part from Synod's fund. These were ministered to by 166 ministers and missionaries, who received into the membership of the Church 2,164 persons, of whom 1,499 were on confession of faith. The Synod expended upon these churches the sum of $28,912. For each dollar given by Synod's committee, these mission churches gave $5.41. The average per communicant paid to pastoral support was $6.56, and the average per communicant for all objects was $11.67.

Ten churches became self supporting last year and over seventy churches have been brought to that point during the fifteen years the Synod has been doing its own home mission work.

No other Synod has so large a foreign population as Pennsylvania. In greatest numbers they are found in Philadelphia, Pittsburg, and in the anthracite and coke regions of Pennsylvania. These regions are included in the bounds of seven Presbyteries. viz.: Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Allegheny. Blairsville, Lackawanna, Lehigh and Redstone. The census gives 985,250 as the number of the foreign born population of Pennsylvania and the shillman of the foreign born population. of Pennsylvania, and the children of the foreign born parents in Pennsylvania number 1,420,028. Of these 400,000 at least are children of immigrants of very recent years. There are not less than 700,000 in this Synod which never speak the English language. By far the greatest part of these never attend a religious service. Redstone Presbytery has one missionary at work amongst the foreigners within its bounds and Lackawanna Presbytery has four missionaries and six teachers at work. In the five Presbyteries of Allegheny, Blairsville, Lackawanna, Lehigh and Redstone 11 missionaries and 6 teachers are There are 15 Sabbath-schools with 941 scholars; 158 members were received last year on confession and 44 by letter; the total number of communicants reported is 657. About $25,000 was expended in this work in the Synod of Pennsylvania last year, the funds for this work having been furnished largely by the seven Presbyteries carrying on these missions.

GEO. S. CHAMBERS, Chairman of Synodical Home Missions and Sustentation.

SYNOD OF BALTIMORE.

The Synod of Baltimore includes the Presbyteries of Baltimore, Newcastle and Washington City and has 155 churches. It has a very large mission field—especially in Baltimore and Newcastle Presbyteries—which extends from the Allegheny Mountains to the Atlantic Ocean. Forty-four fields, including fifty-nine churches, are aided by the Sustentation Fund. Some of these are among the oldest churches in the Assembly and others among the new and growing settlements. The work has greatly enlarged and prospered under the Sustentation plan. Every church is kept open and regularly supplied with preaching. The pastorate is more settled. Salaries are paid promptly. Collections for benevolence are taken up regularly and aggregate a larger amount than formerly and more is raised for self-support. Church property has been improved and, best of all, many have been converted and gathered into the churches. Sunday-schools, prayer-meetings, women's societies and young people's societies are maintained and the people trained to active and useful Christian work. In eleven years the Synod has been increased by twenty-three churches and over six thousand members.

These aided churches, while constantly losing their young aud active people, are at the same time furnishing a supply of the very best workers for the city churches and helping to tone up churches of other denominations around them.

A number of old churches have been revived and give promise of a long lease of usefulness and the Synod is better prepared than ever to undertake new work.

As the trolly lines are extended new towns are springing up and must be supplied with church privileges, and as all experience shows, these must be fostered for a time at least by home missions. The work is full of promise and encouragement, for which we are grateful to God.

WILLIAM H. LOGAN,

Chairman of Sustentation Committee.

SYNOD OF OHIO.

Ohio shows a steady increase in gifts for work within the State, as well as for that carried on by the Board. Last year our cash offerings were $106,698, of which sum $19,039 was given by the Women's Societies. At a cost of $22,905 mission pastors numbering 136 were aided, who served 192 churches in 219 preaching points. Not only are individual churches declaring their "independence," but, within two years, the Presbyteries of Lima and Maumee have reached self-support. Organization for the work is becoming more efficient, and enthusiasm for the general cause is rising. The machinery of the Ohio Plan contemplates an active oversight and control of our churches, as well as an aggressive evangelism. During the year, Superintendent Rev. W. F. Ringland, D.D., and Synodical Missionary Rev. D. D. Bigger, D.D., have been busy in the field, and their work has been largely supplemented by the Assembly's Evangelistic Committee. Presbyteries also have taken up the work, and some fine reaping has been enjoyed.

J. C. HOLLIDAY,

Chairman Permanent Committee on Home Missions.

SYNOD OF INDIANA.

The Synod of Indiana has been operating on a self-sustaining plan of home missions for twelve years. It has been self-supporting from the initiation of the "Indiana Plan." In the year 1888, the last year this Synod sent offerings directly to the Board of Home Missions, the Synod drew $2,169 more than it contributed, and it contributed $3,515 to the Board. Two Presbyteries were self-sustaining in the year 1888. At the present time, seven out of eight are self-sustaining, about twice as many missionaries are employed in the Synod, and about twice as many churches are aided with home mission funds.

During twelve years, 1891-1902, the Synod of Indiana has raised for its own home mission work the sum of $194,719; has given to the Board of Home Missions $87,138; and has sent through the Women's Board of Home Missions $77,727, or a total of $359,584. Foreign missions have kept up with home missions during this time, and the entire offerings in the Synod of Indiana to missionary causes have doubled, reaching an amount annually of about $140,000.

During last year, the Synod contributed, through churches and individuals, for current work within her bounds, $21,416.41. She sent to the Home Mission Board $26,362.36. The amount sent through the Woman's Board was $6,869.94. The net total of offerings made by the Synod for home missions amounted to $54,348.71. The Board of Home Missions made grants during last year for evangelization in the sum of $428,381.36. The Synod of Indiana, besides supporting well the home mission work within her bounds, contributed to the Board of Home Missions the sum of $26,362, or six per cent. of all the funds distributed by the Board of Home Missions during the year. This means that the Synod of Indiana had an interest of six per cent. in every grant made by the Board of Home Missions.

The Synod has accumulated an endowment of $50,000, called the Yandes Fund, which is held in trust for the Synod of Indiana by a Board of Trustees. The income of this Fund is available for home mission work within the bounds of the Synod. It will yield about $2,500 annually.

It requires about $11,000 annually to support the home mission churches within the bounds of the Synod. Besides this, the Synod supports two general men, who organize churches and Sunday-schools, locate pastors, raise money for pastors, church buildings and church debts, hold evangelistic meetings, and do any other work for the good of the Church in general. These men are supported by the income of the Yandes Fund.

During the current year, in concurrence with the General Assembly's Committee on Evangelistic Work, the Synod of Indiana has had twenty men in the evangelistic field, and the annual report will show telling results of their work.

There is but one Presbytery in the Synod that is not self-supporting. An appropriation of $1,000 is made to this Presbytery to assist in its work.

FREELEY ROHRER.

Chairman Home Mission Committee.

SYNOD OF ILLINOIS.

The home mission work of the Synod of Illinois has been in the charge of Presbyterial committees, which receive funds from the churches, support the work within the bounds of the Presbytery, and pay the balance to the Synodical Treasurer to assist Presbyteries unable to support their own work, and to pay into the treasury of the Board of Home Missions. When the plan was undertaken, seven years ago, five of the eleven Presbyteries were drawing more than they contributed. All but one are now supporting the work in their own bounds and contributing to the general work.

The city missions of Chicago have been carried on in harmony with the more general work of the Synod and of the Board, but inasmuch as this work differs from that done in the rural Presbyteries, it requires special notice. Thirty-six churches and missions have been maintained in Chicago with the assistance of home mission funds, under the efficient supervision of the Secretary, Rev. George P. Williams. The mission churches embrace over 20 per cent. of the membership of Chicago Presbytery, and nearly 40 per cent. of the Sabbath school scholars. Several of the churches must be supported very largely by mission funds. The spiritual results have been very encouraging. Of the members added to the Church on profession of faith, in the Presbytery, 41 per cent. have come from mission churches, which embrace but one-fifth of the membership. Several mission churches in Chicago have become self-sustaining, and new work has been undertaken, with encouraging prospects.

Outside the great city, the work of home missions in Illinois has consisted mainly in assisting weak churches in village and country districts. Seventy-three ministers have been sustained in one hundred and eleven churches, at an average expense to the home mission funds of $100 each. The missionaries have labored faithfully, oftentimes with inadequate support, and the results, measured by the additions to the churches, have been much greater than in the stronger churches, the average being twelve members received by profession of faith and five by certificate, for each missionary. The synodical missionary, Rev. John H. Rose, has been engaged in holding evangelistic meetings in the weaker churches, and his labors have been richly blessed in the conversion of sinners and in the upbuilding of God's people. The outlook for the future is encouraging.

· THOMAS D. LOGAN,
Chairman Committee on Home Missions.

SYNOD OF MICHIGAN.

The plan of synodical self-support has been in actual operation in Michigan for one year up to March 81. The plan was formally adopted by Synod in October, 1901, but payments to missionaries did not begin until April 1, 1902. The six months from October, 1901, to April 1, 1902, were spent in collecting a treasury fund, in order to secure the solveney and permanency of the plan.

On April 1, 1902, the Treasurer, Mr. H. C. Olin, reported as received by him for the work in Michigan the sum of $8,042.87. By the end of the fiscal year of Synod, September 30, 1902, the amount collected was $11,062.84, representing the offerings of churches, societies and individuals for a year. The offerings of the previous year to the Board of Home Missions were $5,570.74.

The disbursements for the first year's work were $10 579.47. The Permanent Committee have adopted the motto of "no debt," and have sought to keep the disbursements within the sum on hand.

During the year 110 churches have been aided and 71 missionaries commissioned. Among these are included two Presbyterial mis-

For the work of the present year, ending September 80, 1908, Synod has asked the churches for $14,000. It is rather early to estimate the offerings for this year, but a large majority of the churches which have reported their offerings to date record an increase in their gifts over last year.

The salient points of the Michigan plan are the following: 1. We have a treasury fund, practically a year's offerings, on hand constantly, which enables us to so shape our appropriations as to keep out of debt. and to pay our missionaries promptly each month. 2. Our plan is Synodical rather than Presbyterial. Synod's Permanent Committee of Home Missions takes the place of the Board of Home Missions in the administration of the work. This makes for unity and efficiency and inspires confidence. 3. The Treasurer of the Board of Home Missions acts as Synod's treasurer, thus lessening our administrative expenses and serving as a link between the Synod and the Board of Home Missions.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

That aggressive home missionary work can be carried on without the accompaniment of an annual deficit has been conclusively proven by the Board of Home Missions.

The accompanying report, setting forth the financial operations of the Board for the fiscal year, is the fifth consecutive report to be made without that ominous accompaniment, "Debt."

Our country has been phenomenally favored with prosperity such as it has never before known, and the tendency would naturally have been to push on to still greater broadening of the work. But the Board has held firmly to the conservative policy and has advanced only in so far as it was justified by a carefully considered forecast of receipts.

In line with this policy an advance of about twenty-five thousand dollars was made in appropriations. A still further advance, and of like amount, seems justified and will be made the coming year.

COMPARATIVE RECEIPTS.

In gross receipts for current work there has been an increase, as compared with last year, of $12,688.98. There has been received $8,665.75 less designated for the work of Evangelization and $21,354.73 more for Mission School Work. The churches have contributed $4,674.98 less than last year to Evangelization, and legacies in that department show a decrease of $13,334.30. The other classes of income score slight advances—with the exception of the individual contributions, which are greater by $10,309.89.

From all sources which have contributed to make up the total of receipts for Mission School work there have come increasing amounts, with the exception of "individuals," varying from $136.93 from Young People's Societies of Christian Endeavor, to $12,440.48 from Woman's Societies.

It must be remembered in studying these comparisons, that while church contributions show an apparent decrease, it is only apparent, for the reason that the Synod of Michigan having assumed self-support last year, and the Synods of Wisconsin and Iowa having determined to come to that same happy condition this year, the contributions from those Synods have gone almost entirely to help out in the new venture.

During the fiscal year ending March 31, 1901, these three Synods contributed over eighteen thousand dollars to the Evangelization department. Were these Synods still dependent upon the Board, therefore, the receipts from churches this year would probably have shown an advance of about fourteen thousand dollars.

To the total receipts of the Board should be added the receipts by self-supporting Synods (See pages 262 and 263), in order to give the gross amount received for the organized home mission work throughout the Church. The total thus reached amounts to $1,000,533.40.

INDIVIDUAL GIFTS.

This class of gifts shows an increase, as compared with last year, of over ten thousand dollars. Indeed it is the largest total reached during the last ten years, with the single exception of the year ending with March, 1899, during which year the last debt-raising movement was in progress. This increase is due largely to one munificent giver, who is administering his own estate, but who has notified the Board that his limit, so far as gifts for the general work of home missions are concerned, has been about reached. It is anticipated, therefore, that next year's total of individual gifts will show a falling off unless other devoted givers shall come to the rescue.

The average of gifts of this class for the past ten years is $55,613.67, and the story of the ten years is told in the following table:

1894–95	37,390.04
1895–96	43,085.44
1896–97	54,529.42
1897-98	45,783.11
1898–99
1899-00	57,8 33.4 3
1900-01	50 854.31
1901–02	58,542.27
1902-03	68,852,16

LEGACIES.

The amount received from legacies falls below the average for the decade, receipts this year, for the general work, having reached a total of only $120,223.66 as compared with the average of $125,515.82. A forecast of legacy receipts for the coming year, however, judging by the estates which will in regular course be closed during the next twelve months, indicates that the average will, in all probability, be reached.

The amount of time and thought expended by the Finance Committee, Counsel and Treasurer, in properly safeguarding the interests of the Board in the estates from which legacies come, will scarcely be realized by those not closely associated with the work of the office.

During the past four years the amounts and sources from which legacies have come, by Synods, are as follows:

QUARTERLY RECEIPTS.

That funds for the support of the Board's work come in with great irregularity is probably realized to a certain extent, but a study of the table below will show at a glance how great is that irregularity:

First Quarter, 1902.
April	$16,338 44
May
June	35,881,71
		$86,142.13
SECOND QUARTER, 1902.		••••

August	18,766,21
September	33, 467, 56
		147,006,83
THIRD QUARTER, 1902.
October	$37,308.41
November	59, 152, 42
December	65, 156, 61
		161,612.44
FOURTH QUARTER, 1903.		•
January	$81,417.69
February	67,120.17
March	273,052.68
		421,590.54
TOTAL	••••	$816,351.94

As the average monthly expenditures during the year have been approximately $67,000.00, it will be seen that in no month (except July) were there sufficiently large receipts to care for such expenditures until the last quarter was reached.

This will of course make clear the reason why the Board is obliged to borrow so heavily from June to November. Why may not that interest charge be avoided and the sum thus expended used for the extension of the work?

PERMANENT AND ANNUITY FUNDS.

During the year these funds have been increased by gifts as noted below, the details of which will be found on page 93:

General Permanent Fund	7,378.05
	$24,703.05

The investments in which these funds have been placed will, by a glance at the list of securities on pages 96 and 97, be seen to be of a high order. Investments have been made only after careful consideration on the part of the members of the Finance Committee.

EXPENDITURES.

Expenditures other than for work on the field have relation to gross receipts—as expressed in the following percentages:

Administration Expenses,  $4\frac{8}{25}$  per cent.

Disbursements not Administrative,  $\frac{3}{25}$  of 1 per cent. Cost of communicating information (including disbursements directed by the General Assembly),  $1\frac{1}{25}$  per cent.

LOANS.

Beginning in the month of June it was necessary to carry a line of loans clear through to the end of March. The total amount of such loans was $140,000.00 and the rate paid for the accommodation was four per cent. Financially the Board's bankers are an invaluable crutch upon which to lean while the churches and societies pause to take breath from Spring to late Fall. The missionary forces are not in such condition financially as to be able to live without salary during this period, and it is most fortunate, under the circumstances, that the credit of the Board is rated high.

It would seem to be wise policy to begin the accumulation of a reserve fund so that the Board might borrow from itself during these barren months.

CHURCH BUILDINGS.

The demand for church buildings in our new possessions has become imperative, and it has consequently been necessary for the Board to ask special contributions in order to meet the call.

Two substantial edifices, one at San Juan and one at Aguadilla, erected upon lots purchased by the Board, have thus far been built and dedicated—the first at a cost of over seven thousand dollars and the second, representing an outlay of nearly nine thousand dollars, has been completed during this year.

A third is now in course of construction at Mayaguez, Porto Rico. The money outlay for this property—lot and building—will have reached twelve thousand dollars before the church is dedicated.

Into each of these properties the Board of Church Erection Fund has (or will) put the sum of two thousand dollars.

HOSPITAL.

The medical work under our Woman's Board, carried on with increasing success at San Juan by the two young physicians so providentially called (Dr. Grace W. Atkins and Dr. Jane H. Harris) has met with such marked favor that, over a year ago, a hospital building seemed an imperative necessity. An appeal was made, especially to Young People's Societies. From this source, as well as from individual and other sources, the funds have come in until a sum approximating twelve thousand dollars has been gathered. A beautiful seashore lot in the suburbs of San Juan has been purchased and plans are now under way for the immediate construction of a hospital building, where not only the sick poor of San Juan and the surrounding country may be cared for, but where pay patients may also be treated, thus contributing to the operating expenses.

MORE SELF-SUPPORTING SYNODS.

As noted in the report of the Secretary, the Synods of Wisconsin and Iowa, at their respective annual meetings held in October last, voted to assume all home mission work within their bounds, beginning with April 1st, 1903. As with the Synod of Michigan last year, an agreement was entered into between these Synods and the Board whereby all church contributions for the six months ending April 1, 1903, have been accumulated to form a reserve fund for the beginning of the work. By this plan the Synod of Wisconsin has thus far accumulated $4,783.35 (which sum is in the hands of the Treasurer of the Board of Home Missions, as Synod's Treasurer), and the Synod of Iowa reports the accumulation of over $11,000.

While the accumulation of these funds has diverted from the Board's treasury a sum approximating $11,500 (total of their contributions last year), it means, on the other hand, that the Board will also be relieved of expenditures in these two Synods which last year amounted to nearly $25,000, thus scoring a net gain to the Board's funds of a sum approximating $13,500.

TABLE OF COMBINED RECEIPTS.

A new and interesting table will be found on pages 262 and 263, showing the total receipts for the organized Home Mission work of our Church for the past ten years.

It will be understood that this table is compiled, first, from the Annual Reports of the Board of Home Missions, and second, from reports of receipts in self-supporting Synods, furnished by the Treasurers of these Synods. It is proposed to carry this table along in the future in all the Annual Reports of the Board. It will, we are sure, be found most helpful and interesting to those who are studying the Home Mission problem as a whole. It indicates, thus far, that the contributions to Home Missions are not decreasing, but, on the contrary, are increasing.

PRESBYTERIAN BUILDING.

Last year's report contained the statement that "less than $300,000 remains to be raised to free this great property entirely from the encumbrance." It is now possible to report that, with cash and pledges in hand, there is required less than half that amount to pay off the mortgages of both Boards. Were the sum of $200,000 in hand it would not only provide for the mortgages, but would also reimburse the Boards for moneys advanced from other funds to provide for the deficit in operating expenses during the period when the building was a non-paying property.

General Assembly's Committee, under the enthusiastic and effective leadership of its Chairman, Rev. R. S. Holmes, D.D., has continued its efforts, with the satisfactory result shown in its report to this Assembly.

Again is the whole Church under obligations to Mrs. Rachel B. Crane, of Peekskill, N. Y., who, in January of this year, duplicated her gift of February, 1900, and once more gave the sum of $100,000 for the reduction of the debt, $50,000 being applied upon the mortgage of each Board. Who else of the stewards of the Lord's money has funds which he may wish to apply in clearing away the last vestige of this incumbrance?

All offices and lofts in the building are now rented. The total of rentals is over $121,000.00. Upon leases expiring May 1st, the rate has been advanced so that the total of the rent roll, after that date, will approximate $125,000.00. This is over and above the rental value of the seventh and eighth floors, occupied by the two Boards, and of a lease value of $25,000.00.

As operating expenses, insurance and taxes for the past year have amounted approximately to $65,000.00, it will be seen that the building is nearly a five per cent. (net) investment—the cost of land and building approximating $1,776,000.00. It must be borne in mind, however, that interest at four per cent. has still to be paid upon the balance of mortgages remaining unpaid and upon annuity gifts.

Respectfully submitted,

HARVEY C. OLIN, Treasurer.

APPENDIX.

The Standing Committee on Home Missions respectfully reports that the Committee organized on Saturday evening, May 23d, with the election of W. W. Halloway, D.D., of Dover, N. J., as Chairman, and at once proceeded to business.

First of all, the Committee wishes to congratulate the Church upon the great work which has been done during the year by the Board, and upon the fact that it closes its year not only with no debt, but with a balance in the treasury of six or seven thousand dollars. The grand total of receipts foots up $998,000, or nearly $13,000 more than last year. We congratulate the Board, too, upon its happy choice of Mr. John Willis Baer as Assistant Secretary. His former work in the Christian Endeavor Society gives pledge of his success in this new field. It is a matter for rejoicing, too, that the indebtedness on the Presbyterian Building in New York has been so greatly reduced as to leave a comparatively small margin of debt, which, it is hoped, will soon disappear, and make of that great building a perennial source of income for Home and Foreign Missions.

The work of the Woman's Board deserves special mention. The year has been one of growth in all lines of its work. In the schools 759 persons have been led to give themselves to Christ, and will go out into the world to wield an influence for righteousness which no out into the world to wield an influence for righteousness which no figures can measure. Two churches have been organized, making a total of ninety-eight church organizations resulting from the Woman's Board, "an average of one every three months since the establishment of the first mission school, twenty-four years ago."

The amount raised by the Woman's Board during the last year was $444,000, the largest in its history. With its complete organization and the loyalty and enthusiasm of the Women's Societies all over the country even larger things may be expected in the future.

The Young People's Societies co-operate loyally with the Board, and through the 220 Synodical and Presbyterial Young People's Secretaries are in close touch with its needs. The contributions from the Endeavor Societies last year were over $29,000, and of other young people's organizations nearly $24,000, to which must be added contributions from the Sunday-schools of $18,577 to the Home Board and $22,435 to the Woman's Board. Our young people are thus being trained in giving, and brought up from childhood to stand in intelligent relation to the great work of evangelization.

A review of the work of the Home Board proper shows a year of strong and successful work. It is impossible to give, even in the briefest resumé of the work in the different parts of our land, adequate idea of its magnitude.

In three principal directions there has been a large movement of population, viz.: in the Northwest, the Southwest and along the Pacific coast. Into the great State of North Dakota, with its many resources, there has been a large influx of population. Twelve of its fields have become self-supporting in the last two years. The recent opening of the Red Lake reservation in Minnesota has also drawn population thither; and a new Presbytery has been organized there— the Presbytery of Adams, named in honor of the Synodical Missionary. In the Southwest there has likewise been much development, the population of the Indian Territory and Oklahoma having had large increase. New railroad lines running into the Southwest are making that vast section of country more accessible, and calling for advanced Home Mission work. Nine new churches have been organized in the Synod of Indian Territory. The Pacific coast, of course, is waking to new activity, and the three Synods along that coast—California, Oregon and Washington—are all appealing for increased missionary resources. About twenty new churches have been organized along that coast during the past year. The work in Alaska shows steady Much spiritual interest has been manifested among the native population of the interior, and a few missionaries have been sent there, but many more are needed. It is the belief of those most conversant with the territory that its resources are so vast and varied that in a short time a large and hardy population will be found there. Meantime, our Church is doing the best it can to help the miners and the residents there to bear the rigors of the strenuous life of that region. Cuba and Porto Rico have likewise been most fruitful fields of labor. The work in Porto Rico is in the nature of a harvest already. Two of our churches in that island have received, each of them, more The Board is than one hundred members on confession of faith. seeking men and women to enable it to cultivate that field more rapidly and more thoroughly. Twenty-five additional missionaries could very properly be put to work there at once. In Cuba the conditions are somewhat more difficult, but they are likewise promising.

The work among the foreigners who came to our shores is demanding and receiving more and more attention. In 1901, 488,000 came to us from different lands, the larger proportion from Italy. They are scattered over our country from ocean to ocean, but are prone to congregate in our cities. The problem for the Church to-day is to reach them with the gospel, so that their coming may not tend to lower the moral, social and religious standards which have prevailed among us as set up by our forefathers. Our Church hitherto has not done her share of work among them, and must wake up to her obligations and opportunities. Many of our towns present as large a foreign missionary field, and certainly as available and pressing a one, as could be found anywhere on God's earth. And, in close connection with this work, is that among the so-called working men in general. It must be acknowledged that this class is for some reason largely averse to the Church, and not reached by gospel agencies. But if our country is not to repeat the history of other countries in the past they must be reached, they must be caused to see that the Church is their best friend, they must be brought into subjection to Jesus Christ. It is to be hoped that our Church will do its part in this, and we commend all efforts put forth in the spirit of the Master to fulfill His words, "The poor have the gospel preached to them," especially the missions now being conducted in western cities among the workingmen, praying that such results may follow as will justify larger and permanent plans for increasing the hold of the Church upon them. We also heartily approve the purpose of the Board to co-operate with the Evangelistic Committee in its efforts for reviving the spiritual life of the Church, and to carry the gospel to, and hold religious services among, those that would otherwise be unreached. We hope that the Board will put forth earnest efforts to assist the Evangelistic Committee, especially in the matter of providing such literature as may meet the needs of the case and stimulate interest in the meetings.

We notice that a large advance has been made in the Literature Department of the Board, and doubtless home missionary and evangel-toward the one great end—the salvation of men.

For the first time the Board this year has printed together with its own report the reports of the different Synods in which Synodical Home Missions prevail. By doing this they show the unity of the missionary work of the Church. Two Synods have joined the honorable self-support list during the past year—Iowa and Wisconsin. The Board has shown its sympathy with this movement among the Synods, and we join with it in approving all plans of Synodical self-support which have in them the promise of permanence.

Finally, mention should be made of the missionaries of the Board. There are now 1,284 of them, heroes all. They are the modern knights, they belong to the order of the Church's chivalry. The old order had two watchwords, devotion and service. Around these ideas their lives were built. They were picked men. They lived to serve others. They may have had fantastic notions; they may have carried out their engagements in a way which appeals to any idea of the out their engagements in a way which appeals to our idea of the ludicrous. But they were unselfish, brave, pure hearted. And whereever a wrong needed to be righted, wherever help was needed by the feeble or oppressed, there they were ready to go. These modern knights—our missionaries—with equal unselfishness and equal devotion, hold themselves ready for still nobler service. They go forth to set free the captives of sin, to break off chains of vice, to comfort those that mourn, to preach the acceptable time of pardon, to bring home from long wandering the lost children of the Heavenly Father. They are in journeyings often, in perils often, in weariness and pains and hunger and thirst, in fastings and cold and nakedness. They do not flinch, however. They rather rejoice that they are counted worthy to suffer and to serve for His sake. All honor to them. Let the Church send to them along the frontier and among the mountains the message of good cheer and Godspeed.

Your Committee would recommend the adoption of the following recommendations:

- 1. That the Minutes of the Board be approved, and that the thanks of the General Assembly be returned to the officers of the Board for the intelligent and simple manner in which they are kept and the form in which they are presented. We also feel that the work of the officers and members of the Board should receive adequate acknowledgment, and the Assembly hereby extends to them its grateful thanks for their earnest and faithful labors.
- 2. That the Assembly approves the plan of the Board, of printing, with its own Report, the reports of the self-supporting Synods and the statistical table of contributions.
- 3. That the Assembly approves the effort of the Board to secure in our mission churches a deeper interest in the welfare of the working men.
- I. That we commend the important work among our foreign populations done and planned to be done by the Board, and hope that money and men may be found to enable the Board to fulfill adequately the demands made upon the Church in this direction - especially among those immigrants who, like the Hungarians and Bohemians, belong historically to the Reformed Church.
- 5. That the Assembly has heard with pleasure of the election of John Willis Baer as Assistant Secretary of the Board, and hereby approves his election.

- 6. That on the Sabbath preceding Thanksgiving Day our Sabbathschools be requested to make an offering for the Mission School work under the care of the Woman's Board of Home Missions, and on the Sabbath preceding Washington's Birthday, February 22d, for the work of the missionary pastors under the care of the Board of Home Missions.
- 7. That we record with gratitude the successful work of the Woman's Board, and heartily and earnestly commend it to the interest and prayers and labors and gifts of all the women in our churches.
- 8. That we heartily approve the policy of the Board in seeking closer and more co-operative relations with other branches of the Presbyterian Church, and with other evangelical bodies generally, for the evangelization of our country.
- 9. That we urge upon the churches the advisability of taking up offerings for the Board as early in the Assembly year as possible. The month of November is suggested as the time for offerings to the Board, when not taken earlier.
- 10. That we approve of the Board's development of the department of literature, so as to furnish materials for missionary meetings, and generally for the supplying of fuller information concerning the needs of the mission fields, thereby quickening deeper and more intelligent and steadier interest in the cause.
- 11. In view of the fact that the Board purposes to make an advance of $25,000 this coming year for new work, the Assembly calls upon the Church to make such generous contributions by every organization and by individuals as will enable the Board to continue its advance into new territory, while continuing, as it has now done for five successive years, to make its report to the Assembly with all its obligations met.
- 12. The terms of service of the following members expire with this General Assembly:

Ministers.—D. Stuart Dodge, D.D., Lyman W. Allen, D.D., Wilson Phraner, D.D., Howard Agnew Johnston, D.D.

Elders.—George R. Lockwood, Titus B. Meigs, George H. Southard.

We recommend that these gentlemen be re-elected to serve for the term of three years. Further, we recommend that Rev. Robert Mackenzie, D.D., be elected to fill the unexpired term of Rev. James S. Ramsay, D.D., resigned.

Respectfully submitted for the Committee,

 $\mathbf{Attest}:$

W. W. HALLOWAY, Chairman.

WM. HENRY ROBERTS,

Stated Clerk.

The General Assembly in session at Los Angeles, Cal., May 29, 1903, took the following action, viz.:

The Committee on Home Missions presented a Supplemental Report, which was amended and adopted, and is as follows:

Upon Overture No. 163, from the Synod of North Dakota, in the matter of the church at Esmond, N. D., your Committee recommend that the matter be referred back to the Board of Home Missions for reconsideration, with a view of giving relief to the brethren at Esmond, if possible.

We recommend that the Paper containing recommendations to the Board of Home Missions regarding rules for missionaries be referred to the said Board, with the hope that the Board may see its way clear to carry out such recommendations.

As to Overture No. 114, from the Presbytery of Mattoon, asking for the re-organization of the work of the Home Mission Board three Presbyteries are officially reported as having acted upon this Overture, viz.: The Presbytery of Bloomington recommended no action; the Presbytery of Jersey City, without assenting to the Overture, recommended that the Assembly give it careful consideration, and the Presbytery of Minneapolis protested against the proposed change, giving its reasons for the same. Your Committee has given the Overture most careful attention, and finds that the substance of much that is proposed in the Overture is already in practical operation in both the Presbyteries and the Board, and that the remaining features of the plan are opposed both to the spirit and polity of the Presbyterian Church. Therefore your Committee recommends that no action be taken.

ACTION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Sixty-sixth Annual Report of the Board of Foreign Missions, and the manuscript volume of its Minutes for the year ending April 30, 1903, were presented to the General Assembly in session in Los Angeles, California, May, 1903, and were referred to the Standing Committee on Foreign Missions.

The Committee presented its report to the Genera! Assembly, which was adopted. A condensed summary of the report, and other recommendations submitted is herewith presented.

While there is much that is gratifying and encouraging in the financial conditon of the Board, it is greatly to be regretted that there should have been any retrogression from the high position taken last year.

The present demands of the work are so great, the new openings so many, and the prospects so glorious that retrogression should not be permitted, but advance to ever higher attainments and greater results.

Expansion, combining of forces, and large investment of capital in all lines of enterprise are in accord with the spirit of the times. Why, then, should our great and prosperous Church lag in the greatest of all enterprises?

It is urged that all churches and Sabbath-schools and societies hitherto not contributing, make contributions this year, and that all make special effort to increase their contributions.

Let not the gauge of our gifts any longer be the price of a single meal for each adult communicant, and the cost of a single street car fare for each pupil in our Sabbath-schools, but let us raise the standard many fold.

To your Committee have been referred also the consideration of the matter of co-operation of the Home Church. We submit the following propositions: First—Home Church co-operation is to be attained through the creation of interest on the part of the people. Second—Interest depends upon information. Third—Information is best gained through direct touch with the field. Fourth—Direct touch with the field can be had by the individual church taking the support, in whole or part, of a missionary from whom the personal word can be had from time to time.

No church which adequately tries this plan is ever willing to retreat from the Forward Movement of personal interest to the old method of general interest. Moreover, let it not be forgotten that the missionary, on his part, finds wonderful encouragement and inspiration in knowing that there are those so intimately associated with him to help by prayer, sympathy and material support.

Under this general topic we would call especial attention, also, to the instructing and stimulating missionary literature of our own Board, terse, interesting, and up-to-date. We commend likewise the abundant labors of our honored Field Secretary, Dr. Thomas Marshall. And most of all, we urge al. pastors and sessions to seek to lead their people to ever higher standards of interest and activity for Foreign Missions.

We respectfully submit the following formal

RESOLUTIONS.

1. That the minutes of the Board of Foreign Missions be approved as correct in contents and admirable in form.

2. That the Rev. Robert R. Booth, D.D., LL. D., the Rev. W. R. Richards, D.D., the Rev. John R. Davies, D.D., the Rev. John Fox, D.D., Hon. Darwin R. James. Mr. W. P. Stevenson, and Mr. Scott Foster, whose terms of service as members of the Board expire with this Assembly, be reelected for the full term of three years.

3 The Assembly congratulates the Board of Foreign Missions, that for six successive meetings of the General Assembly it has been able to report "No Debt;" and for three years has not needed to borrow money to get through the year

- 4. The Assembly once more and heartily commends the splendid activity and devotion of the Women's Board; and invites all the women of all our churches to share in the service they render, the reward they reap. Moreover, we affectionately urge the men of the Church to emulate the enthusiasm and efficiency of the women, in their gifts and exertions for this great cause of world-wid- missions.
- 5. We recommend that Easter Sunday, and the Sunday next preceding Christmas Day, be again set apart for instruction in Foreign Missions and offerings for the cause, in churches, Young People's Societies and Sunday-schools.
- 6. The General Assembly notes with sadness that of our 7615 Sunday-schools only 1,782 gave directly to the Board last year. Future givers of the church must be trained largely in our Sunday-schools; therefore we would urge the careful instruction of 11 Sunday-school members in the facts and principles of mission work and giving, to the end that there may be raised up a new generation of intelligent, enthusiastic and trained givers, loyal to our own work and Boards.
- 7. The General Assembly would call the attention of the Theological Seminaries under its care to the urgent need of more thorough instruction in missions, especially with view to training home pastors who shall be able to interest their people in the great cause.
- 8. Noting the large sums received for support of the foreign mission work through legacies (often small individually, but great in the aggregate), we counsel pastors to use tactfully their opportunities of suggestion and instruction, to the end that this source of mission support may yet be largely increased.
- 9. We hail with joy the growth of the Forward Movement in our churches; and we recommend the hearty approval by the Assembly of this movement, so successfully conducted the past year by Mr. David McConaughy.
- 10. The Missionary Conference, held the day before the meeting of the Assembly, having proven so inspiring and successful, we recommend the holding of another such conterence on the corresponding date next year.

- 11. We whort sessions to see that all Sabbath-schools, Young People's Societies, and other organizations of our churches, be urged to loyalty to our own Board in all contributions.
- 12. In view of the earnest and united call of the workers on the foreign field for immediate re-enforcement of two hundred new men, we lay this matter upon the heart and conscience of the Church. Is it not the voice of the Lord, crying, "Who will go for us!" And that these may be sent we ask two hundred individual churches each to adopt and support a missionary on the field.
- 13. The General Assembly profoundly convinced that the call of God to His Church is ever to "Go forward," confidently summons all churches, schools, cocieties and bands, to the definite and determined purpose of increasing all contributions to Foreign Missions this year by at least ten per cent.

GARNET A. POLLOCK, Chairman.

INTRODUCTION

TO THE

SIXTY-SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN THE U.S.A.

The Sixty-sixth Annual Report of the Board of Foreign Missions herewith presented to the General Assembly is a record of faithful and loyal service lovingly rendered by a consecrated band of Christian missionaries. The year both in the Church at home and abroad has been marked by a deepening of the spiritual life. It is a significant fact that the entire edition of the Year Book of Prayer, published by the Women's Boards and Societies, was sold out early in the year.

It is worthy of note that a group of ministers, members of the New York Presbytery, assembled for prayer and conference, sent a letter of greeting, sympathy and helpful stimulus to all missionaries of the Board laboring in many lands.

The General Assembly's Committee on Evangelistic Work held a conference with the representatives of the Board during the year at which plans were discussed and measures proposed for extending the influence of that Committee to all the missions of the Board.

The Joint Conference of the Mission Boards of the United States and Canada at its annual meeting held in the city of New York in January, 1903, suggested that the week April 5-12 known as Holy Week, should be set apart by the churches for special prayer for the heathen world. This suggestion received the hearty endorsement of all the leading denominations, and hundreds of thousands of leaflets were circulated throughout the churches and thousands of prayers ascended for the evangelization of the world.

Mr. David McConaughy, appointed by the Board as the special representative of the Forward Movement, has urged as a special and essential condition of any real Missionary advance, emphasis on the need of the deepening of the spiritual life and more earnest study of the Word of God. His work has been faithfully prosecuted along the lines thus laid down. Both churches and individuals, and also whole presbyteries, have been led to make a distinct advance.

The serious and long continued illness of Secretary Arthur J. Brown, so soon after his return from his visitation of the mission fields, called forth most earnest prayer for God's blessing upon him and upon the work to which he had given his life. These prayers have been answered and Dr. Brown has fully recovered.

The following missionaries have died during the year, and while the list is no longer than usual, yet the circumstances connected with the departure of some of these, our fellow workers, were peculiarly pathetic and left a deep spiritual impress on the heart of the whole Church.

Mrs. John Murray, appointed 1874, died at Chinan, China, October 13. 1902.

Rev. T. T. Alexander, D.D., appointed 1877, died at Honolulu, November 17, 1902.

The Rev. Walter V. Johnson, appointed 1902, died at Seoul, Korea, March 17, 1903.

Mrs. Walter V. Johnson, appointed 1902, died at Kobe, Japan, en route to Korea, January 13, 1903.

Miss Christine Belz, appointed 1872, died at Etawah, India, February, 1903.

The death of Dr. George W. Chamberlain was inexpressibly sad. He was still in the full vigor of his years when a malignant cancer ended his service. His last line written—he was unable to speak—was "There will be no dark valley when Jesus comes."

Mrs. S. F. Johnson, who died at Los Angeles, March 22, 1903, having resigned her work early in the year, spent the last five minutes of her conscious existence in sending messages to the poor women of Efulen, for whom she had given her life.

Dr. T. Alexander, so long an honored servant of God in Japan, died at Honolulu shortly after his beloved daughter, just appointed by the Board as a missionary, reached him on her way to Japan.

The Rev. and Mrs. Walter V. Johnson, sent out by the Board to Korea, were not permitted to engage in service. Mrs. Johnson died at Kobe, Japan, en route, and Mr. Johnson fell a victim to small-pox shortly after reaching Korea. They had not, of course, been sent without satisfactory medical certificate.

Mrs. Mary T. Ford, whose two sons are beloved missionaries of the Board, died after long and honored service in Syria.

The Rev. William Bird began his career in Syria in 1853. For forty-nine years he labored in that land for Christ. He belonged to the highest type of foreign missionaries. Dr. Post said of him "There is not a man here who would not crawl twelve miles on his knees to serve good old Father Bird."

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Adams, who were sent by the Board to the West African Mission, died sixteen days after landing. The case was pathetic. The parents, though overcome with grief, showed no disposition to rebel at God's mysterious province, but yielded to the Divine will and kept on faithfully at their work.

Among the friends of the Board who passed away during the year was Mr. Ezra M. Kingsley, who died at the age of nearly eighty-five years. He was for a full quarter of a century, 1870-1895, a faithful and devoted member of the Board.

Mrs. Melissa Dodge, for more than half a century a loyal contributor and ardent lover of the Board and its work, was also called to her reward in her ninety-second year.

Miss Ellen Strong, a former missionary, who thrice attempted to return to Korea, so eager was she to work for the girls of that long closed land, died at Los Angeles, March 9, 1903.

These bereavements have not been without blessing.

The Rev. Thomas Marshall, D.D., Field-Secretary of the Board, whose arduous labors take him to all parts of the land, in his carefully prepared reports sent monthly to the Board, makes frequent mention of the unusual evangelistic spirit manifest in the churches.

The additions on confession of faith to our mission churches during the past year indicate a great awakening. 5,227 new members have been added to the roll. The previous year there were 5,241, this being the largest number with a single exception in any year of the Board's history.

A retrospective glance may be helpful. At the close of the first thirty years of the Board's work the membership of the native church was 765. In sixty years it amounted to 30,479. The Sixty-sixth Annual Report shows 46,540. In 1833 there were seven American missionaries under care of the Board. In 1863 there were 152 American missionaries and ninety-nine native workers. In 1903 there were 781 missionaries and 1988 native workers on the field. These figures indicate a steady spiritual growth.

The Board to-day has 127 stations, 1402 out-stations, 764 schools, 27,370 pupils in schools, 38,342 Sunday-school scholar, 693 churches, (312 of these are in Korea and it is scarcely proper to call them churches. They are rather groups of believers) 122 students for the ministry, ten printing presses which last year printed 107,938,713 pages, and ninety-one hospitals and dispensaries which treated during the year 290,103 patients.

The Women's Boards and Societies have during the year shown the same untiring industry, patient attention to details, unselfish service and fine executive ability which have characterized their work for so many years past. Their total receipts including young people's societies are $352,440.30.

One weak point in our foreign mission service is the work in the Sunday-schools. The total number of Sunday-schools in the Presbyterian Church is 7748, of this number only 1902 contributed directly to the Board last year. How many contributed through Women's Boards and Societies or directly through the offering of the church the Board has not been able to ascertain. Special efforts are now being made to reach the Sunday-schools. We would call the attention of the Assembly to the need of more thorough instruction in the Sunday-schools regarding foreign missions.

At the last General Assembly Dr. T. H. P. Sailer was appointed to take charge of mission study classes and the general home educational work. Dr. Sailer is serving without pay and has already shown himself thoroughly competent to grapple with the whole educational situation. It is hoped that during the year, with his co-operation, means may be devised for stimulating increased interest in foreign missions on the part of the more than one million scholars in our Sunday-schools. Other denominations are leading the way. The Protestant Episcopal Church through its Sunday-schools gave in 1878 to home and foreign missions $7,070.50. In 1902 $110,152.36. The Methodist Episcopal Church schools in 1878 gave for home and foreign missions $185,000, and in 1902 $420,000.

"Let us provoke one another to love and good works."

As Honorary Librarian, Mr. Grant has continued to render a most valuable personal service to the work and to the missionaries in ways which his official designation scarcely suggests.

The visit of His Majesty, the Crown Prince of Siam, to this country afforded the Board an opportunity to show its appreciation of the kindness shown our missionaries by the present ruler of the Kingdom of Siam. Through the courtesy of Mr. Warner Van Norden a dinner was given to the Crown Prince in the City of New York at which the members of the Board and many distinguished guests were present. Arthur J. Brown, on the part of the Board, made an address to which the Crown Prince fittingly responded. The addresses of the evening were published by the Board in pamphlet form and they have had a very wide circulation. A number of copies were sent to the Hon. Hamilton King, the United States Minister to Siam, and by him were transmitted to the King. The relations between the missionaries in Siam and the Government have always been of the most friendly and cordial character.

The venerable Dr. James C. Hepburn, now four score and ten years of age, who went to China in 1840 and afterward was for so many years closely identified with our mission work in Japan as preacher, physician, translator and lexicographer, having presented to the Board twenty-nine volumes of "The Transactions of the Asiatic Society of Japan" and eight volumes of "The Transactions of the Japanese Society in London" and a number of copies of other important books, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered him by the Board. It is a fitting climax to his long and distinguished services for foreign missions, that these volumes representing the garnered literary treasures of years should now become the property of the Board.

The Syria Mission having requested the Board to make overtures to the Government of the United States in order that the institutions carried on by American citizens in the Turkish Empire should receive from the Government of Turkey the same recognition granted to French and Russian citizens, the Board appointed a committee to co-operate with committees from other bodies carrying on work in the Turkish Empire. These several committees waited upon the President of the United States, and were very cordially and satisfactorily received.

Mention of the China Indemnity Fund and the Presbyterian Building will be found in full in the report of the Treasurer.

The "dead hand" is often referred to by writers and speakers on foreign missions with something of a sneer. During the present year no less than 100 legacies have been paid to the Board netting the sum of $164,096.88. It is most gratifying that those who were generous donors of the Board during their life did not even in death forget their obligation to this cause. The amount received from legacies each year enables the Board to do an ever enlarging work.

The Board has sent out to the foreign field this year 143 missionaries, sixty-four of whom were returning to their fields and seventy-nine were newly appointed. This is the largest number ever sent out in a single year. Even with the large reinforcements many fields are still needing workers. The Board has under appointment for the new year fifty-six new missionaries. The missionaries asked for exceed 200.

The term of service of the following members of the Board expires with the meeting of the General Assembly in May:

the Rev. R. R. Booth, D. D., LL. D., the Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D., the Rev. John R. Davies, D. D., the Rev. John Fox, D. D., Hon. Darwin R. James, Mr. W. P. Stevenson, Mr. Scott Foster. It is requested that they be re-elected to serve till 1906.

A glance at the various fields occupied by the missionaries of the Board is most encouraging.

AFRICA.—The additions to the African Churches during the year were 126. The missionaries in Africa have taken heart. The Board is sending new missionaries and the work looks brighter than for many years. The marked event of the year was the organization of the new church at Elat. 855 persons crowded the church on the day of its organization. More than 400 persons have applied for church membership. The term of service between furloughs for the missionaries of West Africa has been reduced from five to four years.

CHINA.—China is awakening. The Boxer outbreak in the providence of God did much to open the way for the preaching of the truth. Last year 1282 were received into our Chinese churches as against 681 the previous year.

In the Canton Mission many buildings have been erected, the David Gregg Hospital for women and children, a training school for nurses, a women's medical college, the Forman Memorial Hospital at Yeung Kong, many new chapels in different parts of the mission, notably one at Shek-Lung, and one for lepers at Canton.

The work in Hunan has progressed so rapidly that the missionaries are asking that a Presbytery be organized.

The output of the press at Shanghai is shown by the fact that during the year the Board loaned the press $13,500 gold to erect additional buildings to keep pace with the work.

At Chefoo 86,000 persons attended the chapel during the year.

The new college buildings at Wei Hsien to which the Board appropriated $26,700 are to be built at once.

A new Paotingfu has arisen from the ashes of bloody Paotingfu. A hospital, church and missionary homes have been erected. The city church is crowded every Sunday. Converts multiply. There are many perplexing problems yet to be solved in China, but the missionary outlook was never so bright.

INDIA.—The recent census in India shows a total Christian population of 2,923,349. The Decennial Conference of Missions, representing all evangelical bodies at work in India, held at Madras in December, issued a call for 9,000 new missionaries for India. At a special meeting of the Furrukhabad Mission, held in February, an appeal was sent out for seventy-five new missionaries. The Mission is located in a population of 7,500,000, scattered through 14,000 villages. The present missionary force is entirely inadequate to cope with the growing demands of the work. The additions in India, though not so large as last year, which was phenomenal, are very gratifying. 591 were added to the Church. The special need of India to-day is more missionaries. The harvest is ripe but the laborers are few.

JAPAN.—The most noteworthy political event of the year was the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, the first alliance of an Oriental and non-Christian nation with a European and Christian nation. The East Japan Mission is anxious to extend its work in co-operation with the Church of Christ to Formosa—the island ceded to Japan as the result of the Chinese-Japanese war. There are more than 46,000 Japanese on the Island of Formosa. The result of the gracious visitation of the Spirit, so manifest in Japan a year ago, continues. 606 were received on confession of faith in our East and West Japan Missions.

KOREA.—The additions on confession of faith in Korea this year were 970. They fall short of last year. The Seoul Station reported no increase, the increase being almost entirely from the Pyeng Yang Station. The number of catechumens received, however, is very large.

The great need of Korea to-day is the educational need. The Board made an appropriation of $4,657 for a boys' intermediate school in Seoul. The Pyeng Yang Academy is now an established fact and is in a flourishing condition. New schools have been established all over the country. The Korean Christians are in need of such training.

More than 3,300 persons received Bible instruction in 107 special Bible classes during the year. Twenty-one new chapels were built by the contributions of the native Christians alone.

The Korea Mission is asking for the opening of several new stations. Reinforcements are greatly needed merely to keep pace with the providential openings.

Mexico.—The growth of the Church in Mexico is evidenced by the rapid progress toward self-support. At least seventy-five of our churches contribute toward their own support, with monthly contributions from a few cents to over $100.00. Two churches, Torreon and Mexico City, are entirely self-supporting and that of Merida almost so. The latter gave last year, including building contributions, $3,289. The gifts were made to the following objects, pastor's salary, rent, day schools, repairs, church buildings, lighting, home poor, presbytery, Bible Agency and missions.

The Mexico Home Mission Board, having thirteen congregations, is supported by the gifts of the native church. The Presbytery of Zacetacas increased its gifts last year some $2,000, making a total of $6,655.65.

The Rev. George W. Chalfant, D. D., of Pittsburg, having raised funds for the purpose among his friends during the year, went to Mexico City to establish an English speaking Presbyterian Church. He has been elected a member of the Mission and has the endorsement of the Board and enthusiastic support of the missionaries. Two of Dr. Chalfant's sons are in the Board's service.

The additions to the Mexico Church during the year were 333 as contrasted with 256 the year previous.

PERSIA.—Political conditions in Persia have not improved. Russia, in return for a number of loans, has been granted a practical mortgage upon the custom houses of the land. The Government has prohibited the importation of Bibles. The Board is co-operating with the American Bible Society in seeking to secure a removal of this prohibition.

On the other hand the educational work is advancing. The East Persia Mission would be glad to dream of making its Boy's School a rival in equipment and efficiency to the Syrian Protestant College or Robert College. No less than thirty schools have been established in Teheran during the last six years, but none of them of the character of this Mission School. High grade Moslems do not object to sending their boys to our schools.

The total additions on confession of faith in Persia for the year were 184 against 234 the previous year. The secret inquirers, however, are very many.

PHILIPPINES.—The additions in the Philippines this year have been 237 as against 299 last year, but this in no sense indicates the development of the work, which has widely extended. The General Assembly will be asked by the Philippine Mission to organize a Presbytery in the Philippine Islands. The Board commends this request to the Assembly.

Mr. Rodgers, the senior missionary in the Philippines, made an extensive tour through Southern Luzon and found many promising fields for mission work. The Board ordered the opening of a new station at Laguna de Bay, an inland sea not far from Manila.

In Manila there are three organized Filipino churches and one American church, with five congregations in the suburbs. At Iloilo there is a Filipino church with regularly ordained elders and a goodly congregation. The hospital work there, under the efficient care of Dr. J. Andrew Hall, has proved a great blessing.

At Dumaguete the Silliman Institute is rapidly approaching completion; 114 students are now in attendance, two of whom confessed Christ. Through the efforts of Dr. W. H. Langheim, our medical missionary at Dumaguete, the cholera plague was stamped out. With the exception of the army surgeon and one Filipino surgeon (?) he is the only physician for 150,000 people in a territory of 1,700 square miles.

A new Station was opened on the Island of Cebu. Five hundred copies of the first edition of the Gospel of Matthew, translated into the Cebuan language by Chaplain Randolph, of the United States Army, were sold in two days. The British and Foreign Bible Society published in July the entire New Testament in the Tagalog language.

The outlook in the Philippines, while clouded by perplexing problems arising out of peculiar conditions, political, economical and hygienic, is very hopeful.

Special contributions made by friends of evangelistic work have enabled the Rev. George F. Pentecost, D. D., to undertake a special evangelistic mission in the Philippines, China and Japan, working under the auspices of the Missions of the Board in the Philippines and China, and in Japan under the auspices of the Presbyterian and Congregational Missions conjointly. The work thus far done in the Philippines and China has been of great value. The work in Japan has just begun.

SIAM AND LAOS.—The work in North Siam was somewhat disturbed by the uprising of the Shans. The rebellion was of short duration, however, and none of the missionaries suffered bodily harm.

The additions to the Siam and Laos Missions for the year were 253 as against 186 the previous year.

A Christian member of the nobility gave funds in part to erect a church in Bangkok, the Siamese contributing the remainder.

Sixteen Laos churches meet all their congregational expenses and build their own churches. They do home mission work in their respective parishes and foreign mission work in the French, British and Chinese Laos territories. The Laos people are advancing rapidly in civilization, but it has been due almost entirely to the work of the Presbyterian missionary.

CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICA.—The Mission work at Guatemala has been temporarily suspended by the withdrawal of the missionary families at Quezaltenango and Guatemala City. The Board has appointed new missionaries to take their places. Notwithstanding the troubled condition of affairs in Guatemala seventeen were added to the Church on confession of faith.

The missionaries at Caracas, Venezuela, have remained at their post during all the year. There has been no cessation of Gospel work. There have been some sound conversions and much hunger for God's Word. At the Christmas festival Minister Bowen and wife were present and contributed largely. With the restoration of peace the opportunities for Christian work will be more abundant than ever before.

The additions to the Central and Southern Brazil Missions during the year were 324; ninety-two were from the Central Brazil Mission, the largest number ever received during the history of the Mission. Two new stations were developed and much work undertaken in the interior. The Cachoeira Station in three years has grown from thirty to 153 members. Two Italian churches have been organized at Sao Paulo.

The Colombia Mission has suffered much from the disturbed political conditions during the year, and through the absence of missionaries on account of furloughs and sickness. There were only five additions on confession of faith. The unsettled state of affairs in this unhappy republic and the small number of missionary workers render this an unfruitful field. Reinforcements are sadly needed in Colombia.

In Chile the work of the Instituto Ingles has gone on with ever increasing efficiency. This institution has become a great power in all Chile. It is gratifying to report that in the Chile Mission there were 132 additions on confession of faith, as compared to 100 a year ago.

Syria.—The emigration from Syria continues. Missionaries in Brazil speak of the large number of Syrians who have come to them during the year. This emigration seriously interferes with the development of self-support in the Syria Mission.

Mrs. George Wood has added to her already large gifts to Girard Institute at Sidon, a munificent gift amounting in money and in property to $70,000. This will greatly enlarge the work of the Institute and make it one of the foremost industrial plants in all our missions. Mrs. Wood in addition to giving of her means has given her heart and soul to this blessed work.

The additions to the Syria Mission during the year were 127, a somewhat smaller number than in the previous year. But the Mission reports a spirit of deep inquiry and special evangelistic services held in connection with the Syrian Protestant College.

CHINESE AND JAPANESE IN THE UNITED STATES.—The work among the Chinese on the Pacific Slope has been carried on as heretofore. Additions on confession of faith were thirty, as compared with thirty-six last year. The Chinese Christians in the United States have, as in previous years, contributed largely to the extension of the Gospel in the land from which they came. Rev. Huie Kin has had charge of the Chinese work in New York city, to which the Board contributes. It has made reasonable advance.

On the Pacific Coast there are 80,000 Japanese and in the State of California alone there are 50,000. Twenty Japanese were added to the First Japanese Church in San Francisco on confession of their faith, making the whole number received in this church up to the present time 350. In the Mission House at Salinas seven young men were baptized and the first fruits have also been garnered in the recently organized Los Angeles Mission.

The ill-treatment received by these strangers from other lands at the hands of many of our fellow citizens should incite the Christian Church to redoubled efforts in their behalf.

For the sixth successive year the Board reports no deficit. This result has been attained, however, only by reducing the requisitions of the Mission to the level of the contribution of the Church. The Missions are asking for fifty per cent. more for the present needs of the field than the Church is providing.

The outlook for our mission work is bright. The heathen nations are being laid at our doors; opportunities for service are legion; the call from many fields for workers is importunate. The Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, with its efficient equipment, its organization and its inspiring history and traditions, is able to carry the Gospel to the ends of the earth, if only the Church at home will furnish her substance, her sons and her daughters, for this masterful work. "And I heard the voice of the Lord saying, whom shall I send and who will go for me? Then said I, here am I, send me."

In behalf of the Board,

A. W. Halsey, Secretary.

Hard, faithful work amid many difficulties is the story of our African Mission for the year. It is pathetic to think of that scanty little band of missionaries struggling against heavy odds in a steaming equatorial climate, worn by illness, decimated by death, depressed by the failure to receive adequate reinforcements. But it is inspiring to read of their faith and courage, their refusal to give up their work, their stronger determination to win West Africa for Christ, and their indefatigable labors to give the savages about them the message of the Gospel. Death and necessary furloughs have compelled several rearrangements of the Missionary force, as the reader will note by comparing the station assignments given above with those for last year. Only four new missionaries were added to the Mission during the year, Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Weber and Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Adams, the latter being sorely bereaved by the death of their only child within a few weeks of their arrival. Mrs. S. F. Johnson, who with her husband joined the Mission in 1894, but who was forced by ill-health to retire from the work in 1902 (June 16), died at Los Angeles, Cal., March 22d, of this year, sending from her death-bed loving messages to the women of Efulen, among whom she had so faithfully labored. The Board strongly feels that a large reinforcement should be sent to Africa this year, but at this writing only five new missionaries have been secured, three men and two wives. Three times this number are urgently needed and will be gladly commissioned if they can be found.

In spite of many difficulties, the work has been so prosperous as to give new encouragement regarding this field and as to excite keener regret that there was not a large force to take advantage of the widening opportunity.

BARAKA STATION.

The steam launch "Dorothy" has proved indeed "the gift of God." Mr. Milligan writes:

In the present condition of Africa it is folly to leave the watercourse. The population is invariably denser and travel is comparatively easy. After teaching school until Friday evening, I can preach Saturday morning in towns one hundred miles away, and keeping this up for two days can be in my school again Monday morning.

The most significant feature in this field is the continued and accelerated movement of the great Fang tribe toward the coast.

The Fang are a wonderful people, and it is all the time becoming evident that they are more numerous than we first thought. Three hundred miles south of Gaboon they are pressing down to the coast from the far interior just as they are doing here, and at Benito and at Batanga, for you will remember that the Bulu are a branch of the Fang, and with practically the same language. The whole coast within our Mission has become so crowded with Fang that were it not for our old translations we might almost say now that we have a uniform language, a thing we have been longing for these many years.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—This work has made marked progress this year. Much sowing and reaping have been done. The Mpongwe work has prospered; the church has for the first time become self-supporting, having raised the goodly sum of $97.00, besides $18.50, the gift of the Woman's Missionary Society. Fifty cents added to this total would make an average of $1.00 for each member, as the membership of the church is one hundred and sixteen. Twenty-one have been received on examination during the year, two of whom were pupils from the Mpongwe school, children of the covenant. There is a catechumen class of forty-four members, ten being from the school. The church is working for the salvation of the lost, with revived energy. Ntyuakero, a candidate for the ministry, has been preaching each Sabbath at two outlying towns, six and ten miles from Baraka. His work has been attended with Divine favor. Three souls have accepted Jesus. A regular weekly service has been held at Awondo, a town a few miles distant from Baraka, by the native preacher Iguwe.

The work among the Fang has demanded much oversight. Such urgent pleas for a Catechist reached Mr. Milligan's ear and heart, that he took his band of three special boys, whom he expected to train for the ministry, and thrust them forth, partially trained, to teach and preach Jesus Christ; but they did not supply the need, for many towns in which numbers of the people had thrown away their fetiches and professed faith in Christ, had to be denied further teaching. Three other helpers labor among the Fang, and yet the need is not supplied. Much fruitage of past labors has been harvested. A Fang church was organized during the summer and has now a membership of fifty-six. Forty-three of these were received on examination and the remainder by letter, three from the Baraka church and ten from the defunct Angom church.

There are over two hundred inquirers in the Fang field, and the number is constantly increasing. Many of them are throwing away fetiches and putting away wives. One man put away six wives in order to become a Christian. Another man, a chief, gave up his father's skull, a very sacred fetich among the Fang. Mr. Milligan has nearly two trunks full of fetiches given up for the kingdom of Christ. The work is far too large for one man; Mr. Milligan is doing the work of three men, being engineer, teacher and preacher.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—This work has been greatly hampered by the want of a white French speaking teacher, but considering the facilities at hand, the schools have done excellent work. Bojedi, a native of Benito, a former pupil of M. Presset, gave valuable assistance under Mr. Milligan's supervision.

The Mpongwe school held one term of ten months with an average attendance of thirty-two pupils. The progress made by the pupils was very noticeable. The Boys' Boarding School numbers from ten to fifteen, while the Girls' Boarding School averaged sixteen for the term, including our first Fang girl. The boys worked two and a half hours each day, which work paid for half of their food, and the girls also did some work each day. The parents gave for these pupils $14.30 in money and $18.00 in Plantains and iguna, making a total of $32.30 in cash.

Mr. Milligan's Fang School of forty-two bright and promising boys was a joy and inspiration to us all. No man can tell the blessing of that school, for the boys come from fifteen towns widely separated from each other, extending from the coast to a distance of one hundred and twenty miles inland. Thirty of these boys have professed faith in Christ as their Saviour, of whom thirteen were received into the new Fang Church. The schools have received their three proportions of the annual subvention, granted by the Government for the teaching of French in the Congo Francais. The amount this year was 700 francs.

We have not had a medical missionary or a hospital at this Station, on account of the presence of a French Government hospital and staff of physicians. Mrs. Cunningham, however, had daily dispensary hours and the number of patients that came to her for treatment often taxed her strength to the utmost. She also visited many of the sick in their villages. There is a growing feeling among the missionaries that we ought to have a larger medical work at Baraka, as the Government hospital is of course under the control of the Roman Catholic missionaries, whose work naturally gets the sole benefit of its powerful influence among the natives.

EFULEN STATION.

This has been, in many respects, a good year in the work at Efulen. The Lord has blessed the work and turned the hearts of many to seek the Way of Life. The attendance on Sabbath services has almost doubled during the year. The number of inquirers has steadily increased, notwithstanding the fact that the conditions of enrollment have been made more stringent, in order to protect the good name of the work from inconsistent members. Some come regularly twice a month from villages fifteen miles distant. Many of the people have voluntarily gone to those whom they have wronged and confessed, returning stolen property. Many of the villages have been having morning or evening prayers in the palaver house.

Sometimes these are conducted by the school boys, but often by the people themselves. In one village women were found sitting in a house holding a dead child and singing, "When He Cometh." The old custom of firing guns, beating the drum and dancing at funerals has almost passed away in the villages about Efulen. Christians and inquirers have united their efforts against the rum trade until it has become quite small.

The solitary family at the Station, the Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Johnston, were cheered and helped by visits from Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Johnston, Mr. Fraser and Dr. Lippert, while the Rev. George L. Bates, a naturalist, residing at Efulen, assisted in the school work from August to November, and also gave valuable assistance by holding Sunday services at outlying villages.

EVANGELISTIC.—Four members have been received during the year. In May the building in which the Sunday services are held, was again enlarged, increasing the seating capacity from 300 to 450. In less than five months the Sabbath audiences were averaging more than 500. The people are now collecting material for a still larger and better building. This will be the first real Church building at Efulen, the old building being a combination of Church, school and palaver house. The number added to the Church does not indicate the spiritual interest. There has been quite an awakening in the villages about Efulen. Along with the increase in attendance there has been a confessing of sins almost in proportion to the attendance. One day more than twenty people came, saying they had not been able to sleep since the past Sabbath. They said they had so many sins concealed in their hearts that they did not believe they would ever be able to right them all.

Sunday-school has been held regularly before the morning preaching service and attended by the whole congregation. Services have been held for three days preparatory to each communion service, with an average attendance of about 140. In August an organization something on the order of Christian Endeavor was formed for the men and boys. now has more than 100 members. They conduct the meetings themselves, under the supervision of the missionary, and pledge themselves against drinking or carrying rum, bearing loads on Sunday and other prevalent evils. Two meetings a week have been held with the women in the villages. These meetings have been held in different places and each has its own roll. One meeting has had an average attendance of thirty-eight and the other of forty. Ndenga, the young Banoka man who is studying for the ministry, has held one and sometimes two meetings on Sunday afternoons in the villages, from three to five miles from Efulen.

CATECHUMEN CLASSES.—These classes had an enrollment of ninety-eight at the close of last year. Eighty-eight have been added during the year, while four have been removed by death, fifteen have been dropped and twelve are suspended, leaving a present enrollment of 155. Four were received in the church. Each class has met once a week for instruction. The average attendance has been above the total enrollment, as many attend who are not on the roll.

ITINERATING.—The smallness of the Station force prevented much itinerating. While villages within a radius of twenty miles from Efulen have had frequent visits, those more distant have had but little attention. In March a five days' trip was made along the main road east of Efulen. Ndenga, accompanied by members of the inquiry class has made three trips, one of one week and two of two weeks each. Four members of the Church and inquiry class have also made two trips of about two weeks each. For each of these journeys there has been given them a list of the towns and villages where they were to hold services. The work has not been wholly unfruitful. The men and boys have returned from such trips enthusiastic over the eagerness of the people to hear the Gospel. The church and inquiry class have borne all expenses connected with these journeys, so that it has not been necessary to use any of the appropriation for itinerating. In all, Efulen Station has had some one out preaching about ten weeks during the year. But this is but little compared with what needs to be done.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—There have been two terms of school during the year. The first of four months and a half had an average attendance of 103, of whom fifteen were dayscholars. The second term of a little over three months had an average daily attendance of 131, thirty-nine being dayscholars, the teaching has been done by Udenga and two Bulu boys, and in the vernacular only. Twenty-four boys have begun reading in the Gospels during the year. Ndenga has had two meetings with the school boys each week, teaching them the Life of Christ. The work in the school has been hindered by lack of books. Last term we had about one primer to six scholars needing them. Type-written work was used, but such sheets would not wholly take the place of books. The number of girls among the day scholars has been greater this year. One boy of twelve died, and his father buried his Bulu Testament with him, and although living twelve miles from Efulen has since been coming to Sunday services.

The school boys, besides working two hours a day in the yard or garden to pay for their food as formerly, gave this last term thirty-one marks trade (about $6 cash) toward the teacher's salary. They raised the money by each giving about two cents a month. The day scholars by giving about one cent a month raised 4.50 marks in trade or about eighty-three cents cash. The boys in addition to this almost all made a small contribution to the church's contribution to the Boards.

MEDICAL WORK.—For the greater part of the year there has been no doctor at Efulen. However, the dispensary has been kept open, and with the exception of about one week there have been patients in the hospital. During the school terms there have always been a number of boys with ulcers, but these have not been included as patients in the hospital. There was no record kept of patients before the arrival of Dr. Weber. After that the treatment averaged nearly 100 a day. The medical receipts for the year from the natives has been about $62.00.

ELAT STATION.

The force of workers has at times been painfully small, and its continuity much broken by various necessary calls in other directions, so that only two men were at the Station during many weeks of the year, to carry the departments of work as best they could.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Preaching services have been held regularly during the year. The attendance has been good, ranging all the way from 200 to 500 on an ordinary Sabbath, the increase being gradual. The average attendance has been about 300. The Sunday-school attendance has been about 250. divided into two classes, the adults and the children. Lessons from the Acts of the Apostles have proved of sustained interest.

Two catechumen classes have been held through the year. One has been held Monday afternoons, and has been in charge of Mr. Fraser, except during his absence, when Mr. Dager and Dr. Lippert conducted the class. During the latter half of the year, the subject was the Life of Christ. The adherents of the class have been about 400, the average attendance about 250, a number living at a considerable distance. The other class is a smaller one of six members, the design being to instruct them with a view to their becoming members of a future church. Mr. Fraser has instructed this little company, which now numbers six, except during time of absence, when Mr. Dager, followed by Mr. Salveter, led them.

Early in the year, a meeting for women alone was organized by Mrs. Dager. This meeting had much promise, and was beginning to meet a great need among the women, when suddenly and sadly bereft by its leader's illness, and the members found their places again in the crowded Monday afternoon meeting. During the last three months of the year, one of the most capable of the school boys instructed the boarders and some town boys in a prepared catechism, Thursday evenings.

Station prayers have been held throughout the year at 6.15

A. M., attended by all boarders and attendants.

Meetings have been held Sabbaths at Azem, and Esa Koc village, six miles distant, since the middle of February, with an average attendance of about 200. These meetings have been kept up by Dr. Lippert going on his horse and Mr. Salveter on his "wheel," and have been welcomed by the people and have borne fruit.

Two encouraging expressions of religious life have come to the surface during the year. First, a spirit of inquiry, appeared early in August. People began to come to the Station to confess their sins and express their desire to follow Christ. They came from near and far, men, women, and children, twenty to fifty in a week. During August, September and October, as many as 400 came, and they are still coming at the writing of this Report, to ask the way and make personal commitment. Not only have numbers been thus coming, but the general tone of society has grown better and individuals are living straighter and bringing forth some fruits meet for Some men have put away wives, to keep one, repentance. some have held fast the profession of their faith without wavering, in the midst of temptations and persecutions. young men who were under instruction years ago, but fell away have learned that the way of the transgressor is hard, and have returned under the power of truths that were smothered, but not forgotten. Time and testing will show the chaff and the wheat, but if this apparent movement God-ward proves to be a genuine work of grace, as it now appears to be in the hearts of one-half of the hundreds who have come confessing and professing, it is wonderful in our eyes, and illustrates again the certainty and the blessedness of reaping after long and painful sowing.

The other happy fact in the religious life of the year has been the organizing of a church at Elat. The candidates for charter-membership (two men and four women) had been instructed and had witnessed a good confession for some time, and Presbytery's committee met October 25th, and began the organization, completing it the next day, Sabbath, by baptizing the six adults (and two children) and ordaining one elder, together with holding the Lord's Supper and appropriate services in the presence of a congregation of 854 people, who put into the Lord's treasury goods worth over $38.00, a great sum to these poor people.

ITINERATING.—Not very much of it has been done, owing to limited number of workers at the Station. However, as the missionaries traveled they did not forget to tell the Old Story along the road. Numerous Sunday visits were made to adjacent villages, and Dr. Lippert made short trips to towns from one to five hours' distant. In November, Mr. Fraser, accompanied by six lads, made a trip of ten days south and east, holding thirty-three meetings, and reaching the ears of 1,940 people, of various tribes and through a region where the people were quite strangers to the Gospel message. November, four young men spent two weeks and a half on trips some distance east and north hunting the Master's lost sheep among the Bulu, the Fan, and the Bene. These boys There is rejoicing not only that these ten went in pairs. young men went out, six as carriers with Mr. Fraser and four by themselves in two companies, but that they went without any remuneration in goods, except sufficient to buy their food on the road. They volunteered for the service on call. They and others who wanted to go seem to have caught the fundamental idea that Christian life means loyal, loving service, not loaves and fishes. Joyfully did they give those days of burden-bearing and tramping to the cause of sowing the seed among those of their own race. Many of the schoolboys have been doing good work in their own towns by telling what they know and believe, and teaching their friends to read and write. There is much hope for the future as these boys more and more let their lights shine in the dark places.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The Day-school in charge of Mr. Fraser has been kept 138 days of the year. The attendance has been large, and, during the last term, much more regular than in any previous year in the history of the Station. There has been an increasing interest among the pupils and a gratifying appearance of more thirst for knowledge. The largest attendance any one day was 195, and the average 133. The pupils have represented eighteen different subtribes of Bulu, beside one Fan and one Bene. An encouraging feature about the school has been the greater regularity of attendance, thus conducing to the continuity and force of the work. This improved attendance has been due not alone or chiefly to the better appreciation of school privileges, but to the restraints which were applied against needless absences, and to the fact that in the case of the last term of four months, no pay day to the boarders occurred until the end of the term. Another feature of the school, which we hope to be the beginning of a needed change, has been the attendance of more than half a dozen girls, some of them grown into womanhood. Several have attended regularly, and some have shown that they are by no means second to the boys in ability to learn. Another cheering tendency connected with the school has been the drift Christward. Forty-eight boys and one girl have been reading the Gospels or the Acts of the Apostles, and hearing them carefully explained. During the last term, fiftyseven of the pupils made a personal confession of Christ, and as evidence of moral improvement, such sins as stealing and lying have been almost unknown, while the general decorum and friendly mixing of boys of different tribes and shades of antecedents, have been good. It has been a joy to thus see so many of the leaders of the next generation stepping up and out of barbarism into the light and the life.

The Boarding-school has furnished the larger portion of the pupils of the Day-school. The average number of boarders has been seventy-eight.

Under Dr. Lippert's supervision the schoolboys cleared many acres of land, planted over six thousand plantains, eight thousand pineapples, half an acre of sweet cassada, an acre of sugarcane, and a large patch of bikabi, besides gathering two crops of corn from about six acres of land. As a result, not less than one-fourth of the food for 123 regular boarders who were present the last term was supplied from the place. This is not all, for much of the planting is of such a perment nature that it will produce for years with very little work and will save many dollars which otherwise would be spent in buying food for pupils and attendants. The boarders, as usual, have been buying all their food and clothing by service rendered, an accurate account being kept of the hours at work.

MEDICAL WORK.—The medical work has been carried through the year by Dr. Lippert, with little interruption, and has been valuable aid to school pupils, as well as a blessing to a large community. The number of separate cases was 1,400, number of treatments 6,570; receipts, converted into cash, $850.00; expenditures $164.78. The greater part of receipts have been from Government officials and traders. The diseases have been those usually found in this part of the tropics: fevers, ulcers and various intestinal troubles and skin diseases, predominating. Many minor operations were performed, such as lancing abscesses, sewing and dressing wounds, curetting ulcers and extracting teeth. There were four deaths, but in no case was medical aid asked for, until late in the progress of the case. The aim is to reach hearts with Gospel influence. Morning prayers have been conducted in the hospital by assistant, Mfu'u Zambe, and all patients, who were able, have been required to attend regularly. Several patients, before leaving the hospital declared their desire to keep God's commandments.

TRANSLATION WORK.—Mr. Fraser has translated into Bulu during the year the Books of Genesis, Exodus and Leviticus, portions of Foster's Story of the Bible and a catechism of 162 questions. All these translations have been used in type-written sheets.

The Station report closes:

Thus, the story of the Station for the year has been told, and yet the half has not been told of God's rich blessings which can not be put on paper, of subtle saving forces that have been set going, of the enlargement of the demands of the work, and of the pressing need for more workers to further clear the ground, sow the seed, and gather in the ripening sheaves. But thanks unto God, who hath thus far given us plenty to do and some strength to do it, and the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.

LOLODORF STATION.

The health of the other missionaries at the Station has been very good. We have had but little fever and the work has scarcely been interrupted by sickness. Besides Dr. and Mrs. Lehman, Mr. Salveter was at the Station during January and February, when he built the kitchen for Dr. Lehman's house, and also a few weeks in July. Mr. Dager spent the month of November at the Station, taking charge of the evangelistic work. The Station had to be closed during Mission Meeting last year while Dr. and Mrs. Lehman were at Elat and also from June 9th to August 1st, when they went to Batanga. The furlough of Dr. and Mrs. Lehman and the absence in America of Mrs. Dager on account of ill-health have now left Mr. Dager entirely alone.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The Sunday services have been of the usual cosmopolitan character, the average attendance being about 175. The talks given to the carriers on week days have reached many more people than our Sunday services. During the month of October, when a count was made of the carriers spoken to, the number was found to be 1,351, During November when Mr. Dager was with us he counted 1.111 carriers, who were spoken to in two weeks. The carriers passing Lolodorf on the Government road have been counted by the Governor and the number has been from 3,000 to 6,000 each month.

It should be remembered that most of these sleep in or around our palaver house which is located on the Government Road. We notice that when one talks to them regularly there are more who will stop at the palaver house for the night and come to hear the word. Probably those who hear tell their friends whom they meet and so these also stop and hear the Gospel. In the future there will probably be more from the fact that the Governor has selected three towns in Ngumba on the Government Road where have been built large palaver houses, and the caravans are supposed to stop at these places and not at any and every town along the road. Lolodorf has been selected as one of these places so that there may be opportunities to speak to many more in future months. These people belong largely to the tribes in the neighborhood of the Government Station in Yaonda, five or six days distant, while some are from two to three days beyond. The people from Bene pass this way as well and they receive the Gospel here for the first time, there being no work done among them. This Government Road is the only good path from northeast and east to the beach, and judging from the improvements that are being made the Government is evidently going to make it so good that people will pass this way in preference to any other.

The inquiry class has increased in numbers during the past year and though some have been dropped and suspended for various reasons, the year has been full of hope and good cheer. Weekly meetings have been held with this class and those added have been more from among the young men and women who are old enough to realize what is involved in coming to confess Christ. There are many who seem to be close to the kingdom and those who are in the class are talking to others and drawing people to Christ. Two young men in particular have been instrumental in leading others into the kingdom. Such opposition as being laughed and sneered at and being told they have become worthless is not a light thing for them and it is not popular to confess Christ here. Three have put away all but one wife, another has sent his medicines to us and says he will keep only one woman. Others are almost One woman recently came twenty-five miles to persuaded. say she wanted to be a Christian. Another, an old man with grey hair, has given up his medicines and women. One young man went to his old town to get the skull of his father from the bark box of his clan, and buried it. The lonely missionary says, "it does our hearts good to see the way the Gospel is taking hold of these people." One young man who has been around among the people a good deal says he thinks in the future many Ngumba will come to confess Christ and we feel that what he says is true.

ITINERATING.—Very little itinerating has been done this year. During Mission meeting Dr. Lehman started from Elat and spent ten days to the north and northeast, among the Bulu and Bene people. He passed one place where Dr. Good had been about nine years before, yet during all that time no other missionary had been over that road. There were many people living on the path and most of them gladly received the Word. Several asked "When are you coming again." He returned to Lolodorf and from there went to Malumba to visit some dwarfs. One short trip was made in November and a few day trips were taken about the Station. However, two companies from the inquiry class were sent out, each of which staid a month, and during that time they succeeded in reaching quite a number.

EDUCATIONAL.—The school work has been most promising. In past years there have been strikes on account of the language, but this year there have been older scholars in school so that the younger and more foolish ones have not been able to control the spirit of the others. There was a larger attendance than ever before and a more earnest desire on the part of the scholars to learn, while there have been more men and women in school. There have been five couples who have been more or less regular in attendance. The progress of some has been very satisfactory. The average attendance for the three terms was eighty. The school was in session thirty and one-half weeks. Total of girls and women enrolled the last term was twenty, but the average attendance was about half. Mrs. Lehman had charge of the school the first term and of the girls and women the last term. Thirteen began to read in the Testament the past year. Three of the boys assisted in the teaching. There were more day than boarding scholars, because there was only a little work for them to do.

The Dwarf work has neither been dropped nor forgotten. One young man has been in school eleven and a half weeks and has made commendable progress. The two boys who were with us a month, in 1900, have returned and report their people as desiring them to stay with the missionaries.

MEDICAL WORK.—The medical work has suffered somewhat for lack of attention. But fully as many as last year have been treated. The work is beginning to be known, more so that people from farther interior villages, as well as people from Bakoka avail themselves of the dispensary. The white people treated have been fewer because fewer live here now, there being only one factory man and the officers of the Government Station. However, about 740 marks have been taken in and eighty more are uncollected.

The Station report closes as follows:

The outlook for this year is brighter than ever before, for the following reasons: First—We are better acquainted than ever before with the people, and they are beginning to have more confidence in The non-Christian influence exerted by the white men before the Station was opened, as well as the influence of the rum traffic, have been hard to overcome; yet the people are beginning to understand the difference. Second—The inquiry class has eight or ten who are almost ready for church membership, among them several who have been instrumental in leading many to confess Christ. Several of these are young men who have given up something to be followers of Christ, and some have suffered persecution. All are more or less sneered and laughed at for their profession. Third—The number of carriers we are able to reach on their way to and from the beach. This is a large opportunity, and by improving it we may be able to do a great work in the future. Fourth-The school has better material in it on which to work. Many come to learn, because they want to become Christians and their earnestness stimulates others to Fifth—The larger part of the people around know of the Gospel, partially through the efforts of the missionaries, yet more largely through the efforts of the inquiry class, and many of them want to know the way more perfectly. Sixth—The opposition is a good thing for the members of the inquiry class in strengthening their purpose. As was said before, it is not popular for one to confess Christ, and some are kept back by husband or wife. Yet the power of the Gospel is steadily manifesting itself in spite of obstacles.

BENITO STATION.

At Benito, as at the other Stations, the work has suffered for want of an adequate missionary force. Mr. Hickman has been the only man residing at the Station throughout the year, though Mr. Menkel was present for a part of the time, erecting a new residence, which has been greatly needed. Mrs. De Heer and Mrs. Reutlinger have carried on the woman's work. All have enjoyed good health.

This has been the first full year under Spanish government. The relations with the officials have been pleasant, and our work has not been interfered with in any way.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—As Mr. Hickman was obliged to give most of his time to the care of the school, little evangelistic work could be done. However, he was able to make a visit to the island of Corisco, the cradle of the Mission, where our work is now under the charge of a native minister. He also made a trip of ten days, fifty miles north of Benito, visiting and encouraging the native workers at three of the out-stations and preaching to a large number of people, though the season of the year was not favorable for such a trip, as many of the men were away hunting elephants. native licentiate made several trips both north and south of the Station.

Mrs. De Heer and Mrs. Reutlinger held Thursday afternoon meetings for women in the adjacent villages and report encouraging results, with an average attendance of fifteen at each meeting.

The Benito Station field extends ninety miles along the coast, with the Station at about the central point. There are enough villages and out-stations to demand the entire time of one missionary for evangelistic work, but as it is, this field is being largely neglected, for the small Station force permits practically no work among the heathen villages and only by one visit a year to the out-stations. These out-stations with their native helpers need more frequent supervision and encouragement. The population is increasing here as elsewhere by the movement toward the coast of many people from the interio.

There are now five churches in the Benito Station field. During the year fifty-one were added to these churches on examination. A new plank church building was completed and dedicated during the year at Corisco, and the people of Evune are now collecting material for a new church in their village. These churches are entirely of native material and are largely paid for by the people themselves.

At the Benito Station Church, the average Sunday morning attendance has been 200, with an average of about ninety at the Sunday evening service and the Wednesday night prayermeeting. In the Sunday-school some of the young Christians have been used to advantage as teachers, sixteen of the seventeen teachers now being native Christians. About 100 children attend the Sunday-school.

The Catechumen Class now numbers forty-four members, twenty-one having joined during the year. These will be kept under instruction and observation for two years before being received into Church membership.

MEDICAL.—Though a medical missionary is supposed to be a part of the permanent force at Benito, as a matter of fact, this Station has never had the services of a missionary more than a few months at a time and then at intervals of years, furloughs and ill-health having sadly broken up the plans of the Board. Most of the medical work therefore has had to be done by Mrs. Reutlinger. It has been trying for her, for, of course, she could not undertake surgical cases, or diseases which were of a serious character. Many patients have come from distant places, including Corisco, only to meet with disappointment, because their needs were beyond the skill of any but a trained physician. But Mrs. Reutlinger has patiently and faithfully done the best she could to relieve the sufferers who come to the dispensary. She has had regular dispensary hours three days each week and has had from ten to fifteen cases each day. She did not feel at liberty to make the usual charges, as a regular physician might have done, but she received about $50 for the medicines she dispensed, some of this being paid in cash, but most of it in produce.

EDUCATIONAL.—Benito Station has seven schools, five of which received a little aid to enable them to keep a few boarders, as boarding pupils are the only ones in this part of Africa whose attendance can be made at all regular. The Benito Church has undertaken to support four boys in two of the schools. These schools combined have an enrollment of 100 pupils, eighty-two of whom are day-scholars and several boarders. Several times during the year a stampede has been caused, by the efforts of the government officials to arrest a man for some offense, the effort usually causing all the people of his tribe to flee to the bush, taking their children with them. Several times the mere rumor of such a contemplated arrest has caused such an exodus.

The boys' school has been in the care of Mr. Hickman, assisted by a native teacher. The attendance has ranged from sixty-four to twenty-eight, with an average of fifty-three. Twenty-eight boys learned to read during the year. As usual the boys worked two hours each day for their food, while many did extra work for clothes or school material. Mr. Hickman tried a new plan this year to promote self-support, by having the boys make palm oil and collecting palm kernels from the many nut palm trees growing on the Mission property. sold to the traders twenty-four gallons of palm oil and 170 pounds of palm kernels. The effort was a success, giving the boys more work, particularly on rainy days, and receiving for the product ten boxes of salt, two papers of fish hooks, five bars of lead, and goods to the value of about $18.50 and eight cents in money. It is evident that to make a school self-supporting in this way, the work would have to be conducted on a large scale and shipments would have to be made directly to Europe or America, as otherwise the middle men would absorb all the profits. But such shipments could not be made, unless a missionary took out a trader's license at the cost of 50 francs a month, and this together with freight charges and other expenses, would make the enterprise of doubtful expediency, especially as shipments in large quantities would require the entire time of one or more missionaries. However, the five acres of corn planted and tended by the boys are needed for the food supply of the school itself, while considerable manual labor by the boys is required to keep the Mission premises in order, in this land of exuberant vegetation and to raise the other food supplies necessary for the school and the missionaries.

Mrs. De Heer and Mrs. Reutlinger have had charge of the girls' school, which has had an enrollment of fifty-three, of whom thirty-two are boarders. A larger number applied for admittance, but could not be received, as the missionaries were obliged to use part of the girls' dormitory for a store room, while the new Mission residence was being built. During the year sixteen girls learned to read. The girls, like the boys, are required to work a certain number of hours each day for their food. They make most of their own clothes and do other sewing also, the sewing department being in charge of Mrs. Menkel. Their work is very neat. Mrs. Reutlinger planted some cocoa trees a few years ago, in order to aid in maintaining the school, and this year she was able to sell $12 worth of cocoa. This may prove a more profitable crop than palm oil, especially as it requires much less time to prepare it for sale at the factories. The spirit shown by the pupils in both the boys' and girls' schools has been excellent. The children have shown a willingness to learn and obey the rules. Eight boys and one girl joined the catechumen class during the year, several other of both sexes being already members, most of the other girls being small and just beginning to read. Three of the school children were received into church membership on examination.

LITERARY.—Mrs. De Heer has been engaged in various literary duties throughout the year, the most important being the rewriting of the "Confession of Faith," according to the latest spelling.

BATANGA STATION.

In the beginning of 1902, Batanga Station numbered on its roll, present on the field, eight missionaries, four men and four women; and three members absent in the United States. But the number present was soon reduced; so that practically, the actual working force during the year has been but four.

On February 12, Mr. and Mrs. Menkel went to Benito on Mr. Menkel's errand for the erection of the new Bolondo house. With the exception of two short returns here by Mr. Menkel, they have remained at Benito all the year.

In the middle of April, Mr. Ford went to the French Government Hospital at Libreville, for a serious inflammation of the eye. Deriving but little benefit he returned a month later, and, with Mrs. Ford, left on May 14, to seek relief in the United States.

Since that date, the roll has consisted of R. M. Johnston, M. D., and Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. W. C. Gault and Rev. Dr. Nassau. But it would not be true to history nor just to a brother beloved to omit record of the service rendered by Rev. W. M. Dager, of Elat Station; who, resigning his right to accompany Mrs. Dager and infant to the United States, felt himself well enough to remain on the field, and generously stayed for five months as a member of Batanga Station, cheerfully and efficiently assisting in its financial and other work.

On October 10, we welcomed the return of Rev. F. G. and Mrs. Knauer, who promptly resumed their accustomed post. We are expecting a similar privilege, a month hence, for Miss I. A. Nassau, now on her way from the United States.

It is with satisfaction that we record also the presence of little ones, of whom the Saviour has said that it is not the will of the Father that any one shall perish: The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Menkel, born January 23, and went back to God. February 12. The infant daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Johnston, born July 8; and the twin daughters of Rev. and Mrs. Knauer arrived with them from the United States.

THE WORK.—Our record of work is a distressing onc. The four who remained could not do much in going forward. To stand still is equivalent to going backward. The bitter disappointment caused by the failure of promised re-inforcements, not only depressed ourselves, but actually exasperated the natives. Especially in the case of an appointed missionary, who, we know was really on his way to us. We gladly told the natives that, on a certain steamer would arrive a teacher who would fulfill their demands for instruction. When he failed to come, the boys of the Boarding School broke out in open rebellion, the faces of native friends hardened against us; and a few dared to utter the thought that existed in the hearts of many of them, "Do missionaries lie?"

Boarding Schools.—In the Boys' Boarding School, Mrs. Menkel's domestic affairs allowed her but little time or strength for German instruction; the effort to supplement this by two monitor lads was imperfect and perfunctory. After her departure to Benito, Dr. Johnston endeavored, to the extent of his ability, to fill the gap. But, since the school boys' rebellion, their school has remained closed for six months. By the return of Mr. Knauer much is hoped for, in his ability to supply the demand for German. This, which at first was only a requisition of the German Government as an alternative to English, is now insisted on by the natives themselves. They see in it an open door to profitable employment in German Bureaus as clerks and interpreters and household servants. They have even found that before a magistrate's tribunal, their cause is often at the play of the ill-will or cupidity of the court interpreter; and they are anxious to be able to state their cases themselves. The German Roman Catholics, right along-side of us, give instruction in German all the time, in perfect speech. What little our school was able to do on German lines compared most unfavorably for us against the Roman Catholics.

The Girls' Boarding School that was commenced in January, with large hopes, under the care of Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Ford, closed, for several reasons; and has not been reopened, except during one month, on an effort made by Mrs. Gault.

Out of this dismal view stands with comforting brightness the success of the day-schools. This department was in the hands of Mrs. W. C. Gault, but it has been shared in more or less by the other three members on the Station. From Plantation, twenty miles north, to Lolabe, fifteen miles south, there are ten different day-schools, each with one teacher. Three of these are at the Station, and directly under white control. The other seven are in native villages where the people themselves have provided the school houses, where nothing is given of food or clothing to the pupils; and the Mission spends for each teacher's wages only the small sum of from $3 to $4 per month. Most of these teachers also hold morning and evening public worship. Some of them, at points distant from churches, hold Sabbath services. Much is hoped from all our schools for the furnishing of intelligent future church members.

MEDICAL WORK.—Various causes prevented the success its importance demands. Dr. Johnston's time was much broken by his having to take up the Station treasurership left by Mr. Ford, and the Boarding School left by Mrs. Menkel. These and other interests have largely occupied his time. There has been a marked falling off in the number of people coming for medicine to the dispensary and to the hospital for treatment.

CHURCH WORK.—Dr. Nassau had not only the regular services of his own Batanga Church, but he had charge also of the session of the Kribi Church, eight miles north, during the absence of its appointed Moderator, Rev. F. G. Knauer; and after the death of Rev. Itongalo, of the Session of the Ubinji Church, twenty-eight miles south. The amount of discipline necessary in all these three churches was such that the joy of the few additions has been subordinated to the surgeon's satisfaction of duty, who sees in the pain of excision to-day expectation of life saved to-morrow. These churches have been invaded by Polygamy. A failure to comply with Presbytery's recommendation that, of those who have had time and opportunity, ability to read God's Word in their native tongue should be expected as a pre-requisite to baptism, has filled the rolls with a mass of ignorance and uncivilization that contents itself with a low standard of Christian duty.

We look with some anxiety for what the new year may bring; but trust that whatever may be the stumbling of the oxen, God's Hand shall uphold His own Covenant Ark.

The Canton Mission begins its report in a major key. The Board cannot do better than to give its introduction entire, as follows:

Taking a wide survey of the field occupied by the Canton Mission we cannot approach the completion of another year's work without feelings of sincere gratitude. The outlook at the close of our last meeting was somewhat depressing, owing to the complications that might result in attempting to exact indemnification for losses in the Boxer movement. These apprehensions have proved groundless, and we have had an undisturbed year for the prosecution of work in all departments. The chapels that were looted and destroyed have been rebuilt and refurnished. The new chapels are in all respects better than those that were destroyed. A fine chapel has been erected a short distance from the suburbs of Canton by Dr. Beattie for the benefit chiefly of the lepers who reside in that vicinity. At No Foo, in Mr. Fulton's field, a new and commodious chapel has been built by Christians with funds chiefly from San Francisco at a cost of $3,000, to take the place of the old chapel which we were forced to abandon some years ago. We note with thankfulness the completion of the Mission houses at Lien Chow and Yeung Kong, and rejoice that after long years of patient waiting our missionaries are in possession of comfortable houses.

The most conspicuous and far-reaching events of the year's work were the dedication of the David Gregg Hospital and the laying of the foundation of the Medical College for Women, which is now nearing completion. The funds for the erection of the Hospital were supplied chiefly by the Lafayette Avenue Church, supplemented by the gifts of a noble donor whose name cannot be published. The hospital is full of patients and the private rooms all occupied. Energetic effort will be made to make the hospital self-supporting from the start. The College has a medical class of thirteen, with many applicants for ad-

We would not fail to record our deep gratitude that during a period when cholera and plague were carrying away thousands, the lives of the members of the Mission and of our native helpers and the lives of thousands of Christians were, with few exceptions, so wonderfully preserved. In all of our out-stations there are bright prospects, and we look forward with new zeal to what we believe will be the most fruitful year in the history of our work.

Thus far these expectations have been fulfilled, Dr. Beattie reporting fifty-four baptisms in two months succeeding the Annual Meeting, and Dr. Fulton two hundred and sixty-four during three months.

The death of Mrs. Patton was mentioned in last year's report, it having occurred before the Board's report was made. The health of the Mission during the year has been good in the main, though Mr. Patton, who, in a return to this country in order to bring his motherless child, was for some months detained on account of depleted strength. He has, however, resumed his work at Yeung Kong.

Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Boggs and Miss Butler returned to the field during the year. Miss Hattie Noyes and Miss Eleanor Chesnut, M. D., are still in this country. The Board has reinforced the Mission by the appointment of Rev. E. M. Scheirer, Rev. A. J. Fisher and Dr. Paul Todd.

CANTON STATION.

CHURCHES.—In speaking of the church at Canton City, Dr. Beattie writes:

Several months ago we decided that the time had come to take down the "middle wall of partition" between the men and the women. This was done and the result has been much better order in the services and the attendance has steadily increased. We begin to wonder why we ever tolerated such a division. I hear that the Hospital Church is soon to follow our lead. This certainly marks a change. It is only a matter of time before other missions will follow.

The progress of the First Church in Canton has been most marked. It has entered upon the possession of a commodious house of worship, known as the "Theodore Cuyler Chapel." The audiences in this structure have averaged about 250, the Sunday gathering largely from the immediate neighborhood, and frequently the women's side of the house is crowded with hearers. A large reading-room on the first floor seems to be appreciated and well patronized. The church has become entirely self-supporting and is expected to take a generous part in propagating the Gospel elsewhere in the city. Thirty adults have been added to the membership, during the year, and many inquirers have been enrolled. About 125 women and children are in attendance in the Sunday-school. The teachers and students in the Medical College aid in the maintenance of this school.

The San Ui Church, though affected unfavorably by the prevalence of plague and cholera, has shown steady growth. From this time on it is expected to be self-supporting. Thirty-eight members have been added on examination.

The Tong Ha Chapel is expected to erect a new church for which some subscriptions have already been made. Missionary work is carried on by the native Christians in an adjacent community. Additions, twenty-five.

At the San Ning Church there has been a very large increase in the attendance of women. The audience room already demands enlargement. The people contemplate enlarging their chapel, and building accommodations for a school. The preacher is supported by funds from Chinese in America and is not specially efficient.

The Chik Hom Church has a new chapel and a colony therefrom is contemplated to be established at Tsung Shu.

No Foo is a centre for the work of many villages. It has a fine chapel with preaching on market days, an annexed building with rooms for various forms of Christian work. Eighty-three communicants have been added during the year.

Under the pressure by Government officials and others, there is a mixture of motives as apparent in some of the applicants for baptism in those communities, and often among church members, but plans have been made for conserving the church membership and efforts will be made assidnously for maintaining the purity of the church.

EVANGELISTIC.—Thirty chapels and out-station preaching places are maintained in connection with the Canton churches. These are well located for reaching a wide extent of country, and each is the centre of a number of villages.

At the out-station Lai Chi Hong a neat chapel was dedicated in January, 1902, having been built by one man at the cost of $700 Mex, and was deeded to the Board. The mother of this generous donor was baptized at the first communion service held in the chapel. The people of an adjacent village conceived a prejudice against the building as being injurious to "fung shui." and partly looted the chapel, damaging the building and also beating the aged mother who had been baptized. The local magistrate took prompt measures and compelled the guilty parties to confess their wrong and pay all damages to property. There are now many inquirers in the village. The donor of the chapel also supports a school which is maintained within its walls.

At Wan Kung is another chapel, valued at $1,200 Mexican, the gift of one man. Nineteen persons were baptized in this church during the year. A school teacher who can also hold religious services on Sunday is being sought after.

At Yan Ping the native Christians have subscribed nearly $300 Mexican for a new chapel, and a church is soon to be organized. Dr. Fulton's personal report of his work among these thirty out-stations is full of details of the deepest interest which would be published here but for the limitation of space. Evidences are abundant of an earnest spirit prevailing among the great majority of those who seek to know the truth. Individuals here and there are giving large amounts for the erection of chapels and school accommodations.

At Chik Hom the chapel was looted three different times, and the preacher forced to flee. Persistent efforts aided by friends in California, at length gained the day. One man in the community advanced money to purchase a large shop in which services could be held. $3,000 Mexican was contributed by the Chinese in Chik Hom and in California. Dr. Fulton speaks in terms of gratitude of Dr. Mary W. Niles for frequent professional and evangelistic visits made to his field, and the lasting good accomplished.

At No Foo a school with fifty-two pupils is entirely supported by Chinese Christians in America.

Dr. Fulton has held fifty-six communion services during the year, traveled 2,000 miles in steam launch and native boats and 320 miles over land, and baptized 314 adults and 43 infants. Seven new chapels have been built under his supervision. Contributions in this field amounted to $564 Mexican. $3,000 was contributed by Chinese in the United States.

During the year six organized churches have been under the care of Dr. Beattie. Twenty-one centres for Bible study have been occupied, only six of the more important being regarded as church centres. One hundred and ninety-eight adults and twenty-six infants have been baptized by Dr. Beattie during the year. The Lord's Supper has been administered quarterly at all these six centres. Interest has been most encouraging as shown by attendance and general fidelity. Several hundreds of applications for baptism have been made, not all of which could be accepted. Though some dismissals have occurred under discipline, satisfaction is expressed with the great majority. An increased liberality has been shown, and a general desire to secure church homes. In all cases the opening of a new chapel has given increased impulse.

In the Third Church in Canton City, good faithful preaching has been carried on with Bible-class and Sunday-school, the latter taught by Dr. Niles.

Shek Lung Church has five places of meeting for the accommodation of its scattered members. At one of these places a new church organization will soon be formed, and for a new building the members have subscribed on an average over $25 each. The Y. P. S. C. E. has been maintained with good attendance.

The Liu Po Church has given more encouragement than ever before. Over a hundred persons have applied for admission and forty have been baptized. These are from different villages. Most of them are farmers and though unable to read, appear to have been well instructed.

At Yeung Mui the members are Hakkas, and most of them very illiterate. Services have been fairly well attended.

At Pun Fa, the church has not fully recovered from the losses by removal during the troubles of 1900.

At a leper village described by Dr. Beattie, services have been held with about 300 in attendance—one-third of whom were kepers. A new chapel, more commodious and better ventilated, was opened for them in July last. A good work is being done for these sad and neglected people. The people have shown marked liberality, one poor woman who had laid by ten dollars for her funeral expenses, brought the money as her contribution for the new church, saying: "The Lord will at last see that I am buried all right."

At Liu Po the inquirers have numbered over 100. At some of the communion services it has been impossible to examine all who applied. Numbers of villages have asked for the missionary and his assistant to come and teach the Bible. Missionaries cannot with their present force overtake the work Forty have been baptized, scores of others have applied.

At Tai Tong a chapel was built during the year. People gave the ground and the members carried a good part of the material on their backs for miles. There was no cost to the Board. When the chapel was opened the village elders, non-Christians, entertained the believers who came from a distance, some of these elders are now inquirers. A Chinese Christian returning from Sidney, last year, has given great help at Tai Fau and Tung Run. All the expense of the chapel has been borne by Christians. Thirteen have been haptized, one man over eighty years of age. At the last communion service, being unable to attend, he sent this message: "Pastor, I cannot co... to the Lord's Supper to-day; I am weak. I will remember you in my heart."

chapel, expecting to realize about $3000. The chief persecutor in this community, a graduate of the First Degree at the competitive examinations, has not only become friendly but is full of zeal for his Master. He has given up his business, and is now a student in the Fati Normal School, preparing himself to preach the Gospel. As to his past persecution, he says, like Paul, "I did it ignorantly in unbelief."

Dr. Beattie has conducted over 250 services during the year, administered the Lord's Supper seventy-six times, examined about 340 candidates, baptized 198 adults and twenty-six infants, traveled over 1,020 miles by boat, 260 miles on foot and 450 by bicycle.

The total contributions of these fields, including two lots valued at $75, has been $1,209.

The Board invites the special attention of all readers to these detailed reports of the out-station work of Drs. Fulton and Beattie. Perhaps nowhere can there be found a more striking illustration of the value and blessedness of foreign missionary work among the ignorant and superstitious populations of a great Empire. Many have been the lootings and the destruction of property and the persecution of Christians in this country district, but all these are now more than equalled by the spectacle of churches rebuilt with funds given by the Chinese communities. New chapels have been given by individuals, or by self-denying church members, aided by the Chinese residents in California, Australia or New Zealand, and that in spite of the persecution which in these so-called Christian lands is still visited on the men of the Mongolian race.

EDUCATION.—The education work at Fati, under the charge of Dr. H. V. Noyes and Rev. J. J. Boggs, has passed the most successful year in its history, though Mr. Boggs has been absent on furlough during the large part of the year. One hundred and ten enrollments are reported in spite of the prevalence of cholera. Two deaths among the students are reported as the result of this disease. Grateful mention is made by Dr. Noves of the valuable professional services of Dr. Charles C. Selden, and also of Dr. Ho, a native physician, educated by the late Dr. Kerr. Sixteen students have left the institution during the year, having received diplomas for completed courses of study. These are all expected to enter active service as preachers or teachers. One of the graduates of the year 1900 has been employed in Hawaii and installed pastor of the Chinese church in Honolulu. Ten students united with the church on profession, and seven others are placed on the list of inquirers.

The "True Light Seminary" for women and girls reports an enrollment of 100 girls and fifty women. Heathen mothers appear to have recovered from the fright of the Boxer movement, and are still showing their appreciation of these educational privileges. Ten women and thirteen girls have united with the church, "twenty-three new lights shining in as many homes." No case of plague or cholera has appeared in the school.

The report written by Miss Lewis records with gratitude the readiness of Dr. Mary Niles to attend calls on account of illness at any hour of the day or night, her readiness in this respect relieving the teachers of anxiety. In a few cases where further treatment was necessary it was kindly provided by the Hospital.

Miss Elliott's work, in addition to her language study, is mentioned with appreciation, 135 days having been devoted to the service of the school during the year. Five day-schools and chapels for women are reported. These have been seriously interfered with by cholera and plague.

In connection with the work of Bible readers, an interesting case is mentioned of the conversion of a Buddhist nun, who has since proved a faithful helper in a day-school.

Dr. Niles, in addition to her medical work, has carried on in Canton and at various out-stations an extended work with the aid of Miss Elliott, and the volunteer worker, Miss Durham. With the aid also of various Bible women, services have been held in homes and at other places of meeting, and a general spirit of inquiry has been developed among women. Dr. Niles urges the importance of this out-station work for women whose opportunities seem almost unlimited.

She has also had charge of numerous day-schools, including the School for the Blind, with an enrollment varying from twenty-eight to thirty-three. Dr. Niles acknowledges with gratitude, contributions made by friends in China and this country toward the support of this work.

Mrs. H. V. Noyes gives an interesting report of the varied work carried on during the year, at Po Tai Shui, a Canton suburb, where a day-school has been maintained, and at which women gather from day to day for religious instruction. Sickness in the community produced some disturbance, growing out of the superstitions of the people but finally confidence was restored, and Christian work continued as before. A woman who had been in Dr. Fulton's hospital gave a new impulse to the work upon her return, greatly benefited in health.

Mrs. Noyes has continued her good work of translating Dr. Richard Newton's sermons for children. She has also given more or less instruction to the boys of the Fati Training School.

Mrs. Kerr gives an interesting report of what is known as the Hospital Day-school. Of the pupils of this school, first opened in 1887, a hundred have been baptized on profession. In spite of the opposition of relatives and friends, a larger number than usual have given evidence of conversion. One of Mrs. Kerr's day-schools had been closed on account of the illness of the teacher, but the pupils thereupon sent a protest and asked for a continuance of the school, and agreed to pay for the support of a teacher. When given to understand that Christian doctrine would be taught as before, they acquiesced in this, and at the morning opening, each pupil reads aloud a verse of Scripture, after which the teacher engages in prayer.

Another day-school is maintained at the Refuge for the Insane established by the lamented husband of Mrs. Kerr. This is attended in part by friends of the insane patients, and although efforts have been made by heathen opposers to break it up, the school has continued to flourish, though with moderate numbers. Two of the pupils of the last year are now in the Fati Training School.

Mrs. Kerr gives an interesting report of the Refuge for the Insane. The admissions during the year were sixty-seven—dismissed, fifty-seven, of whom twenty-three were cured, seven improved, ten not improved, seventeen died. One patient was not only cured, but was converted to Christ.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Swan gives the following statistics for the hospital during the year: Out-patient visits, 21,013; inpatients, 1,912; surgical operations, 2,005. Of the religious work carried on in connection with the hospital, Dr. Swan gives the following interesting account:

The past year has been one of uninterrupted service and the daily teaching and preaching has occupied a prominent place in the work of the hospital. The morning services have been well attended by all the patients who are able to leave the wards, as well as by many who come from outside the hospital, the chapel at times being crowded. During the year the services have been conducted in turn by those who are engaged in the work of the hospital. In both the men's and women's departments the regular teaching and preaching has been continued on the three out-patient days in the week, and the many thousands who visit have abundant opportunity to hear the Gospel.

Each evening in the week either preaching service, prayer-meeting, or Bible-class is conducted in the hospital, and many of the patients become regular inquirers. Out of about twenty-six applicants, eighteen were received into the Second Church through the direct work of the hospital. Others deeply impressed have returned home. Patients often show that these impressions are real. Not infrequently immediately after the operation for cataract, where blindness has existed perhaps for years, the first exclamation as she or he count the surgeon's fingers, is: "I thank the Heavenly Father," or, "I thank Jesus."

Intimately associated with the hospital and located in connection with it is the work of the Second Presbyterian Church, of which Rev. Kwan Loi is the pastor. He also takes an active part in the evangelistic work of the hospital.

One new feature of church work has been the frequent visitation of shops or business places by various members of the church. This is done either by the pastor or one of the elders, generally during the evening after business hours, when many of the neighbors gather to learn about the Christian doctrine. Excellent opportunities have thus been afforded and more invitations to hold these meetings have been received than could be accepted.

The second year of the existence of the Pearson Dispensary shows an increase of 1411 patients over last year, making a total of 3,152.

On April 3, the David Gregg Hospital for women and children, built by liberal gifts of the Lafayette Avenue Church, Brooklyn, was opened. This commodious institution has accommodation for sixteen in-patients. It is thoroughly ventilated, and having three stories facilitates the classification of patients. All patients have paid the required fees and are from different denominations of Christians as well as from among the heathen.

Full appreciation is shown of the liberality of the Lafayette Avenue Church in the annual observance of Dr. Gregg's birthday as a holiday, and the Sabbath next to it as "A Hospital Day." By the gift of an individual whose name is not to be known, a college for the medical training of women has been established in connection with the hospital and thirteen students are already at work. With two exceptions these are all Christians, and one of the two has expressed a desire to become such. It is difficult to estimate the value of the work so auspiciously begun.

Another enterprise connected with this hospital and medical college is the opening of a training school for nurses. The need of this has been urged not only by foreigners, but by intelligent natives in Hong Kong and Canton. The Mission report speaks with gratitude of a gift of Mrs. Chas. Turner, President of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of Philadelphia. of a sum of money needed for the erection of a building for this training school, and also of the fact that Mrs. David Gregg, of Brooklyn, is providing for the training of a nurse who shall take charge of this branch of work.

Through Mrs. Fulton a new organ was presented to the church and Sunday-school. Mrs. Fulton holds a prayer meeting for the women and visits as time and strength admit among the wards of the hospital.

Dr. Niles' medical report gives the summary of statistics as follows:—Patients in attendance, 3,606; operations, 202; visits at home, 312; operations at home, 35.

The largest part of Dr. Niles' work has been reported

LIEN CHOW STATION.

The Lien Chow Station expresses gratitude for the preservation of life and health of the missionaries during the year. Mr. Edwards who in past months had suffered more or less illness, has improved in strength and is enjoying full service. Sadness is expressed at the death of the leading native preacher at this Station, one whose place it is difficult to fill.

The churches of Lien Chow, Kang Hau and Lum Mo have all been under the oversight of Mr. Edwards, who during the year has been the only clerical missionary at the Station. Gradual but encouraging growth is reported in all these churches.

The Lien Chow Church has two elders, Dr. Machle and a Chinese layman, who have been appointed during the year. Mrs. Machle and Mrs. Edwards are engaged jointly in the maintenance of a Sabbath-school at Lien Chow and another at Sam Kong, which is ten miles away. Dr. Machle superintends a man's Sabbath-school with sixty in attendance. young native preacher, a graduate of the Fati School in Canton, has been called to take charge of the Hunanese work. The Lien Chow Church, in addition to its own work among Cantonese and Hakka, is extending its influence in Hunan, at Lum Mo and Ka Wa. The latter place has petitioned Canton Presbytery for the organization of a church, and has secured a building as a place of worship. The Lum Mo Church also are taking steps for the building of a chapel. As there are many Hunanese in Lien Chow, pains are taken to train them for work, among their own people over the border. The fact that a vigorous little church is already established in Southern Hunan, gives hope of connecting the lines of influence between these points and the Hunan Mission stations further north on the Siang River.

At Sam Kong a new feature has been introduced into the Sabbath-school, having the men and women sit together during the opening and closing services. This has broken down the barrier of old superstition. Most of the communicants received into the church membership are from either the Boys' School or the School for Girls. Thus the young element is a livelier impulse to the work of evangelization and promises well for the future.

EVANGELISTIC.—Considering the extreme limits of the Station in its missionary force, gratifying work has been done in the out-station evangelization by the missionaries of both sexes, and by the few native helpers employed. The great strategic advantage of the Lien Chow Station lies in its central position in a widespread and very destitute field with many villages and hamlets which should be reached by the Gospel. The great aim and the earnest prayer of the Mission and the Board and the Church should be that these and other places may radiate far more widely into the darkness with the light of the Gospel. Four Bible women have been employed during the year.

EDUCATIONAL.—A well-ordered and flourishing men and boys' training and day-school has been conducted by Mr. Edwards with a full amount of religious instruction and Christian influence. The average attendance has been thirty. The Girls' School established by Miss Johnston before her departure for America has been maintained under the supervision of Mrs. Machle, who residing ten miles distant can only make occasional visitations. The average attendance is seventeen. There are six day-schools.

MEDICAL.—The strenuous effort and heavy care connected with this department can well be imagined when it is stated that cholera has claimed over 4,000 victims in and around Lien Chow. The wards in the hospital have been constantly crowded with applicants, and hundreds who could not be admitted, have obtained advice as to the use of the medicine, the necessary precautions to prevent the spread of the disease, hygienic care, diet, etc. Every effort has been made to mitigate the sufferings and stay the progress of death. At the same time our missionaries have spoken words of instruction and comfort as opportunity offered to the sad and despairing masses who sought relief.

The completion of two houses for missionaries was opportune, as their removal from parts of the hospital which they had been compelled to occupy was most timely, thus increasing the accommodations afforded for patients.

The Women's Hospital.—This had continued to be under the care of Dr. Chesnut, until her return home on furlough. When she left, the people showed their gratitude by presenting her with a complimentary banner.

Altogether the medical work of Lien Chow has had abundant evidences of appreciation. When Dr. Machle entered his new house the people were seized by a general impulse to celebrate the occasion. Various presents were given by the grate ful populace.

The statistics of Dr. Machle's work are as follows: Ou patients, 3,824; in-patients, 394; surgical operations, 109; visited in home, 41; seen on itineration, 620.

Statistics of Dr. Chesnut's work: Out-patients, 1,984; in patients, 192; surgical operations, 35; visited in homes, 9; see on itineration, 246.

YEUNG KONG STATION.

The report of Yeung Kong Station speaks cheeringly a follows:

Thousands have come directly or indirectly under the influence of the Gospel. Especially has this been true of the Ko Chan prefecture where almost whole villages have expressed a desire to come into the church. In several places halls have been offered free of rent for chapels. And in one market town a shop has been fitted up for preaching services. Two places have offered to pay the salary of a helpe but on account of the lack of native workers we have not been able the enter this open door. This shows the widespread spirit of inquire abroad and affords great opportunity for witnessing for the truth.

The members of the Yeung Kong Station have been more or less occupied during the year with the necessary planning and labor of building two houses to take the place of the uncomfortable and unwholesome Chinese quarters, whose privations they have so long suffered. This has interfered more or less with the evangelistic out-station work which seems so auspicious and promising. Tender expressions of sorrow appear in the report at the death of Mrs. Patton just when she was hoping to occupy the new house which had been to her arobject of so much planning and cherished hope.

CHURCHES.—In the Yeung Kong Church unusual activity has been shown. Nine members of the C. E. Society have united in pledging two dollars per month for the support of one of their number who is preparing himself for Christian work. A training class has also been established for the training of the church officers in preparation for their official duties. The strong opposition taken against ancestral worship was significant. The subject was freely discussed and condemned by the Chinese themselves.

The Shui Lung Church has raised $360 toward building a chapel in addition to raising one-half their pastor's salary. Thirty-seven communicants were received during the year. Evangelistic work has been carried on at three principal points connected with Shui Lung. Special mention is made of the work at Mui Luk where thousands have come to the chapel during the year. Fifty dollars have been raised by local members to repair their chapel. Efforts are being made also to raise money for the new church building. Woman's work has received considerable attention and has reported much encouragement. Some of the women have endured a good deal of persecution, and a majority of them are from heathen families and villages. An interesting class of inquirers has been under regular instruction. In addition to regular contributions for chapel, rent, and current expenses, a special offering was made on Christmas day, amounting to over four dollars for famine sufferers in the North. The Bible Woman employed by the Yeung Kong Station, has carried on a wide range of faithful preaching and teaching among the women of the city and surrounding villages. The opening of a dispensary has given opportunity also for reaching heathen women.

The loss of Mrs. Patton from the Mission Station has been severely felt in the department of woman's work. Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Dr. Dobson have done what they could for the great spiritual need of their sex.

MEDICAL WORK.—The excellent surgical treatment performed by Dr. Dobson after his return from furlough in 1901, exerted a very favorable influence in opening the way for medical and spiritual work. Much of the Doctor's time has been occupied necessarily in the building of houses, so that it has sometimes been necessary to see patients in the evening, dinner having often been omitted in the pressure of work. The dispensary work has been steadily increasing, patients sometimes coming forty or fifty miles for aid. The Gospel is preached to the patients while waiting to take their turn. The Forman Memorial Hospital, a gift from the First Presbyterian Church, of Jersey City, was formally opened in October Many patients had been waiting for surgical treatment before the opening of the wards.

In the Spring, Mission property was in great peril owing to a superstitious notion that a prevailing drought had been brought about by the presence of the missionaries. There was every appearance of a coming outbreak when the magistrate of the city interposed, corrected the false impressions of the people and compelled them to keep the peace.

The Mission was reinforced by the appointment of the Rev. and Mrs. Harrison K. Digitized by Google

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

We, the Chinese Christian members of all the Protestant churches of Shanghai, wish to form ourselves into a Society to be known as

The Chinese Christian Union."

The object of our Union is to bring together frequently the members of all the Chinese Protestant churches for prayer and supplication to our Heavenly Father on behalf of ourselves and our beloved countrymen, and to remind ourselves constantly of our imperative duty to God and our obligation to our race.

It is, therefore, high time for us (Chinese Christians), as true followers of our Lord and Master Jesus Christ, to be up and doing. For we have no more time to lose. He has done all that was possible for us in giving His precious life upon the shameful cross as a holy sacrifice and ransom for our sins; and we, on our part, should try to do our duty by helping one another to live a better and higher Christian life and to assist our Western Christian brethren to carry out the command of our risen Saviour and Redeemer, who says, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

Mr. McIntosh summarizes the prospectus of the Union as follows:

(1) A preamble which speaks of China's sad condition and how Chinese Christians ought to "be up and doing," and how this Society is only started to preach the Gospel to "our Chinese brethren." In II there is (1) the hope that all Chinese Christians will unite in one army; (2) will learn the meaning of duty of Christianity, and (3) specially urge the duty of spreading the Gospel in China. Under III there is (1) the wish for all like-minded in Shanghai to unite; (2) a call to united prayer for Christians and non-Christians; (3) select a committee room; (4) print a newspaper making clear this idea. Under IV there is the suggestion to select a good and earnest man to go to important centres to explain this idea; (2) use subscriptions in sending a preacher chosen of God into the interior of China; (3) send a statement to important officials, explaining the relation of Christians to government; (4) is a general conclusion.

The storm of 1900 has been succeeded by at least a temporary lull, in which there has been a great deal of general interest in Christianity, with a growing conviction on the part of many of the people that Christianity is sure to prevail. When asked to give his reason for this conviction, a Confucian scholar in Nanking replied to Mr. Williams that it was impossible that the Church should not prevail, quoting in support the classical saying, "Ten thousand men cannot budge one right principle."

NINGPO STATION.

The number of organized churches remains the same as it has been for some years, ten.

The services of the various churches are conducted much as formerly. In the forenoon there is the regular preaching and in the afternoon they take more the form of a Sabbath-school; the pastor teaching from the pulpit, calling on various ones to read certain texts or portions of Scripture, and questioning them as to their understanding and knowledge of the subject taught.

Sixty-seven have been received into the churches during the year, and their contributions have amounted to $1013 Mexican

The saddest thing, perhaps, which we have to report this year i the case of disciplining a pastor, Mr. Yi, formerly of Zong-yu.

The Presbytery had on several occasions sent committees to examine into charges of his misuse of his pastoral position to carry or lawsuits, but no evidence could be secured on which to convict him Things went from bad to worse until this spring, when there came to hand conclusive evidence that the day after returning from Synote where he had acted on a committee which drew up a pastoral letter against lawsuit business, he used the name of the church to securithe release of opium which the authorities had confiscated on the grounds that it was smuggled.

grounds that it was smuggled.

A meeting of Presbytery was called to try the case. At first is was feared that the pastors, whether from fear or other motives, were rather disinclined to go into the matter thoroughly, and many were the prayers put up by the Station that these men would not thinly of themselves, but of God's glory and the purification of the church We are grateful to say that our prayers were answered, for they went into the case with all brotherly kindness but unflinchingly, and felt compelled, for the sake of the good name of the church, to sus pend him from the ministry for a year.

ITINERATING WORK.—

Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker made a tour of all the Stations, extending over the greater part of two months. The usual series of evangelistic services were held, assisted by pastors Yiang and Zi in turn, and Mr. Shoemaker rejoices to report that each year shows a better appreciation of these attempts to lead the people into a deeper understanding of spiritual truth.

Mr. Fitch and Mr. Kepler also made tours and Bands of native evangelists, going out two and two, also spent part of the autumn in various districts of the field; a special effort being made to reach the places not yet touched by the Gospel. One of these bands spent a few weeks in a large market town among the hills and found many willing listeners.

Miss Cunningham's comprehensive and thorough itinerations were continued. Of one in March, the report states:

This is a particularly good time to work among the women of Dzing-bu-deo, as the men go cuttle-fishing, and the women are therefore more at leisure. Miss Cunningham usually takes advantage of this convenient season. She reports two cases of especial interest. One was that of two sisters who, escorted by a Christian woman, came to the pastor's house with the express purpose and desire to hear the Gospel. The day previous they had walked ten miles to the home of this Christian woman. The younger sister seemed especially interested and asked many intelligent questions. They stayed several hours, during which the pastor opened up to them the way of eternal life, and we trust the word of the Lord will not return unto Him void. The other case was that of an old lady eighty years of age. She had heard the Gospel before, but did not seem to be impressed by it until one day, when Miss Cunningham and the Bible woman were visiting in that village, she heard that some one was there "talking the doctrine," and although very feeble, she, by the aid of her cane, made her way to where they were. She is quite alone in the world, old and with very poor memory. But she seems to have come to a realization that it is God who is taking care of her. They tried to teach her of the Saviour; also a short prayer.

At Zong-yu.

Evening services were also held in the temple, which is now used as a chapel. The few remaining idols are hidden by scrolls, on which are written the Ten Commandments and other Scripture. Mr. Du still gives his services, and is the leader of the Christians in the true faith, as he was formerly for them in their heathen worship.

Rumors about gouging out the eyes of children were for a time so rife and the people worked up to such a state of excitement that itineration was dangerous, and in some places it was useless to attempt to "talk the doctrine." But once the officials took up the matter, and stopped the people talking of it, it soon passed away.

EDUCATIONAL.—Five day-schools for boys and one for both boys and girls have been maintained, with an enrollment of 112. Of the Presbyterial Academy, Mr. Fitch writes:

Last year we had twelve boys in the academy, and this year we have forty-three. Of these about one-fifth are the children of the gentry, and pay $60 (Mexican) a year, which pays for the teacher of English. We have watched them with interest, and feel that the spirit of the Gospel is taking possession of the lives of some of them. One of the boys recently started a movement for Bible study, and all these sons of the gentry, as well as the children of Christians, get up every morning a half an hour earlier than required, in order to have time for personal Bible study and prayer. This is a voluntary movement, and I feel that the boys are beginning to measure their conduct by Christian standards. Over ten of them have applied for baptism, and I believe that some of them are sincere; but the pastor here will be slow in accepting them, as he will want a further test of their lives and convictions.

In the Girls' Boarding School there was an enrollment of forty-two.

The examining committee of native pastors commended the girls very highly on their progress and ability, expressing but one regret, viz., that English was not taught in the school.

Of the Girls' Short Term Boarding School, in which there are seventeen pupils, the report states:

It is intended for girls belonging to families in which there are Christians, who cannot and need not take the long course of the regular boarding-school. It is a school with as few conditions as possible. We do not require these girls to have feet of any particular size, though when we get them in they are duly exhorted to let those members become as nearly like what their Maker intended as possible. Our aim is to give all the girls connected with the church a chance to receive some instruction. It has been dubbed the "dust pan," from the variety of the collection contained. We have girls dirty and girls clean, girls of all ages from twelve to twenty-two years, girls nicely brought up and girls not brought up at all—"just growed"—and in China as elsewhere those who "just grow" rarely grow good. But those of us who know the result of even one term of four and a half months and how much can be accomplished, can testify to the great usefulness of this school.

Training classes for men and women were also conducted.

Chinese merchants, whose confidence Mr. Fitch has won, are erecting a college to be under his control. Extensive grounds have been purchased and large durable buildings are under erection. Mr. Fitch is to continue his relationship to the Mission and the Board, but to have charge of this institution which is to be wholly supported by the Chinese and is designed to reach a class of young men hitherto unreached in Ningpo.

SHANGHAI STATION.

THE CHURCHES.—All three Churches are self-supporting. The South Gate Church has a membership of 151.

While the pastor deplores much spiritual coldness, he praises God that some have grown patient in suffering, strong in trial, and more earnest from persecution. Four have died (one a specially happy death), four have been given letters to other churches, five excommunicated and two suspended, but nineteen have joined the church on profession of their faith, and four received back into church fellowship who were disciplined last year.

The contributions have been $328.56—their pastor's salary taking $204, charity and incidentals $73.10, and an offering for the Home Mission Fund $59.

At the Mission Press Church:

The membership is ninety-two; twenty-three additions have been made during the year, of which seven were on profession and sixteen by letter, two were suspended, one excommunicated, and eight children baptized. Contributions to church work were $503.92, $52 of which was given by foreigners. The weekly offerings were a little over $100. After paying the pastor's salary, $300, and $75 for charity, etc., they close the year with over $130 in the treasury. Besides this, they have given about $150 to the Home Missionary Society; one member, a comparatively poor man, having given over $60 to work outside the church.

In the Hongkew Church:

One member has subscribed $1,000 towards an almshouse for poor Christians, to be erected along with and beside the church.

At Moh-kan-shan, a good work was done during the Summer:

Four men were baptized, one being the bright English-speaking young postmaster from Shanghai; one an old man of seventy, who toiled up the mountain every Sabbath from his home two or three miles distant; one an An-hui man, and another a carpenter, who also brought his baby for baptism.

In the Shanghai Jail, Mr. Fitch has continued his work, assisted by Mr. McIntosh, while in street, chapel and house visitation and by classes, the Gospel is spread.

ITINERATION .---

East of Shanghai is a district indefinitely known as Poo-toong. It lies between the river and the sea, a strip of land about 100 miles long and with an average width of thirty miles. This fertile spot sustains a population almost incredible to an Occidental, and a network of canals makes every part of it easily accessible.

Miss Silver lives in a native house-boat during her journeys, going in one canal and out another, and has visited thirty or forty villages several times, each visit proving more satisfactory than the former. Sixty or seventy villages, with populations varying from 500 to 100,000, and innumerable farmers' hamlets of from tens to hundreds of souls, crowd this district of about 3,000 square miles and nearly 2,000,000 of people.

Women's School.—

During March Miss Silver held the third annual class for women, with seventeen members, some of them having come for the second time. A few who did not know a character when they entered, finished the Catechism and learned to read several hymns. Others, somewhat more advanced, made good progress in the Life of Jesus and the Acts. Mr. Silsby taught a class in Romanization, when fingers, stiffened by long years of hard labor, struggled to form the foreign letters and patiently toiled on, hoping to be able to write to loved sons far away in business.

EDUCATIONAL,—Lowrie High School.—

The Young Men's Christian Association sent four delegates to the convention at Nanking, who returned with glowing reports. The following Sabbath seven of our boys were received into the church, some of whom were led to a decision by Miss Posey's evening meetings, and three others joined at the next communion. Two were seniors, for whom we had long prayed. Thus far God has let us see all our graduates become professing Christians.

New buildings for the schoool are under construction, being provided by the Earnest Workers for China. Forty-two boys are in the school.

GIRL'S BOARDING SCHOOL.—The number of pupils has been forty-nine.

Five girls having finished the prescribed course of study, received diplomas, with appropriate commencement exercises, at the close of the summer term. One is the daughter of a Presbyterian pastor in Shanghai, another the daughter of a deceased elder, a third is the daughter of a Bible woman in Soochow, and the fourth is the daughter of a Christian in Hangchow, but the fifth is one of several unwelcome daughters in a heathen home. She is soon to be welcomed, however, as daughter-in-law in one of the best Presbyterian families in Shanghai. One of these girls is to go to far-away Hunan to be with Dr. Leila Doolittle in the newly opened Station, Siang-tan, and another is to teach the patients in Tooker Memorial Hospital, Soochow. All five are active members of the Christian Endeavor Society.

DAY-SCHOOLS.—Including Miss Posey's model day school, 302 boys and girls have been enrolled in the ten day-schools of the Station.

Miss Cogdal oversees the Mo-ka-ts'ang school, supported by a Christian Endeavor Society in Winfield, Kansas, and writes of the attendance rising from fourteen to thirty last winter during a revival in the Kansas church. Is not this an object lesson appeal to the homeland helpers for more prayers on their part for all our work?

LITERARY WORK.—

Last November the Conference of the various Presbyterian Missions working in China decided to publish a weekly religious newspaper for the native Christians. This is in successful operation, and Mr. Douglass has many new duties as secretary and treasurer of its committee.

Dr. Farnham and Mr. Silsby are on the committee engaged in translating the Bible into the Shanghai colloquial. The New Testament revision has been carried on during the year and is being reprinted, and the Old translated as far as through Job, Mr. Silsby supervising the proofs.

Dr. and Mrs. Farnham have continued their work in connection with the Chinese Tract Society.

HANGCHOW STATION.

The resignation of the pastor of this church has finally been granted with great reluctance. Rev. Tsang Nyin-kw'e has been in charge of the church from its inception, over forty years ago, and by his ability and faithful services has endeared himself alike to natives and foreigners.

At Chinese New Year a series of night meetings were held in the church for the heathen. There was a large and orderly attendance nearly every night, and there were a number of inquirers for a time, but the evil one seems to have stolen away the seed before it took root in the hearts of many of them.

There has been much encouragement in the Sin-z Church.

The increasing number of inquirers, many of whom were brought in through the efforts of a Christian farmer, has filled the church building to overflowing. Twenty have been received into the church, thus raising the membership.

Of Haining and the native worker there, the report states:

Pressure has been brought to bear on him by the leading literati of the place to take charge of a school for teaching English and mathematics which they wish to open. They would give him every freedom for his religious work and pay him a big salary if he would only give them four hours per day. While he would have been very glad to have helped them and to have been able to lay by a hundred dollars or so for a nucleus for a church building fund, he had no disposition to give up or neglect the work of an evangelist. There has been a great change in the attitude of the literati since the opening of the work by a couple of our evangelists in 1888 or 1889, when the literati incited men to destroy their books and stone them. We have had a helper there since 1890, and the consistent lives of a Christian family and the general knowledge evinced by the helper on all subjects and his general goodneighborliness have been blessed to the breaking down of the prejudice against foreigners and their religion.

The Zeh-men work has been helped by the favorable attitude of the Chinese officials.

The district magistrate of Zeh-men is a man of considerable integrity, and is himself interested in Christianity, having read the whole Bible and various Christian books. He is favorable to our work. He astonished a culprit under arrest who had claimed to be a preacher and was trying to extort money from the people on that ground, by saying to him: "If you are a preacher you know the Ten Commandments." The man could not answer; doubtless he had never heard of them. "Well, then, repeat the Lord's Prayer." Still no reply. "Ah, then, I well know you are no preacher. I shall punish you severely for pretending to be a Christian. Understand, I punish this man not for claiming to be a Christian; there is no crime in being a Christian, but for pretending to be one and extorting money."

At Pu-kyang:

The helper, Yang Yao-foh, while out on a preaching tour just out of his district, was captured by desperadoes and held for ransom, his life being threatened if the money was not paid. The amount demanded having been reduced from $350 to $40 was contributed and paid by the Christians, and he was released. He was severely handled part of the time in his captivity, and cut about the feet and legs with knives, but through it all he maintained an unruffled spirit, and preached the Gospel faithfully to his captors and others. After his release he asked that no punishment be demanded of them, as he had preached the doctrine of love and forgiveness while he was suffering at their hands.

Of the itinerating work in general the report says:

The itinerating work has still its difficulties and paucity of results; but a distinct change is coming over much of the field. Men are turning with interest to watch the Church, and many to seek its help or protection. This is indeed an unhealthy sign; but it is also a sign that the hitherto hidden poison is coming to the surface, and we are able to preach now to multitudes who before were unwilling to listen; and we hope that some of them will be brought to Christ and that the watchful masses, seeing eventually that we refuse to give help in lawsuits, etc., will turn with seriousness to inquire what, aft all, Christianity is.

EDUCATIONAL.—The new Girls' Boarding School has an attendance of twenty and received during the year a gi of $400 Mexican from the mandarins of the city for the pu chase of land. Eighty-five students have been in attendance at the Hangchow College.

There have been a number of boys from other schools of the Mi sion at Shanghai, Soochow and Ningpo, and, being picked men, the have almost, without exception, been a great credit to the school from which they came. We hope to see more and more of this cla of students coming as the desire for higher education grows upon the rising generation of Chinese young men, and we earnestly desire the standard of our curriculum and equipment equal to the tast of meeting this demand.

The teaching force remains the same. One of our problems is secure good teachers. There is practically no place for us to draw of for teachers. It is not very practicable to take on our own studen immediately after graduation, and our old graduates all have good positions and receive a higher salary than we can pay.

We renew our request for an additional foreign teacher, a your man with a good training in the sciences. The increase in the number of our students, the awakening interest among the Chine in scientific subjects, and the need of a third man that the burden the College may never fall on one man alone for a year, all emph size our request.

THEOLOGICAL SCHOOL.—

The theological school was in session in Hangchow from Februar 22 to June 2. Mr. Lyon, of Soochow, joined with Mr. Garritt in the teaching for a little over a month. The class has increased from two six; two from Soochow, one from Hangchow, and two new me from Ningpo having been added to the two original Ningpo men whe studied last year.

It is hoped that this class may be combined with one to be formed by the Southern Presbyterian Mission in the near future, which with be an important step in advance.

During the cholera epidemic the Station distribute thousands of circulars, giving advice as to the proper treament of disease and proper precautions against it.

SOOCHOW STATION.

Since Mr. Lyon's return he has had the care of the church at the Ts'ang-men. This year we have seen a marked progress in the church work. The audience of outsiders is no more a transient on but people come repeatedly and some regularly. This may be due to our after meeting. It is a touching sight to look over the audience after the benediction, and see little groups of two or more listening to our Christians earnestly putting before them the way of life. We are trying to teach our Christians, from the Bible women to the coolie, their duty and privilege of being soul winners.

During the summer there was preaching daily under a booth at a gate in front of the Church at Soochow, by the hospital. Work was carried on during the year at Ng-kong, where an old yamen was secured for the work.

BOYS' SCHOOL .-

The Soochow High School has just completed its first decade. and graduated ten of its students last year. These young men are Christians, and most of them have found employment in teaching—three of them in the High School and one in the Shed-dzien-ka day-school.

During the Boxer outbreak the school was so broken up that it was difficult to get the boys together again. In the first term, in the interest of self-support, a number of boys were received from wealthy families; they helped with their money, but their influence was anything but good, so it was necessary to dismiss six of them before the end of the term.

One hundred and sixteen boys and girls were enrolled in the four day-schools of the Station.

MEDICAL WORK.—

The total number of dispensary patients seen was three thousand one hundred and seventy-two. The largest number seen in any one month was in July.

Some of our patients have come a distance of several hundred li. A number of them are boat people, who stop in passing up and down the Grand Canal.

One hundred and five in-patients have been admitted during the year, six remaining in the hospital at its close. Of this number eighteen were Christians, twelve the children of Christians, eight were inquirers, four children of inquirers, two were foreign patients, and the remaining sixty heathen women and children. The average stay of inpatients was eighteen and one-third days—the longest stay being one hundred and forty-three days. Three deaths occurred during the year. Two little babies passed away while with us, and in August one woman who was brought to us from the outpractice in an almost dying condition. It was very sad to see the mothers of the little ones watching over them and caring for them until it was certain that death was coming and then hurrying away and leaving them to die alone, fearing the evil spirit which had entered the child and taken its life, might re-enter the mother's womb and be born again.

During the summer months much time and strength were given to fighting cholera, but of all the thousands who died around us only a few came to us for aid. There was much to be done in preventing, among our Christians and those over whom we had any influence.

Aromatic sulphuric acid was given out to all the Christians who would avail themselves of the opportunity and to many others. This medicine soon came to be called "the peace medicine," and requests came for it from far and near. One wealthy lady, whose two children are in the day-school, bought a pint of the acid and gave it out daily to each one of her large household, and also bought absorbent cotton from us to use in filtering their water.

Statistics of the medical work from October 4, 1901, to August 31, 1902, as follows:

In-patients 105	Cho-ts'ong
Dispensary3,172	Itinerating	727
Ng-kong 285	Out-calls	90

NANKING STATION.

The great sorrow of the year has been in the loss, through cholera, of our most trusted Chinese worker, Mr. Peng Shen-ts'ai. We could scarcely have incurred a greater loss to the work had one of the foreign missionaries been taken, as he was the oldest and most experienced of our native force, and we see no prospect, humanly speaking, of his place being filled. His education and training were very largely from the Bible and of the Spirit, and in all his dealings with inquirers, backsliders, church members, and the missionaries, in his relations as preacher, elder or assistant, he was plainly guided by the Holy Spirit. Gentle and peace-loving, yet firmly standing for the right, he was the one that all looked to for help.

Of this godly and efficient old man, Mrs. Abbey writes:

We are in deep waters now in Nanking, and sorely bereft in the loss of the one man among our Christians that seemed indispensable to the Church, our Elder Peng Shen-ts'ai. He was the one man that everyone, Chinese or foreigner, turned to in any difficulty, temporal or spiritual. He was one of our first church members and was known as a faithful witness for Christ, and one might say a preacher before he was baptized. More than a hundred looked to him as their father in Christ, and I have known few men who blended love and firmness, wisdom and simplicity in due measure, as he did. He was the bond of union among our diverse elements, and unless the Lord raises up others in his place I do not know how we can get along, but we submit to the inscrutable will of God. It was the dread cholera that took him away, and the first one of our number to go. We had heard of the ravages of the disease, but death came on so rapidly that the Chinese who come to the hospital as a last resort did not have the time to appeal to that last resort, and very few cases were brought. We would only hear of sudden deaths near the chapels or the homes of the Christians, and see the bamboo platforms built over the streets for the Taoist priests to repeat the exorcisms, or smell the incense that was burned on large steps in open places.

smell the incense that was burned on large steps in open places.

It did seem as though we could not spare him, that the Lord would leave him with us a while longer, but he is able to raise up others to fill his place.

While we have other good men, yet he was the most well-rounded and the most filled with the Spirit. His education was almost entirely from the Bible, as he only knew a few characters before he became a Christian, but the Spirit opened up to him the Bible and taught him how to lead men. It has been his habit to have evening prayers in his house that were attended by nearly all the Christians and others on our compound, and many have had their chief knowledge of the Bible from this source. I think his whole Christian experience is within nineteen years, and he was not baptized till when the church was organized he was chosen as one of the elders. He did not serve till the next year, because of objection made to the other elder chosen. He was an almost ideal elder, and that is a rare thing to find in a new-born church like this.

The two organized Churches of the Station are at the Mission compounds, where the boarding-schools form the nucleus of the congregations, but we have two centres of indigenous growth where we hope the churches of the future may be. One is in the city and one in the country, and are still connected with the First Church.

At Tong-dzing

at the communion service seven men were enrolled as candidates. One of them stood up with his wife, a former pupil in the girls' school, as she took the vows at the baptism of their children. It is eight years since this girl, betrothed in infancy, before her mother heard of Christ, was obliged to go into a heathen home and endure untold petty persecution. Now we believe our prayers are being answered.

Of the Viao-shi-k'eu school, the report states:

In the winter, for one hundred days, fifteen hundred to two thousand people gather daily near this school to receive the government relief. These people are not all Shantung beggars. Many were farmers or small tradespeople who had lost everything by the floods the previous summer and were compelled to come to the city for the daily dole of rice. We found a number of these people who could read.

A good work has been developed among young men in the city coming on Saturday evening to the teachers' meeting led by Mr. Williams.

Friends of the teachers, among them young degree men of the city, asked if they might attend, and were allowed to do so. The character of the meetings was necessarily modified, but it was an opportunity to reach an otherwise inaccessible class of young men. Usually there were five or six young men from outside. These, with our own teachers, made a group of ten or eleven around Mr. Williams' dining table, and the talks always closed with prayer, when these young men bowed their heads with the rest. Probably the simplest explanation of their motive in coming was a desire to pick up a little information to help them in the triennial examinations, but much more than this was accomplished. Two or three of them became leaders in collecting three or four hundred taels to buy books and organized a reading club which meets in the Confucian temple. After the organization of the club, Mr. Williams met with them two or three times a week and had many conversations with groups of four or five. They were uniformly kind in their welcome at their room and wherever he met them, and he has faith to believe that some of these men may be led to accept Christ as their Saviour. But even if they do not come out openly, they may be so far won as to send their sons to our schools, and we may gain access to a class that represents the "worthy" more nearly than any other in China. They are progressive and inquiring, and if not reached soon by missionary effort, will be swept away by the flood of infidel literature.

The triennial examinations held in September gave an opportunt to reach such students. Through the generosity of the Bible So eties and the Society for the Diffusion of Christian Knowledge 60,000 volumes were made up into 15,000 packages and presented to the s dents as they came out of the examination halls. Most of them we kindly received. Some personal work was also done before the aminations.

Most of the itinerating work of the country was done Mr. Drummond, who made four trips on foot.

EDUCATIONAL.—GIRLS' BOARDING SCHOOL.

Two new pupils were added during the year, but the enrollm of thirty remains the same, as two have married and left to ma we trust, happy homes. Among those who applied for entrance tyear were two girls from heathen homes, whose mothers hoped this means to secure Christian husbands for them. They said thad noticed that Christian men treated their wives much better the heathen did, and they wanted their daughters to marry in church. This is, indeed, a reform movement.

Boys' Boarding School.—

The attendance was never over thirty-five, the largest being at opening of the Chinese year, but there has been an average atterance of thirty. As these were almost all boys whom we could exp to remain with us to complete the course, the number is more sign cant than a larger number, including many transient students. It utmost limit of our accommodation would only provide for thirty-boys, with no provision for elementary, chemical and physical loratories.

During the year something like $340 Mexican was collected tuition and board, as compared with a little over a hundred in forry years, but we do not think it any indication of the real success of work; in fact, it might be just the reverse, for the students who pay are drawn from two sources—the official class, whose high ambition is to get enough English to assume foreign airs, and merchant class, who have not yet realized the value of foreign traing, but hope that a smattering of English will make their sons ter salesmen. The ambitions of either class almost prevent the being brought into line with the purpose of the school, viz., to rup helpers for the church. But while we do not yet find it possito secure much revenue and adhere strictly to the main purpose the school, we do believe in getting all we can from those we have school, we do believe in getting all we can from those we have it were possible to give them employment, whereby they minentirely earn their support, the result would be more satisfactory, is a simple but universal rule that one appreciates fully only what fully pays for.

Any report of the life of the school would be incomplete that not give a large place to the influence of the National Y. M. C. Convention held in Nanking, November 6-10. The Convention has marked influence upon the whole native church, in helping them better understand Christianity and making more real the faith the already professed. But the greatest influence was on those who is received the most instruction—the boys and the teachers in schools.

One hundred and sixteen children were enrolled in the four day-schools.

MEDICAL.—

During the cholera epidemic, and after the death of Mr. Peng, our chapels and one of the day-schools were turned into dispensaries. The missionary physicians who were in the city devoted themselves heartily to making up remedies; hundreds of posters were put up through the city informing the people where to obtain the remedies and how to prevent the disease. In all this work our helpers had a part. Many lives were saved, and we hope much good was done in dispelling popular superstitions regarding the disease, in breaking down prejudice, and in opening new and wider doors for the Gospel. No more of our Christians have succumbed to the disease, though several were attacked by it.

This is the first time that the Nanking missionary physicians have attempted to cope with an epidemic, and the officials countenanced their efforts and aided them by subscriptions.

HWAI-YUEN STATION.

Hwai-yuen is a hsien or "district" city of about 20,000 inhabitants, situated in the northern part of the province of An-hui at the juncture of the Hwai and the Ko (pronounced Go) rivers. It is 150 miles northwest of Nanking, and can be reached from there in five days. The waterway follows the Grand Canal from Chinkiang, on the Yang-tse, to Ch'ing-kiang-p'u, where it turns west across the Hung tzu lake and enters the Hwai river The distance between Chinkiang and Hwai-yuen is approximately 300 miles, and a house-boat takes from two to four weeks for the trip. At present there are steam tugs running between Chinkiang and Ch'ing-kiang-p'u, and there is some prospect that in a few years they will run up the Hwai as well. The only obstacle is the shallowness of the water in the Hung-tzu lake.

Mr. Lobenstine writes:

It is now some six years since the first itinerating trip was made by the members of the Nanking Station to Hwai-yuen. Rev. T. W. Houston was so impressed by the need of the populous region north of the Hwai river that he brought the matter before the Mission at its annual meeting in the fall of 1896, and in response to his appeal Rev. W. N. Crozier volunteered for the work, and was transferred from Soochow to Nanking with a view to occupying Hwei-yuen as a place of residence. Owing, however, to his furlough in 1899, and to the Boxer outbreak, it was impossible until last fall to do more than open the city as an out-station. A chapel was rented and a native evangelist stationed there most of the time.

The report of the year's work begins with the revival in Hwai-yuen on the 18th of October of Mr. Morris and Mr. Lobenstine, accompanied by Mr. Drummond who had very kindly consented to help for a few weeks in the opening of the Station. We had been most fortunate in renting, before our arrival, a good Chinese house on the best residence street of the city. It is on high ground, outside the south gate, and is in a much more healthy location than any other part of the city, which is for the most part low, and is flooded every three or four years by the rapid rise of the water in the river during early summer rains. Our landlord, an opium smoker, who had be forced to rent to us in order to feed his pipe, was loath to move when the time came, and we were simply obliged to take possess of his guest room and to bring such kindly but continuous daily put to bear upon him as we could to induce him to let us move This we finally succeeded in accomplishing after a month's we and by Christmas we had the place cleaned, windows and doors in the walls, and a board floor in some of the rooms.

Dr. Cochran arrived in the early part of November with the that had our furniture and stores. With him came Mr. and Mrs. Si-ts'ing. Mr. James Cochran divided his time during the year tween Nanking and Hwai-yuen. During Mr. Drummond's absent the fall, he relieved him of such work as he could, and this spin he again spent two months helping in the Nanking Station work was not thought wise for the ladies of the party to attempt to go

Hwai-yuen this last year.

The attitude of the people:

We were impressed on going to Hwai-yuen by the change that come over the people since our previous trip in the fall of 1899. that time we could go nowhere without attracting great crow Whenever we came to a village or market town we found that we already been sighted, and every one turned out to see us and often hoot at us and jostle us along the road. This year we went freverywhere, and almost without exception were politely treated. Being in Chinese clothes we attracted less attention than we she have done otherwise, and when crowds did gather we found the In Hwai-yuen itself, on the former trip much more friendly. rarely went into the city, and one day, when we did venture to do the crowd went so far as to begin pelting us with dirt and sto and the soldiers of the official, who happened at the time to be p ing, had to disperse the crowd. This time the city people univers treated us well to our faces, whatever they may have said behind backs. They have, it is true, at various times started rumors about with no friendly intent, and once, at the time of the fifth moon for some one placarded the town and urged the destruction of our production of the producti erty, but nothing came of it, and the crowds that came to our ho or that we met on the street at the time, were as cordial as ever.

This change in the attitude of the people toward us is prob.

due in no small measure to the political events of the past few ye Hwai-yuen is not far off the main line of overland travel betw Peking and Nanking, and is on the river that forms the chief ar of commerce for all Northern An-hui and Honan. Students who been studying in the Imperial University, and business men fi Tientsin and Chin-kiang brought back fairly accurate reports of When the people found that foreigners were in China stay, and that their town had been chosen for the residence of som them, they seem to have decided that there was nothing for them do but to submit with the best grace possible to the inevitable. undoubtedly owe a good deal also to the friendly attitude of magistrate, who from the start has treated us with the utmost sideration and has often gone out of his way to show us kindn Following him the "elders" of the city and a number of the m prominent citizens have called on us, and some of them are often our guest room. The young students also are beginning to come us freely, and we count now quite a circle of acquaintances and a friends amongst them. Mr. Morris' personal teacher, Mr. Song, who had been with us in Nanking, has been a great help. He has a good reputation in the city, and is, we believe, deeply interested in the truth of Christianity. From the start we were helped also by a grain merchant, a Mr. Ch'en, on whose eyes Dr. Cochran operated in Nanking He was a staunch friend, and until his death at the Chinese New Year never tired of bearing his testimony to what he had seen and heard when he was with the foreigners in Dr. Beebe's hospital.

Like the blind man whose eyes Christ opened, he did not attempt to say what he did not know, but he was the more faithful in giving his testimony to the fact that the missionaries were in China to do her good. On that point he had convictions, and he was not afraid of expressing them.

But most of all we owe to the work of those who preceded us. The seed-sowing done by the Nanking Station, especially by Mr. Crozier and one or two of the Chinese evangelists, had already begun to bear fruit before we reached Hwai-yuen. We found a little group of inquirers, amongst whom stood out prominently Mr. Liu, the pharmacist and physician who was baptized in Nanking in the spring of 1900, and who, throughout the two years when Hwai-yuen was not visited by a foreigner, bore faithful witness to Jesus Christ. He was then the only Protestant Christian in all that region. We were fortunate indeed in having such a man to be the first to come out for By nature religiously minded, he was known long before he became a Christian as a good man and a seeker after the truth. This led him to study the books of the Buddhists and the Taoists, but they failed to satisfy him, and his heart seemed to respond to the teaching of the Bible when it first fell into his hands. So far we have been able to baptize but one other, a Mr. Wei. He is an older man and with less education, but for some years past has been a worshipper of the one true God. Indeed, he says that he has never worshipped idols since the first time he heard Mr. Houston preach.

Of course, there has been a much larger number of applicants for baptism. When we arrived there were some twenty or thirty who were very eager to enter the church, but we soon found that they were mostly actuated by unworthy motives, and that a number were men of bad reputation who, before our arrival, had been using the name of the church for their own ends. It seems to have proved chiefly useful to them in lawsuits, in smuggling goods past the likin stations, and in settling old family feuds. Repeatedly during the year men have come to us with long lists of names of those desirous of joining the church. They knew that the Roman Catholics received such lists and entered the names on their books, and they wished us to do the same. To do so would in their eyes entitle them to the use of the name of the church in cases where it would be of advantage to them. Four or five times during the year they offered to give us land, and even to build a chapel for us, if we would only come and start a church in their town. It would have been easy to have had three or four hundred inquirers by this time who would attend pub-lic service, if we could provide it for them, and take time for any other religious instruction we could give them, but in view of the experience of others we have felt the risk too great, and believing that they are not "the worthy ones" spoken of by the Master in Matthew 10:11. we have devoted ourselves largely to others. We have done our utmost to make it plain to all that we should have nothing what-ever to do with lawsuits. The issue had to be faced at the start with us, for the Roman Catholics are strong in certain parts of An-hui, and many have come to us merely out of hostility to them. We are trying to get the people to understand that our methods of wor differ from theirs. We are glad that as yet the Catholics are not aggressive in Hwai-yuen itself. They own property there, but priest who attempted to open work a few years ago was rioted and barely escaped with his life, and they have never returned.

Guest Room Work.-

Our main work for the year has been done in our guest room. It began the day we reached Hwai-yuen, and though we had be one room to serve as bed-room, dining-room and guest-room, we managed to receive from 100 to 150 persons a day. This was the first rush, and lasted for a month or six weeks. After that the numbers dropped off gradually, and only at the time of the fifth modest, which is the occasion in Hwai-yuen of the greatest idol procession in the province, did the numbers rise very high. Then, for a week, we received from 350 to 500 callers a day, and on one day hand tess than 1,500 people. Those of us who were there preached them from morning till night.

Reading Room Work and Loan Library.-

A reading room and loan library has proved a special attraction to the young men. We bought a good supply of the books of the Diffusion and Educational Societies, as well as tracts and religious books, and we loan them for two weeks at a time to any one who comes recommended by some one we know. Books on travel, his tory, geography, essays on the times, etc., have been read eager! As the books are all carefully chosen, we feel that a good work his been done through them in breaking down prejudice and in giving more correct ideas about Western civilization and Christianity, has gathered about us a group of young men, who come repeated to us. At first some of them were almost afraid to come into on thouse, lest we should cast some spell over them, and they would not drink the tea we served for fear that it had been doctored. No they are our friends. They are quite willing to talk about Christia things, and nothing made us happier than to have six of them come our sin June and ask to be taught our Christian books. It was great joy to meet with them once a week over the Gospels and try to point them to a greater than Confucius.

MEDICAL WORK.—

Dr. Cochran feels that what he was able to do for this class patients has been more influential than anything else the medic work has so far accomplished in "establishing our reputation, breating down prejudice, and making friends." For a town the size of the Hwai-yuen the number of opium suicides is alarming. During seemal months hardly a week passed that we were not called to at lead one case, and there were many others of which we never heard.

The medical work opened in one room back of the chapel. It we small and poorly lighted, so that all operations had to be performed in the open air. The location was also poor, for the chapel was set arated from the city by the Ko river, and this has to be crossed ferryboats, the fine old stone bridge that used to be there having been destroyed in the Ming dynasty because "it interfered with the fung-shwei (good luck) of the place and kept the scholars from obtaining their degrees at the examinations." We were glad this spring to rent a house on the main street leading out of the south gate of the city, where there is not only a better dispensary and chapel, but also room for ten or fifteen in-patients. In July the old property was given up and the work was transferred to the new quarters.

The new Station has started out under the most happy auspices. Its report closes:

We cannot close this our first annual report without asking you to unite with us in devout thanks to our Heavenly Father for the many blessings we have received at His hands. We have been spared those trying experiences which have come to so many in opening up new Stations in China. We have found the hearts of the people prepared to receive us. We have found a home and friends, and God has set before us an open door through which we have had a glimpse of the great opportunities that await us. Will you not hold up in prayer before the Lord of the harvest this great unevangelized region in North An-hui and those of us whom He has called to work in it?

MISSION PRESS.—

The past year has been one of rebound from the depression of the year before caused by the Boxer outbreak. After peace was restored and the country had settled down to its normal condition, there came a great demand again for literature, more especially scientific, educational, etc., and during the first half of this year, 1902, the demand has been simply overwhelming and quite beyond our power to cope with. Printing presses have been springing up on every hand, and old ones that had become nearly defunct suddenly sprung into new life, and the call for printers and compositors has been something phenomenal. As a result we have lost some of our good workmen, who have been decoyed away by larger wages and more prominent positions, and we have had to take on a number of apprentices and unskilled workmen, which makes the possibility of first-class work all the more difficult. Whereas we had on our payroll but 100 Chinese on June 30, 1901, we had 148 on June 30, 1902.

The new press buildings have now been completed.

The main building will be 164 feet long by 70 feet in depth, two stories high, while a secondary building, for binding, etc., will be 152 by 23 feet, also two stories high. The contractor has proved a reliable workman, and everything is being done in a most substantial manner. The walls of the main building are strong enough to permit of a third story being added in the future, if desirable. The secondary building was originally intended to be but one story in height, but work increased so rapidly during the year that it was concluded best to add another story while it could be done so easily and with little comparative expense.

Buildings have also been erected for the Press employes. New and improved machinery has been ordered, and although the capacity of the Press has thus been greatly increased, it will still be unable to keep up with the demands made upon it.

Christian Newspaper.—

Consequent on, and as a result of, the Presbyterian Convention held in Shanghai in 1901, the past year has seen the birth of the first—so far as we know—Christian weekly newspaper in China. The editor is the Rev. S. I. Woodbridge, of the Southern Presbyterian Mission, who has been set apart by his Mission specially for this work, and who has moved with his family to Shanghai so as to be near the publishers, the paper being printed and despatched from this office. The first issue was in June and an edition of 6,000 was printed and sent out to the various Missions all over China.

A comparison of the foregoing table with last year's figure shows that the output of religious works has more than doubled during the past year; whilst the increase on educational works is well-nigh seven-fold. Some of the more notable religious works in Chinese are: "The Dictionary of the Holy Bible, on which Dr. and Mrs. Farnham have spent so much time and energy; the Conference Commentary on the Psalms, by Rev. H. C. DuBose, D.D.; Bishop Graves' Commentary on the Psalms; Rev. H. W. Luce's Harmony of the Gospels; and two S. D. K. works by Rev. D. MacGillivray, "Tribulations of the Church in China," and a translation of A. Murray's "Spirit of Christ." The large number of hymn and prayer books printed for the Missions of various denominations and nationalities is also worthy of note. Among the reprints are Bishop Graves' Commentary on Isaiah, Dr. Martin's Evidences of Christianity, and Dr. DuBose's Street Chapel Pulpit.

The resources of our type-casting department have been taxed to the utmost in supplying fonts of Chinese type for establishments in Peking, Canton, Manchuria and Szchuen, as well as in the Straits Settlements. Under our care much of the plant for the equipment of these establishments has been made or purchased. We have also received visits from officials and their deputies anxious to start printing offices and desirous for advice.

HAINAN MISSION.

HAINAN: an island on the southeast coast; occupied 1885; established as a Mission 1893.

KIUNG CHOW ("The Grace A. Mead Memorial"): Missionaries— H. M. McCandliss, M. D., and Mrs. McCandliss, Rev. Wm. M. Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, Rev. A. E. Street and Mrs. Street, Miss Etta Montgomery, and Miss Kate L. Schaeffer.

Nodoa: Missionaries—Rev. P. W. McClintock and Mrs. McClintock, Mrs. M. R. Melrose, Rev. William J. Leverett, E. D. Vanderburgh, M. D., and Mrs. Vanderburgh, Herman C. Bryan, M. D., Rev. J. C. Patterson and Mrs. Patterson.

KACHEK: Missionaries—Rev. Frank P. Gilman, Rev. C. H. Newton and Mrs. Newton, Sidney L. Lasell, M. D.

IN THIS COUNTRY: E. D. Vanderburgh, M. D., and Mrs. Vanderburgh, Rev. W. J. Leverett, Miss Kate L. Schaeffer.

The Hainan Mission has undergone but few changes during the year. Dr. and Mrs. Vanderburgh, Mr. Leverett and Miss Schaeffer returned to the United States on furlough. Dr. and Mrs. McCandliss returned to their field, and Dr. Herman Bryan was added to the missionary force and arrived in August. Mrs. Jeremiassen continued to be employed as assistant in the Mission as during the year before, and was in charge of the Boys' School at Kiungchow. There has been more or less uneasiness not to say alarm felt in the movements of the bands of brigands, especially in the region of Nodoa during the year, but no violence has been committed, with the exception of the seizure of a landlord whose property was occupied by the Mission and who was held by the brigands for a ransom.

NODOA STATION.

At Nodoa the attendance on Sabbath services has averaged about 175. Hitherto there has been no organized church at this point, but steps are now being taken for the accomplishment of that object. The people have raised about $100 Mexican for the prosecution of their own work. It is hoped that ere very long the church will be not only completely organized, but will have a native pastor supported by the people. The want of an adequate number of well trained native assistants is deeply felt. Four communicants were received on confession during the year. The whole number of baptized persons is now eighty-four.

A separate work for women has been faithfully maintaine This has been chiefly under the care of Mrs. Melrose. Se vices have been held for women on Sundays and in the midd of the week. They have also been invited to visit the homof the missionaries where instruction has been given, illustrate in some cases by charts and other objects of interest.

The absence of Mr. Leverett and Dr. Vanderburgh on fulough will account for the fact that less out-station evangulistic work than usual has been done during the year. Mr. at Mrs. Patterson also have been absent a part of the year. It addition to her school work, Mrs. Melrose has superintended the small printing press connected with the Station, from whice 68,850 pages have been issued, including a catechism, a Remanized newspaper and other forms of work.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Girls' School has been in the charge of Mrs. Melrose most of the year, though during he absence from the field for a rest her place was taken by Mrs. McClintock. The funds for a much needed school buildin have been provided by friends of Mr. and Mrs. McClintock and the structure is in process of erection.

The Boys' School has been under the supervision of McClintock for most of the year with an attendance of fifty eight. Another school, solicited by the people of Nam Fong was opened in March with an enrollment of thirty-five, makin a total during the year, in the two schools, of ninety-three. A interesting fact connected with the Boys' School in Nodo is that all the pupils are Christians.

Mr. Patterson spent six months of the year at Hoihow laboring among the Hainanese people. Later he spent some tim with Mr. Gilman at Kacheck, Vag-ciu, etc.

MEDICAL WORK.—The retirement of Dr. Vanderburg from the field on furlough left the hospital at Nodoa in charg of Dr. Herman Bryan, who had but just arrived on the field Dr. Bryan's report speaks of the excellent condition in which the hospital had been left by Dr. Vanderburgh, and the report shows faithful endeavor on his part to maintain the high grad of service so far as was possible with a very limited knowledg of the language. The medical work in Nodoa involves a constant struggle with the superstitions of the people. The ide which underlies so many heathen systems, namely: that the world is largely in control of evil spirits who are to be appeased, rather than in the care of a kindly Providence to be trusted and loved, operates directly against medical work, untit this unreasonable prejudice can be overcome. LISTIC.—The evangelistic work connected with w Station, which includes Hoihow, is noticeable y of individual effort put forth by the missionare assistants. It is to be regretted that after so many years there is as ye no regular organized church at Kiungchow, though the lis of admitted communicants is forty-three. It is to be hoped that steps will soon be taken to organize the work more thor oughly. Various obstacles have prevented that growth fo which the missionaries have labored so faithfully, and for so long a time. Hoihow and Kiungchow have suffered from various forms of pestilence and from the general sicklines of the climate. There has been great difficulty also in the way of securing comfortable and commodious buildings fo chapel and school purposes as well as for hospitals and mis sionaries' residences. At Kiungchow, the whole community has been disadvantageously affected also by the presence of th periodic literary examinations and the presence of a proud and intolerant spirit of the so-called literati. In the midst o many obstacles, our missionaries have labored on in the hop that the harvest time would soon appear. Steps have been taken during the year, with the generous appropriations of the Board for completing certain structures that have been greatly delayed and which are urgently needed.

An interesting work has been commenced on the Peninsula on the main land which is but twelve or fifteen miles from Hoihow, and where the prevailing language is the Hainanese The Board has authorized the opening of a station at Lia Kha on this peninsula, whose headlands in fair weather are distinctly seen from Hoihow. The influence of the medica work of Dr. McCandliss at Hoihow, has extended to this peninsula, and has fairly opened the way for a friendly reception of the missionaries by the people.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Boys' School at Kiungchow has been under the care of Mrs. Jeremiassen in the absence of Miss Schaeffer on furlough. Miss Montgomery has been in charge of a school also in Hoihow, temporarily, during the completion of school-buildings at Kiungchow where her work of education will be resumed. Miss Montgomery gives the following account of her difficult work among the women:

When the Boarding-school was abandoned, the Day-school, composed mostly of women, was continued until August, permitting them to study wherever there was room enough to seat the thirteen, often on the floor in my parlor, again in the hall, then on the verandah, but in spite of all these difficulties, their interest never flagged, for they always manifested untiring zeal and enthusiasm in their studies. Among these women are our best and most efficient Bible women. They have demonstrated to my mind conclusively the superior value of Romanized books and have made me a more earnest advocate than ever of its use.

Aside from my school work I have had charge of women's meetings, and classes in Hoihow for several months. I have taught two classes each Sabbath, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. The class in Sabbath-school is composed of the heathen women of our congregation, who come for the first time and those who have some knowledge of the truth and have asked for baptism. Among these women are a number of bright, promising ones who might be enrolled in the catechumen class, did we have such a class.

MEDICAL.—The medical work of the Kiungchow Station has been under the care of Dr. Lasell who has taken the place of Dr. McCandliss during his absence on furlough. The amount of work accomplished has been somewhat diminished partly by the fact that the regular physician was absent, and partly by limitation of quarters available as wards for patients, a part of the hospital accommodations having been occupied as missionary residence. Good work has been done, however, as shown by the statistics reported which are as follows: Dispensary patients, 7,057; in-patients, 211; operations, 35; minor operations, 86.

There are no indications in the local report of any outbreak of pestilence, either cholera or bubonic plague, which has wrought such havoc in former years.

KACHECK STATION.

The plans which have been in progress for the last two or three years of opening a station at Kacheck, which is situated in the southeastern part of the island on a navigable river, twelve miles from the sea, have received new impulse from the appropriations of the Board for the completion of a house for occupation by Mr. and Mrs. Newton and others who are expected to be at the Station. Through the generous gift of one individual, money has been furnished also for the erection of a hospital to be placed under the care of Dr. Lasell. The local report speaks of the place as follows:

At the west end of the town is the street chapel which has a small two-storied building in the rear which has been the residence of Mr. Gilman during the last year. The Mission compound on which the new house has been erected during the past year is at the other end of the place and nearly a mile distant. It is situated on a hillside and faces a beautiful rolling country with mountains in the background, where the roar of the breakers on the distant coast is often heard.

The same report speaks of the work of the year as follows:

The work of building the new house has occupied all the time of one member of the Station, and a considerable part of that of the other members during the year. Contracts for materials had to be made with men who had never dealt with foreigners before, and close attention was given to receiving the same when shipped, experience having taught that the natives could not be trusted to do this work for us.

To this end it has been necessary for one of the missionaries to be on the ground all the time. The roof is now on but no floors, ceilings or doors or stairs are in. When finished the house with its verandahs on four sides will afford much protection against rain and sun and will lighten the difficulty which we all feel in living in this tropical climate.

Services have been held every Sabbath during the year at the street chapel, also the market days when instruction has been given by a native preacher to all who attended. November to February the average attendance was about 200. During a heathen festival in April the place was crowded for several days by men, many of whom came from long distances. The people have become increasingly friendly and the magistrate of the District has made a public proclamation of his approval of the missionaries and of the indefatigable character of their work. Mr. Gilman became widely known as "Uncle Good," which was a title certainly to be appreciated. About twenty men have been under special instruction during the year, and many neighbors have gathered to attend evening prayers in the Mission home. Short trips have been made to different places near Kacheck. Long distances have been rendered impossible by the building operations which required constant attention. Some of the regular attendants at Sunday services have been accustomed to walk about ten or twelve miles. This, however, not from a purely spiritual motive, but through that mixture of supposed inducements which is so apt to appear in the first visits of the heathen. Only two have as yet been baptized at Kacheck, but there are several others under instruction as inquirers.

MEDICAL WORK.—The medical work which had barely been begun, has been suspended owing to the absence of Dr. Lasell who was called to take up the work of Dr. McCandliss at Hoihow during his absence. Considerable difficulty has been experienced from malaria which was developed by the necessary excavations made while building, and from which the head carpenter employed by the Station suffered for months from fever.

Mr. Newton gives an interesting account of the difficulties cares, anxieties and manifold labors connected with building a new house in a heathen city where materials must be guarded and the workmen closely watched while the slow process drags along, only to find at last that the appropriations which have been made come far short of completion, and the work stops till new assistance can be rendered by the Board in New York. Mr. Newton is full of hope now that the building is completed and his hands are set free for evangelistic work. He was confined by protracted illness for a part of the year during which

Mr. Gilman assumed his duties. Mr. Gilman has labored most faithfully, and under some peculiar circumstances of trial during the pioneer stages of the work at Kacheck.

Referring to the official proclamation by the magistrate to which allusion is made above, Mr. Gilman expresses a belief that it was inspired partly by a desire to point out the contrast between the Protestant missionaries and the Catholics who had been guilty of all sorts of unchristian and unworthy conduct. Special emphasis was put upon the fact that Mr. Gilman and his friends had been "keeping peace betwen the Christian converts and the people and had refused to bad men the privilege of entering the church." This was a worthy tribute to that wise policy which our missionaries in Hainan as well as in China constantly observe of keeping clear from all intrigue with bad men who wish to use the missionary prestige in accomplishing some purpose against the local government.

HUNAN MISSION.

SIANGTAN: occupied 1900. Missionaries—Rev. W. H. Lingle and Mrs. Lingle, Rev. Geo. L. Gelwicks and Mrs. Gelwicks, F. J. Tooker, M. D., Mrs. L. T. Doolittle, Dr. Leila L. Doolittle, and Miss Emma T. Kolfrat.

HENGCHOW: occupied 1902. Missionaries—Stephen C. Lewis, M. D., and Rev. W. T. Mitchell.

At the time of the closing of the last year's report, only Mr. Lingle and Dr. Tooker were at the Siangtan Station. In March, 1902, Mrs. and Miss Doolittle, M. D., returned to the field, having been absent since the Boxer disturbance. Mrs. Lingle had also been absent, but returned in the summer of 1902. Some weeks later Dr. Stephen C. Lewis, a newly appointed medical missionary, arrived at Siangtan. Of necessity the new missionaries gave their attention for the first few months to the study of the language. The report states that Mr. Gelwicks and Dr. Tooker have completed the first year's course and passed their examinations. Mrs. Gelwicks and Dr. Lewis have also made commendable progress in the language since their arrival. Dr. Tooker, Mrs. Lingle and Mr. and Mrs. Gelwicks were compelled to be absent from the Station for a few weeks during the heated months of summer. On the whole the missionaries have been in good health since their arrival at their Station.

The Mission was reinforced during the year by the appointment of Rev. W. T. Mitchell and Miss Emma T. Kolfrat.

The Hunan Mission had but two native workers at the date of the Mission report. The need of such assistants, well trained and faithful, is emphasized as the great and pressing want of the Mission. There is no chapel at Siangtan, so that only very meagre accommodations are available for the holding of religious services, yet such services have been maintained in a room of only 15x17 feet, and within and around this place as many as 50 attentive auditors have been packed. Some have faithfully attended services from the very first. Four were baptized and received into membership—the first of our converts in Hunan. Others are waiting to be received.

Many months ago the Board authorized the purchase of property at Hengchow, fifty miles south of Siangtan on the river Siang, and made an appropriation therefor. The property has not yet been secured, but Dr. Lewis and Rev. W. T.

have been assigned to the new Station, and are now ground, Dr. Tooker accompanying them for a few n order to give them the benefit of such knowledge s of the language. 'Already nearly a hundred proquirers have appeared at Hengchow, but it is feared have come from mixed motives, and are interested y hopes of pecuniary gain. Only two have as yet tized. In other places than the Siang Valley, moveve been started partly from political motives, based idea that Christians, native and foreign, are not only espected, but are feared. Since the reaction from the ovement, "five different chapels in different places ted in the name of our Mission during the summer our authority, but they have all been closed. ted by men who really knew nothing about Christianproperty having yet been purchased at Hengchow, y quarters have been rented and fitted up for Dr. d Mr. Mitchell. The Mission indulges the hope of the line of stations southward from Hengchow to ith the Hunanese work near the border of the Canton a work which was started by Mr. Lingle, eight A church was organized there which still seems to sperous condition. Mr. Lingle made a visit to Southin during the year, and was much encouraged by the attitude of officials and of the people toward Chris-.

ork among the women has been carried on to some Mrs. Lingle and Mrs. Doolittle.

CAL WORK.—In this department only beginnings in made during the year, as all the younger missionelargely engaged in learning the language. During the year, however, not only Dr. Leila Doolittle and the year, but also Dr. Lewis, after his late arrival, gave less attention to dispensary work and found the peociative of this branch of service.

the year the Board has been greatly encouraged by $1,500 from Mr. Nathaniel Tooker, of Orange, N. of Dr. F. J. Tooker, for the purchase of a temple close besides the newly purchased Mission common for fitting up the same as a men's hospital. It is that in the next few months this will be thoroughly and equipped for permanent service along medical lans which have been in contemplation for a woman's have been deferred, as Dr. Doolittle now under ent of marriage expects to close her relations with the Mission early next Autumn. This branch of medical work, however, will doubtless be taken up at a later day and necessary provisions made therefor.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—As presenting the situation in regard to education, its encouragements and its difficulties, the following quotation is made from Mr. Lingle's report:

The first of October, 1901, a Boys' Boarding-school was started in Siangtan and the outlook was very promising for a self-supporting school. At the close of the year there were twelve scholars paying $4 (Mexican) a month for board and tuition. A teacher had been secured who was a graduate of our Tengchow College, Shantung, and who had had more than ten years' experience teaching in Nanking and elsewhere. Mr. Lingle had charge of the school, and Mr. Li, the teacher, taught the Western studies. Then Mr. Li was called to assist Dr. Timothy Richards in founding the college at Tai-Yuen-Fu, Shansi Province. It was difficult to fill his place, but finally another graduate of Tungchow College was secured, but he was late in arriving and as some of the scholars were suspicious any way, they failed to re-enter school after Chinese New Year. Then came the Imperial Edict authorizing the establishing of schools of western learning throughout the empire, and one was begun in Siangtan, so that students who had intended to enter our school turned to wait for the opening of the government school, where free board and tuition would be granted. Our fee has been reduced to $3 a month, and yet the scholars do not come. There are only three regular students in school at present. We hope more may come after the government's school begins and it is found there is free board and tuition there for but a limited number.

It is believed that about the date of issuing this report the two missionary residences which have been provided for by the Board will have been so far completed as to be ready for occupation. The land purchased for the compound is thought to be sufficient to allow of the erection of a residence for the missionary in charge of the hospital designed.

The time of Mr. Gelwicks is of necessity largely occupied with language study. No personal report of his work has been received, but his letters indicate an earnest zeal and purpose and a devoted interest in the Hunan Mission which was his choice of field from the first.

The church at Warren, Pa., Rev. Wm. J. Smith, D. D., pastor, has maintained its special interest in the work of the Hunan Mission, and has continued to give liberally for its support. Miss Kolfrat, a member of that church, is specially sustained by the sympathetic interest of her friends at Warren. It is hoped that she will soon be able to have so far learned the language as to be able to start a girls' school.

It is but a little over two years since the Hunan Mission was started by Rev. W. H. Lingle. The prospects for one year, almost at the beginning, were seemingly blotted out by the Boxer disturbance which shook the whole Empire and scattered our missionaries from the field. It is a matter of sincere gratitude to God that notwithstanding all this the Mission should have been so well established, with two promising Stations, with a force of eight missionaries, not including Mrs. and Dr. Doolittle, who expect to leave the Mission in the early Autumn of 1902. Two residences have been built, a hospital property has been purchased and small beginnings have also been made in the reception of communicants, baptized and inquirers. The earnest prayers of the church are solicited for this promising work so soon established in what has been regarded as the most intolerant of all the Provinces of the Chinese Empire.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. Wherry, Rev. C. H. Fenn and Mrs. Fenn, John M. Inglis, M. D., and Mrs. Inglis, and Dr. E. E. Leonard.

The year in both Stations of the Mission has been one of reconstruction of the work as well as of the buildings. has been a year filled with perplexing problems and trying circumstances, yet its close sees the work of the Mission in more encouraging condition than the beginning of the year promised. So far as material results are concerned, the larger part of the Mission buildings have been reconstructed, and in a much more substantial form. In this work the Mission has been greatly aided by the presence of Mr. H. B. Gordon, an architect, secured by the Board, for the oversight of the large work of building contemplated in Seoul, Korea. Owing to the impossibility of executing that work at the time proposed, it was possible for Mr. Gordon to give attention to the work of re-establishment at Wei Hsien in Shantung and at Paotingfu, and the result has been most gratifying, the new buildings for Peking Mission being regarded by all who have seen them as models of their kind. During his stay in Peking Mr. Gordon was constantly sought by members of the Mission in the city for advice and help in connection with their own work of rebuilding. Not only as an architect, however, was his presence appreciated. As a consecrated, Christian man and missionary he has made an enviable reputation, so good a man indeed that the Peking Mission even urged his permanent joining of their force.

PEKING STATION.

The personnel of the Station resumed about its old proportions during the year, Dr. Wherry, Mrs. Whiting and Miss McCoy returning to their work, while the Rev. and Mrs. W. W.

nave been added to the force. Some of those formerly ed with the Station, however, have been transferred to fu, namely, Rev. and Mrs. Killie, Miss Newton and owans. Mr. and Mrs. Killie spent more than half of r, however, in Peking, Mr. Killie's presence being refor the superintendence of building operations, all of were in his charge excepting the rebuilding of the street on Pipe street, which was superintended by Dr. Whither esult of the work of Mr. Killie and Mr. Gordon the dwellings, a Woman's Hospital and a church large to seat five hundred (500) people, and more closelying Chinese ideas of architecture than the majority of churches.

To the great rethe Mission, the plan for union in higher educational as not been carried out, the difficulties in the way haven altogether in other missions than our own.

Killie made two trips to Paotingfu for work among there holding two classes, one in the city, the other country; in these she was helped by Miss Gowans and i. Both classes were well attended and the interest of endants unusual, the women seeming eager and hungry Word. Mrs. Killie also made a home for Mr. Gordon this stay in Peking.

of the more serious problems at the beginning of the was the securing of property for the needed enlargement

Mission compound on Second Street, it having been animous judgment of the Mission that work should not, etofore, be carried on at two points. After long delay any negotiations, a very satisfactory piece of land, imtely adjoining the Second Street compound, and anacross the narrow street on the north were secured at a nable price. The latter was the former haunt of hunof opium smokers and gamblers, the buildings being of an old temple. The whole community has realized ne extent the blessing of the change into quarters for oys' Boarding School of our Mission, and possibly for ture Theological Seminary.

Whiting has been Mission Treasurer since May 1st, and he completion of the street chapel has been responsible for the daily preaching. He also rendered some assistance in the work of building at Paotingfu.

Mr. Cunningham has been pastor of the Chinese church in Peking, and has had charge of the evangelistic work in both city and country, much of the work in the city being carried on under the great disadvantage of residence for the greater part of the year in the temporary quarters in the southern part of the city, distant nearly five miles from the regular place of work. Eight persons have been received into the church, and a number of inquirers enrolled. Mr. Cunningham has spent much time in the country gathering together the scattered Christians, settling their difficulties and seeking to win them from the sadly resentful spirit into which some of the most severe sufferers from the Boxer outbreak had fallen. He succeeded in renting a building in the market town of Ma Fang in a central location, and providing living rooms, a chapel, and a room for the museum, articles for which had been collected by Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham during their furlough at home. This museum has proved a great success. Many have been attracted by it and have heard the Gospel preached. During the summer there were about three thousand visitors of all ranks from the highest official down. Mrs. Cunningham also has spent some time in the country, her principal work, however, being the charge of the Boys' Boarding School in Peking. The work of the school has been very satisfactory, and its spirit excellent. The younger boys and girls were organized into a junior Christian Endeavor Society which has done good work.

The smoking of cigarettes having become very prevalent in Peking, and an increasing curse to the people from babies to the aged, an Anti-Cigarette and Wine League was organized in the school and afterward extended to the church. The result has been most wholesome.

The Girls' School has been under Miss McKillican's supervision. One of the pupils has united with the church and two others have asked for admission. Miss McKillican held regular women's classes during the early part of the year after which she, with Dr. Mackey, spent some months in the country, occupying a house built on the old foundation of one owned by one of the martyred Christians. In this region there are but few of the Christians surviving. People of neighboring villages seemed friendly and many came for medical treatment and to hear the truth.

Miss McCoy has had charge of the women's work in the city, carrying on the daily classes after Miss McKillican's departure. A children's weekly meeting was also started. After the dedication of the street chapel, Miss McCoy took charge day-school for the heathen children, the attendance as been as high as 160.

dical work has not been as large as of old in view bettled condition of the Mission. Dr. Leonard on ther furlough in March, turned over this work to y, who has also continued her language studies. The ations for hospital patients have been too poor to add work of that kind, but the opening of the beautifilding gives promise of a year of successful work, he ingathering for the year has been small, yet in isting conditions, it is not at all discouraging, and are of the Station are looking forward with a cheer-to the promised harvest from the sufferers of 1900.

Throughout the country districts perfect quiet seems to reign, even the mountain region being free from roving bandits who have run riot until this year. And much the same mental attitude toward the truth seems to prevail,—a lessening confidence in idols, sufferance of the foreigner, but hesitation to consider his message. Yet, with the active evangelism which we hope now to inaugurate, we doubt not that there will be response as the Lord shall add His Blessing.

The native Christians have stood firm to the faith, with the exception of one person who has returned to his idolatrous sect. He seems to have been disappointed at not securing employment. We are much comforted by the fact that there seems to be absolutely no feeling of revenge in the hearts of the Christians towards their heathen enemies.

Regular Sunday services have been held in the city by Mr Lowrie and Mr. Miller in the newly rented chapel, with encouraging audiences.

The women have been much refreshed by two classes—the first held in the city by Mrs. Killie and Miss Li Wen Cheng; and the second after the arrival of Miss Gowans, held in the country by Mrs. Killie, Miss Gowans and Miss Li.

Miss Gowans has met visitors, held regular classes and prayer meeting, and conducted the Sunday instruction of the city women with an encouraging increase in attendance, besides sharing in the country class above mentioned, visiting homes east of the city, teaching for some time English to the daughter-in-law of the Provincial Treasurer, and holding a Bible class for native, English-speaking physicians, one of whom was led to Christ.

In the country the company of Christians shepherded by Mr. Simcox at Chia Chuang, Man C'heng Hsien, has met in the chapel building, re-erected by one of their number with his indemnity funds. How these believers, who have been for a year under the care of an indifferent native evangelist, have missed the ministrations of their faithful pastor, who was growing, as they testify, in his power to feed them.

The Christians of Ting Hsing Hsien and Wan Hsien, few in number as they are, have lamented that regular services are not yet re-established among them, but we hope that with the much increased working force now in the Station they will no longer be deprived of the means of grace.

Of schools the station has had one for boys in the country chapel at Chia Chuang, the pupils paying incidental expenses and one-eighth of the teacher's salary. To this school some boys from a distance joined themselves as boarders, paying about one half the cost of their food in addition to the incidental expenses and their share of the teacher's salary.

His visit was short, but was followed by a visit from one of our little flock, T'ien Feng Hsiang, a most devoted man, who promised in earnestness and self-sacrifice to take the place of our lamented evangelist, Lu Shang Chih. Like the Bereans these simple folk sought to learn and soon concluded that these things were so. The women going out to gather for market medicinal herbs on the mountain side would carry their catechisms in the folds of their blouses, and when wearied of work would sit down, take them out and spell over the little already

One man, a leader in the old idolatrous sect, has not yet given in his allegiance, but is deeply impressed, and has promised that if he finds, in consequence of the examination he is now making, that Christianity is true, he will unhesitatingly espouse it, together with the company that follow him. This man's father and mother had begun to read the Bible, and the man himself deeply impressed with the teachings of Jesus concerning meekness under insult, resolved to test his father and see whether the power of Christ was sufficient to produce in him the meekness enjoined in the turning of the other cheek. So he privately sold some much-prized trees belonging to his father, received the money for them and waited quietly to see whether his father would flame with anger at him, as would naturally be expected, or would control himself and greet his son's presumption with the gentle answer. But, alas, the brief work of grace in the father's heart could stand no such strain as this, and the scene that ensued when father and son met did not corroborate the statement that the power of Jesus could produce such virtues as he had commanded. with generations of believing ancestors before us, might well tremble at being subjected to such a thunderbolt of temptation as that. His father's failure to exhibit such heavenly meekness has not, however, dissuaded the son from his examination of gospel truth.

The property in the west city suburb, presented to the Mission by the merchants and gentry, was in the spring a rich tract of garden land, dotted with adobe dwellings of ten or more families of thrifty tenants. Mr. Gordon's professional skill and unremitting labors had furnished us with plans for church, hospitals, schools and dwellings, and Mr. Miller, who with Mrs. Miller and their four boys, had come to Paotingfu in the earliest spring, assumed with Mr. Gordon entire charge of the building operations which have filled his hands up to the present time. Later Dr. Lewis, who had resigned his temporary post of army surgeon, came with his bride to Paotingfu, and assumed a large share of the oversight of the buildings in process of erection. Dr. Lewis also did much for the workmen and railroad employees during the epidemic of Asiatic cholera this summer. Mr. Miller also regularly conducted the Sunday services during the absence of Mr. Lowrie, and continued to conduct the Sunday-school service as he has done since returning to Paotingfu.

The result of the season's building is a beautiful and commodious church approaching completion, a women's hospital almost ready for occupation, a wall enclosing the larger part of the compound, and five comfortable residences.

The Rev. Wm. A. Mather was added to the Station force in the Autumn.

The outlook for the work is encouraging beyond the anticipations of the Mission.

SHUNTEFU STATION.

It has, of course, been impossible to open this Station the past year; but the Mission is definitely planning in that direction.

About January 1, Mr. Lowrie received a big envelope from Viceroy Yuan Shih Kai, conferring on him the order of the blue button. He had previously refused it, but this time was not consulted about the matter.

The city church is crowded every Sunday, and the chapel on the street is crowded every day. Mr. Lowrie often goes in at 11 A. M. and stays until 6 P. M. No longer is the chapel filled with a "greasy lot," but with respectable men, including many merchants, who come day after day. Eight women and as many men were received into the church at the end of December.

In the absence of Dr. Mateer and Mr. Bergen, the work of the College has devolved principally upon Messrs. Wells an Luce, assisted by a good staff of Chinese teachers.

The work has gone forward without interruption. About one hundred students are in attendance. This is about the maximum number which can be cared for in the present qua The thirteen members of the last graduating class a employed for the most part as evangelists in different par of North China. Two are now going to the new Presbyteria Station at Hwai Yuen, Ngan-Hwei province. It is a hard, ro ing commission which these young men have received, wi plenty of hardship and meagre financial reward, comparative speaking. There are, too, noble joys to be discovered in the service, which we hope and pray these young fellows may fir and appropriate. The College is confronting the problem removal to Weihsien. The new plant is now in process construction there, and if funds sufficient can be secured, w be rapidly advanced to completion. This removal will involmuch thought and labor, but the universal feeling is that it w be worth to the College and the great missionary cause f more than it will cost.

The College will thus be planted near the centre of the great province containing 30,000,000 souls, a number equal nearly half the entire population of the United State America. And ours will be the only Christian College for the province, besides being the main institution for the contiguous provinces, for whom teachers must be trained, as we as evangelists, pastors and others.

The probabilities are that in the near future large number of young men desiring the liberal education which the Colle gives, will flock in not only from Shantung, but from Hona Ngan-Hwei, Kiangsu, Chihli, and even from Manchuria.

There is little doubt, but that even with all the enlarg facilities now contemplated at Weihsien, our resources will taxed to the utmost.

The hour for higher education has struck in China. V cannot believe that we shall be forced to lag behind in the grand work, through lack of funds with which to carry it of

Mr. Bergen and Dr. Mateer are now in the U. S. A. see ing to raise an endowment which will be adequate for the work, whose urgency and importance grow more and mo clear.

The College Y. M. C. A. holds a weekly prayer-meeting marked by earnestness and fervor.

Sunday afternoons several of its members walk out to v lages adjacent to the city, and preach on the streets. Occ sionally, also, students proceed with one of the teachers to t street chapel in the water city, and so gain useful experience in direct religious work. The College has been visited by the Secretaries of the National Y. M. C. A., whose frank, earnest talks to the young men produced impressions of the best sort. It is the object of our most earnest effort and prayer, that the College may turn out young men in increasing numbers, who, as ministers or evangelists, will be able to do a great work for the young church in North China.

It is hoped also that a Normal Department may be later added, with the especial aim of preparing teachers for secondary and village schools.

GIRLS' HIGH SCHOOL.—Since the departure of Mrs. Hayes for Chinan last spring, the school has been under the care of Mrs. Wight. Thirty-four pupils have been enrolled, ranging in age from twelve to twenty-three years. Three girls were graduated in June. Sixteen of the girls are church members, four of whom united with the church during the year. Only six of the pupils are from heathen homes. The Christian tone of the school is good. The girls have their own meetings, several of them also teaching in Sabbath-schools.

Nearly all the pupils pay some tuition; 46,000 large cash has been received from this source. Since Mrs. Hayes' return from Chinan, she has kindly assisted in the teaching, while Miss Snodgrass has also rendered assistance of the most practical sort.

DAY-SCHOOLS.—There are twelve country schools for boys and in the city five schools, with a total attendance of 238; three girls' schools with total enrollment of thirty-three. The majority of the boys are from heathen homes, while the opposite is true of the girls' schools. One of the city boys' schools is supported entirely by the native Christians.

These day-schools are of educational value, besides forming excellent evangelistic agencies. Not a few of the pupils ultimately find their way into the College.

The great problem is, how to secure a better grade of teachers and fix a uniform course of study.

For the most part the schools are examined three times a year.

CITY EVANGELISTIC WORK.—This work has been most encouraging. Two women's prayer-meetings have been under the charge of Miss Snodgrass and Mrs. Wells, and held weekly at the homes of these ladies, with an average attendance at the two meetings of about eighty. Two evangelists and two Bible women have been under the charge of Miss Snodgrass in this city evangelization; she has done faithful work in house-to-house visitation, and in teaching the women; she has made 238 visits in all, and the Bible woman in addition 561, making a total of 799 visits for the year. In this city work all the members of the Station have had some part, varying according to health or time available. An evening class is being conducted for inquirers from the city, the general interest being on the increase. The usual services of the week, with the Sunday-schools, which have been under the charge of Dr. Seymour, have all been well attended. These two Sunday-schools have averaged an attendance of 300.

COUNTRY EVANGELISTIC WORK.—This department, with the care of the country day-schools, has been largely cared for by Mr. Irwin. This involved heavy responsibility and repeated long and cold journeys, Mr. Irwin having been absent from home in these itinerations a total of 166 days, traveling usually by pack animals.

The results of the work done are most cheering. In the Pingtu District, where the work had been sadly demoralized, through certain "false brethren," the Christians had been drawn together again, several new members received, and the work purified and consolidated.

In Laichoufu, the Christians had suffered a good deal during the year 1900, with resulting disorganization. Mr. Irwin, assisted by their former pastor, Rev. Ting Li Mei, held a series of meetings by which their faith was revived.

In the Tengchow District there is a very manifest increase of interest in the Gospel.

All records of church members have been carefully revised, and twenty-four names dropped from the rolls. This, however, is no reason for discouragement, but the contrary, putting the work into a healthier condition.

During the summer, Mr. Mason Wells with several students from the College, made a visit of a month to a group of large islands lying north of Tengchow. As a result of these weeks of preaching, a considerable interest seemed to have been awakened.

In connection with the Tengchow Station ninety-five were received into the church on profession of their faith, making a total membership of 657.

The year's record is a gratifying one.

The very unusual number of inquirers, together with the large number of men and women baptized, fill the hearts of the members of the Station with new joy and courage and hopes for the future.

MEDICAL WORK.—Hospital and dispensary have been open throughout the year.

Cases treated at the Dispensary	4,417
Calls from college students	500
Visits to homes of patients	200
Country cases	100
Total	5,217

There was a total of forty in-patients.

More systematic evangelistic work has been done than ever before. The two native doctors have both done a good deal of preaching. Dr. Sun also spent some time in instructing a small class of inquirers. A Chinese woman, who received a medical education from the late Dr. Mary Brown, has been employed, and rendering good service, both in the dispensary and the women's meetings.

LITERARY WORK.—Dr. and Mrs. Mateer have devoted themselves chiefly to this, Dr. Mateer being the chairman of the committee for the preparation of a union Mandarin version of the Bible. Mr. and Mrs. Mateer have prepared also an extensive list of scientific terms, it being in fact a small dictionary, for the educational association.

Mr. Luce has translated for his class work "Sharmon's Studies in the Life of Christ."

Dr. Seymour has been revising his primary Sunday-school lessons for publication, by direction of the Sunday-school Committee of the Mission.

Conclusion.—The outlook was never more promising, and in order to properly enter upon this expanding work, there should be a larger staff of native helpers, another clerical missionary, and a single woman for village work.

"May the Lord of the harvest send forth more laborers that much fruit may be gathered in."

CHEFOO STATION.

The year has been a busy one for the Chefoo Station. Attendance at the street chapel and museum at Chefoo was larger than ever.

New schools have been opened. A greater number of new members welcomed into communion with the church than for some years past; an unusually large number of inquirers under instruction; liberal offerings for the preaching of the Gospel and for the erection of the new church, made by the Chinese; the Anglo-Chinese school more flourishing than ever before; new buildings being erected by Chinese patrons, and all expenses save foreign salaries provided for without cost to the Board, give us cause for the greatest encouragement.

The members of the Station return therefore thanks to God for his goodness, and look forward to the future with renew confidence.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The territory covered is region extending from Chefoo on the northeast, to Tsington the southwest, about 160 miles long and fifty miles in widt and includes seven districts having a population roughly est mated at 3,500,000.

This field is worked by Dr. Corbett, Mr. Elterich and M Cornwell, each having a definite sphere of labor within bounds. Three single ladies furnish also valuable assistan in this evangelistic effort, and the married ladies do all the their strength and family cares permit.

This force is wholly inadequate, especially in view of the fact that, in addition to the country work, there are at Chefe three boarding schools and a number of day-schools, with church and street chapel to be looked after, all of which require time and thought for their proper superintendence.

CHEFOO STREET CHAPEL AND MUSEUM.—It has been a reord-breaking year for attendance, 86,000 men having hea the Gospel preached within its halls, and received tracts. few have been received into the church, many are inquirin and a multitude has been impressed by what was there se and heard.

A native type-cutter has been engaged, so that the grequantities of tracts, calendars and hymns required, are no printed on the place. A considerable saving is thus effected

The chapel and museum form an institution which is mu admired by foreign and Chinese visitors, and is universal endorsed by those knowing anything of its character as work.

Miss Vaughn and Dr. Cooper have instructed a class women from the neighborhood of Chefoo, and hope to more of this work the coming year.

The work at the silk factory with its 600 employees has he to be suspended owing to lack of force. A number of appretices previously converted are, however, leading Christic lives. Regular work was carried on for the laborers employed on the new buildings for the Anglo-Chinese school.

Repeated trips were made to the country districts in t spring and autumn by Dr. Corbett and Messrs. Cornwell as Elterich, also by Dr. Cooper and Miss Vaughn, all being a sisted by trained native workers. Class leaders, school-teaders and other Christians also had a share in the work. T people generally showed great readiness to listen to the trupreached on their streets or in the markets, and no troul was experienced at any time.

Several Bible women have had unusual success in gaining access to new homes, with the result that many women are now studying.

It is recorded with thanksgiving that 137 new members have been admitted to the church, a larger number than for some years past. An especially encouraging feature is that amongst them were several entire families.

Within the last two years the German Lutherans from Tsingtau have been gadually pushing into the field occupied by the Station for thirty years. One of their missionaries is now a resident in the city of Chimei, and a street chapel and book room have been secured in the city of Lai Yang. Both of these cities have long been worked from Chefoo. The Station feels that it can only go ahead and do its work as before, irrespective of this advance on the part of the German missionaries.

In Mr. Cornwell's field a number of Buddhist and Taoist priests became interested in the truth, and one from each of these sects has been received into the church. Their desire to turn over to the church the temples and lands occupied by them has so far been frustrated by the Chinese officials.

Efforts are being made to reach the English-speaking Chinese and Japanese who are engaged in business in Chefoo, by means of a Y. M. C. A. lately organized and of which Mr. Cornwell is Secretary.

PASTORAL WORK.—The Chefoo field has eight organized churches, with a membership of 835. In addition to these are 546 members who are under the pastoral oversight of Dr. Corbett and Messrs. Cornwell and Elterich, making a total Christian community of 1,381.

Two of the churches support Rev. Mr. Han, their pastor, while the church at Chefoo pays the salaries of two evangelists. During the year twenty-four members were received by the Chefoo church, Dr. Corbett being pastor. The total contributions have increased from $880 Mex. in 1901, to $2,040 Mex. in 1902. This increase is due in part to the great desire felt for a new church, and which it is hoped may be erected soon, and for which a fund of $4,500 Mex. is now in hand, all having been raised on the field. The church has now a membership of 334. The spiritual condition of the church has improved. There is good attendance at the stated services, and in the homes of the members family worship has become more the rule. In the three Chefoo Sunday-schools, the men and boys have been under the care of Mr. Elterich, the women and girls looked after by Mrs. Corbett and the day pupils by Mrs. Cornwell. Through these pupils many homes are reached with the Gospel which would otherwise have remained tirely uninfluenced.

A Conference.—Preceding the meeting of Presbyte practical topics were discussed by all workers present, such the best means for advancing the kingdom of Christ, spirit life, family worship. The results of this conference were good that another has been called for 1903.

COTTAGE PRAYER-MEETINGS FOR WOMEN.—These have be under the care of Mrs. Corbett and have been of great valto the women attending them.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—There are twenty day-scho under the care of the Station, five of these being in Chef Mrs. Nevins has the oversight of three of these schools. ( of them is for girls, and is of more than ordinarily high gra The thanks of the Station are due Miss Bainbridge, w though not technically a member of the Mission, has free devoted a great deal of her time to this school, teaching girls English. The other two schools are for boys. One these schools is well housed in a building erected by M Nevins at her own expense, and which is large enough to f nish lodging for the teachers and family, as well as a pl for the meeting of an industrial class for women, which is be reopened soon. The teacher of this school was purcha by Mrs. Nevins twenty-five years ago, during the great fa ine. She was thus rescued from a life of shame that was i pending.

CHEFOO BOARDING SCHOOLS.—The Academy has not be so well attended as formerly, there being now only abstraction that twenty pupils. Many promising boys have gone to Tsing for the purpose of learning German in the schools there, is becoming a problem how to secure boys for the Cheschools, as most of our Christian population lies in or absGerman territory.

It indicates plainly that our Mission should open a boaing school in the city of Tsingtau for boys from our Chitan families. We will in this way be able to retain our hupon them. As matters stand now, we are likely to lose not few. Through long attendance at the German Luthe schools, they are apt in the end to gravitate toward to church. The work of the German Mission will then naturable extended to the homes of such pupils. We will, therefor have to confront the highly undesirable condition of dividanilies, part being Lutheran and part Presbyterian.

The establishment of our own school in Tsingtau, offer equal if not superior advantages as compared with the Germ schools, to boys after an education, is, in our judgment, the only means of averting a deplorable denominational rivalry, and the discord following, unless indeed, we are ready to transfer the entire Western part of the field, which has been worked by us for so many years, and with good success, to the care of the German Lutheran missionaries of Tsingtau. Such a step we cannot seriously contemplate.

CHEFOO NORMAL SCHOOL.—Twelve young men have been in attendance, of whom three were graduated during the year. These graduates will enter the service of the Chinan Station. This school is under the care of Dr. Corbett, while Mr. Elterich has charge of the Academy.

CHEFOO ANGLO-CHINESE SCHOOL.—This school, of which Mr. Cornwell is principal, has enjoyed the most prosperous year of its history, having a total enrollment of eighty pupils. Fifteen of these are Christians, three of them being received into the church this year. There are three foreign and seven native teachers, all save one being active Christians. One of the students has lately left the school that he might, in company with another former pupil, proceed to the United States with the Chinese Minister to Washington, Sir Liang. Both go as students. Two others have definite prospects of continuing their studies in America. Another of the boys is in England, and still another in St. Petersburg.

Fees have been received to the extent of $2,500 Mex. This sum has sufficed to meet all current expenses (with exception of foreign salaries) and to erect further buildings necessary. These are rooms for dormitories, a main hall, a recitation room and study for the teacher expected from home.

These buildings have been erected without expense to the Board. The school accommodations are now sufficient for 120 boys. Should this number be reached, the fees will enable us to provide entirely for the salary of the teacher expected from home. A catalogue of the school has just been published.

The school misses greatly the valuable assistance of Miss Vaughan, who has become a regular member of the Station and been appointed by the Board to evangelistic work.

Miss C. B. Downing has rendered most efficient service throughout the year.

For a part of the time Mrs. Nevius also has given assistance.

Mrs. Crossette has done excellent work since she came into connection with the school in February, but she now feels it her duty to return to her own Station at Weihsien. Samuel Mills will supply her place until the new teacher from the United States arrives.

THEOLOGICAL.—The Theological class organized by the East and West Shantung Missions was instructed for several months. Six young men formed the class, which was taught by Dr. Corbett and Messrs. Elterich and Cornwell. This important work required large outlay of time and strength.

A larger class will meet at our Station during the spring and summer of 1003.

MEDICAL WORK.—This department has been under the care of Dr. Effie Cooper, who has devoted her entire time to this and related evangelistic work. She has treated a total of over 3,000 patients, and found many opportunities of making known the truth to women and girls, and inviting them to the Chefoo services. Many have accepted this invitation. Dr Cooper, being the only lady physician in Chefoo, has a very wide field for useful work, both medical and evangelistic.

DEAF INSTITUTE AND INDUSTRIAL WORK.—Mrs. Mill's report on the Deaf Institute has unfortunately not yet come to hand.

INDUSTRIAL WORK.—The Chefoo Industrial Mission under the charge of Mr. and Mrs. James McMullan, has become affiliated with our work.

Mr. McMullan is a member of the Presbyterian Church of Ireland. A few years ago he and his wife began a work for boys and girls, of an industrial character, the two employments taught being the making of lace and brushes. Half of each day is spent by the pupils in work and the other half in the study of books, chiefly religious.

The school has prospered and now occupies a suitable building erected by Mr. McMullan. Mr. McMullan has requested our help in the spiritual work of the school. A committee was also appointed by Presbytery (Dr. Corbett, Mr. Elterich and Elder Yu of the Chesoo church) to bring in a report as to the expediency of organizing a church in connection with the school. It is hoped that as a number of Chinese Christians attend services there that this can be done, and a native pastor placed in charge.

The pupils in the girls' department of the schools number sixty-three. Dr. Cooper has for two months taught a class for inquirers among them. Fourteen have applied for baptism and nine have among them. Fourteen have been received into the church.

The school is a most useful one from every standpoint.

LITERARY WORK .- Mrs. Nevius has completed her edition of the Woman's Classic. The book in its original form has been in circulation for centuries and is, in the main, good. Mrs. Nevius has taken out certain parts which encouraged ancestral worship, polygamy and suicide. It is hoped that it will now be a very helpful addition to the curriculum of girls' schools.

Mrs. Nevius has also ready for publication a tract against foot binding. It will be published by the Tien-chu-hwei or Natural Foot Society.

In closing this report for the year, we wish to record our gratitude to God for His manifold blessings. Our only regret is, that our force is so inadequate for properly looking after the work already in hand, to say nothing of new fields opening up on every hand, both in the country districts and in Chefoo itself. It was at one time feared that the opening of Tsingtau, the German port, might affect the prosperity of Chefoo unfavorably. This has not been the case. Chefoo is growing in wealth, population, and commercial importance, with wonderful rapidity.

Trade in real estate is active; large numbers of new buildings are going up; a very extensive water front (bund) is in course of construction; plans are being laid for water communication with Chinan, the provincial capital, with the consequence that many thousands are flocking to Chefoo to engage in business.

Chefoo is also the port for the terminus of the Port Arthurbranch of the Siberian P. R., and is the market for that port.

The outlook for our work in all its departments was never brighter, and we trust that the Board will be able to send us the evangelist we have asked for so often, and also a man for the Anglo-Chinese school. We rejoice in the appointment of Miss Vaughn, and also in the arrival of Miss Grace Corbett. who is fitting herself for future work. The health of the Station has been in the main good, though in the spring the household of Mr. Cornwell was stricken with illness. All recovered except Mr. and Mrs. Cornwell's little son Jamie, who was taken away to be with Jesus.

For the hopeful outlook, for spared lives, and all other blessings from on high, the Station returns devout thanks to God.

TSINGTAU.

The removal of the Rev. P. D. and Mrs. Bergen to Chefoo left the Station with the Rev. L. J. and Mrs. Davies and the Rev. C. P. Metzler as the missionary force during the year.

ler, as the missionary force during the year.

The Committee of Presbytery appointed in 1901, after numerous delays, organized a new church, to which the Rev. Ting Li Mei has been called. The membership will be nearly one hundred when all the letters are received.

Before Mr. Bergen left, money to build a new church in Ta Pao Fao was pledged and partly raised. Last spring the balance was collected and plans made for building. Nearly $2,700 has been so far put into the building, all subscribed by Chinese. Work was begun in May and the first service was held on the 10th of August. The church will seat when finished about two hundred people.

A Young Men's Christian Association, with eighty members, has been organized. Also a new school for girls, with nine pupils.

Visits to the out-stations have been made more frequently by reason of the railroad which passes through the extensive parish of Mr. Davies, There are seventeen Primary schools in this field, with an enrollment of 163 pupils, a gain over last year of six schools and fifty-three pupils.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Miss Emma F. Boughton, Mrs. Faries.

From the four Stations of this Mission the work has be carried on with vigor in all its departments.

A greater degree of cordiality and mutual confidence has marked the relations of foreigners and Chinese. The peop generally regard the Boxer movement as a mistake and understand that its magical claims were a huge delusion. The tot of the reports is decidedly hopeful. Though not so many has been actually received into the church as in some former year there exists notwithstanding, a unanimous conviction, that ware confronting a period of expansion. These views are bas upon the growing spiritual earnestness of the Christians; the large number of enquirers examined and enrolled; the necentres opened for regular services, and the manifest present of the Holy Spirit in a series of revival meetings which we held in different centres.

A final settlement of all outstanding indemnity accounts heen attained, and without friction, a result upon which the Mission is to be congratulated. It should be particularly note that both foreigners and Chinese submitted to personal losse receiving only a fractional compensation, and in some instance nothing at all, thus setting a noble example of suffering for Chirst's sake, which will certainly have its effect.

The committees appointed by Mission and Presbytery f taking in charge all cases of recantation have now completed their work, and with the best spiritual results.

The Christians were gathered into meetings, where prayer and song followed instruction. Coldness and distrust were scon replaced by searchings of heart and repentance with tears. Misunderstandings were cleared up. During hours of confession and thanksgiving, all were uplifted to nobler conceptions of the privileges of Christian service, and of suffering for righteousness' sake.

It must, however, be recorded with sorrow that a few had to be suspended from Christian fellowship in the church. This was due to the fact that they had already themselves severed their connection with the church. It is hoped that some of these erring ones may yet be reclaimed.

The whole recantation question was one requiring sympathy and forbearance on the part of those investigating. It is believed now to be a question settled. The church we may well believe will be in the end purer and stronger for its first great baptism into the sufferings of Christ.

Other encouraging characteristics of the year's work have been attained, and without friction, a result upon which the pastors, coupled with their increasing willingness to support them, and a remarkable demand on the part of the Chinese for Christian and scientific literature.

This would certainly indicate a feeling amongst the people that the national currents are flowing toward reform. It warrants us in the judgment that we are not facing an epoch of renewed anarchy, but that we may rather look forward with assurance to a condition of political stability, marked by industrial, social and religious advance.

WEIHSIEN STATION.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Mateer, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Chalfant, Dr. W. R. Faries, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fitch, Mrs. M. M. Crossette, and Dr. Edna B. Parks have been on the field throughout the year, though not all in continuous residence at the Station, through lack of house accommodation.

Appreciative mention is made of the presence at the Station during the months of November and December of the Board's architect, Mr. H. B. Gordon, and of Mr. W. Russell, superintendent of building, since April.

One of the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Fitch, together with a number of other pupils, fell a victim to the cholera, which broke out in the Chefoo Boys' School in July. Ellsworth Fitch was a bright and promising boy, and the whole Mission mourn with the bereaved parents in their sad loss, which came upon them with terrible suddenness.

Great solicitude is felt for the health of Miss Boughton, who has been detained in this country on account of continued and serious illness. The health of Mrs. Crossette is now re-established, and she will rejoin the Station on the completion of her house.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—This has been prosecuted uninterruptedly. Three meetings of Presbytery were held at the Station, the sessions aggregating twenty-six days, "Questions of dealing with churches where recantation had occurred; the prosecution of a difficult judicial case, and the readjustment of certain cases where extortionate indemnity had been obtained through recreant members," were the special matters taken in hand, in addition to the ordinary busi-The commission appointed to make the rounds of the out-stations in order to investigate the question of recantation consisted of a native pastor or Moderator, two elders and one foreign pastor. Special services of three or four days were held in each of the ten churches where elders had recanted. "The whole emphasis was placed on the object and purposes of God in permitting persecution, and how we ought to conduct ourselves under it."

"Before the services closed in each centre deepest repentance was manifested, and earnest confession of sin made." The work of the commission required forty days. In addition to the above other revival services have been conducted in different parts of the field.

The great theme of these gatherings has been—it is every man's duty to make known the Gospel to his neighbors.

Especially noteworthy was a union series of meetings held in Chingchow with the English Baptist friends, at which 176 delegates from our field attended, with an equal number of Baptist Christians.

There has always been a great deal of brotherly love between these two Missions, so far as foreigners are concerned, and now the Chinese are being inducted into this good fellowship. Such meetings are splendid evidence of the advance being made toward a real Christian unity.

ATTITUDE OF THE CHURCH TOWARD THE NATIVE PASTORATE.—This is an encouraging one. Four calls have been extended. In one case when a pastor was called with increased salary he was not released by the Presbytery of Shantung. The fields under native Pastors are well cared for. The people subscribe readily toward their salaries, and appear to feel the need of pastoral care even more than in the days previous to the Boxer uprising.

DEMAND FOR CHRISTIAN LITERATURE.—There has been decided increase here. The sales for the year amount to 170,000 large cash as compared with a former maximum of 30,000 large cash. In the report, the conviction is expressed, that a good stock of books should be kept constantly on hand, and that this desire for literature should be fostered in every possible way.

ADVANCED WORK.—Preaching has been carried on in sections hitherto unreached by the Gospel, particularly in parts of the districts of Nyau Chin, Weihsien and Chuching. As a result of this larger effort, 150 have been examined for baptism and seven new centres opened, where regular services are held. "There seems on every side providential preparation for receiving the Gospel."

WORK FOR WOMEN.—Five classes for women were held with a total attendance of 125. The classes were in session an average of twenty days each. In addition to the work of these classes, the ladies have made a number of visits to the outstations, holding services and reaching with the Gospel message many who had not heard it before.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—The Boys' High School has been in session ten months with an attendance of thirty. Quarters are cramped but the boys have made very fair progress. The opening of the Girls' High School has been postponed until the autumn.

Thirty-five country day-schools are now reorganized with an aggregate of 350 pupils. All incidental expenses of these schools and one-third of the teachers' salary are met by parents of the pupils.

In addition to the above are three day-schools for girls. In January four girls' boarding schools were opened in the villages with eighty pupils enrolled.

Many desiring to enter these schools were turned away owing to lack of room.

MEDICAL WORK.—At the men's dispensary have been treated 5,030 cases, 3,311 of these being new.

An inn in a suburb of the city has formed a temporary medical headquarters. Both the rooms and neighborhood are unsanitary, consequently but little hospital work has been attempted. A few urgent surgical cases were, however, operated on with good results.

Dr. Faries has conducted services at the inn every Sunday afternoon, twenty being the average attendance. The opening of a new out-station is one of the results of this work.

Dr. Faries has had to spend considerable time in collecting materials and assisting in the construction of the men's dispensary and of his own home.

The sanitation of the compound during the cholera epidemic required careful arrangement and vigilance. There were only four deaths among the 300 workmen, and only one of these occurred on the place.

No attempt was made to open the Women's Dispensary until July. Up to date the attendance has been small, averaging six or seven daily. This is doubtless due to the prolonged discontinuance of the dispensary, and to the fact that the women have not yet recovered their courage after the events of 1900.

The Gospel is presented to all who come. Thirty-five visits to homes have been made.

THE BUILDING.—The work is being pushed, but it has proved even a heavier task than was anticipated, owing to high prices, scarcity of materials and workmen, heavy rains and an invasion of cholera. Still good progress has been made.

A site of eight acres for the Shantung College has been secured. The Board's architect, Mr. Gordon, has made an accurate survey of this, together with the original site of the Station, divided up the ground for buildings and drawn plans for them.

"We believe Mr. Gordon's services will be most valuable."
The houses, though more expensive, are also more substantial than formerly. Previous defects have been avoided. Throughout the whole compound a unity is manifest, which will add vastly to its convenience, healthfulness and beauty.

The Station was again fortunate in securing the services of Mr. W. Russell as superintendent of building. His previous experience, command of the language and personal qualities. particularly fit him for this post. In spite of all the difficulties above mentioned he has made excellent progress. The character of the work, too, is worthy of all praise.

The Boys' School and Men's Dispensary are ready for occupancy this autumn. The houses for Messrs, Chalfant and Fitch are under roof. Dr. Faries' dwelling and the Ladies' Home are well advanced. Other Chinese buildings are finished. Work has been begun on the wall enclosing the college property.

Morning prayers are held with the workmen, who attend willingly and listen with interest.

The opening of the German railway to Weihsien puts the Station into direct communication with the coast and makes possible a daily mail.

The Station very much enjoyed a brief visit from Miss Ellen Parsons, the Editor of Woman's Work for Woman.

CHINAN STATION.

The outlook for the church is good. The conditions are better than any one could have expected two years ago. The province has been free from anti-foreign disturbances. The Boxer excitement has subsided more rapidly than the most sanguine of us anticipated. The removal of the firm and liberal Governor, Yuan Shih Kai, which some feared would be attended by fresh troubles, was accomplished quietly. Likewise when his successor, Chang, was followed by the present Governor Chou, there was no disorder. In the country, as the fear of future Boxer outbreaks lessens, the cold reserve of the heathen populace so noticeable last year is gradually giving way. Some of the evangelists report a more respectful hearing than they obtained before the uprising. This is all encouraging.

CITY AND SUBURB EVANGELISTIC WORK.—The event of the year has been the opening of a centre for city work just inside the South Gate. The Station for several years has felt most keenly the fact, that there was no preaching in the city. To us in Chinan, who recollected the years of faithful work in our former city chapel and dispensary, and our long and trying residence in the heart of the city, it was more than a regret that the visible traces of our city work had all disappeared. When therefore a property suitable and accessible to our compound came into the market we secured it at once. Most opportunely, Mrs. Wight just at this time very generously presented $800.00 of her indemnity money for the work of the Station. A legacy of $500 in gold from Rev Dr. Hamilton also became available. These sums, with contributions from the Chinan church and the missionaries, gave us the desired total of nearly $3,000 Mex. The property furnishes space for a book-store, a combined street and Sunday chapel, a small reception-room and a school-room. The book-store has a stock of books valued at $500 gold, and has monthly sales amounting to $30 gold. Seven pupils attend the school. They are from official families and are taught English. The Sunday services in suburb and city have been well attended. Mr. Hamilton has had charge of these services in the suburb, while Dr. Hays, of the Government College, with his Christian teachers, conducted the city meetings. Mr. Murray has also assisted largely in the Sunday preaching. Rev. Frank Harmon, of the English Baptist Mission, has rendered efficient help.

WORK IN THE COUNTRY DISTRICTS.—South and west of the city this work has fallen to Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton. It suffered severely during 1900. It has been found necessary to suspend twenty-six out of a total of 129, they being still afraid to resume their Christian profession.

North of the city and of the Yellow River, there are now four organized churches, with some unorganized work, making total membership of 227. In this region there was also much suffering during the Boxer uprising. About twenty are under suspension, but the outlook is good. Elders and deacons have been ordained and much instruction given in classes. Some of the best members were taken off by cholera during the summer, to our great sorrow.

Woman's Evangelistic Work.—In addition to two regular weekly meetings for women eighty-six women have received instruction in classes held during the spring and autumn. The ladies are also planning for work in the city. There are now in connection with Chinan Station five organized churches and 460 communicants, of whom twenty-six were baptized during the present year.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Boys' School was reopened in March with thirty-two in attendance.

A stronger effort is being made to attain self-support and with gratifying results.

All boys pay tuition, and those who take English pay the entire cost of their board.

The country day-schools have not yet been reopened.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Neal reports a considerable increase in the number of patients as compared with years previous to the Boxer outbreak. Still there has been a total attendance at the dispensary of 7,283, of these 3,672 being new. Hospital in-patients number 114.

Good progress has been made toward self-support. Through voluntary Chinese subscriptions and the sale of drugs the hospital has had an income of nearly $1,000 Mex. Regular religious work has been carried on and a number have expressed interest in the Gospel.

A class of seven medical students under Dr. Neal finished their studies in December. Five of them are now at work connected with the Mission, while two are without any definite employment.

MEDICAL WORK FOR WOMEN.—Dr. Burnham reports for a period of ten and one-half months:

Dispensary patients (these being new patients)	1,906
Return visits	1,217
Medicines sent out (of these 52 were poison cases)	320
Visits to patients' homes (of these 18 were poison cases).	135
Total of patients treated	3,578

From native contributions and the sale of drugs the hospital has realized the sum of $401.32 Mex. It is noted that a better class of people are now coming for treatment. "Every one who comes has an opportunity of hearing the Gospel, owing to the faithful preaching of the foreign ladies here."

Many visits have been made, mostly to the homes of the higher classes. Not a few new friends have been won in this way.

NOTE.

After this report had reached New York there came from the field the sad news of the death of Mrs. Murray, who passed away in Chinan on October 13th, 1902. She had been suffering from fever, which, though finally broken, left her in an exhausted condition, from which she was not able to rally.

Mrs. Murray was a consecrated woman of unusual ability. Whether in her household duties, the training of her children, or in leading Chinese women to Christ, she was always wise and earnest.

In the earlier years of residence in Chinan, when the situation was frequently depressing, her irrepressible cheerfulness was an inspiration. She was tireless and joyful in her labors. Instead of standing appalled at difficulties, her positive, practical mind grappled with them and generally with success. Not only her bereaved husband and children, but the wide circle of her co-workers, relatives and friends on both sides the sea, will feel that they have met with a grievous loss.

ICHOW STATION.

The Station has had the great pleasure of welcoming as a new member Rev. Thomas N. Thompson.

Rev. and Mrs. James Waite and the Rev. Alex. Waite have resided temporarily at the Station, pending their permanent assignment by the Mission.

The Station has numbered fifteen persons—old and young—thus exceeding all previous records,

There has been no sickness with the exception of little Emma Waite, who has suffered from a low but persistent fever.

INDEMNITY.—After trying delay all indemnity claims have been finally adjusted.

Mr. Faris writes:

Ichowfu district embraces seven counties. In four of these there are Protestants, and in all four persecution cases involving claims for indemnity occurred. In one county, the only case was managed by the sufferer, who happened to be the richest man in the field. In another, the Christians, after making out their damage lists, forgave their enemies, and pocketed their losses. In another, the accounts through a technicality were rendered partially invalid, and it was thought best to withdraw the claims, when a mere pittance had been received.

The bulk of the indemnity was due the Christians living in our own county, and after months of waiting, the account was settled in January of the present year (1902). In the end forty-five per cent. of the face value of the lists turned in to the officials was paid.

MEDICAL WORK.—During the last ten months there have been treated in the dispensary 10,403 patients; 5,547 of these were new. Of the total number, 1,000 were women who came through the autumn before the opening of the Woman's Dispensary. Thirty in-patients were admitted to the hospital. Many unimportant cases are now sent by Dr. Johnson to a former medical assistant, who has begun an independent practice with moderate success. He has paid the Mission for a period of six months 100,000 large cash for medicines purchased from the dispensary.

MEDICAL TEACHING.—Eleven young men are now taking a medical course under Dr. Johnson. They pay their own expenses, only a room being furnished. Very good work is being done. Mrs. Johnson instructs the class in English.

Woman's Medical Work.—This has been resumed under the charge of Dr. Elva Fleming. As a result of her observations in Korea and South China, during her necessary absence from the Station, Dr. Fleming determined to make her work more nearly self-supporting than heretofore, and accordingly has, for the past five months, made a small charge at the hospital gate. The results have been satisfactory in some respects, though there has been a falling off in the number of patients. This decrease is, however, to be attributed mainly to the events of 1900, the women not having fully regained confidence. The fees received amount to a considerable sum. Total number of cases treated, 1,651. Of these, 1,018 were new. There were admitted to the hospital fifty-two in-patients. There were twelve surgical cases and twenty-three visits were made to homes.

This report of woman's work covers a period of five months and six days.

EVANGELISTIC.—Mr. Faris, during eighty-three days spent in the country, has been able to visit all the organized work in the field, the first time this has been accomplished since 1899. Three classes for inquirers were conducted by Mr. Faris in January and July, numbering about thirty to each class. The attendance was smaller than in previous years, when any person expressing a wish to study was admitted, while in these classes only picked men were included.

Mr. Laughlin, of Chining, who visited the Station in the course of the summer, was of great assistance in the class

Mrs. Faris has held a weekly class for women, besides making three itinerating trips, one of which extended "to the almost inaccessible regions of the Ishan mountains," Regret is felt that Owing to inadequacy of force, no advance work through the unevangelized districts of the field could be undertaken. Nevertheless, through the quiet work of a few unattached Christians, several new regions have been reached, and one new centre of work opened.

Not so many inquirers have been enrolled as usual, but those coming, represent a superior type and appear actuated by a genuine desire to learn the truth. Mr. and Mrs. Faris have had charge of the five day-schools connected with the Station.

LANGUAGE STUDY.—Mr. Thompson has spent his entire time in the study of Chinese, passing his examinations well. He made one brief trip to the country with Mr. Faris.

The report expresses much pleasure at the prospective grant for a woman's hospital, the present rooms being utterly unfit for such work.

The great material need aside from the Woman's Hospital is for a new chapel.

Mr. Faris writes:

No member of the American Presbyterian Church has stepped across the threshold of our present chapel without feeling ashamed of its mud, rat-riddled walls, brick floors and straw roof.

Moreover, it is too small, being often overcrowded, and inferior from every standpoint to the other property of the Board at Ichow.

There are 364 communicants connected with the Station, of whom twenty-eight were added during the year. The five schools number fifty-three pupils.

Native contributions for all purposes amounted to $156.18

CHINING STATION.

"The best thing which has happened during the year," writes Mr. Laughlin, "was the coming of the new missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. Romig, who are very acceptable to natives and foreigners alike."

The Station has still so small a force, and there was so much building going on at the Station requiring continual oversight that extended itineration became impossible. The members of the Station feel this keenly, especially as Chining forms the centre of probably the least evangelized region in the province.

The customary Sunday and week-day meetings at the Station have gone on without break and been well attended. Although there are no ladies able to meet the Chinese women, yet there has been a good proportion of women in the congregation.

Two series of revival meetings were arranged with good spiritual results. There were present at them not only the city

Christians but many from the villages.

The contributions made by the Chinese, amounting to the sum of 50,000 large cash, indicates a really liberal spirit when all the circumstances are taken into consideration. It marks an advance in the grace of giving.

A poor lame boy who died in the faith during the year left his entire savings, amounting to 30,000 large cash, for the work of the local church.

The entire membership is now 159, and of these thirty-three were received during the year.

The spiritual state of the Christians is not all that could be desired. "Envy, jealousy and dissension," Mr. Laughlin reports, "are only too evidently present. Nevertheless the outlook is bright."

The coming year gives promise of large gains to the church. This is evidenced by the goodly number of inquirers who have received instruction in their country homes from the native helpers.

BUILDING.—The original compound having proved crowded and unsanitary is being enlarged and rebulit in part in foreign style.

A new hospital is planned for, the dwelling of Dr. Lyon about completed, and one for Mr. and Mrs. Romig under way.

The additional land necessary was secured "without any friction whatever, for which we are grateful to God."

Dr. Lyon being deeply engaged in language study and in the erection of his house, together with some rooms for hospital uses, has been unable to carry on medical work, beyond treating the Christians, the workmen on the place, and the foreign members of the Station. "It is hoped that after the Chinese New Year both hospital and dispensary will be in full operation."

EDUCATIONAL.—Mr. Laughlin writes:

Educational matters have been hampered by lack of missionaries. No country schools have been reopened since the troubles of 1900, and the privileges of our two Station schools it has been thought best to restrict to the sons of Christians. The enrolment of pupils has varied from sixteen to twenty.

This number might be largely increased by admitting outside boys and teaching them English. The little work in English done during the past has been of assistance in enabling the Government to open post-offices. The seven boys engaged as postmasters receive comparatively high salaries and with two exceptions are doing good work and leading upright lives.

The German Catholics have opened a school for the teaching of German in the neighboring city of Yen Chow Fu and propose to establish a similar school in Chining.

CONCLUSION.

The following points are to be noted in connection with the reports from the West Shantung Mission:

1. Final and peaceful settlement of all indemnity claims.

2. Adjustment of all cases of discipline arising from recantation and marked growth in grace manifest.

3. With exception of a few schools to be reopened shortly after completion of report, all the usual work of the Mission was in full operation.

4. Notably in Weihsien, and to some extent at Ichow, work has been pushed into unevangelized districts.

5. Revival services have been a conspicuous feature of the year's work, bringing a firmer purpose and a spirit of more intelligent consecration into many lives.

6. Good progress has been made in building and rebuilding.

7. An unusually large number of inquirers have been examined and enroled.

8. From all four of the Stations comes the report that the outlook for next year is hopeful.

9. The reopening of a centre for work in the city of Chinan and the generous gift of Mrs. Wight of $800 Mex. of her indemnity money, to assist in the purchase of the property required, are worthy of special mention.

MISSION IN GUATEMALA.

GUATEMALA CITY: 60 miles from the seaport of San Jose; occupied 1882. Outstation: San Augustin.

Many changes have occurred in the Guatemala Mission during the past year. On the 18th of April, Quezaltenango, occupied as one of the Stations of the Mission, was nearly destroyed by an earthquake. A church organization was about to be formed, but the place was so stricken and the people so largely scattered, that it became a doubtful question whether it should longer be regarded as a Station. The place has been visited since the catastrophe, and a few faithful believers were found to be still holding religious services. Most of the people have shown a disposition to rebuild their homes and that notwithstanding the fact that a second series of shocks were felt during the summer. Mrs. Gates had but recently returned to the field when the earthquake occurred. She had been absent for several months on account of a nervous disorder, and other difficulties. Owing to the shock of the earthquake and the breaking up of her home, her condition became more and more weakened, and considering this fact together with the interruption of their work, Mr. and Mrs. Gates resigned their connection with the Mission and returned home, and the resignation was accepted.

Rev. Mr. Haymaker having remained in Guatemala beyond the usual period of service without furlough, found his health seriously impaired, particularly by a throat difficulty. In view of this and some family reasons, he resigned his connection with the Board and the resignation being accepted he returned home about the middle of March, 1903. The Board has since appointed two new missionaries in place of Messrs. Haymaker and Gates.

With reference to the question of rehabilitating the Station work at Quezaltenango, and the general prospects of mission work, Mr. Haymaker says in his report:

Quezaltenango is the residence of many of the wealthy farm owners who raise coffee west of that place. It was their wealth that kept up the life of the city. Their coffee farms were buried by the enormous masses of pumice, sand and ash thrown out by the eruption and cut to pieces by the floods and torrential rains that fell at and after the time of the eruption. Hundreds of farmers who were worth hundreds of thousands of dollars before the eruption, are worth nothing now. Hence the life blood of Quezaltenango is dried up, and the people are leaving constantly. The volcano has been quieting down lately, and if it continues to do so, confidence will gradually be restored, the farms reestablished, and before many years the district will go on as before. In the meantime our Quezaltenango congregation continues firm, meeting when there is any one to direct the service, and constantly calling for a pastor. The majority of them are still there and the field is promising. Another town that was full of hope was San Marcos, in the midst of the buried district. They sent me a list of over thirty persons who claimed to have embraced the Gospel and wished a preacher. As we had not the preaching force to respond to the call, it was replied to by the Central American Mission, who have begun work there. So that while the eruption affects some phases of our work, such as self-support, it is by no means ruinous to the prospects of the Mission.

The report indicates a weakening of the Liberal party in Guatemala politics, and the consequent strengthening of the clerical or reactionary party. "The Church," says the local report, "now openly violates the laws of the land, even the constitution, and flouts her contempt of the law in the face of the Liberal party which renders the situation more discouraging, as that party seems more or less corrupted and divided."

It seems necessary to continue the work of Protestant Missions with their law-abiding and enlightening influence at this particular crisis. It is only in the improvement of the general moral tone of the country that either good government or commercial thrift can be hoped for. Considering the inadequacy of the missionary force and the fewness of native preachers and helpers, the work has been far from discouraging during the year. The church in the Guatemala Station has received on examination, eighteen new members. The attendance upon religious services has increased and there is a new development and a sense of responsibility among the members. The congregation at San Augustin, though without a preacher, has been sustaining services with about fifty in attendance. Religious services have been kept up at Esquintla, a small town on the railroad, and plans have been formed for organizing a church at that point. At Santa Lucia a devoted layman has maintained services during the year.

During the year Mr. Haymaker has published a religious paper. This has been read in about 1,400 families, and is believed to have accomplished much for the general enlightenment of the people in regard to religion and good morals.

Of the school established in Guatemala City, the report speaks as follows:

The school in charge of the valuable and progressive teacher, Victor Gonzales, has continued doing good work, finishing the scholastic year with special encomiums from the Government examining committee, and having an attendance of thirty-eight pupils. Many of these attended the Sunday-school and have taken a special course in Bible training under my direction.

The Board is fully resolved to maintain the Guatemala Mission and to extend its usefulness, and for this purpose has selected two good men, who are expected in a few months to occupy the field.

The old name of the Mission, the Lodiana Mission, derived from the first Station occupied in 1834, has been changed during the year, at the request of the Mission, to the Punjab Mission, as better indicating the location and extent of the Mission's work. The only reinforcements added to the Mission during the dear were the Rev. and Mrs. F. B. McCuskey, Mrs. McCuskey being a daughter of Dr. Wherry, and Miss Grace O. Woodside.

LODIANA STATION.

The year whose events we are to chronicle at this time has been one of unusual anxiety on account of the terrible scourge of plague which came upon the city of Lodiana and the surrounding towns and villages. It is said that 2,500 people fell victims to this scourge during the four months from February to May. Day by day the procession of the dead, moving along from the city of the living to the city of the dead, never seemed to cease. Long into the night was heard the weird sound of a multitude of voices crying to Heaven for mercy. The bazaars were deserted by the frightened merchants, and desolation held sway in some of the most thickly populated parts of the city. In the country the villages were deserted, the people living in huts or booths in the fields.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Mr. Wiley has continued his admirable work in the Sunday-school of the Hindustani Church, this Sunday-school taking the place of the regular morning service.

Of the work in the Lodiana district, Mr. Jones reports:

The people were beginning to waken up to the realization of the awful scourge that was stalking through the land, and their hearts were softened considerably. As one looks back, however, from the present writing, it must be confessed that the softening was only temporary. So far as my experience goes, the people seem to be about the same as they were before. This strange fact may be accounted for by two considerations. As far as the Mohammedans are concerned, by their belief in kismet or fate; and on the part of the Hindoos by their belief in transmigration, this life being only one of imnumerable stages of existence to be passed through. Both beliefs have the practical effect of hardening the heart not only to personal bereavement, but to "sin and righteousness and judgment" as well.

Mr. Jones is greatly encouraged by the evidence of growth among the Christians away from idolatry and idolatrous customs.

Of the work in the Jagraon District, Miss Clark writes:

Sometimes we have visits from inquirers. One especially interesting instance was that of a high caste young Hindoo who is a government surveyor in a neighborhood some eight miles from here. We were teaching our compound school one afternoon when this young stranger walked up and very politely asked if he could get a Bible here. We did not have the kind he wished, so we told him we could send for one if he wished. He asked how much it would cost, and handed out two rupees, saying he would come again and get the Bible

He said he believed in Christ and wanted to become a Christian, but if he should be baptized he would be unable, where he lived, to get his food, and would even be forbidden water from the wells. There was no one near who sympathized with him, he said, excepting one sweeper with whom he often read the Bible. His desire was to get a transfer to Lahore or some place where he might have Christian companionship. Then he would be baptized. Some time after, when we were away, he came and got his Bible and stayed all night with our Christian converts from the low caste—and even drank from the same well with them.

During most of December and January and two weeks of February we visited some villages twenty miles from Jagraon, where no white woman had been for more than fifteen years. We almost invariably found the women most friendly. But in a number of places the men seriously objected to our presence in the village.

The ignorance of the women in these villages is almost incredible. They have asked us if it was wrong to strangle their girl babies. Recently a woman was relating the story of a horrible murder. "Andwhat do you think," she said, "the Tahsildar said to us? He said that when we kill our girl babies we are just as much murderers as that man who kills our brother and throws his body into the well." They have the most distorted notions of what sin is. One of the first things we need to do is to teach them what sin is and awaken in them by God's help a conscience.

A Christian in one village, whose wife did not come out with him, confessed to us that he had tried beating her to make her a Christian, but, when that failed, he tried praying for her, and now she was much softened.

Miss Morris, who worked at Jagraon during the year, writes:

Among the lessons impressed upon me are these: First—the very great need of a medical worker for Jagraon. Even though there has been no doctor in our compound for more than a year, the number daily who come for medicine varies from one to a dozen. You may think they furnish their own opportunity for evangelistic work, but when they find there is no medicine to be had, they are rarely willing to listen to anything else we have to offer. "My purpose is unfulfilled; why should I fulfill your purpose?" one woman said. The presence of a doctor in Jagraon would give us a hearing in some villages where we are now received with scant courtesy. "If you have no medicines, have we nothing to do but sit and look at you?" was our welcome in one village. This is from the point of view of medicine as a key to open doors. As to the real need, is it not enough to say that we have in Jagraon but one native government hospital assistant. Besides this one hospital, there is no modern Western medical aid to be obtained in all that great district.

Another lesson I have learned is that a Station with only two workers is very weakly manned when their work covers a district 100 miles in length. Our efficiency would be much more than doubled by having four workers instead of two. A doctor on the premises with a worker to assist in local work (anywhere within twenty-five miles), and two workers free for the itineration and summer schools, would strengthen our hands wonderfully.

A third lesson, partly learned before, but deeply impressed now, is the vital importance of the work for the newly baptized Christians. They must be taught line upon line, precept upon precept. There are now in the Jagraon district twelve villages with baptized Christians and inquirers in a number more. All need instruction. But the teachers must first be trained from among themselves. For this work Jagraon must stand ready. If we give our strength to this, we must yet not neglect the more direct evangelistic work. If teaching and evangelistic work in the Jagraon district occupy our time and force, we must still remember that Rupar and Morinda look to us for help in their work for the women, Christian and non-Christian. At present we divide our time, but we earnestly desire a larger force, so as to be able to do more justice to both fields.

Lift up your eyes and behold the fields, for they are white already to harvest. The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few. Pray ye, therefore, the Lord of the harvest that He will send forth laborers into His harvest.

In the Rupar District forty-two persons were baptized during the year. Rev. Jaimal Singh writes of the work at Dalla:

Here we preached. When we were preaching to a crowd of Sikhs, two men, the followers of Nanak, came forward and asked certain questions, the answers to which were given. After this, the glad tidings of the Sat Guru Nishkalank was given to them. We pointed out to them many passages from their Granth, the sacred book of the They were astonished to hear them. The Granthi (expounder of the Granth) of the place becoming very angry, we left the place. We then preached in many other villages. "Many people heard the Word of God." In some villages we met men who disputed with us on different points of their religion. We then went on to Moga, a town of the Ferozepore district, where we met with members of the Arya Somaj and the Dev Somaj, and had a talk with them about Christianity. We preached also in the bazaar and distributed tracts. We then went to Badhaur and preached in the villages near by. We talked with and preached to Christians living there. We preached also in the evening, going with a lantern after the people had done their day's work and were ready to go to sleep. We sometimes found a good opportunity to preach at this time, especially to poor people who could not get time in the daytime, but who could freely, sit and listen at that time.

There were three big Mohammedan villages where the bigoted Moslems were not willing to hear or even to receive a book or tract

KHANNA OUT-STATION.

The Rev. E. P. Newton's report is, as usual, full of items Speaking of the attitude of the minds of the people, in reference to the moral and religious questions, he writes:

It is well known that in the estimation of the Hindoos the killing of the cow is the most heinous of all crimes. Hazara Singh is an elderly farmer living in the village of M. He can read Panjabi, and last year I gave him a copy of the Gospel of Luke. I met him again lately and he told me he had read it several times and understood it, but had found something in it that had scandalized him. It was the story of the Prodigal Son. The parable, he said, was a good one, and he seemed to have caught the idea; but it had one fatal blemish. Was it not stated there that the old man, the father of the prodigal, killed a calf!

The doctrine of transmigration is an article of faith with Hindoos of all sects. According to it, at death the soul passes immediately into another body, and this is repeated through countless ages, until at last it is absorbed into the Divine Being and ceases to exist as a separate individual. At each birth, and during the life that follows, it suffers the penalty or enjoys the reward of deeds, bad and good, which were performed in previous states of existence, and it is therefore a fallacy to suppose that there is any possible release from the consequences of sin. This was recently illustrated to me in the following way. I was reading to a group of men a tract, the substance of which was that God not being, as was generally held, the author of sin, we should honestly acknowledge our transgressions and seek for a remedy. A Brahman in the audience replied that there was no remedy for sin. My sin, said he, may be no more in weight than a penny (pice was the word he used) while my good deeds exceed a ton—say of grain. The penny lies hidden and forgotten underneath the mass of grain which I eat and enjoy, but sooner or later I shall have consumed the grain and then I shall at last come upon the penny. Even so, however great the sum of my good deeds, if I have been guilty of a single trifling sin, when I have enjoyed to the full the fruits of the former, I shall still have that to reckon with in the end.

But what I enjoy or suffer in this present life is not necessarily the fruit of actions in the life immediately preceding it. The problem is an exceedingly complicated one, and in order to determine the cause of any particular pain or pleasure of which I am conscious now, it may be necessary to make a careful survey of many previous

The following short story may be added in illustration of the same point, only in this case it was a virtuous act that met its reward long afterwards, and the person rewarded was none other than the good Queen Victoria The subject of her greatness and the glory of her empire was being discussed in my hearing by a group of villagers, and the question raised was as to the cause of it. One wise man, more fully instructed in regard to these mysteries than the rest, furnished an explanation which appeared to satisfy them. It seems that many, many centuries ago, when the illustrious Indian hero Ram was King of Ajudhya (Oudh), the late Empress of India occupied the humble station of a sweeper woman, and in that capacity rendered faithful service to Sita, Ram's wife, and the heroine of the great epic poem known as the Ramayan. As a reward for this, she was born after the lapse of ages to the heritage of the British Empire.

It will be difficult for some to believe that the people really credit these stories, yet no one who mingles with them and understands their ways of thinking will doubt it. True, no proof is offered, but then neither is any asked for. It would be superfluous. They are in such entire accord with the commonly received philosophy of life that they excite no surprise, and they so fully and satisfactorily explain the facts that it is unnecessary to seek further for an explanation. In short, they carry the evidence of their authenticity on their face.

I was furnished with a rather good simile by a man at whose village I had been preaching and who afterwards accompanied me for some distance to show me a short cut back to my camp.

Your preaching, he said, is like striking a match. The match blazes up for a few moments and then goes out and all is darkness again. What he meant to say was that at long intervals we came and talked to them and then went away, and what we said was forgotten and the impression lost.

The rate of death from plague to the population, not counting those that were unreported, was a small fraction under fourteen per cent, and in some of the neighboring villages it was even higher. During this time nearly all business was suspended. One might have walked from end to end of the bazaar, which is ordinarily full of life, and see no more than twenty or thirty men moving about or sitting idly in their shops. The schools were closed and the children dispersed. The greater number of the people either locked up their houses and left the place, or camped out in the fields around the town in booths or under any temporary shelter that they had the means of erecting. It was a time of overwhelming sadness and deep anxiety. In walking through the bazaar it was no uncommon thing to see a man lying dead in his shop, or dying, with no one to care for him. I entered a number of houses to find the only occupant a corpse, all the other members of the family having previously died or fled

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—In the Christian Boys' High School:

The boys were classified as follows:
In the higher department	12
In the middle department	27
In the primary and infant classes	58
Total present on September 30	97

The whole number in attendance at any time during the year was 139. Of this number fifty-five were sons of Christian teachers and preachers, most of whom were employed by our own Mission.

In the manual training classes, thirty-nine students have been taught. The trades learned are tailoring, carpentry, shoemaking and Persian rug weaving. To this is to be added a business department for the teaching of stenography, typewriting and bookkeeping. At the Lucknow Exhibition of Native Christian Arts and Manufactures for all India our school took the first prize for shoemaking.

One hundred and ninety-five boys were in attendance at the City Mission High School. Of day-schools for girls there are two, one for Hindus and one for Mohammedans. LITERARY WORK.—Dr. Wherry has continued the publication of Nur Afshan, and has issued many tracts and books. The Nur Afshan has issued a number of books in a serial form, which have since been published separately. The English section has been occupied in the work of maintaining the truth of the Christian Scriptures against the false teaching of the Arya Samaj and the Moslem pretender to Messiahship, Mirza Gulam Ahmad of Qadian.

We desire to thank the London Religious Tract Society for a remaining of their grant for space for the printing of the Nur Afshan.

We desire to thank the London Religious Tract Society for a renewal of their grant for paper for the printing of the Nur Afshan. This noble society has thus aided us for upwards of twenty years.

It may be here remarked that the colportage of the whole Mission,

It may be here remarked that the colportage of the whole Mission, as far as reported, aggregated 7,517 copies sold and 20,237 given gratis, making a total circulation of 27,754 copies.

SAHARANPORE STATION.

Five students were graduated from the senior class of the Theological Seminary. Of the Industrial School and Orphanage, Dr. Forman writes:

There have been between 150 and 160 boys in the Industrial School and Orphanage during the past year. This number is less than we had last year, but this is an advantage rather than otherwise, as the epidemic of pneumonia last year was unquestionably due to overcrowding. Within the year a new dormitory, capable of accommodating forty boys, and an infirmary have been built.

The boys in the Orphanage may be roughly distributed under the following heads:

I. Famine orphans. II. Other orphans, either of Christian or non-Christian parentage. III. Children of Christian parents who are too poor to pay anything, or at most only a nominal fee, for the education of their children. This last class includes many of the brighter lads selected from the village Christian community and sent here for an education. The plan with regard to many is that they should become teachers and preachers amongst their own people, thus working towards the moral and social improvement of this branch of the Indian Christian Church.

Industrial work is an important feature of this institution, as its name implies. The following industries have been taught: Shoemaking, fifteen boys; carpentry, twenty-three boys; blacksmithing, three boys; tailoring, three boys; total in this department, forty-three boys. In addition to these, thirty-one smaller boys help with the making and the repairing of their own clothes, and twenty-eight work in the Orphanage garden.

In our opinion, the principal objects of industrial education, and the ones, which justify missionary societies in undertaking and supporting it are: (a) To enable poor boys to support themselves, without being dependent on Mission employment; (b) to help in raising up a self-supporting Christian community; that is, one which will be able to support its own teachers and pastors. An esteemed Indian preacher recently said from the pulpit in our hearing that if he had ten sons he should like them all to enter the ministry. He probably did not consider that under the present state of things the support for all these preachers must come from a foreign land. There is very little realization as yet of the fact that the great needs of India, at present, are a demonstration of the power of Christianity to make men good, faithful, honest and upright in every walk of life, and of a Christian community that is able to support its own religious institutions and carry forward the work amongst the surrounding heathen population.

MEDICAL WORK.—The number of visits from and to patients has been nearly 17,000. Dr. Forman adds:

Many are so poor that one instinctively puts his hand into his pocket and gives them a few coppers to enable them to get the food they are plainly in need of, or to buy milk for a starving baby, rather than to ask them to drop pice into the collection box. The suffering of the sick, out here, is infinitely increased by the cruel treatment to which they are often subjected, generally through ignorance, but, not infrequently, wilfully. This gives the medical missionary many opportunities of telling what Christianity has done for other lands in ameliorating the sufferings of the sick, and improving the condition of woman in particular. Many of our patients are woman who tion of woman in particular. Many of our patients are women, who are most chary of consulting a native practitioner for their ailments, but are generally quite free in the presence of a European doctor. The better class women are generally accompanied by some male relative who generally tries to dispel any bashfulness by telling them that we are their "father and mother." Strange are their ideas of modesty. If their faces are covered it seems to be all that decorum requires. A request to see the tongue generally gives rise to all kinds of devices to produce that member without at the same time exposing any part of the face. But the sad sights are far more common than those that give rise to feelings of amusement. Patience under suffering, which is so marked a characteristic of all women, is doubly strong here; for the poor creatures generally suffer long and severely before they will avail themselves of the services of a doctor.

LEPER ASYLUM.-

There are eighteen men and six women in the two leper asylums. Of this number, eight men and four women are Christians.

The Herron Memorial Chapel was completed some time ago, so that now the men have a suitable place for worship. A catechist gives the men daily Bible instruction, and a Bible woman teaches the women twice a week.

One of the women whose eyes were very weak when she came to us went totally blind this last summer. She pleaded piteously with the "Missi Sahib" for medicine which would restore her eyesight, and it was so hard to tell her that she would never see again.

VILLAGE WORK.—

In the Saharanpore district—a tract of land more than twice the size of Rhode Island and with a population of over one million—there are three licentiates and two catechists to proclaim the Glad Tidings. Is it too much to ask for one more worker—some one who could devote all his time to direct evangelistic work among these village people, or who could relieve one of the missionaries of Station duties, so that he could spend all his time in the district?

Miss Jones reports of some of the village work:

The first three days we went from village to village finding scarcely one person who listened to what we had to say. We were asked into many houses, only to be laughed at and then rudely ordered out. The mention of the name of Jesus seemed to enrage them. In one village, not being invited into any of the better houses, we went over to the Chamar quarters and sat down with the women. They were very friendly, but begged us to excuse them, as they had to go off to the fields to gather grain. Crossing the lane, we stopped to talk to a little Hindoo girl who was standing in a doorway. Suddenly a man appeared, and as soon as he saw us he began to shout at us to go away and not come near them after having been over with the Chamars. He followed us all the way to our cart, venting his wrath in words only, though we did fear he was going to strike us.

After this, we went out in quite another direction and were most kindly received by the people. In many villages they begged us to stay longer and talk to them. Some of the women seemed to really grasp the truth.

Miss Jones writes of the Zenana work:

The zenana teaching is carried on by Misses Graham and St. Joseph, and I have taught from eight to eleven women twice a week. Some of these women were reading last year and others are beginners, trying to master the letters and simple words of the First Book. It takes great patience to teach them to read, but maybe we, too, would have found it no easy task to learn to read at the age of thirty or forty.

Last winter, a Hindoo gentleman called at our bungalow to ask if one of us would teach his wife to read. He had received his education in the Saharanpore Mission Boys' School, and so knew what we would teach his wife. Soon after, I went to see her. She is a nice little Panjabi woman and is very anxious to get on in her reading. I am always taken into the best room, and if her husband is at home he always goes out of the house at once, leaving me alone with his wife. There is a little hanging book-shelf in this room, and among the few volumes is God's precious Word. She took it down one day and showed it to me. I asked her if the Babu ji ever read it, and she said, "Yes, he often reads it." Will you not pray that this man and his wife may soon be brought out of darkness into God's marvelous light.

In the Girls' School:

During the summer and autumn there was so much sickness that the attendance was much less than in the winter, and so the average for the year is only 137 in the city schools.

SABATHU STATION.

The Rev. F. O, Johnson has been in charge of the Station during Dr. Carleton's furlough. He writes:

The Leper Asylum has just finished another year of satisfactory and encouraging work. Here we feed, clothe, house and medically treat nearly one hundred lepers at practically no cost to the Mission—the funds being raised in India and England. We receive European as well as native lepers. This year we had with us a Boer prisoner. There are now forty-three Christian lepers in the Asylum, very largely the result of Diwaun's personal work amongst them. One might think that it is a comparatively easy task to win lepers to Christ, as they have so little to lose and so much to gain by the step. But, not so. All castes get leprosy. There are Brahmins in our Asylum as well as Churas; and they all cling to their castes with redoubled bigotry and intolerance—perhaps because they feel that this is all that is left them. One day I had to go into one of the leper houses to see about the repair of the roof, which was leaking. In the dark I did not see that I was stepping perilously near the Ghara (earthen water vessel). He cried out in great alarm, "Sir, beware lest you touch my ghara and thus pollute it!" His own physical pollution did not compare for a moment in his eyes with the defilement wrought by the touch of a Christian. Yet, in spite of this feeling and the difficulties of work amongst them, the Divine Healer has a strange fascination for these lepers of India and many are very zealous in His service. Our Christian lepers go out to the melas with musical instruments and preach Christ to the multitudes, who gather about them, amazed to see lepers preaching a Gospel of glad tidings, and their testimony has a powerful and far-reaching effect.

There are two Mission dispensaries, one at Sabathu and the other at Kakarhatti, which is a village lying in the valley below Sabathu. Ten thousand patients have been treated and much medicine given away. The hillmen for miles around know our dispensaries and they have great confidence in the efficacy of the medicines dispensed to

JULLUNDUR STATION.

Dr. C. B. Newton writes:

The lights and shades described in our last report have their counterpart in the experience of the year now closed. Not that we have anything very scandalous to record in the conduct of the low easte people, but many, at least, seem to have settled down to heathen ways while still claiming to be Christians.

One, whom we thought more enlightened and more hopeful than the average, has made an open recantation of his Christian faith, but, as he says, only outwardly and temporarily, in order to better his worldly condition.

We have had a visitation of the plague at last. After ravaging portions of the Jalandhar district for five years it came into the city as an epidemic last winter. So far from having a softening effect on the people, as we hoped it might, it seemed rather to harden their hearts against the Gospel, and we found that in bazaar preaching, if we referred to the plague as a warning and a call from God to repent and believe the Gospel, our hearers seemed irritated and angered by the implication that their religion could be a cause of displeasure to God.

The philosophy of this supersensitiveness may be found partly in a latent feeling of suspicion that the plague has been deliberately introduced by the government as a political measure designed to reduce a redundant population. This, however, is not a universal conviction, though held by many of the most ignorant.

But very generally the pestilence is recognized as a divine judgment, yet not so much on account of sin, as we understand the word.

for which the heathen have practically no conscience, but for neglect or inadequacy of superstitious observances, in which, with them, The superstitious principle has therefore been religion consists. called into more active exercise than usual, and this naturally awakens opposition to the truth.

When the black cloud of this awful calamity hung over the city and its fatal bolts struck down men, women and children until there were twenty-three deaths in a single day, the services of religion were resorted to with great energy to stay the avenger. One of the chief of these was to stretch cards across the streets at an elevation of twelve or fiften feet to which an infinite number of tissue paper figures and streamers in variegated colors were attached. All the principal streets presented a gay appearance, with these pennants fluttering in the breeze.

Then there were midnight gatherings in the streets of multitudes. to sing bhajans or hymns of praise with drum beatings, to the more popular gods and goddesses of the Hindoo pantheon of 300 millions.

There were also great feedings of the poor, which was good, and feedings of fat Brahmins, which was not so good, and temple bell ringings and drum beatings, and screechings of so-called musical instruments—and who can assert, or at least prove, that these measures were not more effective than the sanitation and disinfection diligently carried out by the government plague doctor and his staff?

The plague doctor, although a well-known and till now highly esteemed Mohammedan gentleman, was reputed to have a subtle poison concealed under his finger-nails, which he dexterously snapped into the mouths of patients when he pretended to examine their tongues.

The crowning terror was inoculation. Mrs. Jackson and Miss Stephens assured the women that inoculation was nothing worse than the application of leeches—a favorite mode of treatment among the na-"We have been inoculated," they said, "and it is nothing." "Oh, yes," they replied, "the doctors put good medicine into your arms, but they will inject poison into ours."

"Why is it," they asked, "that the English have become so merciless? The people are cursing them morning and evening. You had better tell the officials to give up such cruel oppression. Many are ready to fight for their lives and much blood will flow.

A little severe letting alone seems to have done them good, for the old friendly relations were re-established in the course of time, and now many at least have begun to believe that plague is plague, and not English poison.

At the end of the year there were 172 pupils in four Hindoo schools and thirty in one Mohammedan school, as well as seventythree women and girls in forty-seven zenanas visited, making a total of 275 women and girls under instruction.

Rev. W. Brown, our trusted and efficient head master, reports 285 boys in the main school and 192 in the two branches, making 477 in all.

These make a grand total of 752 pupils, to whom the Bible is regularly taught—an increase of forty-four over last year's total.

Of the Phillour Out-Station, Mr. Goloknath writes:

Caste restrictons are breaking down slowly but surely. The many would be reformers are at one with us in breaking down caste restrictions, in denouncing idolatry and evil customs, and in throwing overboard the atheism and pantheism of their forefathers.

We are no longer looked upon as aliens. In a recent tour we were received as guests in many a house in villages and towns. This is something that we have experienced only lately. I think this is due to the indirect teaching and influence of the reformers of India. Notwithstanding the temporary success that has attended the reformers in blinding the eyes of the simple people so that they are unable to see the good parts of Christianity, yet in pulling down the strongholds of superstitious customs and caste prejudices they are paving the way for Christianity to come in.

Here we meet daily those people who are inquirers after truth. Some come to read books and papers, others to talk on religious matters. No street brawlers disturb us here. On one occasion all the Aryas in the town congregated in the shop to hold a discussion, but they miserably failed to impress the people. They have aroused some opposition to us and have succeeded in getting the owner of the shop to oust us from it; but we have succeeded in securing another shop in a still better locality. Almost all the big jalsas of the Aryas take place right in front of us, so that we are in constant touch with them and their audiences, and we hope thus to counteract much of their evil influence.

AMBALA STATION.

The Young Women's Christian Association of the Church

undertook, in connection with their devotional services, to make garments for the twenty-nine inmates of the Leper Asylum. This meant a lot of hard work; but before October the clothes were all made and distributed. The gratitude of the poor lepers was a reward for all the time and labor spent, for the cold weather that begins in October found them well provided with warm clothes.

The Boys' High School has had a very successful year of work. The average attendance has been 442, and the number enrolled was 505. At the last government examination we sent up twenty-two to the entrance examination, of whom fifteen passed.

Miss Pratt writes of the Girls' School:

My Mussulman school has had its ups and downs. At the beginning of the school year a Mohammedan woman, who considered herself invaluable, coolly walked off, saying she would return after six weeks. She also forbade any of the Saiyad girls from attending during her absence. As a priestess among the people, her word was law, and not many of her followers dared to disobey. After an absence of two months she was ready to take up her work again. Although I was bearing the burden almost wholly and saw no relief ahead, I refused to take her back. Daily she came begging and promising, but the hand of Providence was opening the way, and to-day we have a hundred girls, with no one to say, "When the Miss Sahib speaks, listen respectfully to what she says, but forget it at once, as it is all lies that she tells you." To-day we have Christian teachers and Christian teaching.

Philadelphia Women's Hospital.—

During the past year Miss J. R. Carleton, M.D., paid 15,000 visits to out-patients, besides treating 208 out-patients in the Hospital. There has been a great change in the attitude of the respectable classes of the city toward the Hospital. This year some of the most prominent men of the city left their wives there for treatment and went off, knowing that they were safe in the hands of those who would not only give them the best of medical treatment, but keep them as safely as in the privacy of their own zenanas. The great majority of the in-patients were purdah women. Two of these were Sardarnis. One of them has been here six weeks. She is so pleased with her new surroundings that she is going to persuade her husband to come and live in the city, so that she herself may receive instruction while her little son goes to the mission school. She has already entered him as a pupil.

All Hadji pilgrims from the Punjab, on their way to Mecca, are required by government to stop for ten days in a camp about a mile from Ambala City as a precautionary measure against carrying plague and cholera to that great gathering. Amongst the pilgrims are a great many purdah women. These Miss Carleton examined daily, segregating suspicious cases. Miss Carleton was also asked by the government to assist in the work of plague inoculation. She has in the past summer months inoculated two thousand women and children. Shortly after the Patiala riots, when the feeling was so strong against inoculation amongst the ignorant classes as to induce them to rise and stone English medical officers, Miss Carleton offered the municipality any help it might wish in this work. The municipality asked for Miss Jacob to act as plague inspectress for the city. She saw every woman who had plague, daily, and treated all who preferred English to Yunani treatment. All this did much good in establishing the work of the Hospital as a power for good in this city and surrounding district. If there is plague here in the city this coming winter, it will not be among the children, for practically all have been inoculated.

Of the work carried on from the Cantonments, Dr. Thackwell writes, speaking of the plague and the superstition of the people about it:

For instance, there are too many people in England, and the King is anxious to make room in India for the overflow; but there are too many people in India also. The farms and villages are all occupied. They must be thinned out, and room must be made. Hence the plague! The great majority of the villagers are so ignorant and suspicious they believe anything, provided it be sufficiently absurd and improbable. This itself would not be a matter of so much importance, were it not that they are so ready to act on their belief. And it is here where the danger comes in. One of the Christian workers was seen near a well in one of the villages he was just passing through, and had sat down to eat his lunch. His presence there aroused the suspicions of some one, who thought he must be a native doctor throwing "medicine" into the well. He communicated his suspicions to others. Soon an excited crowd rushed at him. He had not the courage to stand and meet them, but ran before them. This confirmed their suspicions. They caught him and were giving him a severe beating when some one came up, and, recognizing him, called out not to beat him, as he was only a padre preaching through the villages. Hearing this, they let him go. The most crying want today in India is that of Primary education for the great outlying masses of the people in the villages. Such dense ignorance as at present obtains may be the cause of serious trouble some day.

Mr. Moti Lall has done earnest and good work during the summer months, notwithstanding the plague and other drawbacks. The most successful part of his work has been not in dealing with crowds, though he has often had large audiences, but with individuals. One peculiarity of his work is that he takes hold of a man and never leaves him till he is convinced and led to cast himself on Christ as the Saviour. Bala of the village of Chirki was thus dealt with. Again and again he had been spoken to, apparently to no purpose, for although he had known that sin as ordinarily understood was an otfence against caste laws, he did not realize that all sin was sin against God and had its root in the depravity of the human heart. Gradually this became clear to him, and on one occasion, when the brethren met together for prayer, while singing a bhajan his eyes filled with tears, he fell upon his knees and made a free confession of sin. Prayer was made for him and he accepted Christ as his Saviour and was baptized. The audience was deeply moved at the manifest presence and power of the Spirit in the conversion of that old man.

There were fifty-two baptisms during the year, but there are many more waiting who have been prepared, but have not yet been examined by the missionary or the evangelist as to their spiritual apprehension of the truth.

BOYS' SCHOOL.—

The Boys' School was closed for six weeks on account of the plague. Eleven boys died of it. Many left in the panic. When the school was re-opened only about forty boys were present out of 175. Gradually the greater number of the absentees have returned. At present the number on the roll is 154.

The whole body of teachers and pupils, Christian and non-Christian, gather together every morning in the school hall. After a short exposition of Scripture, a prayer is offered for God's blessing on both pupils and teachers, after which the boys go to their respective classes where they are daily taught in the Scriptures as well as in secular subjects.

Mrs. Thackwell writes of her work:

The fine, manly Sepoys who guarded the Boer camp were particularly receptive. They took the Gospels and other books with eagerness and gratitude. Once, when I went to them with a fresh supply of religious reading, they said, "The books you gave us have deeply impressed us; we have never read such books before. They are utterly unlike our religious books."

A "Sardarni" from Karnal came to live in the house just above us. I had many nice talks with her and her retainers, and her young son. The tall Sikh who kept her purse and managed all her affairs invariably listened with great attention and asked very intelligent questions. It was a great pleasure to show him pictures and explain Bible truths to him. He had been educated in a Mission School and remembered many Bible stories. I gave several books to this household. The Sardarni was a widow with one son, a boy about twelve, a bright, intelligent lad.

Her attention sometimes wandered, and she would ask how we Europeans made ourselves so fair. Did we have all our skin scraped off when we were babies, or did we use some wonderful and mysterious emollients when we bathed? She had had the skin scraped off herself, trying to become as fair as English ladies, but it had caused her great suffering and did no good. At other times she would ask if there was any hope of the heir of Bhai Jasmen Singh's getting the Arnauli estate? Did not the papers tell what Parliament had decided about it? When the crown was placed upon King Edward's head, did he not then graciously declare that the Arnauli estate should now revert to the young heir of Bhai Jasmen Singh? These interruptions were vexing even to the well-fed family priest. He and the bright heir and the thoughtful major domo would ask the Sardarni, very courteously, to stop and let me go on "preaching," for they wished to hear more of this matter. More than once the major domo, when the family priest was not listening, said, "Our religion is very unsatisfactory. Long ago I lost faith in it, and I believe our priests go through foolish and vain rites and ceremonies just in order to earn a living. I do not believe they have faith in it themselves."

ZENANA WORK.-Mrs. Calderwood writes:

As the Bible women and I were inoculated, we could carry on house to house visiting. Besides Bible lessons, a great deal of our time was spent in urging the women to allow themselves and their children to be inoculated, and to clean up their houses. Although it may seem incredible, in hundreds of houses no house cleaning had been done for fifty years! Some women told me quite calmly that though they had lived in their houses for over thirty years—in fact, ever since they came there as brides—and had only left home once in a while to visit relations, the idea of house cleaning had never occurred to them!

The work in the city also was not interrupted by the plague, as the teachers were inoculated. In visiting the people, we urged them to allow inoculation in their families. As usual, the wives of government officials, among whom the zenana work is carried on, yielded willingly. But about five hundred Mohammedan women were very stubborn. I finally demanded that they should let me know their reasons for being so afraid of inoculation. At last, the leading woman in a mahalla where no one would yield with a frightened face gave me the following explanation: Our English rulers have finally found a way to exterminate us. They paid one doctor millions of rupees to bring from England a large quantity of poison. He began to poison the water that natives drank at Bombay, and when he had succeeded in getting the plague well established there, he moved from city to city till he reached Amballa. When the government found that not enough people died of the plague, they sent another great doctor to India, who brought with him the poison which is used for inoculation. Now, whoever is inoculated dies childless. In this way government hopes to exterminate the race!

LAHORE STATION.

DR. CHAS. CUTHBERT HALL'S LECTURES.—The report states:

Dr. Hall delivered his lectures during the first week in December. He is the third lecturer who has come to Lahore in connection with the Haskell-Barrows series of lectures, the other two being Dr. Barrows, of Chicago, and Dr. Fairbairn, of Oxford. He proved to be most admirably fitted for the task of presenting Chrstianity to the educated classes of India. He combines in a remarkable degree eloquence of style and delivery with depth and breadth of thought. Moreover, he possesses an exceedingly attractive personality, and he treated his subject in such a spirit of sincere sympathy and broadmindedness as to win and hold the earnest attention of his audiences throughout the course. Hindoos and Mohammedans, Brahmos and Aryas alike testified to the deep impression that had been made.

FORMAN CHRISTIAN COLLEGE.—

The attendance on November 1 was 344, of whom 182 are Hindoos, 117 Mohammedans, twenty-five Christians, thirteen Sikhs and five others.

The results in the University examinations were satisfactory. For the degree of Master of Arts four candidates appeared, all of whom passed, and one of whom took the highest place in the university. Seventy-four men appeared in the B. A. examination, of whom thirty-two were successful, and two in the Bachelor of Science test, both of whom passed. In the intermediate examination in arts, seventy-eight out of one hundred and ten passed, and in the intermediate in science, six out of ten.

The most important matter in the development of this work during the year is the erection of a new boarding house. This structure is designed to accommodate one hundred and sixty students. The government of the Panjab has dealt with us in this matter most liberally, giving us a grant of Rs. 33,500 toward the purchase of the site and the cost of the building.

Our most imperative requirement is an assembly hall. Our present hall possesses seating capacity for rather less than three hundred persons, while now we have about three hundred and fifty students.

A hall, seating at least six hundred persons, is sorely needed, in order that we may assemble our own men, not to speak of the importance of our possessing such a building for public lectures.

This new enterprise will involve the expenditure of $10,000, a very petty sum in comparison with the sums which are being poured into institutions in America. We propose to try very hard to secure this sum. The importance of this work and the great and far-reaching character of the influences going forth from this place impress every student of the situation. The men come to us from every quarter of the Panjab, the Northwest Frontier Provinces, and some from the United Provinces and the Kashmir State.

The daily Bible lesson is attended by all the students, divided, for the time, into seven classes. Great pains are taken to impart to every man a clear and definite idea of the great truths of the Bible. Great interest is manifested by many in this study. The Spirit of God is manifestly working upon the hearts of some of the students. I am to-day, after fourteen years of connection with this institution, more strongly convinced than ever that we have here a wonderful open door, and that this college bears a most unique relation to the work of evangelizing Northwestern India. We are from this centre sending forth the message of the Gospel even to the remote villages, as the youth, who come from thence to us, return to their homes imbued with something of the spirit of Christianity, and in many cases active friends of the missionary and his work.

Many are intelligently convinced of the divine character of Jesus Christ, but they shrink from public identification of themselves with His people.

Something of the great range of work done by the professors in the College is illustrated by the following quotations from their reports. Mr. Velte writes of the work done among Europeans and the growth of the College:

Speaking not long ago at a gathering at Poona of persons interested in missionary work, the Bishop of Bombay said that, among the hindrances to that work, there was nothing so serious as the attitude of Europeans in India toward Missions, and their general mode of life. The very first mission of the Church in India, he observed, was its mission to the nominal Christians living in this country, Europeans and others.

No one then would have dreamed that the College would grow into what it now is. The ten or fifteen students at the beginning have become 350. In place of a small room in which the classes met in the Rang Mahal School we now own buildings representing a value of close upon two lakhs of rupees. Our graduates are found in every part of the province, and there are few places in the Panjab where the name of the College is not known or its influence is not felt. With the growth of the College, my conviction of its importance and value as a missionary agency has deepened from year to year.

Dr. Griswold writes:

With reference to the bazaar preaching in Lahore, there is little that is new to record. I have acted as superintendent of this work and have personally engaged in it for two or three evenings a week. At both the Lohari Gate Chapel and the Delhi Gate Chapel the audiences have been encouraging, and the attention, as a rule, good. Both chapels furnish splendid opportunities for the general sowing of the seed. Men come in, listen attentively, and go their way.

Dr. Orbison writes:

The other day, when Dr. Griswold and I were visiting one of our Hindoo students, who had met with a serious accident, his father in the course of conversation stated most earnestly and feelingly that the best influences in his own life had come from the teaching and example of his professors in a Mission College, and he wanted his son to come under similar influences. He also said that nothing made him happier than to find that his son's heart had been drawn nearer to God by the instruction received in our College.

RANG MAHAL SCHOOL.—Mr. Gilbertson reports:

There are now 686 boys on the roll of the main school and 370 in the branch schools, or 1,056 boys in all.

Our average Sunday-school attendance has been upwards of 600. This is the jubilee of the occupation of the Rang Mahal, though the school has actually been in operation for fifty-three years.

Without help from the New York Board, we have carried on the work of the school and also purchased that part of the school site owned by government, together with six shops under the school, four of which were unsightly and unsanitary cellars, which we promptly cleaned out and walled in. We have been very much disappointed in not getting the building grant asked for from the Board. There is no question as to the need of rebuilding the old part of the school. Every season makes this part more dangerous, and if it cannot be rebuilt it must at least be torn down, with the result that we shall lose four class rooms and one hall, and shall have to turn away about 200 boys.

Two hundred girls have attended the Hindu Girls' School. Of the Mohammedan Girls' School Mrs. Ewing writes:

In the annual examination by the government inspectress we had very fair results. One woman of over forty years of age has worked away faithfully for two or three years past. She passed her infant class work two years ago, and this year her lower primary. She is rather deaf, so has had much to contend with. She is one of the most earnest in the Bible class.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Marston reports:

The out-practice is very interesting. One has experiences that give rise to various emotions, some funny, some irritating (some intensely so), and some that are encouraging and that make one thankiul to have this work to do.

Once I was turned out by dais. Once my patient was carried off to the hakim, as my medicine was too hot. Most of the houses visited were Hindoo, but there were also Pathans, Kashmiries (Hindoo and Mohammedan), and Parsees. In this land, where women are treated as such inferior beings, it is refreshing to go among the Parsees and see them treat their women relatives as though on equal standing with themselves. In a certain house I visited, the mother was treated with so much honor and love by her grown-up sons. Her place in the household was at the head. One of the sons died two months ago, and the mother is broken-hearted. Her husband got leave from on my mind as the most miserable, unhappy and dirty I had ever known. The ladies wore gold jewelry and good clothes, and chewed fan all day and every day. But even the little children looked sick and all day and every day. miserable, dirty and unhappy. I said to the lady of the house, "What do you think is the reason you have so much illness in your house? I think it is due to the foul drains by which you are surrounded." She said, carelessly, "It is on account of our sins." I said, "Are you, then, greater sinners than your neighbors?" She said, "Yes, the drains near them are just as bad, but they are not ill."

Mrs. Newton, who worked with Dr. Marston, writes of visitation to the homes of patients:

I was most cordially welcomed everywhere, and it was an understood thing that I should read the Bible and talk of it before leaving. Often all the members of the household gathered around and listened. Once, emerging from a narrow alley, as I waited for a few moments for my jinrickshaw, a Hindoo shopkeeper said abruptly, "What do you do?" I repeated the question in some bewilderment. "Yes." he said; "are you a doctor?" "No." "What then, a preacher?" Being a Presbyterian, I could not accept this position without modification.

The women were much troubled because I was alone, and one of my zenana pupils invited me most cordially to come and live with them. I believe she was sincere, and it touched me deeply, even while it brought before me more vividly the great gulf that lies between the comfort of the East and of the West. My little friend scarcely looks older or taller than most of the children who cling to She is worse than widowed, with an insane husband. It is pathetic to hear the two women, wife and mother, tell me his sayings and appeal to me to know if they are sane or insane, and if they can safely bring him home from the Asylum where he now is.

On returning, after the summer vacation, I asked my Rang Mahal Sunday-school class (forty strong), "Do you remember what I told you before I left?"—and all, led by my brightest scholars, promptly replied, "No, we have forgotten it all." After a brief moment of discouragement I plied them with questions, the answers to which proved that they retained a very fair remembrance of what they had been taught.

The Dufferin Christian Girls' Boarding Schoool of the Zenana Bible and Medical Mission is conducted in close relations with the Mission and receives some grant from it. Miss Keay, the Principal, writes:

We take this opportunity of thanking our friends on the other side of the ocean for the grant sent annually by them to aid our working expenses, and we are the more grateful for this because we feel sure that when remembering the school in the way of substantial giving, they will not be forgetful of it in their prayers that the work carried on in it may from year to year be increasingly crowned with the Divine blessing.

HOSHYARPORE STATION.

Of the Christian community, thirty-eight have died of the plague, while sixty-five have left the district in search of a place of greater safety.

GIRLS' ORPHANAGE.—

Industries such as are suitable to the girls of the poorer classes and likely to be useful to them in after life-such as cooking, grinding wheat, spinning, knitting and plain sewing—are taught. All the domestic work of the school is performed by the girls.

MEDICAL WORK.—

This work was opened on February 14, in the city Mission House, where Miss Dora Chatterjee, who is in charge of it, was born and brought up.

On the first day there were twelve out-patients. The number rose gradually till it attained the maximum of 100 a day, in the month of May. It again fell, in the rainy season. The average daily attendance now is forty.

Two of these beds were supported by the generous help of Colonel Gordon Young, who was formerly Deputy Commissioner of Hoshyarpur, but who has now retired to England to enjoy his well-earned rest.

There were 180 baptisms during the year in the Station and surrounding District. Of the Church in the District, Dr. Chatterjee reports:

There were 1,129 Christians in it at the beginning of the year. In the course of the year, as mentioned above, 180 were added by baptism, but 103 died or dropped out. So we have now in the district 1,206 Indian Christians of the Presbyterian Church, 774 of whom are communicants. They are recruited mostly from the poor and depressed classes only, about 100 being from the upper classes of Hindoos and Mohammedans. They are distributed in the two Tehsils of Hoshyarpur and Dosuah, in more than thirty villages.

DEHRA STATION.

Mr. Andrews, who has had charge of the station during Mr. Morrison's illness, writes:

The grass is never burned and brown in the Dun; the birds sing sweeter and with more varied songs; the flowers are more fragrant and like the home flowers; the tea plantations amid the Toon trees, trimmed and cultivated like a garden, but stretching out their evenly cut tops like a green carpet for miles over the undulating fields—all this renders the Dun exceedingly attractive. Its elevation of 2,200 feet above sea level, together with the influence of the great, cool, restful mountains, rising into the temperate zone of the upper air, and bringing down within reach of men the refreshing breezes that always blow in the free regions above, combine to temper the heat.

Our Mission selected this as a Station for Mission work in 1853 and began work in November of that year. On the 2d of January iollowing, a school was opened for native boys, which has grown into our present prosperous and efficient Boys' High School, with its commodious building on the main thoroughfare of the city, and its annex in the old Tehsil building, not far away. When it was opened, in 1854, two boys were in attendance. Now there are 256 on the roll, and the original building has become so inadequate that the government has granted to the Mission the use of a fine large building in the midst of a walled-in compound, suitable for a play and drill ground for the boys. This is the Annex, mentioned above. The lease is for ninety-nine years, and the nominal rental one anna a year, renewable at the end of ninety-nine years at the same rate.

The Christian Girls' Boarding School was begun in 1859 with thir-

The Christian Girls' Boarding School was begun in 1859 with thirteen boarders and five day scholars. Now there are about 125 young women and girls, all boarders, and the purifying and elevating influence of the high ideals of Christian life which are inculcated and lived out before the girls of this school has gone out into hundreds of Indian Christian homes throughout northern India. From this school sixty (now on the rolls of the church) have been gathered into the Hindustani Presbyterian Church, and I do not know how many have united with other churches in their own homes.

I have felt for a long time that we missionaries make a mistake in almost never meeting our workers, except as workers, and not, once in a while at least, simply as men, socially, letting the work drop for the time being and cultivating the social side of their nature, and revealing to them that we are "men of like passions with themselves," and that we enjoy the innocent pleasures of life as well as they do.

and that we enjoy the innocent pleasures of life as well as they do.

They well know that we are "men of like passions with themselves" in the matter of impatience, and love of power, and love of leadership. They perhaps have learned to respect our ability to give advice and "Hukms" or commands, etc., but they see little of the social lighter side of our life, and it is little wonder that they are not very much drawn to us. It seems to me that it would be wise for us to utilize the natural characteristics of the people among whom we dwell far more than we do, in so far as they are not sinful; e. g., their love of tamashas or shows, which our Methodist brethren have utilized to a great extent for the purposes of evangelistic work.

Of the growth in self-support in the School and of the need of enlargement, Miss Donaldson says:

We trust it may not be necessary to limit the number of pupils, as the school can never even approximate self-support unless large numbers of pupils for whom full fees are paid can be added to the children of our Mission employes, for many of whom very little is received. At present there are sixty-five pupils in the school, for whom we receive a monthly fee of from five to ten rupees, and for the remainder from one rupee eight annas to four rupees. Ten years ago there were not more than twelve pupils in the school for whom as much as five rupees a month was received.

Dr. Vrooman has begun her medical work and Miss Savage conducted the Zenana.

MUSSOORIE STATION.

The chief work of the Mussoorie Station is the Woodstock School. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews and Miss Mitchell have been the only missionaries in the school, although there has been a large and helpful staff of other teachers.

This year has brought the school largely increased numbers of pupils, and the registers show one hundred and fifteen girls and twenty-five boys on the rolls. Of this number of boys, all but three were the sons of missionaries, either of our own or other Missions.

A very large proportion of the girls who were in the school last year became Christians before they went back to their homes in December; and, as many of them returned to Woodstock in March, they formed an influential nucleus of Christian life to begin our new school year. Around them have gathered others, who were new pupils, and by growth and development, the band of Christian students has given satisfaction to those who have been watching over them. It has been an encouragement to find that this year some who have for a long time resisted all good influences have yielded their hearts to Christ and show His spirit in their daily lives.

FEROZEPORE STATION.

Miss Herron writes of the women's work:

In the quarter where I had my school there were several very influential Mohammedan families, which, if opened to me, would give me access to a great many more homes. After being ignored for some months, suddenly, one day, I was called into the home which had opposed me the most. I was called to treat a baby, only ten days old, almost covered with a loathesome disease. It was during August. Miss Symes was away and the hospital was closed. I had no one with whom I could consult. So I turned to my Doctor Book, took my directions and went to work. I felt now was my opportunity, and, as I felt sure God made it for me, I could trust Him to help me with the child. For three weeks I made faily visits to the zenana and treated the child, until every vestige of the horrid disease had disappeared, and the baby began to grow at and chubby. When I began to treat the child an aunt said, "I hope the baby will get well. We had her engaged a few days since." In echild did get well and made a place for me, not only in her own home and in her mother's heart, but in the hearts and homes of others.

Some of the women have opposed the teaching of Christ, while others again have welcomed it. They say, "The singing and words you tell us make our hearts glad." One woman said, "I believe all you tell me." Our Quran says Jesus' mother was a virgin and Jesus was born by the Spirit of God. Why do we not believe him to be itself? You people have everything, we have nothing. I sit here in this intle room; I can't see anything, cannot go to your church to hear. How can God show me these things you tell me He can?"

The Hospital and dispensary work closed part of the time, although Miss Symes kept them open most of the time during the absence of Dr. Newton. In the Woman's Hospital, there were 5.384 patients and in the Men's Hospital, conducted by the assistant, Munshi Faiz Ali, there were 12,912.

HOME MISSIONS.

The Lodiana Presbytery has carried on its work at nine points, the chief of them being Thanesar. The report states:

A marked change is observable in the treatment of the Christians by the people of Thanesar. They (the Christians) are no longer held askin contempt as they used to be; Churha and Bhangi were names given to them, and no one felt the least hesitation in using these terms to their face. Their very touch was considered polluting. When a Christian bought anything, the shopkeeper put it on the ground, bidding him take it up from there. But now many of these men instante them to their shops, offer them seats, enter into friendly conversation with them, and some even go so far as to shake hands with them. We mention this simply to show how the light of the discipled has begun to dispel the thick darkness of prejudice that has anxeloped their minds for centuries.

In November, 1901, a very large mela was held at Thanesar, at the time of the solar eclipse. More than six hundred thousand pilgrims visited the place in order to bathe in the Krukshetra tank and have their sins washed away. Our experience of a former mela, on a similar occasion, had taught us that the larger the number of trackers at such times the better. We accordingly called all our workers together. Rev. Puran Lal also came to our assistance from Sthathu with a party of eight preachers; and, at his invitation, came Dahu Moti Lal from Jagadhri, Babu Ishri Prasad from Mubarakpur, and Mr. Sampson with a band of music from Kharar. In parties of two and three we preached the Gospel to these people for a week, sometimes to 11 o'clock in the night.

The Lahore Presbytery's work has been carried on at eight efferent centers.

The Furrukhabad Mission was reinforced during the year by the appointment of the Rev. and Mrs. A. B. Allison, the Rev. and Mrs. John F. Symington, and the addition of Mr. Preston H. Edwards for special work in the new Christian College at Allahabad.

A special meeting of the Mission was held on February 19, 1903, at which an urgent call was sent to the Board for seventy-five missionaries, to be sent out within the next three years, nine of them to be medical missionaries for work in the villages.

The appeal points out that seven million five hundred thousand people, dwelling in more than fourteen thousand villages, depend on this Mission alone for hearing the Gospel. The present force is wholly inadequate, thousands of villages rarely visited, and many never at all. In some of the districts much time must be given to the instruction of the large number of converts and candidates for baptism from the depressed classes, including the training of teachers to labor in the villages. Town after town within the bounds of the Mission, each with a population of more than five thousand, was named in which there is not a preacher of the Gospel living.

Some of the districts in the field of the Furrukhabad Mission contain hundreds of thousands and have but one missionary resident in them. Etah district has a population equal to the state of Connecticut, four times the city of Detroit, and but one missionary family resident in it. Alaska, with a population of 29,536 Indians and 30,000 whites has II8 foreign missionary workers, as compared with two for Etah, with a population thirty times the Indian population of Alaska.

ALLAHABAD STATION

The most significant development of the work during the year has been in connection with the establishment of the Allahabad College, and the removal of the Jumna girls' school. Through the generous gift of 62,500 rupees by the Honorable John Wanamaker, new property and buildings have been provided for the girls' school, to be called the Mary Wanamaker School, in a different part of the city, leaving the present ground and buildings of the school, for the use of the College, of which the Rev. A. H. Ewing, Ph. D., has accepted the Presidency.

Mr. Wanamaker has agreed to provide the salary of two teachers and holds out the promise of other generous help. Since the establishment of the College and its affiliation with the Allahabad University, he has sent out the money for one new building and some generous gifts have been made by other friends of the work.

EVANGELISTIC.—Of the various rich forms of his evangelistic work Dr. Lucas reports:

Perhaps the service which has given me the greatest pleasure this year has been the preparation and delivery of fourteen lectures in the Epistle to the Romans to the sixty or more preachers and teachers in the Summer School at Mainpurie in May. There are few privileges greater than to draw out the truth from the Word of God, so that it speaks to your own heart, and then pass it on to others. I spent altogether a little over a month in a preaching tour in the Allahabad District and the Fatehpur District.

In March, Dr. Ewing and myself went to Sirsa, a town of 4.000 inhabitants, south of the Jumna, in the Allahabad District, with the view of opening an out-station. We found the town deserted, the people having fled from it because of the hundreds of deaths from plague. We found hundreds living under the trees in groves near by. We succeeded in renting a house, and a few weeks later our evangelist, Charan Das, removed to Sirsa to make this a centre for preaching in the many villages close at hand.

A few weeks ago, in the cathedral at Allahabad, the Bishop of Lucknow ordained to the ministry a convert from Mohammedanism whom I baptized more than twenty years ago. The father and son, Kashmiri Mohammedans, were on their way to Mecca, but when they reached Fatehgarh, the son, who has been a pupil in the Lodiana Mission School, refused to go further, declaring his intention to be a Christian. Not long after this I baptized the father and son. After the death of the father the son was sent to the medical college, Agra, and some time after his graduation was appointed medical officer at Ladak, Thibet. In time he gave up his faith in the deity of Christ, and having received his share in an estate belonging to his father, about fifty thousand rupees, he went to Oxford, England, to study Hebrew and Greek, in order to read the Scriptures in the original. While in England he was once again brought back to the faith of his youth. As editor of the Al Hagy, a paper set for the defence of the truth and especially adapted to meet the objection of Mohammedans, as well as a preacher, he is doing much for the cause of Christ among his countrymen.

And so another year ends, my thirty-second as a missionary. To be even a doorkeeper in the house of the Lord is a high honor and a great privilege. With every year of service I count that privilege greater and greater. "Blessed are they that dwell in Thy house; they will be still praising Thee."

Dr. Ewing has had charge of the Jumna Church, of which he says:

This congregation has been passing through the throes of an irrepressible conflict. The single elder refused to have as new elders those who were not of his own choosing, and with his family and relatives and with a few others has practically cut himself off from the Church. Notwithstanding this, the attendance at the services is good.

SCHOOLS.—Of the Boys' High School, Dr. Ewing writes:

Last cold season the ravages of the plague drove the students away in such numbers that the attendance fell from 200 to thirty.

Even up to the present time all have not returned.

The interest in the Bible class is good. No hour of the day is so pleasant to me and so full of hope as this hour with thirty young men. There is no opportunity equal to the opportunity which it gives.

A small building built originally as a home for new converts and used in recent years for the vernacular department of the school, has been turned into a dormitory for Christian boys and young men. It is already more than full.

No report of the Girls' School has been received.

MEDICAL WORK.—Dr. Norris has done most effective work during the year, the Government having conferred on her the Kaisir-i-Hind medal, for her great services during the plague. She writes in her report:

Last January we were greatly encouraged in the work by the visit of the Hon. John Wanamaker, who gave me a gift of Rs. 1,000 to provide food for the poor who required hospital treatment but were unable to pay for food at the hospital or to have it sent to them from their own houses. This filled a long-felt want, for, while many of the patients are able to get their food in some way, there are still a great number who are not "Jibul." The wife of a grasscutter, the first taken into the Wanamaker ward, was a good sample of this class. She required a major operation, and had to remain in the hospital several months. Her husband got a salary of Rs. 4 per month, and had several to support. Had she paid the usual price for hospital food, it would have taken the entire salary. The house was so far from the hospital that she could not have her portion sent to her. She was with me over three months, and received daily Bible teaching, and soon learned the old, old story and was so happy in it that when her grandfather came to see her she told it to him. He became very angry and said he was not going to be disgraced in his old age by having a Christian grandchild, and although the wound was not quite healed he took her away.

The attendance during the cold season was very much decreased, owing to the outbreak of plague. During the hot weather and this fall it has been very large, sometimes over 200 in a morning.

The total number of treatments for the year was New patients
In-patients

During the outbreak of plague I tried to do all I could to help the people and gain their confidence. I could not take plague patients into the hospital, and could help so few of them in going from house to house, so I asked the government to give me a few plague camps. This they did, and on seeing how readily the women came to me, they asked me to take over full charge of all the zenana camps.

FATEHGARH STATION.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—

There are four churches. A new church has been organized in Hathi-Vihana, a section of Fatehgarh. The Rakha and Furrukhabad churches have native pastors, to whose support they largely give. The balance is provided by the Home Mission Committee of the Furrukhabad Presbytery. This committee also supports the two workers who oversee and minister to the other two churches. All the churches have shown substantial growth. The Rakha and Furrukhabad churches have both passed the 100 membership mark.

The C. E. Society of the Furrukhabad church is conducting sixteen Sabbath-schools in various parts of the city and vicinity. Committees of three and four go to each place of meeting. In all, there are thirty-four Sabbath-schools, with 778 pupils and teachers.

This year there have been no movements of communities toward Christianity. Here and there a family or an individual has come out. Seventy-two have been baptized.

The low caste work, bazaar preaching and Zenana work have gone on as usual.

EDUCATIONAL.—Thirty-one girls from the Rakha Girls' Boarding School united with the Church on confession of their faith.

Of the Barhpur Boys' Boarding School, the report states:

We have suffered some loss through discontented boys running away. The industrial department has been carried on most of the year, classes having been held in tailoring, carpentry, tile making and leather work. The boys have also done a large amount of laborers' work. By this means they are able to earn their own clothes. The tailoring class has been the most satisfactory, they making all the boys' clothes. Lack of satisfactory teachers in the other branches of industrial work has been a great drawback. The boys are now engaged in gardening with great zest. Their mental training has been more satisfactory.

In the Furrukhabad Boys' High School

Christian teachers of a better quality have been secured. In the last government inspector's report two of our Christian teachers were very highly commended. The school stands among the highest in these provinces in the percentage of students who passed the government entrance and middle examinations.

In the Furrukhabad Girls' School

Some opposition from the Brahmans has been experienced. But the chief difficulties have been in connection with the school staff. Heathen women have to be employed to escort the children. They are often sick and unfaithful. The attendance was often diminished by a dozen or twenty on account of the failure of some woman to call the girls. The staff of Christian teachers is very unstable. Being of necessity married women, their work is greatly interrupted, and a changed condition of circumstances in the home often calls them off permanently from the work. At present there is not a single teacher who was with us during the early part of the year, and we do not know how long we may have our present staff. Where the personal influence of the teacher counts for so much, this is a serious difficulty.

Twenty-six young men have been enrolled in the training school.

FATEHPUR STATION.

The Station has been in charge of Mr. Tracy, who writes most discouragingly regarding the condition of the work, as he found it, and expresses doubt as to the wisdom of taking up the work at once, instead of leaving it for a little while, in order that new foundations might be laid for it later. Miss Morrow, however, has found no little encouragement in connection with her school work in Fatehpur. Of Khandhi she writes:

When I went to the Collector to get permission to open the school he said, "Why in Khandhi? It is one of the worst villages in the district." He did not think it would be very pleasant for anyone to try and live there. But as to permission, Mr. Rama Shankar said, "Not only my permission, but I will help you in every way I can, not only in Khandhi, but in any other village you wish to open." He said he would gladly make this school and any others, aided schools if I wished it.

Mr. Rama Shankar especially requested me to open a girls' school in Fatehpur City, said if I would make out an estimate for its expense he would make a grant for it. I have not yet made an attempt to do this, for I have not been able to get a suitable Christian teacher.

ETAWAH STATION.

Four persons have been added to the Church during the year on profession. Dr. Johnson writes:

One of those added on examination was Mr. Buddhn Mal, who has served the government for years in the Educational Department. For a long time past he has professed faith in Christ, but some members of his family, which is an influential one in Etawah, tried their best to hold him back. This year he went to Mr. Woodside at the Hills, who is an old friend of his, and was there baptized. He then taught for some months in the Mission School at Dehra. After this he came back to Etawah, where his conversion has made much stir.

In the city and in some of the villages a good deal of opposition to the Truth has been aroused, which is perhaps a sign that the Word has had some effect. There is a strong Arya Samaj influence in this region, and they everywhere show a bitterness, which in my judgment is more political than religious, but in either case is very annoying.

One woman and twenty-four boys of the Orphanage were received as members

My daughter and l, with four helpers, made a very pleasant and I trust profitable tour of six weeks last winter. For that time we reached about 100 villages and bazaars or markets. Most of those were visited by the party at least twice. In some twenty places our reception was decidedly friendly, and we went with little active opposition anywhere.

Dr. Johnson has continued his varied literary work.

Miss Johnson writes:

After Allahabad, with its numbers of girls' schools and many open zenana doors, Etawah strikes a newcomer as a place where the majority of the people still view the education of women with great doubt and suspicion.

The Aryas are numerous there, and opposed us by trying to drive away the audiences which the preachers drew together in the bazaar. They could not always follow me in my quieter work among the women, but there were two young boys whom they sent to do what they could in the way of hindrance.

Our reception in the smaller villages varied. Even when suspicion and unfriendliness met us, they often turned into warm cordiality before we left. Occasionally too much of the latter was embarrassing. In a rich Zamindar's house we had begged off from waiting until a meal was cooked for us. The women refused to let us go until we had taken something. At last we compromised on milk. It hostess filled up the earthen drinking cup with as many sweetmeats as the milk would dissolve, and cheerfully stirred it with a stick before she offered it. I drank this decoction as bravely as I could consoling myself with the reflection it might have been worse. It might have been her forefinger and not a stick.

Our most interesting visits were to some Banjara villages. These people are very different in dress and customs from the ordinary Hindoos. They belong to a nomadic tribe, and came from Jeypur, forty years ago, and settled in this district and began to till the ground. Their villages are mere grass huts, which they call tents: but they are rich in cattle and wealth, most of which is turned into silver ornaments and worn by their women. The dress of the latter is peculiar. At home, their long skirts trail on the ground and they are followed by a trail of dust. On a journey, they loop them up between the knees into a great knot, which hangs in front as they walk and looks ungainly. Their jackets are trimmed with beads of glass set into them. Their veils are draped over a pointed arrangement which makes them stick up almost a foot in some cases, and they wear a prodigious amount of jewelry. As their houses could be easily robbed, they keep a great many dogs of a large, fierce breed. These rush out upon a stranger as if they would like to tear him limb from limb. Remembering Jezebel, we used to stop at a distance and call out to some man to protect us. To do them justice, they were always ready to do so, and we found them very friendly and eager to hear.

Miss Belz made her last report to the Mission meeting and passed on to the higher service, after thirty years of most faithful work. The Board entered on its records the following minute in appreciation of Miss Belz's devoted service:

The death of Miss Christine Belz, of the Furrukhabad Mission, was reported to the Board, Miss Belz having entered into rest on December 15, after thirty-one years of untiring service. For thirty-years, with a break of a few months once to visit her home in Germany, and once for a brief visit to the Hills, she toiled on in Etawah and the villages within reach, telling to every one who would give her a hearing the story of the Cross. Years ago she gave up her salary, and, had she wished, might have retired to spend her declining years in her own country; but so long as strength was left she continued to go out with her message of the Saviour. It was voted to record the Board's appreciation of this faithful and earnest life.

In her last report, Miss Belz wrote:

I cannot tell of women who have confessed Christ publicly in baptism, but I can report a real interest on the part of many in the Gospel message, and a desire to hear more about the Saviour, of which I beg to mention a few examples. After I had spoken at four or five places to very attentive listeners in the large village Pataura, I heard some people, who went along with me, say to each other that I must not pass over the Thakurani, but see her. They then conducted me to her house, gave her notice of my arrival, and she at once came out, saluted me in a very hearty way, and said to me: "How good it is that you have come again to our village, so that we may hear more about the Saviour, Jesus Christ. I have not any longer faith in the Hindoo religion. I believe in the Lord Jesus Christ as my Saviour." I did not know anything about this woman's faith, and would have passed her if not, as here mentioned, some people had called my attention to her. She took then in the Word of God very eagerly and advised her neighbors to buy books from me, and she did so.

The other day, here in the city, women and men had gathered about me to listen, and they listened well until I told them that the Lord Jesus was the Son of God and Saviour of sinners, and that without Him no sinner could be saved. Then some Mohammedan men who were present opposed, but when they saw that they could not prove that neither Mohammed nor his religion was true, and heard about Christ's resurrection from the dead, then they went away, but all the women who had been present during the conversation remained. They now seemed to be very eager to hear more about Christ as the Saviour, and when I had done here, several of them asked me to come to their house, so that there the people also

MAINPURIE STATION.

Mr. Mitchell reports:

During the past year ten have united with the Church.

We have in this district fourteen Sunday-schools, with an attendance of 372.

In February we took over 113 baptized persons from the American Methodists. These people all live within fifteen miles from Mainpurie and far from any centre of the Methodists.

I have baptized during the year sixty-nine persons, nearly all from the Sweeper caste. We now have baptized people in ten villages, and have had repeated requests to baptize people in five other villages, but because of the lack of funds and suitable workers I have not yet seen my way clear to baptize them. These people (and they are not alone in this) probably have mixed motives in becoming Christians, such as the education of their children and the help and protection of the white man; but, all things considered, they appear to me to be quite as honest and sincere as those coming out from higher castes. There are cases of backsliding and of going back to idolatry and heathen practices, but I think not a larger proportion than from the higher castes. Upon becoming Christians they are frequently called upon to endure persecution.

During the year two Christian girls' schools have been started and three Hindoo and Mohammedan schools have been kept up. There are between fifty and sixty girls in these three schools, and the Bible women teach about seventy-five more.

The High School has 120 boys enrolled, and the average attendance has been 102. There are four Christian teachers in the school.

JHANSI STATION.

Dr. Holcomb reports:

The Rev. E. Nabibakhsh, by the arrangement of the Presbytery, is the stated supply of the Jhansi Church. He is one of the best pulpit preachers in the Mission, having been carefully trained for this work when a young man by the Rev. Mr. Ullmann. Old age is now upon him, and his infirmities are increasing. It looks as though his work were nearly done. He never preached better than during the past year, and we are thankful that his services are still continued.

Two very intelligent English-speaking native gentlemen who had been frequenting the reading-room sent me word by Babu Prakash that they would like to have an interview with me. An evening for the interview was accordingly appointed, and on my going to the reading-room I was met with the request, "Sir, we wish you to tell us why you think we ought to be baptized." This indicated a state of mind of which I had before been ignorant, though these gentlemen were not strangers to me. For an hour or more they listened most attentively to what I had to say, and I stated the case very plainly, so plainly, indeed, that I concluded by saying that I had nothing further to add to what I had said, and that I would now leave the matter between them and God. Both of those men, now government pensioners, had been deputy magistrates. One of them, who for distinguished services had been honored by the government with the title of Rai Bahadur, was educated in the Free Church College at Nagpur, and the Christian influence brought to bear upon him there and elsewhere led him many years ago to cast away his Brahminical cord and to cut loose entirely from caste distinctions. He openly calls himself a Christian, but he says he will not be baptized because he does not wish to be identified in any way with any particular denomination.

I have had only one boys' school, as it seemed best to dispense with the services of heathen teachers.

In her report of Zenana and School work, Mrs. Holcomb writes of many encouraging incidents, with which she meets:

Some pleasant pictures of zenana life come before me as I write. One only I will attempt to reproduce. A gentle-faced mother, whose daughter had been a pupil in our compound school, had a little son in whom her soul delighted. The announcement that the zenana lady was on her way to the house was the signal for hurrying away the boy, that he might be arrayed in his best garments. When the child appeared, the mother would with pride exhibit him. On one occasion, the zenana visitor was astonished to hear this pretty child, in his lisping baby accents repeat in English, "God is love. God loves me." The mother's face was radiant and she clasped the child to her heart, as he rushed to her arms after having creditably performed the part which his mother had taught him.

ETAH STATION.

The work at Etah has continued to grow and the large Christian community, which has been gathered the last few years, calls for the most careful supervision. Over forty boys were in boarding school, twenty-eight young men in teachers' training class, the wives of these young men constituting a separate training class of their own. There are now Christian communities in scores of villages and over 1000 Christians connected with the Mission. In these villages there are twenty-five Christian boys' and twenty-seven Christian girls' schools. The conditions and need are set forth in the following statement of Mr. McGaw's:

In June, 1899, Rev. H. Forman found an open door among the low-caste people, sweepers, of Nidhauli, Etah District.

From that beginning the work spread rapidly to other centres in the district, so that before a year had passed he had baptized 467 persons.

Since then the work has not spread so rapidly, but from among these low-caste people the Lord has been choosing a people for

Up till the present over 950 have been baptized by our missionaries and by the pastor of the Etah Church, Rev. Pradhu Dutt. In addition to these, we have taken over from the Methodists several hundred baptized persons for whose secular or religious instruction they were unable to provide.

For the ingathering and upbuilding of these ignorant villagers, man-oppressed and devil-controlled, who are coming into light and life and liberty, we have at time of writing some thirty-five workers of various grades, of whom about twenty-five are in the villages and the rest in Etah.

Those in the villages are preacher-teachers, men of very elementary education; and licentiates, men with a theological training, who direct and oversee the work of the preacher-teachers.

The preacher-teachers are almost all from among these low-caste people. To each of them are assigned several villages, comprising from fifty to 150, possibly more, of the new Christians. They teach the young to read and instruct all in regard to life and doctrine.

Under the pressure of the imperative need for these low-grade workers one of our chief duties is the preparation of young men and women (wives) for such work, and for this purpose have training classes. In these classes are some thirty young men and twenty wives We seek to thoroughly ground them in the simplest truths of the Bible and to develop the Christian graces in their lives. The transformations which we see taking place give us strong hopes for their future success.

Also, in addition to the training classes, we have a central school for boys and some eighteen or twenty village schools among the Christians. In this spiritual field we believe both in intensive and extensive farming.

The progress in the various phases of the work is encouraging. It is refreshing to go into town after town and find those who can sing Christian songs, recite Bible stories and pray, even though it may be with stammering tongues.

The work is constantly spreading, partly through the efforts of paid workers, but not altogether. Often it is the influence of the Christians who have no connection with the Mission.

Recently 150 have been baptized, living in twelve different communities. In some cases, where there were idols or certain signs of idolatry, we demanded the destruction of those before receiving the people for baptism. In one place idols of earth were dug up and in other cases signs of their gods were obliterated from the walls.

This work is largely limited by our ability to shepherd properly, one-half, perhaps, were visited, but held back for further instruction.

There are some 400 or 500 inquirers still reported. Some of these, as possible the under-shepherd on the field; hence, too, our desire for more missionaries.

One missionary family has too much to do to care for this special community numbering but a small fraction of the population of the district.

Etah greatly needs another missionary family for this work. Then what of the 750,000 not spoken of above?

CAWNPORE STATION.

The Mission has been authorized to open a Station at Cawnpore and Mr. Gillam has been located there. He writes:

On June 14 a church was organized with twenty-one members and two ruling elders. Since then the membership has increased to twenty-five. During the year five persons were baptized on profession of their faith.

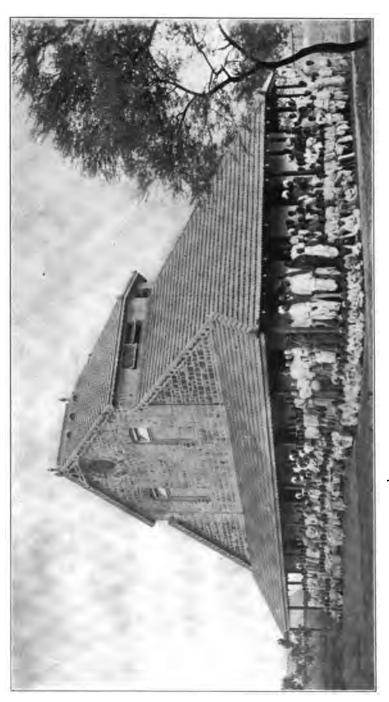

A work which commended itself as a valuable form of evangelistic effort was the holding of meetings in different parts of the city at the homes of Christians on different nights of the week. These meetings grew in interest, but had to be stopped on account of smallpox and plague.

The plan was to give ten or fifteen minutes of the hour to the practice of hymn singing. Following that, the Christians present were questioned on the Sunday-school lesson, which was made the study for the evening. With two or three prayers the meeting closed.

Meetings of this character had some distinct advantages. (1) They unified the interests of the families living in the neighborhood in which the meeting was held. (2) They enabled me to meet at some time during the week nearly every individual connected with the Mission. (3) They afforded opportunity for people working in factories to have regular Bible instruction, and (4) to some extent I think it made the Christian people realize their obligation to heathen people. The method at these meetings was to aim to impress outsiders through the Christians rather than to speak to outsiders directly.

Any man who can do work, who knows a trade, or who is proficient in clerk's work has practically no difficulty in getting employment. The average wages are from 6 Rs. to 7 Rs. a month. Wages for skilled labor vary from 10 Rs. to 25 and 30 Rs. a month, and a clerk gets from 15 Rs. to 40 Rs. If a young fellow before coming to Cawnpore has had even a month or two of experience in a trade it is always of advantage, as, even if he has not mastered it, he is enabled to begin a grade of employment where there is a chance for advancement. All this helps toward self-support.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. Tedford, Miss Amanda M. Jefferson, Miss A. A. Brown.

IN EUROPE: Mrs. R. G. Wilder, Miss Grace Wilder.

In spite of plague and fever, the past year's work has been greatly blest with continued large accessions to some of the churches. The Mission has been reinforced during the year by the appointment of Mr. Simpson and Miss Johnson and Miss Patterson and Dr. Heston, who took Dr. Stewart's place among the village settlement workers, Dr. Stewart having been married to Mr. Marshall.

The Mission suffered at the close of the year the grievous loss of Mr. and Mrs. Seiler, Mr. Seiler's health having failed. Mr. and Mrs. Seiler went out to India in 1870 and their work has been effective and enduring. "No," said a Hindu doctor, in reply to a question as to what influences most threatened Hinduism, "we are not afraid of occasional lectures. What we fear is the lives of men like Mr. Seiler and Mr. Goheen, who live among us and whom we love." In the report of the Kolhapur S'ation, the Station speaks of its loss as follows:

This Station desires to express its sense of loss in the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Seiler from our Mission. Mr. Seiler's knowledge of Marathi and ready command of the language, his interest in all classes of people and especially his interest in young men have made him a very popular and valuable missionary. To Mrs. Seiler we owe the first self-supporting enterprise in our Mission, the establishment of Daniel's bakery which supplies bread to all of our Deccan Stations. Mrs. Seiler's sympathy with the women of this country in their trials and temptations, her love for children, and her talent for home-making, are ideal traits for a missionary woman, and their very perfection is the measure of our loss.

Mrs. and Miss Wilder have also had to leave the field on account of health. On December 4, 1902, the Mission and native Church celebrated the completion of Mrs. Wilder's fifty years of service in India.

KOLHAPUR STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—The Station was grievously afflicted at the beginning of the year with plague.

Subhabai, the oldest member of our church, died of plague in December. She was a blind woman who was baptized by Rev. R. G. Wilder, nearly forty years ago.

Seventy-nine were received during the year, on profession of faith, in the Kolhapur Church.

The Sunday services and week-day prayer meetings have been well attended. There are indeed not enough seats for the outsiders who come in to the Sunday afternoon service, even though many of the school children are crowded together upon the floor.

Ten were received on profession of faith at Wadgaon Church. Siddaramji was ordained and installed pastor, half of his salary being paid by the Church and the other half by the Home Mission Fund of the Presbytery. Mr. Seiler has had a preaching service on the street, in front of the Y. M. C. A. building, and on Sunday evenings after the regular church service Mr. Seiler and Mr. Goheen have preached to crowds of people in the market place. The audiences are usually quiet and attentive, but occasionally there is noisy discussion of the preacher's subjects.

There has been an average attendance of 475 in the Kolhapur City Sunday-school, and 105 in the Mission compound school. At Wadgaon the Sunday-school attendance was 120.

EDUCATIONAL.—Half a dozen day-schools have been conducted during the year.

The Somvai Girls' School was also closed for three months on account of plague and when reopened there was great enthusiasm among the pupils over the event. Examinations which had been delayed were then in order and in the outside world it was the marriage season so that the little girls were in a state of excitement all day long. One of them cried bitterly because she was kept out of school to attend her own wedding, which took place at her young bridegroom's home in a near village. She was taken away on Thursday and returned to school on Monday to complete her examination, still in a tearful and uncertain state.

Of the Orphanage, Mrs. Goheen writes:

We have continued to receive girls almost every month of this year, for although the famine was declared to be over, the people are impoverished in body and soul and the number of beggars and homeless children in the towns testify to the distress that prevails. A large proportion of those recently received are caste children. The health has been in general good. Two little boys died of wasting diseases. It was a great pleasure to see so many little ones enjoy their first Christmas. Except of necessary clothing there were no individual gifts. Each class of the very little girls had a doll. The classes of little boys had each a ball, and these gifts were highly prized. But it was the dinner of good things, the atmosphere of good cheer and love, the singing of Christmas songs and the awakening to the spirit of Christmas. mas that made the time peculiarly happy, and many have been the inquiries, "When will Christmas come again?"

Girls' Boarding School.—

Since July I the three houses have been full of girls of from one and a half to sixteen years of age. Each small girl has an aka, who sees that she is fed, bathed and dressed and that she gets all her rights and privileges. The principal is often amused, and sometimes troubled, over the heated disputes between the big sisters over the rights and over the neated disputes between the big sisters over the rights and wrongs of the little sisters. If a cry arises from the place where the little ones are playing, at once half a dozen akas rush to the rescue, each one eager to see if her particular charge is being abused in any way. One day one of the little ones told the principal that she had a bad dream and when in her fright she wakened her aka she said, "Of course you are afraid. You did not pray when I put you to bed, now get up and pray." The little one said, "I got up and she heard me say my prayer, and I was not afraid any more."

The three houses are called East Middle and West Hall accord

The three houses are called East, Middle and West Hall, according to situation. East Hall has seventy-one girls in it, and Middle and West Hall have each eighty. The larger girls in each house are in classes of eight girls in each class, for the house work, as grinding, cooking, carrying water, dish-washing, washing, cleaning and hair-combing. The little ones sweep, clean and pick up papers, etc., etc.

The hum and buzz and gabble begin at 5 A.M., when the cooks and grinders start their work, and increases in volume till the breakfast bell rings at 8.15. Then the 231 children quiet down for morning prayers, after which the breakfast of warm fresh dojondhala bread and vegetable curry is served to them. Twice a week they have porridge and brown sugar for breakfast, and on Sunday morning before going to Sunday-school they have each a brown wheaten roll.

After breakfast they put the house in order, study and get ready for school, which opens at 10 A.M. Mr. Goheen conducts the school prayers, the usual order being a hymn, reading of Scriptures by the girls, a short exposition of the portion read and prayer. On Wednes-days there is a song service. The classes choose and start their favorite hymns.

The girls are in school till I P.M., when they have intermission of an hour for lunch of cold bread and pulse or vegetables made savory with curry powder. After that the little ones remain in the homes and only the higher standards are in school till 4 P.M.

The cooking class has to prepare the rice and curry, the dish-washing class to set the floor with the brass plates, the water-carrying class to fill the brass cups with water for dinner, which comes at 6.30. After that there is play or study till bedtime, which is 8.15 for the little ones, and 9.15 for the older ones. They spread out on the floors their rolls of bedding, say their prayers, talk and giggle a little maybe, and go to sleep "without a care or trouble." During the past year thirty-two girls from the school united with the church.

At the beginning of the year there were 110 boarders and 140 in school. At the close of the school year there are 231 in the boarding department and 254 in the scholastic department.

The average cost a month for each scholar during the past fiscal year was Rs. 4. 10. 0. as follows:

Per. stomach Rs. 2. o. o.—for food.

Per. body Rs. 1. 9. 0.—for clothing and attendants. Per. head Rs. 1. 1. 0.—for teachers, books, etc.

The other work of the Station, Bible women, Dorcas Society, Y. M. C. A., etc., has been continued as usual.

KODOLI STATION.

Misses Thompson, Giles and Scheurman have been located at the Kodoli Station during the year, helping to care for the orphans in Miss Brown's absence and carrying on their itinerating work.

EVANGELISTIC.—

The past year was one to which we looked forward with hope and yet with fear and trembling. Knowing that the large increase of the Christian community in the previous year, humanly speaking, was due in great measure to the pecuniary relief given through the missionaries in days of distress and famine, we could not but feel anxious lest the withdrawal of such aid would be accompanied by corresponding defection and return to Hinduism on the part of our converts. The result shows that there was good cause for such anxiety, although the defection has not been so great as we feared and expected.

Babaji, the schoolmaster at Ayatawade, who has the oversight of the work there and in the neighboring towns on that side of the Warna River, writes as follows: "Oman Jayaram, a well-to-do man fifty-five years old, and eight other members of his family, were among the first to become Christians in Kurlap. Many others, eighty-four in all, counting adults and children, gladly followed his example and changed their religion, because he was a leader among them. After this man had become a Christian, he failed to extort money from the people, as he had formerly done, by threats of injuring them in various ways if they refused to give him what he asked. He has gone back to Hinduism and is now very active, trying, by threats and promises, to induce all the rest to do likewise. He has so far succeeded that thirteen persons have followed his example. I hope the Lord will soon stop this man's work." Santoba, the helper in charge at Islampur, reports a similar defection at Kapuskhed, a village three miles out from Islampur.

We believe that the relief provided through the missionaries in famine times gave access to the people and became the providential means of bringing a knowledge of salvation to many who would not otherwise have been reached by the Gospel, but we believe that it is also true that it is absolutely essential to the sound conviction and healthful growth of the church, that its members should not continue to look to the missionary for pecuniary aid when the time of scarcity has gone, and accordingly, in this field, both the gratuitous giving of famine funds and the carrying on of famine relief work were practically stopped at the very beginning of the year.

There have been added to the roll of the Church during the year the names of eighty-one communicants and thirty-eight baptized children. The Church sustained a heavy loss during the year in the death of its godly and efficient pastor, Sartoba. Mr. Graham speaks of him as follows:

Near the close of the year the church has suffered a great loss in the death of the Rev. Sartoba Ranoji Rinbhisi, who had been the pastor since its organization in 1885. In August he was called to Miraj on account of the serious illness of his son, who had been taken to the hospital with the virulent fever then prevailing in the Boys' Boardingschool at Sangli. Sartoba stayed with his boy until he was well enough to be removed, when he brought him home, being himself apparently in his usual good health. The same week he was stricken down with the fever and in four days he died. Even before his illness he seemed to have a presentiment that his work was done. His wife told me that after prayers on the morning of the day the fever began he joined his hands, threw them up again and again as high as he could reach, and said, "I am going to my Father! I am going to my Father." She rebuked him, asking him if he were beside himself and telling him that he was acting very foolishly in the presence of the family in which were many orphan children. He stopped, began to laugh and held out his hand saying, "Well, then take a last goodby." The day before he died, he asked me if I was praying for him, and when I told him that I was praying (and we all were) that he might soon be restored to health and his work, he replied that I should not ask that; he was resting with perfect satisfaction and joy on the first part of his favorite chapter, the fourteenth of John's Gospel, and he wanted to go to the place prepared for him in the Father's house above. Though he was rapidly becoming exhausted by violent fever that would not yield even temporarily to the best appliances of medical skill, he remained patient and quiet, without the least anxiety or mental disturbance, to the very last and then without a struggle passed peacefully away. I well remember when, more than twenty-five years ago, he came to Mr. Hull, one of our missionaries at Kolhapur, begging to be taught the religion of the Bible. There was not a Christian in the whole region that now constitutes the Kodoli field. Though Sartoba was a heathen guru of his caste, a blind leader of the blind, he was a simple-hearted, earnest man even then, and felt that he was groping in the dark. In his report for that year, Mr. Hull wrote of him, "I have never anywhere seen the Gospel received more in the spirit of the Gospel. He has given me his books in the study and recitation of which he had spent years, and a strange collection they are. He had grown tired of the pursuit. He said, 'It was like attempting to get a fist full of water'-nothing remained in the grasp after all the effort. For some days after he had placed himself under my instruction, it seemed to me that Christian truth was of little more avail to him. My work seemed to be simply the tearing down piece-meal of the fabric he had so laboriously constructed. I could not succeed in introducing any spiritual principle that he would apply for himself. But this was soon followed by a marked change. The closing chapters of John's Gospel were blessed to him, and my work was largely done. A principle of life was implanted and it applied itself." Now, after twenty-five years, in which I have intimately known him, I can say of good old Sartoba that he always impressed me as a man full of faith and filled with the Spirit. Originally of one of the lowest castes, in time he won the respect of all classes of the people, and even of the Brahmins themselves. I say in time he won respect, for it took time to do it. When he went back to his village, after he had publicly confessed his faith in Christ and been baptized, his family would not give him a drink of water nor let him come into his own house, and the people of the village drove him out of town. For months he lived in the fields near the place and as his acquaintances and former friends passed by on the road, they would jeer at him and tauntingly say, "Christ, whom you call an incarnation of the great God, who made heaven and earth and whose disciple you have become, lets you live out here under a tree, while our gods whom you call blocks of wood and stone give us houses to live in. But nothing could weaken the loyalty of Sartoba to the Saviour under whose banner he had enrolled himself, and like a true soldier of the cross he bore patiently and without complaint all their insults and persecution. He became the pastor in that same community of the largest church in our Mission, and on the roll of its membership are the names of most of his relations and neighbors, to whose welfare, temporal and spiritual, he gave his life. To that life his quiet, peaceful death was a fitting close. Well might all who knew him say, "Let me die the death of the righteous and let my last end be like his."

Never before had Kodoli witnessed such a spectacle as on September 3, when the body of this faithful old servant of God was laid to rest in the Christian cemetery, about a mile from the church in the town. A Hindu woman expressed the thought of many when she exclaimed, "See what a crowd! it is bigger than a pilgrimage to Jotiba." Generally in India a few male friends of the deceased accompany the body to the grave, but the old pastor's body was followed by hundreds. The size of the procession was not its only striking feature; it was made up of men, women and children, each of whom seemed to feel his death as a personal loss. When the body left the church the wailing of the crowds, after the demonstrative manner of the East, was terrific, but once on the way, scores of school children, orphan boys and girls, struck up the hymn, "Shall We Gather at the River?" and all the way to the grave hymn followed hymn, each with a strain of victory in it, so that it almost seemed as if the funeral procession had been turned into a triumphant march. If the old pastor had any conscious part in the ceremony, there can be no doubt that his feelings were expressed in the songs of the children who led the way.

There are two large Sunday-schools in Kodoli and five more in the out-stations. The multiplied work of the Station, as described in the report of last year, has been continued and enlarged. Teachers' Bible class, children's meetings, attended by hundreds of the little children, girls' and boys' prayer-meetings, have brought the influence of the Gospel unremittingly to bear on the lives of the 700 or more children under the care of the Station.

Sartoba reports that besides conducting regular services at Islampur, he has preached from time to time in twenty-five towns in the region he has preached from time to time in twenty-nee towns in the region round. In narrating his visits to these places at the time of public festivals and pilgrimages, in honor of the Hindu gods, he refers to the marvelous, ridiculous and wicked customs of the people, to write of which in detail would, as he puts it, "make a big book." The pilgrimage in honor of the god Khandoba at a town called Pet will furnish a fair sample of what he means. He writes: "By the image of the god there is a long bamboo pole, which the people call the 'Crazy Pole.' The pole, which is covered with red and blue cloth and has a plume of peacete feathers waving from the too is made to dance, while the people. The pole, which is covered with red and blue cloth and has a plume of peacock feathers waving from the top, is made to dance, while the people fall down and worship it. Then at 9 P.M. the idol in its palanquin, accompanied by the crazy pole, is carried through the town, attended by a company of temple girls, who lead the procession with music and dancing. Men, women and children remain in the streets all night, playing and throwing a yellow powder over each other. Some idea of the character of the playing may be formed from the expressions heard on all sides the next morning. They are such as these: 'My turban is lost.' 'My dhotee (a garment worn by men in place of trousers) has been stolen.' 'Some one has torn the rings from my ears.' 'The jewels were snatched from my nose; see how badly it is hurt.' At noon comes the ceremony of breaking the chains. The procession is re-formed, a man devoted to the service of the god in infancy cession is re-formed, a man devoted to the service of the god in infancy and called Khandoba's dog, leads the temple girls back to the temple. One end of the chain, eight feet long, made of iron links, each several one end or the chain, eight reet long, made or iron links, each several inches in length, is secured to a stone post and the other end is fastened to a leather collar on the neck of Khandoba's dog. He runs, jumps and tumbles around the post as if demented, while the temple girls shout 'Yelakort,' i. e., 70,000,000, the number of gods who helped Khandoba in his fight with the giant Malla. As they shout they break cocoanuts and throw the pieces and lemons in the crowd, scatter yellow powder, wave boiled rice round the head of Khandoba's dog, then throw the pieces have the satt down near by this exhibition of the it over him. Sartoba says he sat down near by this exhibition at the pilgrimage to see what was going on, but the heat was so suffocating in the dense crowd and the air so thick with the powder that he could not stand it and had to get back from the front. The performance went on for two hours, during all of which time the man was madly tumbling about and striking the chain against a stone placed there for the purpose. At last he succeeded in breaking the chain. He was then given a rupee and a half (fifty cents), and the people fell down and worshiped him." Sartoba says he preached to them on the folly and wickedness of such superstition, and when he asked them what Khandoba had ever done on account of which he deserved divine honors, they said that once he had become incarnate in a dog and by furiously barking had driven away a horse that was trampling balls of rice, that were being offered to the souls of the departed. Such occasions, and there are many of them, furnish good opportunities to show by contrast the superiority of the Christian religion to Hinduism and the benefits it confers on those who sincerely receive it.

Miss Giles writes of some of the touring experiences of the young women:

Once in order to reach some villages beyond walking distance from here, I spent eleven days in Ayatevadi in a little native mud house, that of our dear old pastor, who is now living in one of the glorious mansions above. This experience was a new and interesting one. The house covered about as much ground space as a good-sized room of ours, but, unlike most small native houses, boasted of five rooms of various shapes and descriptions. The pastor thought I would choose the one room possessing a window, but as this was covered with per-forated rusty tin (doubtless from a kerosene can, the staple tin supply of the country) and about a foot square, not admitting enough light to read by, I chose another room where a ray of light stole down from a hole among the tiles. At first it seemed as if I should stifle at night, when the only outer door was closed, but I became fairly accustomed to the limited ventilation. The Christian people were very kind and helpful and seemed to like having Missi Sahib among them. In the evenings if not away to a village, I would take a walk with a few of the little school boys or sit out on some logs near the school house where the children came to play, and one evening some of the Christian men of longest standing came and sat down for a chat. We had such a good heart-to-heart talk on how to be victorious and to enjoy the Christian life. Besides trying to gather all the Christian people together for service, I went by invitation to several Maratha homes and that of the Chief of Police in Ayatavadi and was able to visit villages bevond.

In touring, after reaching our destination, we either first go into the center of the town or village and sit down under the shade of a tree or of a temple wall, or else we go to some home and call to the women to know if they will come and listen to what we would tell them about God, and whether we may sit by their door. In out-of-the-way villages the people, especially the women, are afraid of us and run and hide—they have probably never seen a white face; then we assure them we have not come to ask anything from them and that they need not fear, as we are women like themselves. On one such occasion when the people were evidently thoroughly frightened, an old man finally asked, "Why did you leave the road and come here? Was it for your stomach's sake?" a general expression in Marathi, meaning for some pecuniary gain. When I asked the old man what he would do if he had found some medicine that had cured him, would he not want to give it to others, he began to understand the reason for our coming. Sometimes we are met with a cross "We don't want to hear anything of your religion, just go on," by some priest or guru, whose livelihood depends upon the ignorance of the people, but generally we are politely or even cordially received. We always begin by singing a hymn with a native air and then mainly with stories from the life and parables of Jesus, for this, too, is a story loving people, we seek to give in a short time as clear an idea as we can of the Gospel to the group before us, which may be a little handful of women and children or maybe a crowd of a hundred or more.

In the districts we find much hard sod firmly trodden down by generations through sin and superstition. In the Maharwadi of Amba a poor feeble sick old man with great effort and pain got to the door to listen to the story. After hearing it he said in a tone of despair, "Had I but heard this when I was young! Now I am too old—it is too late—I am at death's door. I cannot believe now."

EDUCATIONAL.—

Besides two schools at Kodoli for boys with an attendance of 205 pupils and two for girls with an attendance of 220 pupils, there are schools for both loys and girls at all our out-stations. The teachers at these places, all of whom are Christians, report that on Sabbath days, Sunday-schools are carried on, and services held for the people of their own and surrounding villages.

Miss Graham makes the following report of the Kodoli Girls' Schools: "There are two girls' schools in Kodoli. One enrolls 140 and the other enrolls 70 wee tots."

Many of the girls have been in school for two or three years. Once in a while one is with us only a few days. I remember a thin, hungry girl of some twelve or thirteen years who came to my door late one evening. She pleaded, "I have no one, nothing to eat and only dirty rage to wear." Her face was thin, and the outline of her collar bone almost as distinct as if there had been no skin stretched over it. Three meals regularly every day, a comfortable home and a dress without any holes, were almost too happy things to be true! In one short week her husband and mother-in-law came to hunt the little girl-wife whom they said had run away. To my father's question, "Is this so?" she nodded "yes." When asked, "Do you want to go back?" she did not dare to say, "No." Her back was toward her people and I could see the big tears trickle down her cheeks. She was only a child; her lot in life was hard! How I longed to keep her until she should learn to know something of the great love that picks the little lambs up in its strong arms and carries them over the long rough road.

The Women's School, under Miss Thomson's care, has had sixty women under instruction.

MEDICAL WORK .- Dr. Wilson writes:

Except for a part of the hot season the work of the Hospital and Dispensary has gone on steadily throughout the year. Caste prejudice still limits very much the effectiveness of the Hospital, but the Dispensary has been well patronized by patients of good castes. The impression seems to be quite general that our Hospital is only for Christians and low castes, an impression which we believe is fostered by persons evilly disposed to our work.

Dr. McArthur helped much with the work during the year. The statistics are:

Dispensary outpatients—New patients4.32	I
Dispensary outpatients—Returning patients3,64	0
Visits to homes of sick
Total for Hospital and Dispensary patients treated8,12
Operations	Ī

ORPHANAGE.—Of the Brownie's Orphanage, as this happy company is called, after Miss Brown, who had gathered it together, the report states:

There are 640 of these children; they are supported by funds given for the purpose by friends most of whom are in the United States and Canada. Almost two-thirds of these patrons send their contributions through "The Christian Herald," one hundred and twenty-five through our own Board, and the rest direct to the Mission field.

Then many kind friends have given us contributions for the general fund. All of these gifts, whether for particular children or for the Orphanage as a whole, have come to us unsolicited. Miss Brown never asked a dollar from any man in support of her children, and although as Treasurer I have sent statements to patrons, when the balance was on the wrong side of their accounts and so given them the opportunity of letting us know whether they desired to continue the support of their children or not, I have never asked any of them for funds. Very few persons who have once undertaken the support of one or more Brownies, have wished or been willing to give up their proteges. We thank all these friends for the deep interest they have shown in the children, and the generous support they have provided for them; and we can assure them that they have brought brightness and joy into many lives, that would otherwise have been darkened, and a knowledge of the Saviour's love, to many of those concerning whom He said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

It is interesting to watch the growth of these children, mentally and spiritually, as well as physically. They call themselves Christians and they try to live as Christians should. The simple sincerity of many a little life is beautiful. Last May of the fifty-eight who were received into the church, fourteen were Brownie Orphanage boys and girls. You would be surprised to see how much like little American boys and girls these children really are. Their hearts respond to kindness just as flowers open up in the sunshine.

Mrs. Wilson has had a family of seventy-five orphan children under her care. The effort is made to fit all these children for useful and self-supporting lives.

SANGLI STATION.

The Station passed through another siege of plague during the year.

It did not prove so bad as the last epidemic, still some fourteen hundred have died.

These repeated visits of plague are discouraging. We wonder if the country will ever again be free from this scourge. Talking about this phase of the plague and the dark outlook and recounting how many thousands had perished in Sangli since the first epidemic, one of the native medical officers remarked, "We could spare another thousand—yet if we could only see the end of it."

These visits of plague are a very great hindrance to our work.

EDUCATIONAL.—In the Boys' School:

About 185 boys, including those from the Orphanage, were in attendance. Somehow within the last year or two many of the boys have reached the age where they have dropped their small-boy-hood and suddenly blossomed into large boys. We are glad to say that the large boys are nearly all steady earnest boys, and bid fair to be ready at the end of the school year in October to form a new Fourth Standard—the first class of a High School. The Christian Endeavor Society more than doubled its numbers and both in its own meetings and in its outside work showed great interest and zeal.

But at the close of July matters came to a sudden stop. An epidemic of fever began. In a short time the school had to be closed and the boys scattered to their homes. Some of them carried the disease germs with them to their homes, and fell sick there. Most of the Orphanage boys had nowhere to go. Those who had were sent to friends and the remainder were sent to a quarantine camp in Miraj.

In all there were sixteen deaths, five among the boys of the Boarding School, nine among the Orphanage boys, one the master already mentioned and one the Kodoli pastor who lost his life through caring for his boys in their illness.

Of the Industrial Work of the School, the report states:

Eighty boys were enrolled in the wood and iron working departments and sixteen in that for brass casting and finishing.

Among the goods made in the workshop during the year may be mentioned articles of furniture, blackboards for schools, brass and iron fittings for the girls' school at Kolhapur, steel trusses for the dormitory roofs at Kolhapur and the steel framework for a bungalow roof, beside articles and repairs of various sorts. In the coming year we expect to produce more and consequently to increase the revenue which will help make the school self-supporting. We can get locally all the orders we can take for wood and iron work.

In this connection we may mention the need of an oil engine to drive our machines.

There has been a sewing class in connection with our Boarding School. Over forty boys were in this class. A good number of them do very nice sewing. The sewing that has been done is mostly for the Boarding School, but a few of the best sewers have learned to make garments for European children. The boys are not allowed to make garments for European children until they can cut out and make a shirt for themselves. Our object in giving them European garments to make is that we hope they will become tailors who can make both native and European garments, as they can much more easily earn a livelihood on European garments.

The Orphanage in Sangli has been conducted in connection with the Boys' School.

During the greater part of the year which is just at an end our Orphanage work has gone along side by side with that of the locarding school and many of the boys are rapidly rising to the highest standards. In the industrial department some of the Orphanage boys stand equal with the best and a few show decided ability in some lines. Most of the clothing for the Orphanage is being made by the boys in a sewing class. As all their work is hand sewing and only two hours a day can be given to it, they cannot yet keep up with the demand; so that occasionally a tailor has to be called in.

Two day-schools were conducted during the year.

Since the death of the Chief of Sangli in December last, the State has been ruled by an Administrator, a Brahmin of liberal views. He is well disposed toward our work and we notice a change in the attitude of the official classes and others toward us and our work. For the first time in the history of the school an invitation was sent to our Christian boys to join the Hindu boys of the State High School in their games at a tournament which was to be held under the auspices of the Rulers of Native States in the Southern Maratha Country.

The missionary in a foreign land finds himself occasionally in a novel situation as the following incident, reported by Mr. Jolly, will show:

A few months ago I was somewhat shocked and not a little annoyed at the receipt of a letter from the Administrator asking me to undertake the erection of a Grand Assembly Hall to be built by the widow of the late Chief in memory of her husband at a cost of Rs. 100,000, the same to have an imposing outward appearance so as to form a fitting front to the temple of the hideous elephant-headed god Ganpati. Horrors! Christians asked to enlarge the temple of Ganpati which we would take pleasure in breaking down.

I promptly went to the Administrator's office and explained that Christians could have no part nor lot with idols nor their temples and that our God was against idols and idolaters. He expressed his disappointment at what I had said and tried to reason with me to get me to alter my decision. Among other things he said that the hall when completed would be at our disposal when we wanted it to preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ. I advised the Administrator to see the widow of the late Chief and try to induce her to change the form of the memorial she intended to raise from that of a temple to a street of comfortable sanitary dwellings for the poor, and having made a rough estimate in my mind, told him how many good Hindu dwellings could be erected with Rs. 100,000. He said he feared she would not change her mind.

Two days later the Chief Revenue Officer was sent to interview me at my bungalow. He came to say that they were put out about my refusal to help them, and said it would be enough if I would just tell them how to make the plans and go about the work. He added that the State would handsomely remunerate me for my trouble. I emphatically told him not to ask me again to do this work; that no offer of money or anything he could say would induce me to consider for a moment such a proposition as he had made. He looked at me and said, "I hope you will pardon me for saying so, but I am surprised that a man who seems to have good judgment about other things, should have so much prejudice and superstition on matters of religion." I got my Bible and sat down beside him and for an hour and a half read to him what the Christians' God said about the sin of idolatry. I told him to what idolatry brought individuals and nations. I expressed my surprise that an educated gentleman like himself would so far demean himself as to bow down to idols made with men's hands. I urged him to consider the claims of Jesus Christ to the first place in his heart and to his worship and service. On taking leave he thanked me for what he had heard and said he would get a Bible and look further into the matter.

The Church has held its own, but has not grown as wished.

MIRAJ STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—

There is not one member of the church who antecedent to his church connection was a resident of Miraj. The records show thirty-two communicants at the beginning of the year under report and thirty-seven at the end.

The baptism of ten lepers last February was an interesting scene. These seven men and three women, depressed with hopeless suffering and doubly ostracized by their countrymen, stood up in a line across the waiting-room of the dispensary, and in baptismal vows took Jesus, the sufferers' friend, as their hope for this world and for the next. It was a pleasant coincidence that Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Bailey were present that day. He is the organizing secretary of the Mission to Lepers in India and the East, which maintains the asylum for lepers near Miraj, of which these ten were inmates. One of the seven men has since died. Besides the lepers two persons have been admitted to the communion and two children have been baptized.

A Sunday morning class has been held in the hospital.

The fruit of this work has not been as encouraging as we would desire, but we know that hearts have been touched and consciences awakened in many of the women, some of whom have been in the hospital for many weeks and have learned much of the teaching of the meek and lowly Jesus. They left us testifying that they never could go back to quite the same life of ignorance and superstition, which they had always lived. Others left us promising to quite renounce a life of sin, and seemed to show true repentance, but without the courage to acknowledge the Saviour in baptism.

Two day-schools, one for boys and one for girls, have enrolled, the former twenty-two and the latter twenty-six children.

At present the numbers have decreased on account of plague, but it has been very encouraging to know that more than half the number of children came on all through this troublous time, while in some of the Government schools only about one-fourth of the usual number have attended of late. To use our Mussulman teacher's own words: "The mercy of God has been upon our children." One morning about three months ago an old man came along to our bungalow, he had been in the hospital with bad eyes and had got well, and to show his gratitude he gave a rupee, which was to be spent for the school children.

The orphans at Miraj have been under Mrs. Wanless's care. Evangelistic preaching in the city market and the country districts was carried on by Mr. Hannum and Basantasing Thakur.

They have visited thirty-four neighboring towns for the same purposes, some of them repeatedly.

The receptions accorded by the people varied greatly. Near Baya Boragav the preachers were entertained by a village officer in his field, where the heads of grain were plucked off, roasted in a brush fire and served with sugar and cocoanut, and an ox-cart was furnished to convey them toward the small bungalow where they were lodging. On the other hand at the village of Savali the missionary was met with gibes, and the whole group of a dozen Musselman, Jain and Hindu men who were accosted refused to listen, and walked away leaving only two youths to try their Indian wit.

Miss Blower found the visiting of the women in the hospital very encouraging. Such words as "When will you come again?" "What I learned yesterday gave me much comfort." "Those words were sweet to me," and "When I leave here I will not worship idols any more," have been heard from time to time, but better than all the words has been the look of joy and calmness which has come into some of the poor suffering faces.

MEDICAL.—

Plague prevailed in Miraj during four months of the mission year and as usual resulted in a great falling off in the attendance both in the dispensary and in the hospital during these months. The attendance during the remaining months was the largest in the history of the work, and as a whole it has been the largest year of work thus far recorded. In the outdoor dispensary 9,257 new patients were treated, with a total attendance of 20,340. The in-patients admitted to the hospital were 1,085. In the hospital and dispensary 1,512 operations were performed, 843 of which were recorded as major. There were 317 cataract extractions, a number nearly twice that recorded in the combined mofussil civil hospitals in the Bombay Presidency. Chloroform was administered 551 times. During the non-plague months the hospital was continually overflowing and the resources of the staff taxed to the utmost.

The new wing, known as the Bryn Mawr Annex, was completed, and was opened by the Political Agent of Kolhapur on July 4.

When Colonel Ferris opened the new Annex, the chiefs of Miraj and Kurandvad and many other native gentlemen were present. In his remarks, Colonel Ferris said, according to the Times of India of July 7:

When Indians saw those whose services at home could command high rates of remuneration giving their trained skill freely to natives of another land, it came to them as a revelation, and their minds were carried upwards from the missionary to the missionary's God. He recalled how the memory of a medical missionary whom he knew in his earlier official life was treasured by the common people for years after his death, and venerated as the Punjab soldiers even to-day venerate the name of John Nicholson. He congratulated the Chief of Miraj very warmly on his good fortune in having such a splendidly equipped hospital in his State at no expense to the State, and believed he would do his utmost to help forward a work of such great value to his people and others.

The Times account goes on:

Rao Bahadur Pandit, Administrator of Miraj Junior State, said he was continually impressed with what Christianity had done for the world and for India in particular. The Anglo-Saxon race were making the whole world their home. They were citizens of no one country; they are citizens of the world. They were grateful to those people, who, though separated from them by the distance of half a world, thought about them and sent them such splendid help.

One of the most interesting features of the work seems to be that of the Medical School attached. Here young men of all denominaions, desirous of becoming mission hospital helpers, are given a three years' very thorough medical curriculum, comprising systematic lectures, laboratory work, attendance at autopsies and much practical clinical instructions in hospital. The new Annex will aid this work greatly in providing a new chemical and microscopic laboratory with water and all appliances for each student, a capacious museum and lecture theatre. As there is no other such training institute in India, where those Indian young men desiring to dedicate their lives to medical missionary work can be taught, while associated with a large actual medical mission work, it is to be desired that this side of the work of the Miraj Mission should increase more and more.

The Station reports that

Since the opening the new private wards have been constantly in demand and have already been occupied by several persons of rank. The new operating theatre, which for completeness is probably not surpassed by any in India, has greatly enhanced both the perfection of the operative work and the comfort of doing it, especially during trying, hot days.

Not less than seven hundred different villages have been repre-

Not less than seven hundred sented in those who have come for treatment.

"Naturally, under the medical work: "Naturally, under the special circumstances of the past few months during Dr. Wanless's illness and the severe epidemic of sickness among the boys of the Sangli orphanage, we have been unusually busy. The work reminded me very vividly of the sadness all around, but rejoiced because of the sense of deep inward joy in being able to serve, even a little, these little ones."

In the matter of making some charge for the great services of the hospital, the report remarks:

The people of this land in proportion to their means are in the habit of paying well for medical treatment at the hands of their own native doctors. Having once secured the confidence of the people through the greatly superior western methods of treatment, it ought not to be a difficult task to secure from those who are able to pay for medicines the value in whole or in part of the medicines, and from the well-to-do something more besides in the way of a small gift or fee, for the sake of the less fortunate and destitute. We began two years ago to charge in the dispensary for medicines those whom we considered able to pay for them the whole or a part of their value, and we have no reason to regret the practice; nor have we evidence that the practice has to any appreciable extent restricted the attendance of either the very poor or moderately well-to-do, those most likely to be affected. Of course, no really poor person is asked to pay for medicines and no one is asked to pay for medicines who declares that he is unable to pay.

There are eight students in the Medical School. The nursing department has been under the care of Miss Foster.

VENGURLE STATION

When Mr. and Mrs. Irwin returned from their furlough, they went at once to Vengurle and took charge. They had been before in Vengurle with only two Christians, and were delighted on their return to be welcomed by some fifty or more orphan boys in white, drawn up in line and smiling their best.

On February 26, after careful consideration by the Station, and the Committee of Presbytery appointed for the purpose, a church was organized in Vengurle.

Rev. J. M. Irwin was appointed its Moderator and Stated Supply. Tukeraniji R. Kambali was ordained its Elder. Five adult Christians were received by letter, and ten young men by profession.

This is an increase of twelve members. All the increase has been from among the boys of the Orphanage.

The Mid-week Prayer Meeting has been especially adapted to help the orphan boys in their Christian life. They readily lead the meetings in turn, for the last three months. They read their own hymns and Scripture as well as pray, and are encouraged to ask questions and try to answer them. The meeting is made rather informal, and all are expected to take part freely, which they do to a surprising extent, considering that a short while since they were heathen famine waifs.

All the members and catechumens have given unmistakable signs of growth in Christian knowledge and grace. Quite a number now own their own Bibles or Testaments and hymn books. Some have begun to give tithes of their income to the Lord. Some are occasionally seen or heard on the neighboring hilltop, praying. Others have occasionally gone of their own accord to neighboring villages to testify for the Saviour, and at almost all times we hear them singing Christian hymns.

Evangelistic work during the monsoon months was in Mr. Marshall's charge.

Tukeraniji reports having preached 134 times in the three months, with a total attendance, as reported, of 3,757. This is a fair average of work done by our helpers, but how it emphasizes the greatness of the evangelization problem! It would require one and a half years to reach this one small town if he had a different audience each time he preached, and how small a morsel of truth a Hindoo gets from a service!

Those who have labored longest in India know full well how the message must be repeated, and how long it would require to reach it effectively! Thirty men ten years to reach the population of our field once with one morsel! Multiply this by the almost numberless repetitions necessary to a fair understanding, and we have a problem for our faith.

ORPHANAGE.—

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin have been in charge of the Orphanage, Mr. Irwin taking the accounts, the school, and the carpentry and gardening industries; Mrs. Irwin the correspondence, the boys' accounts, the tailoring, the cooking, the mothering. They have endeavored to share the et ceteras which have been many and frequent.

Mrs. Irwin has been heard muttering to herself to the effect that "those who had the breaking in of these famine boys doubtless had the hardest part of the work. They were tartars when we got them, but, oh my! what must they have been when Mr. and Mrs. Hannum got them in their original condition!"

This was a new kind of work for them both, and they have often been almost at their wits' end to know just how to deal with such boys. Some were experts in stealing, others in quarreling and grumbling, others in running away, especially at night, and nearly all in lying and giving "shivi," i. e., slandering each other, and one of the greatest trials was to keep their nakedness covered. Eat, lazy around when supposed to be at work, run away and return as often as they wished, threaten to die that night if punished, these were the pastimes in which they excelled. These "exceptional boys" had had good preparation for the further discipline which they undoubtedly received, and which has done them good.

A rule was made, after some eight or nine had run away for a while, to the effect that none of the older boys doing so without our consent would be admitted again to the Orphanage.

For such restless boys this was doubtless a hard rule, and some might think it dangerous to their souls. However, sometimes sedatives work well, and so did this.

It proved a perfect panacea, a first-class disinfectant to such contagious microbes of restlessness. These leaders in mischief tried to get back, but the rule still worked, and the rest took knowledge. Four little youngsters that had gone off previous to the making of the rule, and at night were sent back by a policeman, and in the same day after dark, in the evening, they came trembling and footsore back, and the Madam Sahib took them graciously under her protection. Since then there have been no further runaways nor the least desire to do so.

Some time ago the boys were asked why they seemed so content and didn't even think of running off. They very promptly answered, "Oh, it is good here, and we know that we wouldn't be taken back. Look at the other boys, who didn't behave; we don't want to be like them, and we don't wish to go, anyhow." At the time of writing the boys are happy and contented, cleanly inclined, polite, kind to each other, and grateful for little attentions, which are not really necessary, but which make it homelike for them. And it is a great satisfaction to see them help and eager to please those in charge.

Until May, Mrs. Irwin had charge of the medical work of the Station, which was principally that of the Orphanage.

Perhaps one of the most telling features of the work has been the establishing and training of a Christian choir. Her fifteen selected boys have greatly improved in manners, dress, singing, and we believe spiritually, and it is a very pleasing sight on Sabbath, as these choir boys rise together at a signal from their leader, all dressed in white, with their crimson ribbon badge and its gilt letters in Marathi for "Vengurle Christian Choir" fastened on to the white pyren (shirt). Should any boy be found intentionally doing wrong or come to choir practice, Sunday-school or church with soiled garments, the badge is to be taken from him and his name erased from the choir roll. Strange to say, since they received their badges, three or four months ago, not one name has been erased for appearing in soiled garments.

In the Orphanage Home almost all the work is done by the boys, such as house cleaning, grinding, cooking, clothes washing, and some of them their own mending. Six of the smaller boys are cared for by one of our native Christian women on the compound, where Mrs.

Irwin can oversee them.

There is an excellent self-government scheme in operation, introduced by Mr. Hannum, with a Patil or headman, a Kulkarni or secretary, and three Changhule or petty village officers, making together a Panch or committee of law and order. These settle petty disputes and report on disciplinary matters to those in charge. This arrangement is a success.

There is also a local currency scheme, also introduced by Mr. Hannum, which works well in the main. It entails some awkwardness in redemption and account keeping and bazaar making, but seems to be worth it. Still, the scheme will need alteration as the boys become self-supporting.

Eighteen boys have recently given up their meals for a whole day, of their own accord, in order to contribute to the Bible Society Fund in addition to their church contribution.

All the boys of the Orphanage are, of course, in a school, and are learning various industries.

There are ten in the carpentry class, seventeen in the gardening class, five in the tailoring class, two learning to be cooks, and two learning to be hamals or house servants.

The tailoring department is fast becoming independent, since they are now taking in orders from the natives in town, and one of our boys is now able to do enough work to support himself and have two annas a week, from which he buys his own clothing, school books, etc. He makes a little extra by raising fowls, too.

MEDICAL WORK.—Mrs. Marshall has carried on a good medical work, the people preferring to come to her rather than to go to the hospital.

The patients have come chiefly from the higher castes, Brahmins and Marathas predominating. So decided was this, that a slight caste difficulty threatened when, one day, a despised woman of the sweeper case applied to the Brahmin clerk employed in dispensary for a blank form such as all must present when admitted to the consulting room. He made it out, and, instead of handing it to her, put it on the floor and pushed it toward her with his foot.

It was galling to the spirit of the Brahmin patients present to see her admitted in her turn while some of them had to sit and wait.

Then the complaining began. "Is this woman going to be allowed to get medicine where we get ours?" They were very promptly told that we will not recognize caste, and that all who come to us will be treated alike.

Interesting and pathetic as well as amusing incidents are not lacking. Perhaps some of the medical fraternity in the Mission have been confronted with such problems as the following: "I want some medicine; I cannot get up in the morning." A Brahmin presented a fat, healthy looking boy, saying, "This is my relation; his body is bulky and he gets out of breath when he walks." Or perhaps their English-speaking patients are sometimes able to diagnose for them-selves, as was the young man who announced, "My father is suffer-ing from rheu-mat-ism of the junction" (indicating the knee-joint).

In closing its report, the Station reminds the Board:

We have an almost unworked field of 700,000 people, to whom we are called to minister.

RATNAGIRI STATION.

EVANGELISTIC.—Five have united with the Church during the year, making the number of communicants sixty-three, which is also the number of children who have been in attendance on the Station school.

All who are large enough sew a half hour every day with the tailor. The children in the home are now able to make most of their own garments.

Of the evangelistic touring, Mr. Wiley writes of visiting the surrounding villages.

It was my first experience of rude treatment in India, and to have our tracts torn up and thrown back, accompanied by the vilest of epithets and threats, was not at all encouraging. On the other hand, the many heard the message with gladness, and if one were looking for compensation, this was more than compensation for all the rudeness received.

At the first service held a Hindoo repeatedly interrupted the speaker. I invited him to come up beside us and say what he had to say, and not to interrupt us further. He came and began to speak. As he spoke he became angry, and finally became so angry that he fled up the street, yelling and gesticulating as far as he could be seen or heard. Those who were inclined to give us trouble desisted after that, and as a rule those who stopped to hear listened quietly.

The Gospel has been brought to lepers in the Asylum and to some thirty or more young Brahmins, who have been taught English and the Bible, and it has also been brought to other hearts through the women's work and the dispensary.

ORPHANAGE.—Mrs. Wiley writes:

The fifty-two boys and girls in our Children's Home now constitute such an important part of our Christian community that it seems strange to write of them under a distinct head. We would feel lost without their bright faces in the church, prayer-meetings and Sundayschool, to say nothing of how lonely we should be without them. Our four babies are beginning to make their presence felt, and, like all babies, try to rule the home. The five little girls who are under six are such happy little things, and while the larger ones are in school help in many ways about caring for the babies, cleaning rice,

Could you come in on Saturday morning and see the scrubbing of cupboards, cleaning of windows and floors, and bathing of children, you would certainly think that they are the making of house-

They were all so anxious to earn their own Bibles, so last November we promised Bibles to all those who would correctly recite one hundred verses of Scripture. We gave them a year to prepare, but in June a number were ready, so on the fourth of July ten received their new Bibles. A happier lot of children I never saw. Up to the present time twenty-four have received Bibles and a number of others are working for them. Almost all of these have started to read the Bible through. They observe the Quiet Hour before their early morning meal. I could not ask for a happier sight than to see these dear children coming in the early morning with their Bibles to spend some time in the study of God's word. They often put us to shame in the location of Scripture. I sometimes wonder how they have gotten it as they have.

Until Mr. Wiley was taken ill in August he took some of the boys twice a week to the bazaar to help sing at the meetings held there. Hindoos have spoken of how sweetly they sang, and the boys have been so delighted to help in this way. We want them to feel that they have a part in the evangelization of their own people.

While we were absent from the Station in the hot season two children were taken away from the home; one little girl was stolen after dark one evening, and the other was taken by her mother. One of our oldest boys was sent away for bad conduct.

We had a very happy Christmas. The kind friends from Johnstown and Greensburg, Pennsylvania, who sent dolls, books, workbags, etc., helped to make a very happy day for our children. We were happy to be awakened early Christmas morning by their going about singing Christmas carols.

They are dear, happy boys and girls, but troubles will arise and there are blue Mondays here as well as in the homeland. Very often I leave a quarrel in the hands of the other children to settle. How they all do dislike to be called before the other boys or girls! After one of their meetings they report the result of the investigation and what decision they have reached.

For help received, both by money and prayers, we wish to thank Mrs. Bristor, of Baltimore, Maryland; Mr. Emerson, of Titusville, Pa.; individuals and classes in the Scranton, Pa., Green Ridge Sunday-school; also missionaries and others.

The past year has been one of the most notable and encouraging in the history of missions in Japan.

The most noteworthy political event perhaps is the Anglo-Japanese Alliance to maintain the status quo of the East, especially of China and Korea. This is the first alliance of an Oriental and non-Christian nation with a European and Christian nation. The present apparent results of this alliance are two: A new friendliness for England and the things for which England and America stand; and a new determination to prove a force to be depended on in any contingency that may arise.

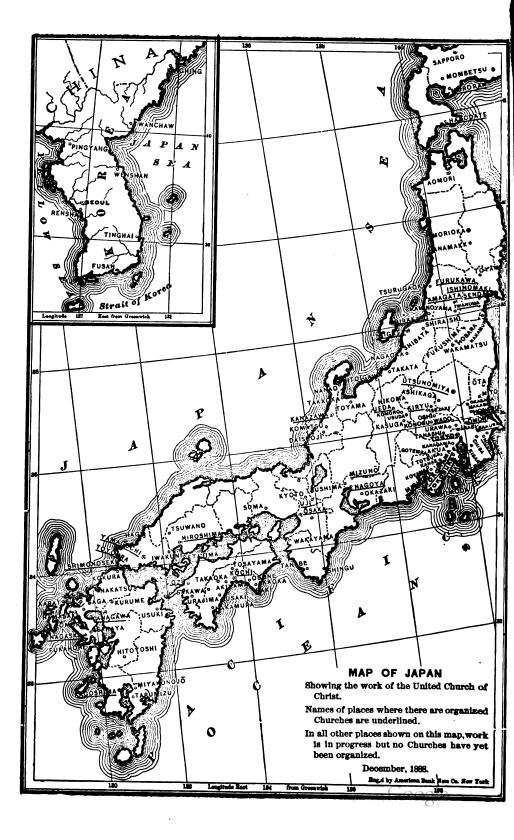

Among the things deserving of notice in a record of the work of the year is the formation by a number of the missions composing the Council of corporations for the holding of property. This has been done under Article 34 of the Civil Code, which reads as follows:

"Associations of trust founded for religious worship or teaching, for

"Associations of trust founded for religious worship or teaching, for charity, for education or for art, for any other purpose beneficial to the public, and the object of which is not to make profit out of the conduct of their business, may, on obtaining permission from the proper authorities, be made judicial persons."

Those who are acquainted with the former status of foreigners in Japan know that the formation of such corporations has been possible only since the new treaties have come into effect. Before that time, real estate, outside of the so-called Foreign Settlements, could be held only by Japanese subjects.

Private schools have not yet succeeded in securing a satisfactory adjustment with the Department of Education, but it is hoped that further negotiations will result in the granting to such schools as are supported by private funds, but which are recognized as doing the work of Chu Gakko, the rank of Chu Gakko together with the right of religious freedom in education.

The Tokyo University for Women, opened last fall under Principal Naruse, a Christian, ought to mark an important milestone in the progress of woman's uplifting in this empire. The five hundred pupils enrolled at the opening will make themselves heard in due time. The twentieth century promises thus great things for Japan's women, and let us hope this and similar signs may prove heralds for other parts of the Orient.

Two agitations of the recent past form healthy tokens of Japan's humane progress. The one is the effort to rescue women from the worst of slavery in connection with the social evil, an effort crowned by special regulations issued by the Home Department, providing "Juiyu haigyo" (free cessation), viz., the privilege to unfortunates in brothels to leave a hateful business without interference by their taskmasters. The agitation in favor of the unfortunate sufferers from the poisonous Ashio copper mines took on grand proportions last winter. The government, too, through the Tokyo University (Agriculture Department), has scientifically investigated the reasons for complaint and found them substantiated, but so far no equally substantial relief has been heard from as far as the writer is aware. A graduate of the Meiji Gakuin took part in the extensive work done in Komahba in investigating this serious case of complaint.

On July 14, a monument to Commodore Perry was unveiled at Kurihama to celebrate the semi-centennial of his landing in Japan. In "American Diplomacy in the East," the Hon. John W. Foster comments on the significance of this occasion:

But in no part of the world has Perry's work been so highly appreciated as in Japan itself. When the exchange of the ratifications of the treaty was effected in Japan on the 21st of February, 1855, the commissioners with whom the commodore negotiated the treaty sent him many messages of friendship and the assurance that "his name would live forever in the history of Japan." So early did the Japanese begin to realize the value to them of his enforced negotiations, and time has constantly added to this realization. The "New Japan" dates back the beginning of its progress to "the coming of Perry."

So strongly has that country become impressed with its obligations to him that an association in Japan set on foot a movement to erect a monument to his memory. The circular, signed by the president (a member of the imperial cabinet), setting forth the object of the movement, refers to the visit of Perry as "the most memorable event in our annals—an event which enabled the country to enter upon an unprecedented era of national ascendancy in which we are now living." The monument was erected upon the spot where the commodore first landed and held his conferences with the Japan plenipotentiary. The money for its erection was contributed by the Japanese people, the Emperor himself subscribing to the fund; and the inscription upon it, recognizing the commodore's services in appropriate terms, was prepared by Marquis Ito.

The dedication took place on July 14, 1901, being the forty-eighth anniversary of the event. The government of the United States sent a squadron to participate in the exercises, commanded by Rear-Admiral Rodgers, and there was also present Rear-Admiral Beardslee, who was a midshipman in Perry's fleet. The Japanese government honored the occasion with the presence of its army and navy. The president of the association, in his dedicatory address, gave as the reason for the location of the monument that "it was at this spot that modern civilization of our empire had its beginning, . . . when Commodore Perry set his foot on this shore the Japanese empire was enshrouded in the fogs of a seclusion of nearly three hundred years." He proceeded to review "the complete and wonderful change" which the nation had made, and for which it was mainly under obligations to the United States. "This monument," he said, "is erected to preserve on stone our determination never to forget the friendship of the United States that sent Commodore Perry to induce us in a peaceful way to have intercourse with foreign powers. The Prime Minister of the empire also delivered an address of similar purport, in which he said, "It gives me boundless joy to participate in this grand celebration at this moment when the light of our progress is sending forth its rays with increasing brightness." Such an occasion and such a tribute are without parallel in the history of nations.

The Taiyko Dendo Evangelical Movement has continued

during the year, if with less enthusiasm, yet steadily.

The fifteenth meeting of the Synod of the Church of Christ was held in Tokyo, October, 1901, and the Board of Missions was reorganized. The Hon. Kenkichi Kataoka, M. P., was chosen as President. Mr. Kataoka has also been elected President of the Doshisha, although retaining his connection with the Presbyterian Church.

At the Synod meeting the two most notable things accomplished were the creating of the new Presbytery of Hokkaido, making the sixth represented in the Synod, and the voting of $7,500 (yen) to be raised for the work of the "Dendo Kyoku" or the "Board of Missions of the Church of Christ in Japan." This sturdy offspring of our Presbyterian Church in Japan, entirely independent of aid from the Church in America, is now eight years old; it has carried on work in twenty places, resulting in five independent churches, at a cost of $20,000 (yen). Its work includes Formosa, where two new stations are about to be opened, one in China and several in Japan proper. Thus the sphere of the Synod now embraces the whole empire of Japan from Formosa to Hokkaido.

A picturesque feature of the Synod was the presence of two delegates from Formosa, two noble looking Chinese Presbyterian evangelists, in native costumes, accompanied by the Rev. Mr. Kawai, of Taipei, the chief Japanese representative of the "Dendo Kyokio" in Formosa. The two Chinese are sons-in-law of the great Canadian-Scotch Presbyterian Mackay, of Formosa, whose wife, it will be remembered, was a Christian Chinese.

During the winter a popular meeting for deepening the interest in the Board of Missions' efforts, and especially also for receiving special contributions, was called to meet at the President's official residence, as Speaker of the Lower House of Diet. About 150 responded to this kind invitation, and nearly 1,000 yen were subscribed at this meeting, making, it is hoped, a good gain on contributions of past years. In no part of the empire is there at present to be found a more promising field for Christian work than among the Japanese settling in Formosa, who now number 33,120, according to the statistics of 1899 as given by Goto Shimpet, Civil Governor of Formosa, in a recent article in the Independent. So far as mere numbers are concerned, this may not be very impressive; but the importance and promise of the field are to be seen rather in the character of the immigrants and the general situation. In certain important particulars the conditions in Formosa resemble those in the Hokkaido. There is the same enterprise and the same breaking away from old surroundings and old prejudices.

Mr. Uemura made a visit to Formosa on behalf of the Board of Missions:

It was a hard trip and when it was ended, he was nearly tired out, but there were two things that constantly impressed him and made him forget his weariness. Everywhere he went men were ready to listen. It is not that the natural man ceases to be a natural man when he goes to Formosa, but in Formosa there are many intelligent men of inquiring minds, who, being without the thousand and one things to attract in Japan, have ears to hear. The other thing that constantly impressed him was the fact that wherever he went he met with Christians. Even on the treeless Pescadores he found a little company.

The interest of the Board is enlisted in the Japanese Christians in China also; the call having come from the Japanese soldiers in Tientsin for the organization of a church there.

Of the death of Colonel Buck, Mrs. Pierson writes:

The death of Colonel A. E. Buck, our honored and beloved Minister to Japan, which occurred shortly after Thanksgiving, was a real household grief to all of us Missionaries, for he had not only endeared himself to us all by his simple, unaffected kindness and genuine sympathy, but as the editor of the Japanese Evangelist says: "He ever made it part of his official duty to look after the interests of all missionaries. A year or two ago, in company with his wife and Mr. Miller, he visited a number of Mission stations in the north, visiting in the home of the missionaries and showing his deep interest in the work." As missionaries, we can scarcely measure how much this standing and representation of our Minister as a Christian has had as an influence upon our work among a certain class of the Japanese; and as a Japanese editor remarks, "Among Japanese he was intensely popular."

The good effects of the Tokyo Missionary Conference in 1900 are still felt:

First to be mentioned is the work which is almost ready to be given to the Church, viz: the uniform translation (and tunes) of 100 (or 125) standard hymns, and the Union Hymnal. The Nippon-Sei Kokwai (Epis.) alone of the larger Protestant bodies does not join in the Union Hymnal, but a month or more ago published a new hymnal, introducing, however, the 125 standard hymns in the work.

The Standing Committee of Co-operating Missions has been formed as recommended by the Tokyo Missionary Conference. Mr. MacNair writes: "Since the last meeting of the Council the plan for the formation of an Intermission Standing Committee on Co-operation has been approved by the required two-thirds majority of the missionaries. This committee was organized in January at a meeting of representatives held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors in Tokyo. None of the Episcopalian Missions voted in favor of the project; but all the other Protestant bodies, except one or two of the smaller ones, sent delegates."

Bishop Fyson, of the Church of England, however, has cooperated heartily in the effort to have a more generous union feeling. The report states:

Bishop Fyson is one of the strongest factors for Church union in the Anglo-Episcopal Church; low-church in his views, very friendly with all evengelical workers, and with clergy under him with whom it is a delight for others to work. He, in conjunction with Rev. Walter Andrews and others, organized a union conference in Hakodate for foreign missionaries and united devotional meetings for all workers, Japanese and foreign, in the Hokkaido; much enthusiasm was shown in the first meetings last Fall. The uniqueness of these meetings lay in their inclusiveness so forming a marked chapter in the history of Christian union in Japan. A second similar conference is to be held from August 14-19 this year.

One resolution of this Hokkaido conserence deserves, on account of its practical nature, to be quoted,—"In order to promote in all their fullness the advantages of mission comity and economy, it was resolved that the present distribution of work be accepted and that henceforth no town or village of less than 5,000 inhabitants already occupied by one mission be entered by another without consulting with the missionary already in charge."

The Japan Sabbath Alliance, one of the results of the Tokyo Missionary Conference of 1900, has been launched and has held its first Convention in Tokyo October 25, 1902.

EVANGELICAL ALLIANCE.—A most important meeting of the Evangelical Alliance of Japan was held April 11-14, 1902. Because of the importance of this meeting, as indicating the steady trend of the Church of Christ at least, toward a deep and Scriptural Christology, it seems well to report it here at some length:

In October, 1901, when the Synod of the Church of Christ met, the doubt was expressed by many and the question debated at length as to the wisdom of merging the Tokubetsu Dendo, or special evangelical work of the Church, in the Taikyo Dendo, or union movement, the Forward Movement, so-called. The adverse reasons given were that the Evangelical Alliance is an organization very loose at best and offers no constitutional data for determining what principles it stands for, except the word "Evangelical" and the phrase "To manifest in society the mind of Christ." That these are not sufficiently definite was shown by the fact of Unitarian membership in the Alliance, and the actual participation of Unitarians in the evangelistic work carried on under its direction. The central committee of the Alliance has no authority to refuse a Unitarian speaker-Mr. Ebina, for example-when he was asked for by a branch committee, and the Taikyo Dendo work in one section of the city here, the student quarter, was seriously hampered last summer by Mr. Ebina's connection with it, and that of the Japanese associated with the German missionaries. The Synod's discussion was informal, and it seemed best not to take any definite action, since that might cause trouble as reflecting on the religious status of another denomination. Since then, however, the controversy has been carried on in religious papers with growing intensity of feeling, and has awakened comments unfavorable to Christianity in the non-Christian press. The influence of Unitarian views, moreover, particularly amongst students, has become more than ever pronounced. It seemed, therefore, to the members of the Presbytery meeting six months later, that something might be done and ought to be done in connection with the Evangelical Alliance to counteract this influence, and so it was decided to attend the meeting and try to get the constitution changed in the direction of a more satisfactory declaration of faith, one that could not fail to be understood in a Trinitarian sense, and to be correspondingly exclusive. It was also agreed to urge changes in the organization of the Alliance, which would make it representative, not of individuals and individual churches, but of denominations. If this could be accomplished the cause of evangelical Christianity would, it was felt, be strengthened, and the way would be made clear for active participation by all in the Taikyo Dendo and any other work which the Alliance might undertake. It was said, moreover, that with such changes, satisfactorily made, a federation of the churches of Japan might be brought about through the agency of the Alliance, an end that was well worth working for.

There were about 150 persons present at the meeting of the Alliance, and a third of the number were from our Presbyterian Church. Other denominations, however, were as fairly represented as geographical conditions would permit There were a good many Methodists, of course, and some fifteen Congregationalists. There were also Baptists and a few Episcopalians, though no Episcopal missionaries.

The meeting opened on Friday, the 11th, and on Saturday morning the resolutions committee brought forward a declaration of faith in Christ as God and in the Bible as the authoritative rule of life; and then followed what was in practical effect and with no very great stretch of the imagination, a reproduction of one of the Councils of the early Church. You could have fancied Sabellius, himself, present, but for the Japanese dress, in which his theories were set forth. It was very soon evident that the large majority were in favor of the resolution; but we were surprised to see how many there were who, though undoubtedly orthodox, were nevertheless strongly opposed. Mr. Ebina's followers were, of course, outspoken for extreme liberty of interpretation and against narrowing definitions. Besides the opposition from this quarter, there were appeals for a continuance of the present phraseology without change, even if somewhat indefinite. With the heart right, emphasis on words was felt to be unnecessary. There were some, too, who believed the Alliance should not be made an evangelistic agency at all, but should aim to promote Christian fellowship only.

When the debate closed and the vote was taken the opposition was found to be strong enough to prevent the two-thirds majority necessary to effect an amendment to the constitution. There were 124 votes cast, and the affirmative fell short by the narrow margin Such an issue was disappointing. It was not allowed to stand, however. The question was brought up again in the alternoon in the shape of a motion signed by several members to the effect that non-Trinitarians be excluded from membership in the Alliance. All who spoke to the motion realized evidently the gravity of the situation. Fortunately, a vote was not taken at this time, but, instead, the matter was referred to a committee, to be reported on on Monday morning. At the Monday session the attendance was somewhat larger than on Saturday, and the interest in the committee's report was, of course, very great. An important change from the proposition made on Saturday afternoon was introduced into the report, namely, that the declaration be simply a statement of belief in Christ as God and in the Bible by the members of this Alliance, those present at this meeting of the Alliance, and not an amendment to the constitution; and further, that a representative committee of ten be appointed to prepare between now and the next meeting, held in 1903, such a series of amendments as may seem to it desirable, covering both articles of faith and the organization of the Alliance, and any other points that may arise. A brisk debate was at once begun on the report, and then the final vote was taken, resulting in 118 for and only 6 against There were certainly others—perhaps twenty—who disapproved, but they chose to remain

The amendment committee is a good one. It consists of seven Japanese and three foreigners. Mr. Uemura and Dr. Imbrie will represent the Church of Christ in Japan, Dr. Green and Mr. Miagawa, the Congregationalists, and Drs. Soper and Honda, the Methodist Episcopals. Amongst the others there is a prominent Episcopalian, the principal of the Tsukiji school.

STATISTICS.—The Synod's figures give a total membership of 11,851, a total of new additions by baptisms for the year of 1284. Contributions are reckoned as 3 yen ($1.50 gold) for each adult believer; the total contributions amounting to $37.648 (yen) which is an advance of about 4.700 yen upon 1901.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—

Meiji Gakuin.—Academic Department: Pupils, average attendance, 170; graduates, 27; converts, 45; Christians, 80; Japanese teachers, 10; foreign teachers, 2. The year has been more than usually prosperous and the work goes on steadily. Religiously, the school has been greatly blessed. Attendance at prayer meetings and Sunday services increased. In all directions there is a hopeful atmosphere.

Theological Department.—Students, 13; new students entered, 8; graduates, 2; Japanese teachers, 3; foreign teachers, 2. Work goes on smoothly; relations between teachers and students cordial. This year, eight students, the largest accession in a single year for a considerable time. The event of the year is the entering of the Southern Presbyterians, who co-operate with the Meiji Gakuin Theological Department.

Joshis Gakuin.—Students, 203 total; graduates, 4; boarding students, 102; Christians, 60; united with Church, 9; Japanese teachers, 12; foreign teachers, 5. The year has been one of quiet prosperity, caused by the opening of several new schools, notably the Tokyo Girls' University, and Miss Tsuda's school has lent an impetus to study. Once more, as in the 80's applicants for admission have had to be refused for lack of space. The character of the new students is of a kind particularly desirable, some being graduates from other Mission schools, or the daughters of our own old Mission girls or of ministers of our own church.

Bible School for Women.—Students, 15; graduates, 2; foreign teachers, 2; Japanese teachers, 1; new students entered, 5. Also some private students in the Bible. A satisfactory year. Besides the work in the school, six Bible women have been employed in direct evangelistic work, either in Tokyo or in the country out-stations.

Primary Day Schools.—Ninety-two pupils were enrolled in Keimo No. 1, and the occupations represented chiefly boatmen, jinrikisha men, trades people, mechanics. Every family visited during the year and during the Taikyo Dendo campaign especially invited to meetings.

Two hundred and six pupils enrolled in Keimo No. 2. Occupations represented: petty trades, jinrikisha men, wood and coal dealers. "Decision Day," on November 9, the entire upper class of the school, numbering eighteen, decided for Christ, and were formed into a Christian Endeavor band.

Mrs. McCauley's reports of the results of the work of these two schools are most interesting. Of Keimo No. 1, she writes:

Of the children who have left the school the report is as follows: Ten are servants in houses, ten are employed in making hairpins, cigar boxes and match boxes. The school represents the following occupations: Twenty-three children of jinrikisha men; twenty, boatmen; five, tobacco shop keepers; five, blacksmiths; three, coal dealers; three, vegetable dealers; two, brick makers; three, tailors; two, stone cutters; two, furniture dealers; two, fish dealers; two, traveling restaurants; one, wine and sake shop; one, dyer; one, bean shop; one, old clothes dealer; one, house painter; one, baker; one, sugar store; one, cabinet maker; one, box maker; one, shinto priest; two, from Miss Youngman. The majority of the children come from the boatmen and jinrikisha men; hence the income from tuition is meagre. One of our little girls, a child of eleven, from a family of the direst poverty, was a child of striking beauty, which became a snare. The parents were offered help, if they would in exchange give this beautiful daughter to be trained for a singing girl. She sang the beautiful songs of salvation and they remained in her soul. And fine clothes and dainty food could not blind her eyes to the impurity she saw in her new life. The teaching she had received lived in her heart and she cried and wept till they let her go to see her parents. She begged and implored them not to send her back to that sinful life. She would do anything, however hard, to help them. They relented. She again came to school, and after a little while she got a place to work, so that she may help others and live a pure life as well. A Shinto priest sent his son on trial at Christmas time; the boy received a Bible and told his father that the Bible taught that the Creator was much greater than the thing created; the father began reading the Bible, and the result is that the priest has sent three more children from his parish to us.

Keimo No. 2 has had a similar record.

EVANGELISTIC WORK .- Dr. Thompson reports:

At Kirin the Christians built a Church without Mission aid at a cost of $800 (yen). At Tsemohagu, in the Sanitarium grounds, a beautiful memorial chapel to Mrs. True, designed and built under Mr. Landis' direction, was erected at a cost of $2,000 (yen). Of this sum the Japanese contributed over $300 (yen), the remainder being furnished by friends of the late Mrs. True, in the United States and Japan. At three other Churches extensive repairs were made.

At four other points suitable buildings would greatly facilitate the work. This need is especially felt in large towns like Utsunomiya and Urawa, where there are several large schools, besides the usual offices of the provincial government, prisons, etc., with the usual number of pupils, teachers, officials and prison instructors, among whom are often found some Christians and men and women favorable to Christianity. These are the people most easily reached by the Gospel. But changes are continually taking place among them. Students graduate and go home; teachers come and go; officials are frequently promoted or degraded. In these, therefore, we do not find good material for a staple enduring church. Still, they are much more easily reached by the Gospel than the great mass of the stationary people, who are in bondage maybe to the neighboring temple or shrine, or else are utterly indifferent to all religion.

The Taikyo Dendo work was carried on vigorously in the Kvobeshiku district:

The main features of the campaign were the same, central prayer neeting every afternoon, with preaching services every night for a week in seven different churches. The Christians were reinforced and materially aided by a volunteer band of street heralds with their brass instruments, organized recently in Tokyo by foreigners and Japanese trained in Mr. Moody's school, Chicago. About 700 attended each night, 100 in each church, and 400 expressed a desire to receive further instruction, and 200 declared their resolution to lead a Christian life.

Miss Youngman's report indicates how varied the interests of a missionary have to be:

The various branches of my work, Men's Mission, Kamejima Mission, Kamakura Evangelistic work, the care of the orphans in my home—at school or apprenticed out—committee meetings, Bible classes, women's meetings, children's meetings, prayer meetings, social gatherings, visiting and work connected with the Kozensha (a society with the object of helping in general benevolent work), and leper hospital, all have received the blessing of God during the year.

Of the Leper Asylum, she writes:

Ten have been baptized in 1902, and five more have decided for Christ, leaving only one of the thirty-eight who have been in the Home for any length of time undecided (except two women who have just entered). Many more lepers would gladly come to us, if they dared, but to come to the hospital they must register their names as lepers, and this means to bring disgrace on their families.

8,023 people have attended the Kamejima Mission and 21,435 the Mission in Ueno Park,

HOKKAIDO STATION.

EDUCATIONAL.—Sapporo Girls' School.—

Total number of pupils, 140; average attendance 100; recently united with Church, 23; Church members, 33; Japanese teachers, 9; Church Sunday-school, 200 members. Besides the thirty-three Church members, there are several others who are Christians, but whose parents object to their receiving baptism.

Though the Government opened its new Higher School for Girls last May, and we lost a few pupils strongly opposed to Christianity, yet our number has rather increased than diminished, due no doubt to the fact of Miss Wells' faithful, careful work, and to the fact that there are to be new school buildings which the pupils need not feel ashamed to speak of as their own.

Of her summer work, Miss Wells writes:

During my Summer holidays on the sea coast, near Sendai, with the help of a Japanese teacher, Sunday-school was held in a poor fishing village, attended by nearly 100 children. As we went to the village on Sunday afternoon, following the path that led through the rice-fields, we would find the children waiting all along the way for us. On the last Sunday they gathered a great bunch of wild flowers, the only thing which they in their poverty could give to show us that they were glad we had come. Oh, these wretched fishing villages, with their wretchedness and filth and narrowness! Would that there were more laborers for these neglected corners of the Master's Vineyard.

In the Otaru School, the work was carried on in Miss Rose's absence and furlough by a Japanese teacher, who graduated from the Joshi Gakuin. There were fifty people in the upper grade and twenty-two children in the Kindergarten.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Mr. Pierson writes generally of the work:

We have to write it each year—this increasing decay of morals, public and private, and the increasing conviction that Christianity is the only hope. Our observation teaches us that in the Hokkaido, at least, covetousness and dissipation are rife; the latter, nowadays more hidden perhaps for the shame of it or for fear of the law. To say that such a condition of morals is common in all new communities throughout the world is poor comfort to the Christian reformer. In 1902 the farmers had small crops and the merchants only small returns, but the fishermen had a good catch and the laborer plenty of work.

All the evangelistic agencies were probably more extensively employed than during 1902. The special effort known as Taikyo Dendo had free course and good results. Out of 100 deciders in Asahigawa, thirty were assigned to us. Ten have been baptized. Visitors at our Home with serious inquiry are frequent. This spirit of inquiry, sober, unavoidable, irresistible throughout Japan, is our gladdest message to the Church at home.

We have annually a most interesting and harmonious conference of all the Protestant missionaries of the Hokkaido. C. M. S. Cong., Methodists, Baptists and Presbyterians. Through Mission comity the island is apportioned fairly, and mutual understanding and united effort prevail. The Synod unanimously authorized the formation of the "Hokkaido Presbytery."

There are in the Hokkaido two independent self-supporting churches, at Hakodate and Sapporo. There are five stations with resident evangelists, Mororan, Mombetsu, Otaru, Takigawa and Asahigawa (Mombetsu is an organized church). There are eleven out-stations visited more or less frequently, Bie, Shimo, Furano, Nayoro, Pinka, Hokkosha, Ebeotsu, Sobetsu, Abuta, Kojun, Kutchau and Takeiche Nojo, which last-mentioned place should be called the "Seien Church."

In Asahigawa we have had the gift of a "great man" as evangelist, Mr. Sakamoto Chokkan, "one of the foremost statesmen of Japan," I have heard him called by the Japanese. He gave up political life some time ago and determined to come to the Hokkaido and serve his country in spreading Christian teaching. For a while he lived a quiet life on his farm, teaching and studying. Then he founded a newspaper in Sapporo, the educational centre of the island. This paper was decidedly Christian in principle and tone. He gave up this indirect for the more direct evangelistic work, and we are most thankful to have him working in our Asahigawa church. The former evangelist, Mr. Aoyama. a man of most beautiful disposition and life, is working along with Mr. Sakamoto, caring chiefly for six outlying stations in this part of our island. We have about sixty Christians in Asahigawa; ten were baptized in 1902. We have a special work for soldiers, a preaching place and reading room; services blessed last year; seven decisions and four baptisms. Mrs. Pierson has a day school and a Sunday-school for Ainu children flourishing. Pierson has spent a great deal of time in rescue work, and a group of clean and happy girls in the Hokodate Home are part of the reward and testimony. Our house continues to be a semi-preaching place. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have English classes. Never since we came have we seen such interest in Christianity.

Of the energetic work which Mrs. Pierson has carried on during the year, the reports state:

Number of visitors received, 948; Ainu visitors, 40; meetings held at our house, 105; attendance at these meetings, 1.987; calls made, 507; calls at Ainu huts, 20; meetings attended, not held in our house, 119; calls made to police station on rescue work, 52; itinerating trips to Sapporo and Otaru, 18.

Of the callers, Mr. Pierson says:

They represent the various classes and conditions found in the Hokkaido, viz.: Merchants, railroad employes, officials, workmen, hotel-keepers, country school teachers, soldiers, farmers, soldier-colonists, factory girls, Buddhist and Shinto priests, Ainu, newspaper editors, actors, owners of large nojo (farms), colonists, carpenters, trades people, detectives, policemen; the sick ask for bodily healing as one poor man who had seen a picture of Christ healing the man born blind, came to ask the "Jesus people" to heal his eyes; and the oppressed seek release at our hands.

One of the meetings, she describes as:

A debating meeting on Buddhism vs. Christianity—publicly so advertised beforehand without our knowledge or conseat, and carried on almost without either in our own house willy-nilly, by an enterprising Buddhist lecturer, who afterwards announced that he had had a five hours' "Toronkwai" with the "foreign Jesus-teacher," and had beaten him at every point. Just this morning I learned that the Buddhist lecturer, after arguing with Mr. Pierson for five hours, publicly stated that when the "Jesus-teacher" saw him coming he got on his bicycle and rode away and stayed away for hours! Three of our young men attended a Buddhist lecture, attempted to answer the man and got stoned going home

Of the Ainu work and the delightful spirit of comity, in which it is carried on, she writes:

I have also attended seventy meetings, chiefly women's meetings or prayer meetings, or Taikyo Dendo meetings, held in places other than our own house.

Six of these meetings have been held in the keep of the old Ainu chief of the Ainu village of Chikabumi. The Ainu understand Japanese, so I speak and pray with them in Japanese, but read the Scriptures to them in Ainu from the Romanized Batchelor translation, and teach them simple hymns in Ainu. As far as I can see, not the slightest impression so far has been produced on the men; they sit during the meeting as stolidly and impassively around the big fire-place in the hut, and with as much dignity and condescension as so many great Newfoundland dogs might. But the women show feeling and interest and gratitude, and the children are as bright and can day and Sunday-school (January of 1902) their progress has been astonishing.

The Ainu work is a practical experiment in comity—all the Ainu coming by an unwritten law under C. M. S. jurisdiction. Those in our region belong to the district in charge of the C. M. S. missionary resident in Otaru. He supplies me with books and good advice, and I do the work as his "unpaid helper." When the point of asking for baptism is reached, our Chikabumi Ainu will, I hope, enter the fold of the Sei Ko Kwai, to which all the Ainu Christians belong.

Our missionaries see no anomaly in doing work in behalf of other missions, when help can be rendered in this way. Although conversions result from Mrs. Pierson's work among the Ainu, the converts are sent to the C. M. S. for baptism and received into the Episcopal Church, in order that the simple Ainu people may not be perplexed by two different church organizations.

Of the Rescue Work in Hokkaido, Mrs. Pierson writes:

In a new frontier town like this, of 12,000 people, although only twelve years old; and with an army post close by, numbering some 8,000 men, shortly to be increased to 10,000; with a street nearly four miles long connecting town and barracks, lined with sake shops and their concomitant dens of iniquity on both sides of the road,—there is no form of Christian work that cries out more loudly to be done than this same rescue work.

This work has been carried on for a little over a year by the members of the Asahigawa W. C. T. U., to which most of the Christian Japanese women of the four denominations in the city belong. During the year 1902, forty unfortunate girls and women were met and talked with. Of these, fifteen were placed in the Hakodate Rescue Home—an interdenominational home school, where the women are taught Japanese and foreign sewing, Chinese embroidery, cooking, reading and writing, and, best of all, to read and love their Bibles. Four of the present five inmates show signs of a change of heart. The total cost of sending these fifteen women to Hakodate (250 miles away) was $118.52 (yen), all of which was raised in Japan.

YOKOHAMA STATION.

Miss Case has been the only member of the Mission located in Yokohama. In addition to the Cooking Class of thirty members, industrial classes in needlework and women's meetings, Miss Case has carried on English Classes.

Perhaps one of the most successful pieces of work in English teaching is done by Miss Case among the young business men of Yokohama. Seven to nine in the morning before the office hours of the day open, is the time chosen. Thus, with minds fresh and earnest, and accompanied by spirited singing, good results in English are attained. Moreover, the religious element in the daily routine is emphasized, especially so in an English Bible-class on Sundays, with an average attendance of twenty-four, and in a special monthly evening meeting, conducted by Mr. Landis.

WESTERN JAPAN MISSION.

FUKUI: Station occupied 1891. Missionaries—Rev. W. Y. Jones and Mrs. Jones.

MATSUYAMA: occupied 1901. Missionaries—Rev. A. V. Bryan and Mrs. Bryan.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Miss Martha E. Kelly, Miss Emma Settlemyer, Miss Grace C. Glenn, Miss Kate Shaw.

The Mission was reinforced during the year by the appointment of the Rev. D. A. Murray, who had previously been in Japan, teaching in the Government schools, and Miss Foster. At the close of the year, to meet the special needs of the field, the Rev. W. B. Langsdorf, Ph.D., and Mrs. Langsdorf and Miss Gibbons were sent out. However, the Mission lost, through the necessities of returns to America, on account of ill-health, Miss Glenn and Mr. and Mrs. Doughty, Mr. Doughty subsequently resigning, as the condition of Mrs. Doughty's health made their return unlikely. The heaviest loss to the work of the Church was the death of Dr. Alexander. The Assembly Herald published this sketch of his life:

The Rev. T. T. Alexander, D.D., for twenty-five years a missionary of the Presbyterian Board in Japan, died in Honolulu on November 14, 1902. About a year ago Dr. Alexander had been obliged to leave Japan on account of ill-health, but instead of coming all the way to America, stopped in the Sandwich Islands, where it was believed the conditions would be more healthful for him, and where also he might find opportunities to work among the more than 70,000 Japanese living in the islands. During his stay in Honolulu he was constantly busy in this work, preaching and assisting other workers until the

Dr. Alexander was born in Mt. Horeb, Tenn., October 8, 1850, and went out to Japan in 1877. During his life in Japan he had been active in the opening of new Stations, had taught theology in the Meiji-Gakuin in Tokyo, and just prior to his departure from Japan had been in charge of the evangelistic work in the city of Kyoto, where also he was helping the Congregational missionaries in the Theological Department of the Doshisha.

Dr. Alexander was a man of great ability, one of the best Old Testament scholars in Japan; a man of rare openness of mind and beauty of character; a lover of peace; always forgetful of himself; modest and gentle in all his ways, yet a man if iron principle and of unswerving devotion to what he believed to be right. Few foreigners in the Empire were as highly valued as he by the Japanese, both for the purity and sweetness of his Christian character and the value and solidity of his counsel and judgments in their perplexities. He did a great deal at the time when the liberal novement was strong in Japan to help many to find solid standing ground.

For the last seven or eight years of his life Dr. Alexander was alone in the field, Mrs. Alexander and the children residing in Maryville, Tenn., for the education of the children. Happily, the eldest daughter, Miss Emma, under appointment as a missionary to Japan. had stopped in Honolulu for a brief visit with her father on her way to her field, and was present with him at the time of his death.

Dr Alexander was the type of man of whom the world knows nothing, to whose nature all boasting and vanity were utterly foreign, who never sought his own things, but always the things of Jesus Christ, whose nature was incapable of meanness or personal enmity, and who sought only to commend his Master and His Gospel by the example of a faultless life and by a service that never wearied and that never put ease or self in the place of the Saviour. He was the type of missionary of whom the critics of missions know nothing—a gentleman, a scholar, and a Christian. Well would it be for both America and Asia if all who went out from the one to the other went with a tithe of his nobility of character and his purity of unselfishness.

KYOTO STATION.

After Dr. Alexander's departure from Japan, Mr. Curtis was transferred to Kyoto. He writes:

A plan for a suitable church edifice, long cherished by themselves and encouraged by former and present missionaries has at length materialized, and a building forty-eight feet by thirty, with a gallery at one end, is about to be built, and it is hoped will be completed by Christmas.

The people have taken the liveliest interest and have shown much generosity and self-denial in their contributions. Of the 1,350 yen pledged in all toward the building and debt on their lot, their part is 640 yen, nearly one-half the whole.

The present membership of the church is 121, fourteen having been added during the year.

The Sunday-schools and kindergartens have maintained their effective work. Bible classes and women's meetings have reached many. Miss Haworth's work was interrupted by a serious accident, from which, however, she has happily recovered.

OSAKA STATION.

Mr. Winn writes of the small number of those who have come into the churches as a direct result of the Taiko Dendo Movement of last year. The opportunity, however, to get access to various classes of the population has never been so good as it is now.

Multitudes of these young men in cities are away from home and fall in with whatever influence is strongest upon them. Wise fishermen of men will catch many of these young men.

Mr. Winn adds:

I wish to speak about a strange misunderstanding about church meetings in the minds of most people. They seem to have great reserve and hesitancy about going into Christian meetings, manifestly thinking that they have no right to enter Christian assemblies and that they would receive no welcome there unless specially invited for the occasion. I have not been able to satisfactorily analyze this feeling and be assured that I have got at its real cause. There is no diffidence about attending meetings of another religious sect or an entirely different religion; indeed, most Japanese do not see any incongruity in being professed followers of two distinct religions. This feeling of which I speak is aside from dislike or opposition toward Christianity. It may be that it is a remnant of that fear of Christianity which once ruled in the hearts of the nation. This feeling, according to my observation, still has such power over the hearts of meany or most of the best classes as to materially lessen the attendance at our churches and chapels.

Mr. and Mrs. Winn have continued their untiring personal work by intercourse and English teaching, and best of all their gift for friendship, to win Japanese to Christ. The work at Sakai has been more prosperous. Mr. Winn says:

There was an incident in our work at Sakai which was of special interest to me. A man became interested through his wife's attendance upon Mrs. Winn's class for women. Together these two seemed to have their hearts opened to receive the Gospel. At the last holidays he came to our house for dinner one day, when we had a most satisfactory talk about the way of salvation and the Church with which we co-operate. After that he was a frequent attendant at our meetings. He sent his children regularly to Sunday-school. His wife was always at the women's meetings and often at other meetings as well. The whole family in this way was under Christian teaching. This man was influential in inducing many women of the best families in the city to join Mrs. Winn's classes. He was taken ill in March, I think, and unable thereafter to be out at the meetings. Visits were made by our Japanese pastor and ourselves upon the family and to converse with the sick man. My last visit was early in April. I found, to my surprise, that the doctor had forbidden any guests to see him. I was received by the wife in a room adjoining the one in which lay the sick man. There was nothing but a thin paper door separating the two rooms, and so as I talked to the wife I knew I was heard by the husband as well. I had an audience of two instead of the one whom I saw. My words were accordingly chosen with as much care and wisdom as possible. I spoke of prayer, and of the forgiveness of sins being received through prayer offered with faith in Christ, and ended my call by prayer for enlightenment and spiritual guidance to be bestowed upon that man and wife. I could scarcely believe it when, a few days later, word came of the death of that friend. At the same time I was unspeakably rejoiced to be told that the day before his death he called for the Japanese pastor. Despite the prohibition of the doctor, he insisted upon seeing the minister, and, though he could no longer speak, he wrote something like this: "I am praying as I lie here that God will show me the way of salvation and forgive all my sins for the sake of Jesus Christ. Is this the right way to seek for eternal life?"

In Osaka, the South Church has called a pastor, a graduate of the Meiji Gakuin.

Mrs. Winn reports:

My afternoons, evenings and Sabbaths have mostly been occupied by the following kinds of missionary effort. Cooking classes, with Bible study, each one meeting every fortnight; the oversight of three Sunday-schools and a Bible-class for women at the North Church; three night classes for young men; two Bible-classes of young men at my home; calls on Christian women and inquirers, and especially calls on the sick.

I have entertained a good deal of Japanese company and foreign company, too; and last, but not least, I have had charge of the Kuku Gakko for children.

There seems in Osaka as great a craze among the women to learn foreign cooking as there is among young men to learn English, and happily like them, they also willingly hear Bible instruction.

The cooking class, which meets at my house, averages about twenty in number, though fifty-three names are on the roll. The women of the North Church are especially interested in this meeting, and have often brought their friends and neighbors with them, and they also take turns in leading the meeting for Bible study.

At Sakai Mrs. Winn has had a class of thirty women.

Of the young men's Bible class, which Mrs. Winn has taught, she writes:

These young men also gave liberally toward repairs on the church and entirely paid for a lot of new seats, which we needed to accommodate the audiences. They are now interested in getting a fine illustrated Life of Christ and some other good books bound in fine style to present to the Crown Prince, and with the gift they promise to unite daily in prayer for the conversion of His Royal Highness. I wish all the young Christians of Japan might unite in making this a special subject of prayer.

NANIWA JO GAKKO.—The Girls' Boarding School, as before, under Miss Garvin's charge, has had much help from Miss Ward. The number of students was fifty-two. The Mission decided to discontinue the post-graduate course which the school had provided. Miss Garvin writes:

There seems to be among the girls a sense of responsibility for the absent members. Twice lately I have seen tears shed for souls. One young woman could not be comforted because she had failed to lead her room-mate to Christ before she, a very wayward girl, went away to her home, where the influence is bad.

MATSUYAMA STATION.

An effective work has been done among the women and work is planned among the coolies in the Sumitonio Copper Works. Mr. Bryan adds:

I have given four hours of English to a private school of the middle grade, and, while this work is rather indirect, it is worth reporting such work, as it means the opening of new doors of influence. Some six months ago I was asked to attend a meeting of the nurses of the Government Hospital and make an address. This meeting is held once a month, to afford the nurses some little relaxation as well as to give them instruction in moral truth. Twice has a Buddhist priest been there to give a talk. One of the doctors told me he would be glad if our Bible women could live among the nurses so as to have more influence over them. We have work outside of Matsuyama, towards the west, and about sixty miles, in a place called Kamibun. There have been no baptisms in this place yet, the evangelist preferring to wait rather than baptize too hastily. Kamibun is a small village in which to locate an evangelist, but the men who invited us to begin work there are men of influence, and through them we can reach the adjacent villages.

HIROSHIMA STATION.

The correspondence plan has been continued with great effectiveness. There are 328 inquirers, to whom copies of a little monthly Gospel message are sent, which has in all a circulation of 600 copies. Of the correspondence plan, Mr. Brokaw says:

There are 328 persons on the roll. Many of these have been on the roll for over two years. We have ceased to advertise in the papers, for the plan has become self-propagating. Our only advertisement is in the little paper itself, and new inquirers are constantly sending in requests for literature.

So far as I have any records of results in baptisms (of course, that is only a small idea upon which to yet estimate the ultimate value of the plan), there have been six who began their study of Christianity with our plan. I heard of one or two others, but have not verified them, and so do not include them.

Of evangelistic trips, Mr. Brokaw writes:

One of these was in the Tadanomi-Takehara region. At Tadanomi we again held a combined magic lantern and preaching meeting, between 400 and 500 persons attending. Before the meeting I sold New Testament portions, my stock going in short order, and requests for more coming thick and fast. The other trip was off Onomichi, at Innoshima. The Baptists, under Captain Luke Bickel, of the Gospel boat Fukuin Maru, have also been visiting this island, and at their request we made the mountains across the island the dividing line, so that even in this out-of-the-way corner of the world there are now "spheres of influence."

In returning to the mainland, a three hours' trip by a small boat, I accidentally opened a small folding pocket scissors, which so excited the curiosity of a full boatload of passengers that it was easy for the evangelist and me to start, with Western civilization as a theme, lead up to Christianity, and converse for nearly two hours on the Way of Salvation.

At one point there has been trouble because

The Sunday-school was Christian only in name, being rather a school for the teaching of morals and modern civilization than for teaching Christianity.

At Onomichi, Mihara, Iwakuni and Kure, a city of 30,000, in which ours is the only Christian work done, the work of the Station has extended. At the close of the year the situation was depressing, on account of the cholera. Mr. Brokaw closed his report with the words:

At present, the work in each of the out-stations is at a standstill. Cholera has spread, and at Mihara and Onomichi it is quite virulent. The authorities have forbidden nearly all our meetings. At three places our believers only are allowed to meet. As the temples have not been allowed to hold meetings, either, there has been no injustice wrought us. So far none of the Christians in our field have been attacked by the scourge—a cause for profound thankfulness to God. We hope that with cool weather the work may not be long stopped, and that we can return to an aggressive campaign. On the whole, there have been more baptisms throughout than for some years past, and in that respect it has been my best year in Japan.

The marriage of Miss Nivling to an Episcopalian missionary took away from Hiroshima a very effective worker, and the woman's work has had to be cared for by Mrs. Brokaw, who writes:

Of three Bible women who have been with us during the year, there is not one left. One went to America with Mr. Doughty, another came to me in November, and, by a sudden family decision, left in January to get married, and the third came in April and left the last of July on account of sickness in her family, as I noted above. This matter of holding young women in the work is a very serious problem, which, I presume, bothers other Stations as well. The peculiar power of family authority in Japan compels our Bible women to leave, even though they personally wish to remain in the

A cooking class was started, and although it proved very enjoyable as far as I was concerned, for the women were the "upper ten" of the city—Governor's wife, wife of the head of the Ken Hospital, wife of the Ken Councillor, wife of an eye specialist, etc., yet, so far as Christianity was concerned, it was not a success in a direct way. If I am able to carry on this class this fall, I shall insist that some direct work along Christian lines shall be taken up in connection with it.

I have taught English classes regularly each week for most of the year? In every case I have refused absolutely to teach the English alone. If the students did not understand English sufficiently, I taught the Bible lesson in Japanese. Part of the year, too, I taught a class of women the Bible.

YAMAGUCHI STATION.

Mr. Ayres speaks of Moji as the most promising field connected with the Station. Of trying conditions in one field, Mr. Ayres writes:

One of the elders sent home his wife under very unpleasant circumstances and that made a great deal of talk. While some might say that he had no right, according to our Lord's deliverance, to do so. those who best knew the circumstances felt a great deal of sympathy for him. He felt that this act made it necessary for him to resign the eldership, and the affair seemed to harm his spiritual life.

But worse than this was the fall of the other elder. He was a man in whom we all felt the fullest confidence. I used to rejoice in his faith and spirituality. The church building was sold; the funds placed in the bank in his name. He had the pass-book and seal. He used the funds a little at a time till they were all gone.

The pastor and the oldest member of the church finally brought him to confession and he seems to be truly repentant. The money is being paid back a little at a time, and I believe the man (perhaps not the money) will come out all right in time.

Of the evangelist's work at Yadomi, Mr. Ayres reports:

His Sunday-school, for which he has had to fight not only the prejudice of the parents but the opposition of the common school teacher, has grown till he can take no more for lack of room, his house is too small. That, however, does not mean as much as it might, for forty pupils will fill his house. More can be accommodated at a public meeting, but for Sunday-school arrangement forty fill it. But forty pupils means a great deal in that region, and the kind of teaching they get makes it still more signficant. The pupils do not come hap-hazard of their own accord; they are usually brought by their parents or relatives and entered formally as in a regular school.

Of Dr. Torrey's helpful visit, Mr. Ayres writes:

Dr. Torrey's visit was one of the incidents of the year. He held a number of meetings for students, modelled on American methods, and at the close of each meeting asked those to rise who wished to become Christians. (That was the substance, though the form varied.)

As far as possible, the names of those who rose were secured. We tried, with the workers of the Methodist Church and the Y. M. C. A., to gather these inquirers in. A delay in prompt action, due to the Y. M. C. A., was the first mistake. But the truth was that most of the names and addresses were fictitious. We found the names of those who were already in connection with Bible classes of our church or the Methodist church, but while we found others who were persuaded to study the Bible in the personal work that followed, not one of the names signed to the cards added an inquirer to either church. The principal result of these meetings was to rouse the church members. The condition of affairs in our church was such that the rousing, while sorely needed, failed of permanent results.

Mr. Curtis was in Yamaguchi part of the year and reports:

The work in the Yamaguchi-field has never been more promising, nor the doors of opportunity wider open, than during the past few months. All classes are favorable to the Gospel, excepting, of course, the Buddhist priests, whose business it is to oppose. My work has been largely for students, soldiers and railroad men.

The work among the railroad men is most encouraging. At the request of the station master at Ogori Station, our nearest railroad point, I have held frequent meetings for the employes in connection with that station. Half of the hour was given to English, and halt to Christian teaching in Japanese. But that the interest was not wholly in the former is evident from a request made at least on one occasion, to give the religious teaching first, lest some of the hearers should be called away before the close of the hour.

To add a word as to the railroad work as a whole. It is marvelous how many railroad employes are either Christians or inquirers. As a class they seem to be especially open to Christian impressions.

Bundles of tracts firmly bound together and left in the various stations have been fairly worn out from constant use.

The Girls' School, the Kojo Jo Gakuin was founded in 1891. During the year forty-nine pupils were enrolled, eight of whom joined the Church during the year. In addition to the work that Miss Bigelow and Miss Palmer did, nine Japanese teachers served the school.

In the day-school there have been thirty-two children. Miss Bigelow writes:

After learning the Ten Commandments song, a little boy of good family, whose grandmother was a devout Buddhist, went home and said in the presence of all the family, "After this I will not worship idols made by men's hands." Instead of being angry, they asked him, "Why not?" and he replied, "Because I've learned not to do so at the Yochien." And this same little boy carefully collects the leaves torn off from a Bible calendar hanging in the room and carries them home. Asked what use he made of them, he said, "My mother reads them over and over every day." So perhaps this "little child may lead" his mother, though we have not been able to get any hold upon her yet."

Of some of the women that Miss Palmer has been able to reach, she writes:

One of these women was the wife of the Chief of Police of the Province. She is a very sad woman, having a husband who seems to be possessed with a dumb demon, for she says he never speaks in the home if he can avoid it. I discovered how he shows his displeasure without speaking, when she told me that she was surprised he did not sling her Bible at her one day when she carelessiy left it in sight in the room.

Just before leaving Yamaguchi for this meeting, one of the very finest women whom I know in this land, the wife of the president of the college in Yamaguchi, said she would be glad to have us come to her home to teach her. I have asked her for this privilege every time I have called during the last two years, as I always do wherever I go. But she has always declined till now, which makes it very hopeful that now, when she does consent, she is doing so having intelligently considered the matter and decided to know whether our teaching is true or not. She has attended our cooking class for two years and listened attentively to the Bible at that hour. She says: "I am not an unbeliever; I just do not know, and I want to know now what is the true religion."

KANAZAWA STATION.

Mr. Fulton writes:

I would preface my report with the remark that during all my brief stay in Japan I have not seen a time when there were so many opportunities for work, when the people were so ready to hear the Gospel as during the past year.

The Tonomachi Church has been well re-established. Twenty-one have been added to the two churches during the year. The missionaries have had all they could do to meet the calls for work. Mr. Fulton writes:

At the beginning of summer I had a request from the teachers that I should go to the First Middle School once or twice a week and teach the Bible in English to the students of the senior class; that the president of the school would allow the use of one of the rooms for the purpose, the teaching to take place just after school hours. I thought this rather a remarkable request, but, of course, gladly consented to the proposition. The plan has since been modified in that the president fears public sentiment if the teaching takes place within the school building, and they request the privilege of using our Kotatsuno chapel for the purpose.

Mr. Dunlop has six weekly Bible classes in Kanazawa, beside a large class for men in the Church. One class is made up of retired military officers, mostly old men; another includes the principal and six or seven of the teachers of the Normal School.

One of these is a Christian, and it was he who got the class together. Considering how prejudiced against Christianity the school teachers of this country are inclined to be, it is no small gain to have a weekly Bible study carried on by the principal teachers at the very centre of the educational system of the province, the Provincial Normal School. It means that from that school, at least, the young men and women who go out to teach the children of the province will take with them much less of the usual hatred of Christianity.

Some of the classes are in English, but the class of old soldiers and the Church class are in Japanese.

A student's boarding house has been established with residents, seven of them medical students, a class very difficult to reach in Japan.

Property has been acquired during the year at Toyama, where the Mission is anxious to locate a missionary. It has been an unpromising and unfruitful place, but very needy.

HOKURIKU GIRLS' SCHOOL.—Miss Shaw's return threw the burden of the school on Miss Luther. One real advance step was taken in displacing by Miss Luther the customary Japanese head of the school, an arrangement required hitherto to comply with educational department restrictions. Of one of the graduates of the school, a person of great influence, Miss Shaw reports:

Miss Adachi, one of our earliest graduates, returned on vacation from the position of head nurse in the Imperial Hospital. For years she has held out against Christianity and was usually inclined to scorn at Christians; but this year she was led of God to make a complete surrender to His divine call. She is in a position to do great good as a follower of Jesus, and I am sure she will do much for the Saviour she now loves and obeys.

Kanazawa's Children's School was also in Miss Luther's hands, although assisted in it as in the other school by Miss Mayo. Twenty-four new pupils, most of them boys, came into the school.

At the opening meeting, this fall, we chose as our subject "Christ Our Example." After a helpful talk by one of the teachers, showing the need of even very little folks taking Christ as their example at all times, and especially at the beginning of a new term's work, one of the older boys voluntarily led in prayer. The prayer was most simple, but very touching, in that it contained an earnest plea to God to help the big boys and girls to live before the little ones so that the little ones might see that they were taking Christ as their example. I have been watching that boy since, and he is trying very earnestly to live a real Christian life before the other children. He will be an earnest worker soon.

In the Kindergarten, the number of children was limited to forty.

To see parents brought into the church, to see older brothers and sisters brought to Sunday-school, to hear of Gospel stories told to others, all the work of wee ones, certainly brings encouragement to those engaged in the work among the children in the kindergarten. One father who was led into the church through his child's attending the kindergarten said, one day, while looking with loving eyes into his little daughter's bright face, "This little child has been the means of bringing me to Christ. I now want her to bring her mother, and also her nurse. When they come and are baptized, I'll have her baptized, too; then we shall be a united family in Christ, all through this child attending your school."

It would be of interest to add a story contained in Mr. Fulton's report, which will illustrate the influence of the correspondence Bible study plan, used in several of the Stations of the Mission.

I will close this report with an account of the conversion of a man whose case has been most interesting to me, and the change in whose life is one of the most remarkable I have met with anywhere. He is a merchant in Kanazawa, the head of a fair business in dry goods, with a patronage mostly from the country. He is a man of thirty-two or thirty-three years of age, with a wife and a little daughter of six, of whom he is very fond. For some reason or other he put his little girl in our kindergarten, and was accustomed occasionally to take her himself, being much pleased with what he saw. It aroused a desire in him to know what Christianity was which at the foundation of the school and which produced characters which he could plainly see differed from those of others around them.

About this time he saw the advertisement in the paper of the Correspondence Bible Study, and came in person to make inquiries. He stated his position as a man without religion, but as a man who was curious to know what we believed. After quite a conversation, he purchased a New Testament and was enrolled as a member of the class. I also lent him two or three tracts, among which was one giving the history of Mr. Ando Taro's conversion in Hawaii. This latter proved to be the one exactly suited to his need. He returned in a few days, deply impressed with what he had learned and thirsting for more. I continued lending him books, and he continued his visits, and it was most interesting to see him coming forward step by step into the light. He proved from the beginning very honest and straightforward in his inquiries, and in relating his growing experience. Again and again his experiences as related proved to me anew the truth of the Bible in its fundamental doctrines.

About New Year's he made the request that I would recommend to him some one among the Christians with whom he could associate as a friend, and thus learn Christianity practically at the same time he was learning it doctrinally. I introduced him to some of the Christians and he began coming to church. In the meantime quite a change had been wrought in his conduct. He had formerly been both a great smoker and a great drinker, both of which bad habits he gave up. Like most of the others, he liked nothing better than a carouse. This, too, now became distasteful to him, and he spent his nights at home with his family instead. He had been a very lazy man, of luxurious habits, shirking work wherever he could, and never walking where he could ride. He soon became convinced that such a life was wrong, and began living a life of economy and taking up his work in earnest. He arose early in the morning, took his goods and went into the country, something he had not done in many years. He worked from Monday morning to Saturday night, and looked forward with joy to the Sabbath, when he could rest and worship. His household looked on, wondering at the change in him, and his friends were amazed. He never hesitated to tell them the cause and to recommend his new-found faith to them. And as the change was for the good, they had nothing to reply.

In June he applied for baptism and was received into the Tonomachi Church. His examination was one of the most satisfactory I have ever listened to. As he related his experience, those who were listening were deeply impressed.

During a visit from him, a few days ago, he said that words simply failed to express the change he felt within himself. Other persons might not notice it, but he himself knew that he was a new man, unrecognizable even by his former self. He has not pressed his wife or others of the household to take up Christianity, but recently he says his wife has been manifesting great uneasiness, having become very conscious of her husband's advance and of her own standstill in life. She asked permission to visit her parents to talk over matters with them. Being devout Buddhists, their influence will be to detain her, but he says he has no doubt of the final outcome. It is only a matter of time when she will follow in his footsteps. He has much more difficult case in the person of his adopted father, who is still with them, and who does not fancy some of the changes wrought in his son, especially along the line of business integrity.

I always hesitate to write up individual cases in Japan, lest by next year, or even before the report reaches the Board, I may have cause to recant. But to all appearances this man is a true convert, a fine example of the power of the Gospel to completely change and thoroughly renovate from the centre to the circumference a man's whole being and life. It has been a tonic to my own faith to see the truth of God's Word live again and absolutely verify themselves in the experience of this man led by the Spirit into undoubted salvation through Jesus Christ.

FUKUI STATION.

Mr. Jones reports:

Two events of special importance in a secular way deserve mention, one the great fire on Easter Sunday, destroying above three thousand houses, or nearly one-third of the entire city, burning a part of the preaching place and coming within about one-half a block of the Mission compound; the other, the floods of July, when more than one-half of the city was inundated, the water coming up to the back door of the missionaries' house.

In the spring we organized a young men's club, a modification of the Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip, for our young Christians, having two meetings each month, devoting a part of the evening to some Bible theme and the remainder to the consideration of some conspicuous example of Christian character or topic closely related to Christian conduct. Membership has grown but little, yet it has helped the young in furnishing them a place to go where they are free from temptations at least two nights in a month.

Heathenism and its concomitants continue to be the chief opponents of the work in Echizen. Any abatement of their power is imperceptible from year to year. Temples are being built. During the year one temple near Fukui is said to have collected, in three weeks, two hundred and thirty thousand yen ($115,000 gold). Towns are leagued together in refusing to rent places for Christian meetings. Christians from other parts of the country and those wishing to investigate the truth, on account of the intense hatred are willing in no way to identify themselves either with us or the Japanese believers, fearing the loss of temporal advantages. Inquirers are unwilling for us to come to their homes lest persecution follow in consequence, two or three having been threatened with expulsion from home in case they received baptism, all of which testify to the hold that idolatry still has in this region.

Mrs. Jones writes:

Past conditions have not materially changed; our work continues to be strenuously opposed by the pronounced, aggressive heathenism, whose devotees, especially in April and May, flock by thousands to all sorts of idolatrous celebrations. Cut rates on the railroad permit crowds to go to Kyoto, and even larger numbers have for the last three weeks come to a great festival at Eiheiji, a famous temple near here. Priests by scores from all over the land have been in attendance. If anything about this can be gratifying it is that the pilgrims seem for the most part to be of the illiterate class, the great predominating class in Echizen. Genuine heathenism and idolatry prevail. The polite (?) word "Non-Christian" does not express it, but it is a cause for thanksgiving that in spite of this and the unabated opposition by school teachers for another year my helper and I have been able to keep up our regular weekly meetings in Fukui and from other big towns. The attendance has not been so large as when they were more of a curiosity but more regular.

In Sabae, the garrison town, an average of fifteen or twenty boys, varying from twelve to sixteen years of age, have come regularly. They have behaved badly at times, but still they come and listen attentively while I talk, being inclined to try my helper. Discipline is

In Sabae, the garrison town, an average of fifteen or twenty boys, varying from twelve to sixteen years of age, have come regularly. They have behaved badly at times, but still they come and listen attentively while I talk, being inclined to try my helper. Discipline is necessary at times, and my last attempt, only used because something had to be done, proved most effective, viz., asking them what they would think of a foreigner who went to a temple to ask questions about Budhism and then was very rude to the priests. The best boy said emphatically, "Baka da." I said, "Please apply the principle." They saw the point, and have behaved like gentlemen since. In Marnoka, when we had to abandon the meetings for two or three months on account of snow, the attendance averages about eighty.

May I say a word as to results of this weekly work among women and children, for I fear some are skeptical? Many children and some women have had the cardinal truths of the Gospel presented in as clear and simple a way as we are capable of. They have the Way of Salvation in their heads, at least, and I believe a number in their hearts. At any rate, is not God's promise just as sure for this seed as for that sown in older, less pliable soil?

If one finds an anti-Christian club of boys, founded for the express purpose of opposing this work—such a club is in existence in Sabae now—he must ignore it, finding a grain of comfort, perhaps, in the thought that the Evil One finds active opposition necessary.

The great fire which destroyed much property and caused great suffering and interfered much with the work, at the same time, gave opportunity for kindly assistance and relief. Mr. Jones helped about forty of the poorest families he could find.

Each was given much-needed household articles, a little money and some Christian literature. They were also told that Christian people had made it possible for us to help them, and that Christianity was not the awful doctrine that so many of the people in Fukui thought.

S. A. Moffet returned to their field after furlough, the latter after a brief special vacation.

The death of Mrs. Johnson was attended with circumstances of peculiar sadness. Leaving San Francisco with her husband, December 11, 1902, full of bright expectation of a protracted missionary career, she was attacked soon after leaving port with an affection which terminated in an abscess of the ear. From this she suffered greatly throughout her voyage. At Kobe it was found necessary for her to leave the steamer, and secure a surgical operation. This was successful though it was followed by a fatal extension of the disease to the brain. Mrs. Johnson had shown peculiar perseverance and devotion of purpose in securing her education, and was commended to the Board as one peculiarly fitted for missionary service. Her loss will be greatly mourned in the Mission circle, by the Board and many friends in this country.

During the year Mrs. George Leck, whose husband died during the previous year, returned home and subsequently closed her relations to the Board by resignation.

Rev. E. H. Miller and Miss Mattie Henry, and Rev. C. F. Sharp and Miss E. M. Howell were married on the field.

Rev. and Mrs. Cyril Ross and Miss Chase were transferred from Fusan to Syen Chun.

Alluding to the journey home of Mr. Bruen and his marriage, the Station report speaks as follows:

During the winter Mr. Bruen took five months that he might return to America and bring back his bride, Miss Martha Scott. Mrs. Bruen has been with us since May, and has promptly and enthusiastically taken her place among us, and is now an integral and much-valued part of our community.

The work of the year has not been without serious embarrassment in certain portions of the field, partly due to the intrigues of Roman Catholics, and partly to the heavy taxes and kindred hardships laid upon the impoverished people.

Appreciative mention is made in the reports of different Stations, of the visit made during the year of Miss Ellen Parsons, Editor of Woman's Work for Woman. Miss Parsons, as might have been expected, has been able to communicate her enthusiasm not only to our missionaries in Korea, but also to those of other fields, in her journey around the world in 1901-02; and having been mercifully preserved by a kindly Providence to return to her work in the Mission House, it is to be hoped that by voice and pen she may long be spared to bring forth the fruits of her experience and observations in the Mission field.

with typhus fever, from which full recovery was only gained by a limited furlough and a visit to Japan and Hong Kong. Mrs. Adams was also severely ill, and visited for a time Yokohama in pursuit of medical and surgical relief.

SEOUL STATION.

A very large district is assigned to this Station, whose capital city alone numbers about 300,000 inhabitants. The whole field connected therewith contains probably 2,000,000. The number of churches reported by this Station is sixty-six, and communicants 1,582. Of the sixty-three magistracies which compose this area, thirty-four are partially occupied by varicus stages of our missionary work.

This Station has been peculiarly unfortunate during the last year, and the results of missionary work are meagre compared with those of recent years. The printed report of the Station deals very truthfully and regretfully with the discouragements which none can feel so deeply as the missionaries themselves. The absence of Dr. and Mrs. Underwood on furlough, and of Mr. and Mrs. Moore who have been obliged to return to this country for the present, has seriously diminished the force of older and more experienced missionaries whose knowledge of the language and of the people enabled them to push forward steadily the work of the out-stations, as well as of the churches in the city. The latter have especially suffered serious reaction from the enthusiastic devotion which was shown two or three years ago when the zeal of the people in experimental piety, generous gifts and self-denying efforts to extend the Gospel to others, might be considered almost models and worthy of imitation of churches in any field at home or abroad. This decline has not been due wholly to the lack of experienced laborers, but was partly owing to the insidious influence of false professors actuated by sinister motives. The Station report frankly confesses that the churches of the city, two or three in number, have scarcely held their own. The outlying districts and particularly the northern portion of the field where missionaries of the Canadian church reaped such cheering harvests, and where our own missionaries subsequently found so much encouragement, have suffered from lack of steady and continuous missionary oversight and prompting, and also from the bad example of Roman Catholics who demoralize the people by holding out secular inducements to join their ranks. Throughout the entire field of the Seoul Station, there has been but little advance made in numbers either of added communicants or of catechumens, yet it has been a year of earnest and faithful work along many lines.

Avison, in addition to his labors in the hospital, has done more or less preaching as time and strength and opportunity afforded. Mr. Gale has spent a most laborious year, but his labor has been mostly devoted to the work of translation and other literary effort for which he is so amply qualified. Mr. F. S. Miller, the only other clerical missionary of long experience, has been detained in Seoul the larger part of the year by the care of house building, and by the illness of Mrs. Miller. His tour of sixty-seven days in the region of Whang Hai Do, as given in his personal report, was full of interest, mingling severe trials and discouragements with varying success. Every variety of experience seems to have borne upon the life and development of the various groups, sometimes inspiring hope and often weighing heavily upon their courage and perseverance.

Mr. Sharpe, although necessarily giving much time to language study, made protracted visits into the region of Whang Hai Do, of which his personal report gives many interesting details full of mingled light and shade.

Much credit is given to Mrs. Welbon and Dr. Field for the part which they bore in the care of country churches. In a report given by Mrs. Welbon some instances appear of the constancy and faith of the simple country people, particularly that of members of advanced age whose Christian experience seemed hardly possible in those who for so short a time had known the way of life.

A Woman's Class for Bible study in Seoul, has well illustrated the division of labor carried on by the wives of resident missionaries and by the unmarried ladies of the Station, each giving a portion of time by alternation to some particular form of instruction and encouragement and inspiration. All this was greatly needed and highly appreciated by the women, some of whom come a distance of three or four miles day by day, returning to their homes by night in order to be present at the sessions.

The Seoul Station has been greatly embarrassed for two or three years with questions of property and with contracts entered into with His Majesty the King which he seems to have found it impossible or inconvenient to carry out. The Mission having sold to the King certain properties under pressure which was deemed imperative, was led to expect that a site for other structures would be promptly furnished, and funds paid to meet the expenses of building. The Mission has been disappointed and between the expected abandonment of the old quarters, and the elusive promise of new accommodations, has been embarrassed, and the whole work of the Station has suffered. As a result of these complications and delays, the special work of Mr. Gordon who was sent to Korea to superintend the erection of the hospital and other buildings, has been greatly hindered. Since the reports were received a satisfactory sale of the Chang Dong property to the King has been effected.

EDUCATION.—Education in connection with the Seoul Station is confined to the Girls' Boarding-school, and to the Intermediate School for Boys. Twenty-four girls are reported in the list of pupils of the former, and but six in the latter. The work in the Girls' School has been economically managed by the contribution of time and labor given by different members of the Mission. Special mention is made of the services of Mrs. Shin, a native teacher in the Girls' School. Doty's report says of her:

Mrs. Shin's beautiful Christian character, her intelligent inquiring mind, her spirit of perseverance and faithfulness, and her good judgment make her a wise and safe counsellor both in the school and out of it; and the impress of her life on the girls who spend twelve out of the twenty-four hours daily with her, is a cause of thankfulness beyond words to express.

Seoul Station has felt for some years the need of building a regular system of education for the training of a native ministry. The Seoul report says: "The year just past has witnessed the compassing of one great step toward this goal in bringing among us the future principal of our ideal institution.

Mr. Gale in his report speaks most heartily of the high Christian ideal upon which the School has been established. Grateful acknowledgment is made of the co-operation of Dr. Field and Miss Doty in this first year of instruction. Field has prepared a work on Arithmetic which has proved a success. Miss Doty has proved a successful teacher in Geography. "The world the boys live in now," says Mr. Gale, "instead of being a flat watery surface, lying around the Middle Kingdom, China, with various barbarian tribes squatted on the outer edge, is a globe rolling through space with tremendous velocity, guided by an unerring hand which the boys say and believe is the hand of Jesus."

Once a week Dr. Avison has enlightened the boys upon the wonders of chemistry. It is the hope and purpose of the Mission and of the Board to promote the rapid growth of this mere germ of higher education in Seoul. It should soon reach the high level of the corresponding institution conducted by the Pyeng Yang Station.

MEDICAL.—A report was given last year of a movement for the erection and equipment of a new hospital to be known as the Severance Memorial Hospital, to be erected with funds generously supplied by Mr. L. H. Severance. Many months of delay and perplexity have attended this effort owing to the difficulty of securing a proper site. This however has been accomplished at last and the work has been actually begun under favorable auspices. The cornerstone of the new hospital was laid on Thanksgiving Day, under circumstances most auspicious and gratifying to all concerned. The ceremony was performed by Hon. H. N. Allen, United States Minister to Korea, who in the year 1884 laid the foundation of the whole medical work of Korea by the successful performance of surgical operations upon prominent Koreans who had been wounded in the conflict between the Japanese and the Chinese garrisons. Dr. Allen's marked success at that time made such an impression upon the community, and upon the King, that he was at once placed in charge of a hospital furnished by the Government, and the building thus supplied has been used by successive medical missionaries of the Presbyterian Board down to the present time. It was a happy circumstance that the United States Minister should be called to this official act. under circumstances so full of historic interest. The Mission and the Board have taken action at various times to acknowledge through the State Department the efficient aid and cooperation of our present official representative at His Majesty's court. The representatives of the different foreign legations in Korea honored the occasion by their presence, and a deep and favorable impression was made upon all classes, native and foreign.

Dr. Avison in his hospital report acknowledges at the outset his great indebtedness to the efficient and gratuitous services of Mrs. Gifford, who to the great regret of the Station and the Mission, has retired from the work in Korea, and returned home during the year. Mrs. Gifford accompanied her son who entered upon the missionary work in Korea in 1888. After his death and that of his wife in 1900, Mrs. Gifford, Sr., remained in the country till the present time and as a pure work of love has striven to make herself useful to the Mission until her recent return to the United States. Says Dr. Avison: "I owe her, and the Mission owes her, a heavy debt of gratitude for a year of faithful work, and my debt is not confined to the simple fact that she helped me in a difficult situation, but rests also on the fact that she constantly kept before us the need of a high standard for the Hospital."

The total attendance for the year at the dispensary was 6,666. Patients in the wards, 230. Receipts from in-patients, 589 yen. Dr. Avison makes special acknowledgment of the frequent assistance rendered in surgical cases by Dr. Wunsch.

the palace physician. Two Japanese trained nurses have been employed during the year with good results.

LITERARY.—One-half the members of the Seoul Station, says the report, have been engaged this year to at least some degree in literary work. Mr. Gale's chief task has been that of translating and revising the Scriptures. In addition to his revised work entitled "Grammatical Forms" and also the Korean Dictionary, two or three "Chinese Readers" have also been prepared. Mr. Gale also edited the Weekly Christian News. Mr. F. S. Miller relieved him for a time during a period of illness and absence. The Arithmetic prepared by Dr. Field is beginning to supply a long-felt want. With the assistance of Miss Barrett she has spent some laborious months in its preparation. Dr. Avison has given some time to the completion of his work on Anatomy. Mr. F. S. Miller has revised the Hymn Book for a new edition and has published a commentary on First Corinthians. Considerable time has been given to his duty as Chairman of the Examining Committee for the Korea Religious Tract Society. Dr. Vinton has issued four numbers of the "Korean Field," besides one or two tracts.

NOTE.—Since this report was prepared, word was received of the death, at Seoul, of the Rev. W. V. Johnson, who died of small-pox.

FUSAN STATION.

In the absence of Dr. Irvin from the field during the entire year covered by this report, the work of the Station was confined to the labors of Mr. and Mrs. Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Sidebotham. Mr. Ross was transferred to Syen Chun at the close of the year. In his personal report of the work done at Fusan, he says:

The year has been one to inspire courage. For the first time we have known by actual experience some of the benefits of training classes for workers. In the history of the Station never were there more new believers taken under our care. In the distant trip to Chinju we have had hope inspired that the Lord's day of visitation in grace for southern Korea is not far distant.

He speaks, however, of some discouragements encountered in the different groups of believers owing to the imperfect Christian character of some on whom reliance had been placed. He alludes to an interesting work in four new groups of believers in out-stations, and of "a local work on Deer Island," for which he has cause for gratitude. The Koreans have been active in effecting the purchase of three new buildings for church purposes. In two cases, "older groups assisted weaker ones financially, and thus did the work, though unorganized, of a Board of Church Erection." Three new groups have sprung from the older ones. The native Christians have been taught the important lesson that each believer is to regard himself as a missionary to others. As at Taiku, so also at Fusan, there has been but little growth in the number of communicants received, but a very great advance in the number of professed believers and catechumens. Mr. Ross was compelled to be absent a part of the year, seeking health for himself and Mrs. Ross. The summary of the work which he reports gives hine groups with twenty-two communicants received, and eighty-five catechumens.

Mr. Sidebotham says in his report:

The Fusan Church has been a source of discouragement followed by encouragement. The last annual report of the Station noted the spiritually unsatisfactory condition of the Christians, and there was for a long time no change for the better. In February, however, the tide seemed to turn. The services began to be better attended, the prayer-meetings increased in interest, and a quiet revival seemed to take place. As a result of this movement, June 1st was a happy day, five were admitted by baptism and one by letter, and ten catechumens were added. The growth has not been so noticeable since that time, though we hope it is as real.

The Fusan field gives the statistics of the local church at Fusan as thirty-four communicants and twenty-two catechumens. Monthly meetings have been held for the instruction of church officers and training in matters of policy, the Koreans seeming to enjoy the responsibility put upon them. Mr. Sidebotham speaks with appreciation of the labors of his colleague, Mr. Ross. He also speaks of the various out-stations with mingled satisfaction and discouragement. At one small place, Suk Chan, five believers, supposed to be genuine the previous year, have declined, having failed in the performance of all Christian duties till finally they were dropped from the roll. In another circuit known as Milyang, much encouragement has been found. The restrictions forbidding access to women who professed belief, have been broken down, seven having been received to the catechumenate, some of them are now ready for baptism. The leader of this group, Mr. Kim, is a scholar, and having received considerable training from the Taiku missionaries, he bids fair to be a strong Christian. He seems also to be a veritable missionary in his influence over others of his acquaintance. Persecution somewhat impeded the work in the outlying districts, and those who received the Gospel are called to suffer, and so to test their faith.

Mr. Sidebotham speaks of the great satisfaction he has had in training classes. He says:

Nine days in Taiku, twelve of the winter and five of the summer classes held in Fusan, were much to my own profit; and I believe there were fruits in the hearts and works of those who were taught.

there were fruits in the hearts and works of those who were taught.

Beginning with the April number of the Sung Kyung Kang Non Wulpo, I have been writing the notes on the lessons in Samuel. In fact, everything except the Scripture itself; and many of these notes have appeared in the Christian News also since April. The work has been of great profit to me in the language, and I trust the notes have helped to make the Scriptures more clear to many a Korean.

It only remains to be added that my duties as Secretary of the Committee on Correspondence with the Boards on the missionary problems of our province have given me many a busy hour; and that as Assistant Secretary of the Mission and Secretary of the Fusan Station, I have enjoyed no little labor and no little satisfaction.

MEDICAL.—Unfortunately, the medical work at Fusan Station has been discontinued during the year herein reported. Dr. and Mrs. Irvin have spent the year on furlough in the United States. Alluding to this, Dr. Irvin says:

Practically speaking, my report for 1900-'01 covered the medical, surgical and evangelistic work connected with the Fusan Hospital up to the time of my departure for furlough—therefore the object of this report is simply to make a suggestion along the evangelistic line of the work, for which hospital and dispensary furnish so many opportunities.

He has returned to his work full of hope and his personal report sets forth his twofold aim to labor for the healing of diseases and the enlightenment and conversion of men to Christ. From the first Dr. Irvin has given much attention to evangelization, and now that he and Mrs. Irvin have returned to their field in good health and spirits, they are full of hope for the coming year.

PYENG YANG STATION.

The Pyeng Yang Station strikes a note of encouragement and cheer which is all the more welcome as relieving in part the discouragement which has attended some of the other stations. The missionaries of Pyeng Yang appear to realize fully the great advantages as well as difficulties of various kinds which attend their work. The introduction of their report opens as follows:

We are far from the centre of government where political intrigue is always rife, and where the air fairly teems with influences antagonistic to anything the missionary has to offer. The difficulties of caste are almost unknown, and labor is not altogether dishonorable. Roman Catholicism is here, but not in its might. No well-established hoary old heathen faith sets itself like an impenetrable wall against us. Absorbing business interests such as are found in the open ports, or other centres of mercantile activity, do not crowd upon our people. They are a simple, unexacting folk, unsuspicious and unspoiled Our advances have been received in a friendly spirit, and the good seed of the Kingdom strikes quick and lasting root in these "honest and good" hearts.

And so from year to year we come rejoicing, bringing our sheaves with us. The awful heartsickness of long deferred hope has not been our portion. The supreme test of faith and endurance to which devoted brethren in other fields have been subjected, that of toiling all night and taking little or nothing, has not been required of us. Surely, to whom so much has been freely and undeservedly given, of them shall much rightly be required.

They have, however, met with some trials. Some of these have been the result of persecution visited upon the poor Christians by petty officials; but a constantly disheartening fact is the lack of laborers to properly care for the newly formed groups. Of this the following illustration is given:

Even as we write word comes from a group of believers that was once lively and promising. They put up a house of worship, had their appointed leader, and met regularly for divine services. But after a hasty visit or two from the missionary, came a long and dreary space of time when they were left to themselves. They were young and weak in the faith, and of necessity instructed but imperfectly in the Way of Life, and they were left to wander in the wilderness. How could they know that the missionary shepherd was burdened with very much more work than he could by any possibility be expected to accomplish? Doubts sprang up as to his love for them, and their enthusiasm in the cause of Christ waned. Spiritual hunger and thirst did its work, and one by one the little flock fell a prey to the devourer. Even the leader drifted away, and now the little church stands idle.

The brethren of the Pyeng Yang Station have admirably organized their work, and the different lines of work are so co-ordinated, both in the Central Station and the various outstations, as to secure a wise economy of labor and influence. The Pyeng Yang City Church reports "the best year in its history." The organization has become more complete, the spiritual life of believers has been deepened.

It is needless to say, says the Station report, that the personal effort necessary to look after the work of a church, with an enrollment of over eleven hundred members and catechumens, and a congregation ranging from twelve to sixteen hundred on a Sabbath, is quite enough to keep Dr. Moffett busy, and the continued growth of this church will necessarily demand more and more of the missionaries' attention. Much time was spent in pastoral oversight which through private admonition and exhortation has kept many from sin, and reclaimed others who had fallen.

During the year 141 persons were baptized in connection with this church, among them a number of children from ten to fifteen years of age from Christian households. Quite a number of aged persons were also received, two of whom were eighty-five years of age.

Dr. Moffett has held several monthly meetings for the training of church officers, thirteen in number, giving to each the kind of instruction required in his particular sphere. church supports an assistant pastor and a woman helper who works among the church members of her sex. It also pays one-half the salary of a second assistant pastor. It has contributed liberally to various funds, for example: 1,000 nyang to be used in helping those who may be in especial need as a result of the hard winter, another amount to a Committee of Home Missions, still another to the regular deacon fund, and the Woman's Missionary contribution for sending out teachers to instruct the women of the city and country. The church is hoping next year to support three assistant pastors. oversight of 1,100 communicants and catechumens would seem to require a large force.

Referring to the winter training class for men, it is significant that a number whose business engagements prevented them from attending, should have requested that a night session should be held for their particular benefit.

Referring to the outlying district work, Dr. Moffett reports in the Soon An Circuit, forty-five substations, with a membership of 604; catechumens, 903; baptisms during the year, 129; catechumens received, 301. Dr. Moffett made four trips through this section, holding classes, gathering the people for conference and the laying of plans. In some of the substations, severe persecution has been suffered, the Korean gold miners having confiscated the property of the poor farmers, stolen the mats from the church and made life wretched for all. Thirteen schools are reported in this district, organized and supported by the people. In one or two instances, great zeal and self-denying effort have been shown in providing accommodations for public worship.

In the Kang Tong Circuit, under the care of Dr. Moffett, assisted by Rev. Chas. F. Bernheisel, twenty stations are reported; membership, 103; catechumens, 283; baptisms during the year, 42; catechumens received, 142. This embraces a large district which until recently has received but little attention. Dr. Moffett made two trips in the Circuit, and has held one class for Bible study. Mr. Bernheisel made five trips, visiting a number of groups where a missionary had never been seen before. In one place, Mr. Bernheisel received a whole family of eleven persons consisting of an old man seventy-four years of age, four sons and their wives, a daughter and her husband. A son-in-law had brought back from Pyeng Yang two years ago some Christian books, the perusal of which had prepared the family to receive Christ and Christian baptism.

The Western Circuit, under the care of Rev. Wm. Baird, reports twelve Stations; membership, 204; catechumens, 469; baptized during the year, 32; catechumens received, This circuit has received frequent visits from Baird and Mr. Blair, notwithstanding the increasing care of the Intermediate Boys' School at Pyeng Yang, to which Mr. Baird's chief labor is given. Mr. Baird has had quarterly meetings with the leading Christian men of the district, giving two days of conference and Bible study. Two helpers are entirely supported by the people. Besides paying all running expenses of each group and maintaining three primary schools, they have contributed liberally to the Committee on Missions and to the Academy. Special mention is made in connection with this Circuit, and also those under Dr. Moffett's care of the efficient help of Miss Best and Miss Snook, and Miss Howell, now Mrs. Sharp, of the Seoul Station. In all these out-lying communities are easily gathered groups of women who love to hang upon the instructions of missionaries of their own sex.

Choong Wha Circuit, under the care of Mr. Swallen during Rev. Graham Lee's furlough. Out-stations, 22; membership, 192; catechumens, 431; baptized during the year, 76; catechumens received, 110. Two trips were made through this circuit by Mr. Swallen. In one group an almost constant spiritual revival was continued through the year. This group, numbering but half a dozen two years ago, has grown into a strong, vigorous body. On one occation twelve were baptized and twenty-two catechumens received. After the morning service, forty persons, starting in the rain, followed the missionary eight miles into Pyeng Yang City, to attend the communion service, an old lady seventy-three years of age leading the van on foot. group have already begun their small subscriptions to provide for the support of a woman to labor in the outlying portions of the circuit.

chumens, 460; baptized during the year, 102.

Mr. Hunt has made two trips in this circuit and his report speaks of the need of additional missionary force in order to give the proper oversight to these young and inexperienced groups. Severe persecution, with beating and in one case a sacrifice of life made sad havoc withthis group. Many of the new believers fell away and others were weakened in their faith. Some of these were recovered later, after having attended a Bible study class.

Whang Hai, Central Circuit, Rev. Mr. Hunt. Out-stations, 22; membership, 430; catechumens, 390; baptized during the year, 52; catechumens received, 83. Mr. Hunt has made four trips during the year, visiting most of the groups once, and has held regular semi-annual meetings for conference with the leaders. Mrs. Hunt held three classes for women during the year with an attendance of twenty. Mr. Hunt held a class, also, for five days.

An Ak Circuit, under Rev. Mr. Swallen. Outstations, membership, 467; catechumens, 226; baptized during the year, 60; catechumens received, 90. Over against the additions are reported considerable losses due to sifting or removals caused by the famine.

Mr. Swallen made three trips accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Blair. The inhabitants of one village in this group have nearly all become Christians, thirty out of thirty-three houses being represented by believers. Upon the death of a native Christian man, his four sons all professed their faith in spite of persecution from relatives. One worthy man was elected elder and is being instructed for the better performance of his duties. The process of voting for his appointment was impressive, and seemed to be attended with a due sense of the responsibility involved.

Ool Yul Circuit, under Mr. Swallen's care during Dr. Underwood's furlough. This circuit which is on the dividing line between Pyeng Yang and Seoul Station, has nine out-stations; a membership of 75; catechumens, 96; baptized during the year, 8; catechumens received, 47. Mr. Swallen made one tour. One native helper gave his entire time to the Christians of this section. The district was sorely visited with famine. Many were obliged to leave their homes.

At Ool Yul, the chief out-station, the congregation ranges from 150 to 200. People are ready to receive the Gospel and should have much more attention than has been given. Christians are endeavoring to provide one-half the salary for a helper. One class for Bible study was held. Reference is made to the work of the British and Foreign Bible Society, whose interpreters have been employed in these various circuits, distributing Scriptures and other books. A laudable home missionary spirit is springing up in many of the groups. These detailed reports of different districts are here given, though concisely, in order to show the wide range of effort put forth from the Pyeng Yang Station, and the uniformly encouraging results which follow. A careful perusal will give the reader a clear understanding of the peculiar nature and great hopefulness of missionary work in Korea.

Under the head of evangelistic work of the women, cheering reports are given of the work of Miss Best, especially in country classes held during the year. Some lonely spots, cut off by high mountain spurs, reacned by a trip of 165 miles by chair, have been visited by Miss Best, and the interest shown by poor, ignorant and hopeless women has brought its rich reward to these faithful labors. "All these things," says Miss Best, "serve to preclude monotony and to keep the work ever fresh and intensely interesting."

Miss Snook reports a happy year spent in Bible study classes and the beginnings of aggressive work. She attended with Miss Best one class which continued its work for six days. Miss Henry accompanied Miss Best on two trips and made one with Mr. and Mrs. Hunt.

The women of Pyeng Yang Station have had under their care between seven and eight hundred women and children who received weekly instruction. Mrs. Baird reports favorably of the Bible School for women held on Sabbath morning. The enrollment has increased from 200 to 300. The building is packed every Sunday. Two more classes have been added, making eight in all.

Mrs. Swallen gives encouraging reports of the Bible School held on Sabbath morning at the Marquis Chapel, which is also crowded. A great variety of work in regular classes and special classes, in women's meetings, and Sunday-school instruction, has been conducted by the missionary wives and unmarried women in the Pyeng Yang Station. All are missionaries in the full sense and with one common impulse of prayerful yearning for the needy thousands of their sex.

Five training classes were held at Pyeng Yang, three for men and two for women, with an aggregate attendance of over a thousand. Men, 450; women, 580. The winter class for men was "unquestionably the best that has yet been held at this place." Those present represented widely scattered districts. The teaching force was somewhat reduced by the absence of Mr. Lee and Mr. Whittemore, who have usually taken part. Four divisions were made of those in attendance. The third and fourth divisions were partly under the care of intelligent elders. Theology, Church History, New Testament exegesis, studies in prophecy, etc., were embraced in the course of study of the higher class, training the people to the habit of careful and systematic study of the Scriptures, instead of cursory and desultory habits of Scripture reading. "Certainly," says the report, "this class work cannot be too highly valued. It has served excellently to bridge over the time until a better prepared ministry can be made ready, but the very fact that these native leaders are so filled with the power of the Holy Ghost as to continue to teach these groups effectively and to so rapidly develop the ignorant members of the Church is a consideration which emphasizes the necessity for providing some more efficient systematic training of men for this important work." Of the 500 who attended this class, only about fifty received financial aid, and this very limited assistance was given only with a view to insure the attendance of those who otherwise could not attend. A summer class was also held for the benefit of representative men of Pyeng Yang and Syen Chun. Ninety were especially invited for the purpose. The exercises during this session were largely of the nature of a conference, and the development of clear conceptions of church organization and Christian work. Training classes were also held for women, one in the autumn, which was attended by 100 women from the country, and sixty from the city. This class was entirely self-supporting. A Spring Training Class for women was also held, and far surpassed anything ever attempted for the women, 193 coming from the country, some a distance of three days' journey and representing widely distant regions. "Here, too," says the report, "the pressure is becoming irresistible from city and country to provide something better in the way of a Christian education for the girls of the sta-What a splendid opportunity is here afforded for some Christian woman possessed of large means to establish in Pyeng Yang a school for the better training of Christian women who may in turn be educators of their sex."

A winter class for women was tried with gratifying success. Eighteen of the country women were invited for special instruction and conference, of whom sixteen, notwithstanding the inclement weather of February, responded. In addition to these central training classes 107 classes have been held throughout the various districts of the Pyeng Yang field. In some instances the missionaries have been able to attend these gatherings. In others, they have been conducted by native leaders. An aggregate attendance upon these classes is reported at 2,300. It is one aim of these classes, partly as object lessons, and partly by the spirit of instruction given, to reach the unconverted.

EDUCATIONAL.—First of all mention may be made of the primary schools which are, of course, entirely conducted and supported by the native Christians in the differ-These sometimes consist of a dozen or ent out-stations. more young lads huddled together in some hastily prepared accommodation, and are presided over by men who get only the glimpse of light afforded by the Summer Bible Schools. "Yet," says the report, "these little schools constitute the pulse of the whole educational body." If it beats strong, full and free, then let us push on with courage in the establishment of high schools, academies, colleges, etc. The whole number of these primary schools is forty, with a total attendance of 674 pupils. The five primary schools in and near Pyeng Yang are mentioned specially because they are directly superintended by missionaries. The Girls' School at Marquis Chapel under Mrs. Wells' care, shows an enrollment of forty-nine. Mrs. Blair and Miss Henry have rendered good assistance in teaching, singing and arithmetic. Miss Best reports a girls' school at Sa Chang Ko with an enrollment of forty-two, an increase of eighteen over last year. Two primary boys' schools in the city have reached an enrollment of seventy-six. A boys' school at the mission compound reports ninety.

Mrs. Wells has a class for women with an enrollment of forty-five. Assistance has been given to her by Mrs. Hunt. A class was held for ten days in July for the better qualification of primary school teachers. Forty-five were in attendance. This ten days of study are all the help that these native teachers have in preparation for their work. The following letter received from one of the Academy students after his return home for the summer, gives a fair idea of this work in the out-stations:

I and the believers in this place are all well by God's grace. Among many things to be thankful to God for is this fact especially, that the teacher here, though an old man, who might be supposed to have passed the age for learning easily, yet in the midst of many labors on behalf of his pupils, he has studied hard and mastered arithmetic as far as the subject of fractions. And whereas, during last summer's vacation, I taught the pupils here in arithmetic, yet now I can learn much from him. How can we but thank God for this help of His Spirit? When I saw what he had done I realized that however difficult the subject, yet if he but apply himself diligently in order to be helpful to others, he will receive help from God and there will be nothing that he cannot do.

THE ACADEMY.—This letter, written by one of its pupils while on his summer vacation, may well introduce this thrifty young institution which is sometimes spoken of as the Academy, and at other times, Intermediate Training School for Boys. It is under the principal care of Rev. W. M. Baird. This has been the first year of this institution in its new building. Fifty-seven pupils have been enrolled. As the standard has been raised the number of applicants has diminished, though the number known to be preparing themselves for entrance is increasingly numerous. Baird, who should have more regular assistance, makes grateful mention of the aid given by Mrs. Hunt. Dr. Wells, Miss Howell, Mrs. Blair, Mr. Swallen and Dr. Moffet gave each two hours a week to particular branches. Mr. Bernheisel also rendered some aid. The report speaks of the pernicious influence of a student who had spent some time in a Japanese School in Seoul where he had learned the usual criticisms and maledictions visited upon foreigners and missionaries. Among other things he created a sort of craze for visiting America. Much restlessness and distraction were the result. After two of the boys who had been most embittered had left, peace and quiet were measureably restored. March 16 was set apart as a day for special prayer for the Academy, all over the various districts. Fifty-nine groups responded, and sent gifts for the Academy amounting to 70 yen. From native sources about 300 yen have been contributed toward the self-supporting department of the school.

MEDICAL.—This work at the Pyeng Yang Station has continued under the care of Dr. J. Hunter Wells. The number of new patients reported is 4,487; in-patients, 217; total attendance at the hospital, 9,094; total expense, 1,704 yen; total receipts, 971. Total receipts from the Board, 772. The Station report says:

Dr. Wells has conducted his department with much skill and energy. The demands upon his efforts during the year have been many and trying. He was called to the American mines at the death of Mr. Leck, travelling all night in the worst of weather. Another hasty trip to Syen Chun enabled him to render timely service to Dr. Sharrocks; several times he was called to the British mines for a similar work of mercy. Always ready and willing to go even when he himself was not well. Some of the experiences in the work which have often called him away from Pyeng Yang are best described in the Doctor's own words when he speaks of "journeys made in mid-winter in an open chair, through heavy drifting snow and sleet and storm which would have been accounted impossible except for a doctor in an emergency. Two days and a night of continuous travel pushing as fast as human endurance—flesh and blood—could stand in a temperature of twenty-seven degrees below zero."

Dr. Wells has performed 174 important surgical operations, twenty-four of which were under chloroform. His first assistant performed 209 operations, and has rendered much valuable aid in visits to homes in the city and country. The Doctor has made it a constant aim to emphasize the evangelistic work in connection with the hospital, calling in the day on the church hospital committee and on Christian assistants and students, also a Bible woman and evangelistic helper. "The daily picture," says Dr. Wells, "is that of scores of the maimed, the halt and the blind, the sorrowful, sick and suffering, and this Christian institution is here to help to heal, to alleviate, and with it all, and chiefly emphasized, point to Christ and to teach Him." The report shows that progress is being made in leading the Koreans to contribute, to at least pay for their medicines, and so help to sustain and extend the work. Dr. Wells has kept up a medical class, when at home at his Station.

LITERARY WORK.—Mr. Baird made progress in translating text-books and the "Confession of Faith." His translation of "Gray's Botany for the Young" has been completed. Mr. Swallen has prepared a "Compend of Church History" and a Commentary of First Corinthians. Miss Best has translated portions of "Hurlbut's Biblical Geography," and Mr. Hunt reports a revision of his "Outlines of the Harmony of the Gospels."

In the line of buildings, a house has been completed for Mr. Blair and the Academy and dormitories begun last year have been completed.

Progress has been made during the year along two important lines.

First—Self-support. The policy of the Korea Mission remains as from the first, that of self-support as the goal to be reached in all forms of Christian work.

Progress has also been made in the line of ecclesiastical organization. The city church in Pyeng Yang is fully organized with a session consisting of Dr. Moffett and Mr. Lee as co-pastors, three ordained elders and five deacons. The pastors, elders and deacons form a Board of officers which meets semi-monthly to plan for the work of the church. In this work of ecclesiastical organization the Korea Mission is acting in concert with the General Council, embracing all the different Presbyterian Missions in Korea.

The summary of the work of the Pyeng Yang Station gives the following:

Baptized adults, 3,100; catechumens enrolled, 3,737; total number of adherents, 12,000; the whole number baptized during the year, 642; number of catechumens received, 1,363. The Pyeng Yang Church has a membership of 1,153, and a congregation of from 1,200 to 1,600 on the Sabbath. There are in the district, 184 out-stations with 5,684 members and catechumens, 40 primary schools, one Academy and 42 teachers. Thirteen schools were organized during the year. Over 9,000 persons were in attendance at the hospital. There are now 136 chapels, twenty-one of which have been built during the year. Total native contributions for all purposes amounted to $2,930 U. S. gold. Unordained native preachers, 21; Bible women, 7; colporters, 15.

TAIKU STATION.

The Taiku Station, since the removal of Mr. and Mrs. Adams from the Korean house which they had occupied within the city walls, to the residence completed for their use in the new Mission compound upon the hillside adjacent, have used the old quarters for church services, the native Christians fitting them up with suitable changes at their own expense. Since the occupation of this place for worship, a marked interest has been developed as shown by increased attendance and a new interest in the truth. A week of special meetings was held just before the beginning of the Korean New Year, and not only was much interest shown in the local community, but a home missionary movement was started for the extension of the Gospel in the regions beyond. No large additions have been made to church membership, but there has been a great increase in the number of adherents who profess to be believers, and or catechumens.

An effort has been made for the establishment of a church school, of which the report speaks as follows:

The cost of fitting up the building was the thing that was particularly beyond them until the only well-to-do member, in good Western style, offered to pay half if we would pay the other half, to which we acceded.

The work among the boys developed by Mr. Bruen, with the aid of Mr. Barrett, has been most fruitful and is giving large promise. One of the boys has been baptized, and three others received into the catechumenate. They are among our most intelligent Christians, and have given evidence under severe persecution of the sincerity and tenacity of their faith. On the day on which one was received as a catechumen, his mother appeared at the church, seized him by the hair, and dragged him home, where he was severely beaten. His father burned up the Bible he had earned at Sunday-school, and on Sundays he is frequently imprisoned at home, and not allowed out of the house all day. Still his testimony is, "As the Scriptures say, I must take up my cross and follow my Saviour," and he is industriously preaching to his parents. These boys besides their own Sunday-school, have their own Friday night prayer-meeting, attended by from fifteen to twenty-five boys, and managed and conducted by themselves.

This prayer meeting at a later stage became a Christian Endeavor Society, and has awakened much interest and developed a good degree of Christian character in the boys.

One of the chief elements at Taiku has been the work for women. Even in the enlarged quarters referred to above, it was sometimes impossible to accommodate all who came, and the court was often filled with those who vainly sought admission. An efficient Bible woman having been secured from Fusan, new interest was given to the work. The laying aside of Mrs. Adams by severe illness, diminished the attendance somewhat, but still the work has prospered in good degree through the year. The illness of Mrs. Adams who was obliged to find a temporary respite at Yokohama, has interfered necessarily not only with her own work, but with that of her husband, and we regret to see that since the receipt of the Station report, Mr. and Mrs. Adams have been obliged to return to this country on account of her continued illness. This is a matter of much regret as the hope had been indulged that Mr. Adams who hitherto has been greatly interrupted by sickness or by the erection of missionary buildings, would be ready for full and effective service in evangelistic work. Mrs. Adams' report of her work among the women up to the time of her illness is a model of fidelity and effectiveness.

An interesting work is carried on by Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Bruen, who meet every week with a number of girls whom they are endeavoring to teach in Bible truth, and also in such practical things as sewing, etc. A friend in America has kindly contributed one hundred dollars gold for the purpose of erecting a small rest house for women which it is proposed to place near the Mission house for the benefit of women from the country who come to the city.

Of the work of itineration, the report says:

All the country groups have been visited about twice by the missionaries, and some of them a larger number of times, besides a number of times by the helpers. One old group has been disbanded and one new one organized. In Mr. Adams' trips among them he has usually spent at least the larger part of two days in systematic Bible instruction. While they have not increased in number, however, they have very markedly grown in grace and in the number of believers.

There are eight groups in all. In one there are over twenty believers, having a small church building of their own. In these various groups there are many evidences of a growing interest. This field is yet new comparatively and large tabulated results cannot be given, but there is a spirit of inquiry, and a general process of purification observed in the motives which lead people to seek instruction. Their first impressions that they were to be benefitted in their secular interest and protected from the local government, have been corrected and they are now seekers of the truth for its own sake. Messrs. Adams, Bruen and Barrett are greatly encouraged and are hoping for abundant fruits in the near future. One notable instance in which the truth finally triumphed over bitter persecution, is that of a profligate son who had not only reduced his father's family to penury, but had turned both his parents out of the house. He also dragged his wife about the streets by the hair of her head in order to make her give up her Christian hope. All in vain, however. The aged father persevered in his prayer and effort to reclaim this son, going about among the different groups, enlisting them to pray for his conversion. At last the joyful tidings came that the profligate had abandoned his wicked course, and had become a preacher of that righteousness which he had despised.

MEDICAL:-

The medical report of this year is fuller than that of last year. Dr. Johnson is still occupying the same crowded and ill-suited buildings in their unsanitary location inside the city wall, yet the work as a whole has been very encouraging. The dispensary was opened shortly after Dr. Johnson's return from health furlough in last November, and in the eight and a half months since, 2000 cases have been treated. Twenty-five operations have been performed under anæsthetics, and a large number of minor operations without them. Sixty visits have been made to the homes of the sick.

The receipts from the sale of drugs and fees from the Koreans have amounted to yen 133.83. For the eight months it covers, this amounts to eighty per cent. of the appropriation granted by the Board.

The Gospel has been steadily preached to the patients who come for hospital treatment, and the missionary character of the entire work has been kept steadily in view. The report says:

This policy is already bearing its fruits, and probably more outcountry conversions during the year can be attributed to this source than to any one other local agency. It is our best evangelistic agency in the city, and is working potently in interesting men and diffusing a knowledge of the Gospel.

A good beginning has been made in training church officers and helpers, though this branch of the work like others, is still in its infancy. Complaint is made as in other parts of Korea of the great obstacles thrown in the way of our mission work by the Roman Catholics whose half religious and half secular policy is skillfully used as an appeal to a low class of motives and the effect is demoralizing on all hands.

SYEN CHUN STATION.

The new Station of Syen Chun has been reinforced during the year by the assignment of Mr. and Mrs. Ross to take the place of the lamented Mr. Leck who died during the previous year, and Mrs. Leck who after his death returned home and resigned her connection with the Board. Rev. Carl E. Kearns and Mrs. Kearns were also added to the Station.

Evangelistic work has been chiefly carried on by Mr. Whittemore, the pioneer in this northernmost Station. Since the Mission report closed, Mr. Ross has made a vigorous beginning in itineration.

EVANGELISTIC.—There are in the Central Circuit only five groups, all small except Syen Chun, one of the groups being situated on an island off the coast, and composed of a fishing population. Unfortunately it has never been visited by a missionary but has depended upon such light as was communicated by natives. Connected with this central work there are 130 church members and 129 catechumens. The first meetings at Syen Chun were held in June, 1897. In the summer of 1898 a large Korean building was bought and fitted up for church purposes. This has several times been changed to meet the growing needs of the congregation. It imperfectly accommodates 450 people. On extra occasions it is wholly inadequate. This building has been fitted up and furnished by the people.

In addition to the church building, there is a large building for women's work, given several years ago by a wealthy woman of the congregation. In this building, Miss Chase holds meetings, and has a growing girls' school.

The congregation now consists of 96 members and 104 catechumens. These with other believers not yet enrolled as catechumens make a congregation of nearly 400. During the past year seventeen adults were baptized and fifty-three catechumens were received.

In addition to paying eighteen nyang a month (about $1.26 U. S. gold) toward the helper's salary, a small monthly salary to the keeper, giving more than half of the expenses of the boys' school and nearly half for the girls', and paying all the running expenses of the church, the congregation has also given very liberally to the famine fund and for the work of the Missionary Committee.

At the time of the Winter Bible Study Class when over four hundred men and boys were gathered from all over the province, Nyang Tyun Paik was ordained as the first elder in the province. Soon after the ordination, a session was constituted of the missionary pastor and the Korean elder. The two leaders of the church, one of whom will probably soon be nominated for the eldership, also sit with the session.

In addition to these officers there are four very competent deacons (unordained) who attend to the temporal affairs of the church.

Besides these there have been two committees that have attended to the affairs of the schools.

There is also an Evangelistic or Lookout Committee of twelve members, each of whom has a section of the congregation to look after, and the Committee arranges for delegations to visit villages in the country for single services or longer periods, as opportunity offers.

The Church Board also selected a Dispensary Visiting Committee, which has done very effective work in visiting and preaching at the Dispensary in the afternoons when the patients were waiting for treat-

The Sunday-school work has been pursued vigorously. The whole number of pupils, including men, women and children, have been divided into nine graded classes, each studying a section of the Gospels or the Epistles. same plan has been carried out as far as possible in country groups. Plans are being laid for a normal training school for Sunday-school teachers. The leading helper in this field whose ordination is mentioned above, expects hereafter to devote one-half of his time to study and preparation for the ministry, to be supported by his Korean brethren, one-half being given by one well-to-do native Christian. It may be observed in passing that the steps thus taken at Syen Chun as well as at Pyeng Yang, for the formation of sessions and the ordination of native elders and deacons, are indicative of a resolute purpose of the Korea Mission to organize the native churches as fast as the capacity and circumstances of leading helpers will permit.

The Eastern Circuit, so called, was first taken under the charge of the lamented George W. Leck, but since his death has been but imperfectly cultivated, the main reliance having been upon a native preacher. Still this circuit now numbers seven groups, of which one numbers over a hundred believers, and two others nearly eighty believers.

The Nyong Tyul Circuit embraces two counties with seven recognized groups, twenty yet unorganized meeting places, and with a total of 145 communicants and 269 catechumens. Two other circuits are mentioned in the reports, though the work is inchoate for lack of missionary supervision. Yet the people show earnestness and a desire for missionary work, and a readiness to contribute of their means.

Eui Ju, West Circuit, may be said to be the oldest section of the North Korea field. It is the place where some of the earliest visits of our missionaries outside of Seoul were made. This section now reports six northern groups, one of which pays the expense of a native helper, while five others unite in supporting one. Mr. Whittemore speaks with high appreciation of the assistance rendered in this circuit by Mr. Bernheisel who is making an earnest beginning in missionary work, and whose interesting typewritten missionary letters are read by his many supporters.

The Eastern Circuit embraces the populations who live among the hills that skirt the valley of the Yalu River. Alluding to these people the report says:

The people of Eui Ju county are by far the most progressive of any in the province. Their greater energy, although poorer discretion, is shown in the fact that more go to America from that section than from any other section of which I know. Their average intelligence is high, and their wealth is much above that of any section with which I am conversant, with the possible exception of the Capital. All these things show a need of constant and careful oversight, and one missionary could profitably devote his time to these groups who number 286 church members, 624 catechumens.

The Northern Circuit embraces a vigorous but ignorant population living in the valley of the Northern Yalu and in the hills adjacent. Little could be expected of them as they had been visited but once during the year, and yet there are many signs of promise. Their native helper is one of the best in the employment of the Station. In the six small groups there are twenty-nine communicants and sixty catechumens.

A Circuit is mentioned lying still further north in which there are six groups, though the region has been visited by a missionary but once. This was the ill-fated visit of the lamented Mr. Leck, who with great hardship and exposure risked his life in the severe winter storms of 1901. As this work extends to the borders of Manchuria, and some of the believers are beyond the line, correspondence is being had with the Scotch Presbyterian Mission of Manchuria with reference to the transfer of Koreans in that country to the missionary care of the Syen Chun Station. It speaks well for this northern circuit that they are already cultivating a home missionary spirit, and are supporting two native preachers for proclaiming the Gospel to the regions beyond, their work extending to the Koreans in Manchuria.

By the joint support of the Syen Chun Station and the British and Foreign Bible Society, native colporteurs have carried on a vigorous work in the sale of Scriptures and religious books throughout this region. Three Bible study classes have been held by this Station at three different points—Sak Ju, Eui Ju and Syen Chun.

The first two were largely attended and were of a deeply interesting character. This feature has for the past three or four years been very prominent in the Syen Chun field and very effective. Besides this, various minor classes have been conducted by the native helpers in different groups. In addition to Bible study classes, the native helpers assemble every two months for a short season of training for their work, and it is contemplated to institute still other classes for the training of church officers to be held once in four months.

SCHOOLS.—The Station reports seventeen primary schools, all supported by the people but one, and only a trifle given to that one. The old heathen books have almost entirely given place to those prepared by the Mission. The day-school in Syen Chun has presented some interesting features, particularly in the development of a laudable ambition among the boys. They are largely self-supported by their work, sometimes being employed in handling material for the mission buildings, at other times gathering wood upon the mountains, at still others in rendering various services to Christian families for which a small compensation is given. It is interesting to notice the energy and enterprise shown by these lads of Northern Korea.

Ten boys from the Province were admitted to the Academy at Pyeng Yang, seven of whom persevered to the end of the year. These seven all nearly or quite supported themselves by working in the afternoon. Mention is made of classes or gatherings at Syen Chun for the benefit of parents in which free discussion was given concerning the management of children, the instruction of children and the management of the home. There is scarcely any department or feature of Christian activity and usefulness which is not being developed by the ever active, Christian common sense of these Korean missionaries. An interesting report has been received from Miss Chase giving details of the busy year of service and enthusiastic personal interest in itinerating visits and attendance upon Bible study classes. Her work both at Pyeng Yang and Syen Chun, which is her Station, is highly commended by her associate missionaries.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Sharrocks was unfortunately confined to his bed by typhoid fever during the early part of the year, but although begun with diminished strength, the work of the last seven months was full of interesting features and results. Having no hospital, Dr. Sharrocks was compelled to use the same room for waiting room during the day and for wards during the night, and in this room sixty different in-patients were accommodated. The self-supporting element introduced into other features of mission work in Korea, was well developed in this instance, sixty-six per cent. of the expense of medicines having been paid by the patients. Great attention has been paid to evangelistic effort in connection with the hospital service. It appears that the Syen Chun Church has appointed a committee whose members by turns shall preach to the patients while waiting their turn for medical aid. This work is very faithfully done. Dr. Sharrocks says in his report:

On one occasion, hearing raised voices coming in from the waiting room which sounded much like a Korean quarrel, I asked the assistant what it meant. He replied: "There's a deaf patient out there and the preacher is not going to let him off on any such excuse as that."

Dr. Sharrocks' report closes with the following in reference to available accommodations for his work:

We need a hospital building. Two years ago the Board granted 750 yen for temporary quarters, for it was impossible to build at that time. Of this appropriation less than 200 yen were used and can easily be realized when the place is sold. We wish to ask for 3000 yen to add to this, with which we may erect suitable quarters for our medical plant.

The statistics of the Station are as follows: Organized groups, 44; church members, 677; catechu-

The New Mexican Presbyterian Church established as an independent Synod, has carried forward its work prosperously. The work of the Mexican Home Mission Boards has been effectively maintained.

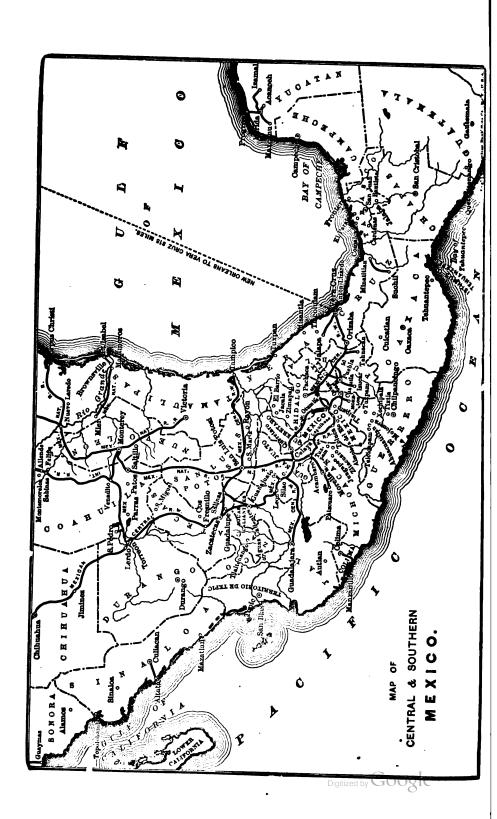

The Board supported by the Presbytery of the City of Mexico, reports three paid workers the past year, fifteen congregations, not including a number of places visited only occasionally. There are 270 members, of whom seventeen were received last year, $375 were raised on the field, most of it for the new church building in Zacualpan.

How steady the gain has been in self-support is indicated by the following extract from the Report of the Committee on Self-Support, presented at the last meeting of the Mission.

At least seventy-five of our churches are contributing toward their own self-support, and their monthly contributions range from a few cents to over $100. Two churches, Torreon and Mexico City, are entirely self-supporting, and that of Merida almost so. The Merida church last year gave $3,289, the largest amount of any one of our churches in the Republic, and it would be doubtless safe to say, the largest amount of any one church of any denomination in the Republic.

The majority of the congregations have a church treasurer, who receives the subscriptions and collections and makes all payments. Various methods are used for collecting the money. In Merida an offering service is held once a month, the roll called, and each contributor hands to the church treasurer his pledged amount. In San Luis Potosi and in Zacatecas there are collectors, each having a list of persons from whom he gets the money during the month, and at the monthly offering service, the money is handed in to the treasurer. In a certain congregation in the State of Hidalgo only one man seems to believe in self-support, and each month makes his contribution direct to the pastor. It should be borne in mind that for several years the Mission has given nothing for incidental expenses, and very little for church build-ing or for repairs, so that the energies of the people have been turned in those directions of necessity, and the fact that each year several churches or chapels are being dedicated should be taken as a sign of a healthy sentiment among the same, even though their contributions for pastors have been almost nothing.

All the work of the Mexican Home Mission Board, some thirteen congregations, is supported by the gifts of the native churches, and it is interesting to note that eleven of these same congregations contributed something last year to the same fund.

The Presbytery of Zacatecas made an increase of about $2,000 in its total collected over the year before, making a total of $6,655.65. Of this, $1,815 went to the pastor's salary or support of evangelists, $2,000 went to Church Building funds, and about $700 to support of dayschools. These sums are to be divided up among twenty-five congregations, the other fifteen being so small that their reports were not handed in.

MEXICO CITY AND STATE.

Mr. Brown has looked after the work in the Toluca district, where there has been some little difficulty in adjusting the work with other denominations which are pressing into the field. Of the Ozumba district, cared for by Mr. Vergara under Mr. Brown's supervision, Mr. Brown writes:

He calls attention in his report to the activity of Mormon emissaries, and to the absurd story circulated by enemies of Protestant work to the effect that just as Mexico has been obliged to pay the California award, our churches in Mexico will some day, on demand of the United States, have to pay back all that the Missions have expended on them. This would frighten those whom President Roosevelt would probably style "the timid ignorant." At present one of the seminary students, Mr. Placido Lope, is spending his vacation and emptying his sermonic barrel on the good Indians of Ecatcingo. Their brethren of Tepecoculco showed a caution worthy of a canny Scot, for, when Sr. Lope introduced himself as their new pastor pro tem., they asked to see his credentials. Past experience had made them wary of stray preachers, who in many cases had turned out to be wolves in shepherd garb. Poor Placindo had no written credentials, so he had to cover the weary leagues to Ozumba on shank's mare, and get a voucher from Mr. Vergara. He reports well attended services and interest in the work. Iu several of these points the elders hold their own services when no preacher is with them.

Mr. Morales and his church have continued their most effective work in Mexico City, while Mr. Morales' godly and earnest influence is felt throughout the whole Synod.

MISSION PRESS.—A large and well-located piece of land has been acquired to which the Press has been removed, so that now, at last, after seventeen years of wandering, it has its own home. Through the generosity of Mrs. Mary M. Lanier, of New York, the new buildings have been completed.

In spite of all the confusion incident to moving the press and to building, we continued during the year our usual work, and rrinted 52,175 pages of secular character, and 3,439,600 pages of religious matter, a total of 3,492,775, or since 1885, as far as record has been kept, 72,170,602 pages.

AMERICAN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—It seemed wise in view of various circumstances, to establish a Union Presbyterian Church for English-speaking people, the Southern Presbyterians living in Mexico City uniting with the Presbyterians from the North in establishing this new church. The Rev. George W. Chalfant, D.D., of Pittsburgh, has gone to Mexico City for a year to take charge of it.

POLICY.—In his report to the Mission Meeting Mr. Brown summarizes the policy that has been governing the recent course of the Mission, and which is issuing in substantial and favorable results.

Our aim-to build up an independent, self-governing, self-propagating, self-supporting Presbyterian Church in Mexico.

 Self-government. We have sessions in many of our churches, four Presbyteries are organized under the General Synod of the Presbyterian Church in Mexico. Ecclesiastically our Mexican Church is independent, and is organized according to the Presbyterian system. Self-government is a fact, not a theory. Elders, such as Mr. Del Valle, Mr. Villanueva, and others whom you all can name, show what can be done through the session and under the stimulus of the study of apostolic methods and example. I know from my experience on the Mexican Home Mission Board, the care with which the Mexican members have handled the funds of that Board. If I am not mistaken, a beginning has already been made in that direction in the Presbytery of Zacatecas, and the plan has been discussed with some members of the Presbytery of the City of Mexico.

Self-propagation. The Presbytery of the City of Mexico has its own Home Mission Board, supported also by the Presbytery of the Gulf. The Synod has its Home Mission Board. The work that is being done has already been described in this report. Some of our churches work in the region round about them, as in Merida, Mexico City, etc. A beginning has been made in self-propagation, and in time the Synod's Board may do for Mexico what the Home Mission Board is doing in the United States. The beginning is small, but the plan permits of indefinite expansion in the right direction.

3. Self-support. I have put this last, because, humanly speaking, it is the crucial test of the love and spiritual life of our church. Our plan is well known in its general outline. In some places it has helped toward a notable degree of self-support, in others only insignificant results have been secured, in others, none that are apparent. This one thing, however, it has done for the whole work; it has made the Mexican Church realize that it is its duty to support itself. This is seen. After all, it is not so much a plan which is a piece of machinery that will secure the results, as it is consecrated men, native and foreign. Our work is chiefly to inspire, with God's help, our Mexican workers to do for themselves what we cannot do for them. Men like Mr. Herrera, Mr. Morales, and others who have faced the problem, put pride in their pockets, and for love of God and men and Mexico, have toiled to make their work self-supporting, are a thousand fold more valuable than paper plans. Our plan is good enough; what is needed is souls on fire for souls; then men will give to support those who break unto others the Bread of Life, and not till then.

We can say to the Board, your Mexico Mission has a plan and a policy. Many of its elements are in actual operation. We see our failures and the defects in the work as it now stands; we shall try to remedy them. Our aim is to develop a Mexican Presbyterian Church, sound in faith, consecrated to Christ, self-governing, self-propagating, self-supporting, a Spirit-used agency for the conversion of souls and the moral regeneration of Mexico.

GIRLS' NORMAL SCHOOL.—Miss Browning was absent from the school on furlough for half of the year, but the work was continued in full measure by Miss McDermid. The total number of boarders was thirty-three. Two of the girls joined the Church during the year.

FEDERAL DISTRICT.

Mr. Millar and the theological students have carried on the work in the District from the Seminary at Coyoacan. In the Seminary there have been twenty-three students. The chief branch of study has been the Spanish Bible. Substantial help has been given by the Southern Presbyterian churches in Texas, in return for the education of young men sent from Texas to the Seminary for Spanish theological training. Mr. Millar writes:

The Board of Foreign Missions in New York has spent only $107 Mexican money, the equivalent of about $42, American money, for each student for his year's study in the Seminary. And it ought to be noted further, that these same students without any monetary remuneration whatever, have performed all the janitor's work, have made the common benches and tables necessary for furnishing the school room and their new dormitories; and, moreover, they have during the school year, preached in eight different places round about Coyoacan, reaching every Sunday over one hundred persons in these small congregations, performing, though without any pay or salary, a work that would employ the time of two ministers and keep them busy.

The seven most advanced students of the course will be engaged in the mission work this year, 1903, the Mission feeling that it is well to make their training as distinctly practical as possible. Mr. Millar writes:

The objection is sometimes made that we have more ministers than we can pay. In the nine years that I have been in Mexico I have not known of a single worthy minister who has been left idle from lack of funds. Moreover, during 1902 we have had various requests for men that we have not been able to answer, not for lack of funds, but for lack of men.

A Memorial Chapel given by Miss Clara McMurtrie of Huntingdon, Penna., is under construction, and one dormitory has been already built, while considerable, though as yet insufficient, funds from special gifts, are in hand for further buildings.

In addition to the work in the Federal District, Mr. Millar has general supervision of Yucatan and Campeche. The Merida church has been especially prosperous under Mr. Herrera, under whom also work has been opened in Ticul, where a house has been rented for services and furnished, and the rent and furnishing has been paid for by the people of Ticul and Merida. At Campeche the hall used for the services is generally full, and many times crowds stand in the streets by the door and windows to listen.

JALAPA.

From Jalapa Mr. Boyce supervises the work in Vera Cruz and in the intervening regions, and also in the State of Tobasco, of which he writes:

It is a hard field for itinerating work. Roads, a good part of the year are impassable; and the only means of travel is either by river steamer or by dugout canoe. But I do not think there is more promising territory for evangelical work in all Mexico than the littoral of Northern Tobasco. We encounter practically no opposition on the part of the Roman Catholic Church. In fact the Romish Church has a very precarious hold on this whole region. The people are liberal, but not "religious over much." The work to be done is hard. More than one-fifth of my time having been spent in Tobasco since I was appointed to the Jalapa Station, has given me an intimate personal knowledge of the conditions existing in the State; and of the hardships to be endured by the native ministers who undertake to do the work. A man inured to ranche life in Tobasco, accustomed to torrential rains, to tropical heat, to mud and thorns and mosquitoes and general discomfort, is the only man for the field.

In San Juan Bautista our work is now in better condition than at any time since I have known it.

Santana, although it has had no pastor, and only one visit each year by Mr. Granados and one by the missionary, has more than held its own. They have built their chapel, a building better by far than any in the ribera, entirely at their own expense.

The greatest difficulty, or better said perhaps, the most puzzling problem presenting itself in this field, and in fact in all Tabasco, is the discordant state of the marital relation. It is not pleasant for either native minister or missionary to be obliged to ask almost every other candidate for baptism whether or not he is married, even after he has introduced you to his wife. Experience has shown, however, that it is best to be frank and open in this matter. In Santana, for instance, an old couple who had a number of grandchildren, were received into the church, when it was organized. Later it was found on investigation that their relation had not been legalized by priest; although there was no obstacle to their marriage. In Tortuguos there are four or five families in which the parents have never been married, and who desire to be received into the church. There are, however, circumstances which make it impossible for them to have their relations legalized, yet in two of these cases, I am convinced the parties are converted. They had contracted these relations before conversion. Can we receive them into the church in their present relations?

Of the State of Vera Cruz Mr. Boyce says, "Out work has been prosperous during the year." And of Mr. Coffin's work in Vera Cruz:

His sickness, however, seemed to unite in large part our people. Mr. Coffin was, and is for that matter, very popular with the Vera Cruz church, and they forgot their dissensions and gathered together to pray for his life. He was spared, and the congregation asked that he remain with them.

SAN LUIS POTOSI.

A large and empty field, intensely Catholic, has been transferred to this Station by the Methodist Episcopal Mission, with one small congregation, and great and crying needs, located in the State of Guanajuato.

In the statistical report, twenty-one out-stations are recorded, though only nineteen have been visited, one on account of positive prohibition.

At Moctezuma there are only seven members, but they meet regularly by themselves, and are doing something to bring in outsiders.

Of the Hidalgo field, Mr. Wiliams says:

So far on these visits I have not discovered any sign of life from the seed scattered by the roadside. I have a few acquaintances where I stop at night, and I have left some Testaments and portions of Scripture for them. I presume that there are hundreds of people in this region who have never conceived of any other religion as possible except their own.

Of Jacala he reports discouragingly:

I held one service in the place during the year. At that time every one was getting ready for a big fiesta, and but few came. I decided that I would not hold another service in the place till I was asked by them to do so. There are forty members in the list, all but one of them women, and not one of them an active Christian worker. After several years of trying to interest them in the affairs of the church, and getting them to contribute something for the work in general, I have given up in despair.

GUERRERO.

The Guerrero field was visited by a severe earthquake during the year, which destroyed a good part of the property in Chilpancingo, and resulted in many infelicities. Fortunately the missionaries were absent at the time. The resignation of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, on account of Mr. Johnson's constant attacks of malaria, and Mr. Semple's removal to Mexico City, left the field largely unworked save by the native workers during the year.

ZITACUARO.

Mr. Vanderbilt writes:

There are at present five fully organized churches. It is very difficult to make much advance in the Zitacuaro church for it is continually split up into factions. There are three permanent divisions among the Protestants of the city,—the Solacheites, the independents, and the active members. The first sect is the smallest in number. They are the followers of one Feliz Solache, who seems partly demented. He teaches a mixture of asceticism and Judaism, denying the authority of our teaching. The second sect is made up partly of the followers of James Pascol, an independent English missionary, who in his later years, by bitter opposition to all organized mission effort, nearly undid all the good he had previously done, and partly of the element of discontent which seems to be invariably connected with every active religious effort. The last section is made up of those who have been more or less faithful to the church since their first connection with it. Could all of these be united there would be at least an average attendance of 125, instead of forty-five to fifty, as now.

We are unable to say much regarding the church at Agostadero, aside from the fact that it seems to be in a prosperous condition. This is due to the inherent worth of the families who compose the congregation rather than to visits of any minister, for it has been greatly neglected. When it was visited by the missionary in November, some members were received, and several children baptized. The head of the congregation, Don Dario Tello, is a veritable "Father in Israel." His sons have all been brought up in the fear of the Lord, and bid fair to become as sturdy supporters of the Cause as the father. The old gentleman has pledged himself to the extent of $10 per month for the support of a day-school during the coming year.

We are gratified to report regarding Aporo, that whereas a year ago our brethren were fugitives because of the fanatical fury of their Roman Catholic neighbors, now peace reigns. Mr. Garcia was reinstated in his house in February by the same authorities who had before refused him protection. Services have been held monthly since then without interruption. Animosity on the part of the people of Aporo is disappearing. First they stoned us, then they spit upon us, then they turned their backs, then they gazed with a mute stare; but now they speak, saluting us as we pass. There have even been two or three who have dared to enter the services. Indirectly the Catholic priest has helped us. He proved to be other than a true representative of Christ upon earth. In the month of July, he stole several hundreds of dollars of the Church Building fund, possibly for traveling expenses, and eloped with two young girls of the place.

There are eight Christian Endeavor Societies in this field, and six schools, two of which have been self-supporting.

Of some encouragements and discouragements both, Mr. Vanderbilt reports:

At last my thoughts took the form of a plan of associating the workers in such a way that each might feel an interest in all the work, instead of only in his particular field. With this in view they were called together on the eighth of August, and after speaking to them about the sacred calling of the ministry, its details, responsibilities and privileges, the plan was unfolded. It was received with enthuriasm, and an association was formed, with myself as president, Mr. Castille as secretary, and Mr. Reyna as treasurer. The regular meetings were to be held quarterly. Three propositions were approved, which have been put in practice on the field:

(1) To organize every congregation in the District either fully or in part.

(2) To establish the custom of collections in every regular meeting in all of the congregations.

(3) To hold local conventions.

Two questions were carried over to be considered at the second regular meeting, viz. (1) how to realize the ideal of self-support; and (2) a workable plan whereby every local congregation might carry on evangelistic work. Unfortunately there has been no second regular meeting. At a called meeting to consider a delicate question, the spirits of some were so thoroughly ruffled that it has not seemed wise to come together again.

We are pleased to be able to report that on the afternoon of the 16th of September, the Protestants of Zitacuaro, as last year, held a public patriotic exercise in the "Portales de la Constitucion" fronting on the public park. They were well attended by all classes of society. Among those of the upper set there were about three times as many as last year. The Prefect presided, and the Mayor of the city councilmen were present. The following conversation was overheard between the Prefect and the Judge. First the Judge spoke: "Aparentemente los protestantes tiene la verdad." To which the Prefect replied: "Si, Senor, lo creo." Then the conversation went on, "Y Ud cree tambien?" "Si, Senor, los hechos me han convencido." ("Apparently Protestants have the truth." "Yes, I think so." "And you are also a believer?" "Yes, Sir, their deeds have convinced me.") This conversation is very remarkable, in view of the fact that the Prefect was a staunch Catholic when he came to this District.

ZACATECAS AND TLALTENANGO.

Mr. Petran, residing in Zacatecas, has cared for Zacatecas City and the southern end of the field. There was trouble in the Zacatecas church during the year, because of the double-dealing of a so-called Independent minister, who preached to the congregation for a time until the difficulties that arose compelled his departure. The business depression of Zacatecas has tended to affect unfavorably the work. At Villa de Cos, one of the largest points of work in Mexico, nine persons were received on profession of faith. Because of the unwise policy of the helper formerly at Fresnillo some special work had to be done there, which resulted favorably:

He had nursed this congregation so diligently that they let his wife scrub out the church, and himself pay for the greater part of the oil for the lamps. They gave nothing for self-support. Mrs. Campbell went there over a year ago, organized committees and set the people to work. Since then, they have been scrubbing the church, paying expenses, and for self-support, giving the minister from $3.50 to $4 a month. Awhile ago, they gave $30 for gasoline lamps, which were ordered.

At Colotlan there is an active Christian tanner, who several months ago started giving his employes an extra hour at noon; and in the hour teaching them to read, using the Bible as a text book.

Dr. Wallace has had as before supervision of the Northern Zacatecas and Laguna fields. As last year, the most flourishing church is the church of Torreon of which Dr. Wallace writes:

The population of this growing and enterprising town is now reported to be over 19,000. It is quite a railroad centre, eleven passenger trains arrive and leave every day. The church, as is fitting, may I suppose be called the "Banner Church" of the Northern Mexican Mission. It has received no aid from the Board for over two years. Its total contributions reported for last year reached $1,239.00. I am not aware of any other church that has called a pastor, and when he was installed, were paying his full salary and all other church expenses. paying expenses also of pastor and elder to Presbytery, a distance of 225 miles. The church carries on mission work at two different points, one some forty miles distant, involving considerable outlay of time and money. They are planning to look after one or more new places near. The pastor, Gumesindo Balderas, was ordained at the last meeting of Presbytery. He is a good example of what God will do through a consecrated man, although he may have but little of the equipment that is gained through studies in school, and extensive reading. He is and has been for some years a diligent student of the Bible, availing himself of all the helps he is able to secure. The C. E. Society, although only recently organized in the church, has become an important factor in church work, under the prudent oversight of the pastor and older members of the Church.

SOMBRERETE.

Mrs. Campbell writes:

For the business world of Sombrerete the year has been one of retrograde. The mines have been shutting down more and more; there is little trade and much depression. There is hope, as there has been for fifteen years, that the railroad will enter and give Sombrerete a boom. A friend asked me if I thought the low tide of business would affect the church work. I replied that our congregation was made up mostly of those too poor to go away, and that possibly times being dull and little going on, others would have more time and inclination to see and know.

Mrs. Campbell herself has had to do all the work in Sombrerete, no ordained missionary being resident there. Sunday-schools and day-schools and Christian Endeavor Societies, however, are conducted with much effectiveness.

SALTILLO.

In these States we have nine organized churches, three congregations, viz. Las Esperanzas, Rodriguez and Duragno, and four preaching points, viz. Progreso and Allende, La Culmena, and San Salvador.

Mr. William Wallace reports:

The blessings of stable government have continued. For the first time in many years abundant rains have fallen, the hearts of the farmers have been made glad, thousands of cattle and horses have been saved from starvation, and the merchants are more hopeful than for years. I have heard men hardened by exclusive business, for the first time recognize the hand of Providence. In some parts no such rains had fallen in nine or ten years, nowhere for the past four or five years. American capital continues to pour in, and Mexicans are beginning to invest their hoarded earnings in numberless "sociedades anonimas." The coal deposits are being developed. The Gould interests are drilling for oil, and a company is being formed on a large scale for the extraction by machinery of the fibre of the lechugilla (species of Magney), something which has been vainly experimented on for years, and has only now succeeded. $100,000 gold have been spent in experiments in the State of Coahuila alone, and the organization of the new company will add immensely to the development of the frontier. In Monterey many new manufacturing enterprises have been established, the spirit of industrialism and commercialism has fairly caught hold of the Mexican public, and is affecting our Christian community. Although wages are higher, the cost of living has increased, and our people spend in many directions where they did not feel any obligation or temptation to spend before. Besides our great railroad and industrial enterprises supported by Christian stockholders in the States, are largely in the hands of men who are absolutely indifferent to the observance of the Lord's Day, and many of our Church members who have entered their employ, are unable to help by their presence and Christian activity in the services of our churches. Although many of our people are earning far greater wages and higher salaries than before, yet the irregularity of their church attendance and the increased templations to spend money in other ways, has prevented a corresponding increase in Christian beneficence. This of course is especially true of our larger centres. Constant instruction in Tithing and First-fruits, and constant activity in presenting opportunities for giving, is one of the ways in which the spirit of unselfish liberality may be kept up. The increased means of communication and the temptations to seek better employment in new places, leads to a constant shifting of our members, and this involves a greater activity in visiting and oversight of churches already established on the part of our small force. At the same time, we must of course keep pushing out "into the regions beyond."

CHURCHES.—The Saltillo Church has kept steadily increasing in membership, nineteen having been received during the year, eighteen of these by profession of faith, twelve of them being students in our Girls'

Normal School.

The missionaries have kept up the services at the penitentiary. The six-fold murderer, Echevarria, mentioned in our last report, is now allowed to meet with the other prisoners, owing to good behavior. We have a Sabbath-school of some twenty members, though over a hundred listen to the teaching and the preaching. We feel this is a hopeful work, especially when we can keep track of those who are released and are brought into our church communities outside.

Of some of the other churches Mr. Wallace reports:

Las Esperanzas, a preaching point and coal-miners' settlement. Here Methodists, Baptists and Presbyterians are found, emigrants from neighboring points, but with no one to hold services.

Services with an attendance of forty or more have been held by the missionary in the public school-house built by the company. We have here a practical and eloquent argument, reported elsewhere, for Church union among Churches which recognize each other as members of the body of Christ.

Allende, forty kilometres from Engle Pass. The Presbyterian families here form the strength of the Methodist Church, and are visited twice a year, so as to keep up the old ties in case they should move to other points.

Monterey, a city of 75,000 people, is capital of N. Leon, increasing steadily in wealth and population. The congregation has a commodious building, and house for sexton. He is one of the most faithful members, not only in taking care of the building, and in stirring up the people to turn out and fill it, but also in making spiritual calls on members, and looking up new recruits. This old scissors-grinder puts the pastor and elders, all good men, to shame by his activity and faithfulness.

The school at Allende has never been so successful, so much so that the authorities asked us to dismiss the boys, who, unsolicited, preferred our school to the government one, as otherwise they could not afford to keep them up.

The report concludes with some general observations:

Our diminished force of workers is doing immensely more work than formerly, when we had more than twice as many, and the congregations are learning to rely more on themselves in conducting the ordinary services and work of the church.

Our school teachers are more invaluable than ever in places where we no longer have pastors, though we could not wish for greater results in soul-winning.

The reduction of workers, though a blessing in some ways to the church, has made advance movements into new points very difficult, as the churches ought not and cannot be left too much to themselves. Moreover, the churches are doing very little aggressive work.

The year 1902 has been a decided improvement on 1901, in contributions to missions, for the poor, and for church homes; and above all, in the number of accessions by profession of faith; and in spite of many drawbacks we look forward with a sense of past failure, yet with hope to the new year.

GIRLS' NORMAL SCHOOL.—Miss Edna Johnson has been obliged to remain with her father in the United States during the year, and Miss Wheeler, with the assistance of a niece, has carried on the work of the school:

There was a full attendance from the first week, when fifty boarders were received. Later four more were entered, making a total of fifty-four during the year.

There were registered forty-seven day scholars, making a total of one hundred and one.

At the close of the year written examinations were held in all classes, besides three days' oral examinations, to which the public was invited, the attendance especially of teachers and professors from the State Normal and the State College. The interest in our examinations does not seem to abate.

The health of the school was remarkably good, and it gives great satisfaction to speak of it, because it was the first year of the improved sanitary conditions. We had no case of sickness, and the hospital room was occupied only six days in the year. The doctor was called in only once, but did not need to leave a prescription.

MISSIONS IN PERSIA.

EASTERN PERSIA MISSION.

Teheran: capital of Persja; population 300,000; work begun in 1872. Missionaries—Rev. J. L. Potter, D.D., and Mrs. Potter, Rev. Lewis F. Esselstyn and Mrs. Esselstyn, Rev. S. M. Jordan and Mrs. Jordan, Dr. J. A. Funk, Miss Cora C. Bartlett, Miss Mary J. Smith, M.D.

Kasvin: Rev. Chas. A. Douglas and Mrs. Douglas, Dr. Jessie C. Wilson and Miss Mary Jewett.

Resht: Rev. H. C. Schuler and Mrs. Schuler, and Dr. E. T. Lawrence.

HAMADAN: 200 miles southwest of Teheran; population 40,000; occupied in 1880. Missionaries—Rev. James W. Hawkes and Mrs. Hawkes, Rev. N. L. Euwer, Rev. F. M. Stead and Mrs. Stead, Miss Annie Montgomery, Miss Charlotte G. Montgomery, and Miss Sue S. Lienbach.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Mrs. Potter.

The Mission has rejoiced in the addition of large reinforcements—the Rev. F. M. Stead for Hamadan, and Dr. J. A. Funk, Dr. E. T. Lawrence and Miss Eva L. Ballis for Teheran. Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton, formerly of the Siam Mission, who had been compelled to leave Siam on account of Mrs. Hamilton's health, after a stay in America, were transferred to Hamadan, but were obliged to turn back from London on account of the health of their child. During the year there have been three marriages within the Mission circle—Mr. Schuler and Miss Dale, Mr. Douglas and Miss Ballis, Mr. Stead and Dr. Blanche Wilson. The reinforcements sent have enabled the Mission to send out two colonies from Teheran. Mr. and Mrs. Schuler and Dr. Lawrence settled in Resht, and Dr. Jessie Wilson, with Miss Jewett transferred from West Persia, settled with some permanency in Kazvin.

The political conditions have remained much the same and the work has continued to enjoy the favor, both of the government and of the people.

TEHERAN STATION.

While grateful for the large reinforcements sent, the report of the Teheran Station appeals for more:

Considering the vastness of our field, as mentioned in the last annual report, about 650 miles long by 150 to 300 wide, with a population of three million souls, we are still constrained to urge our plea for further reinforcement.

ITINERATING WORK.—A large part of the work of the Mission during the year has been direct evangelistic itineration in its great field.

Six missionaries have taken part in the work, viz., Dr. Jessie C. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Jordan, Dr. Potter, and Mr. and Mrs. Esselstyn, and altogether have spent about the equivalent of 365 days for one missionary, traveling the equivalent of about 1,500 miles for one person. Shamasha Baba and Hakim Yacob, two Nestorian colporteurs, whom we brought from Urumia, started on their first tour in our field January 16.

All told, work has been done in Teheran, Kazvin, Resht, Enzele, and in about 138 villages, and some of these villages have been visited more than once. This work has been spread out all the way from Teheran to the Russian frontier on the west shore of the Caspian, a distance of about 300 miles in a northwesterly direction from Teheran

A few incidents will be illustrative of the character and effectiveness of the work. Of his Kazvin tour, Mr. Jordan writes:

Several times I met groups of Behaees, once in the house of their chief. They were very courteous and listened attentively while I explained the scheme of salvation as it is in Christ. In reply to my question, "Whence do you have salvation according to your religion?" they could only speak of good works and a tree being known by its fruits. I then pointed out to them that the tree bears good fruit only after it has received a new graft and good works are the fruit of the new nature consequent on being born again. Advice and exhortation are very good, but do not meet the needs of men dead in trespasses and sins. A power which makes alive from the dead is needed and in your religion there is no such power.

and in your religion there is no such power.

They all seemed deeply impressed by what I had said, and the old gray-haired chief leaned over and asked, "Have any of you ever visited the Beha, and what do you think of him?" I then related to them Dr. Jessup's account of his visit and how the Beha avoided answering the questions asked.

We left Kazvin April 7, arriving in Teheran the 9th, the day on which the Shah started on his tour to Europe. We met the Shah himself, mounted in his automobile, attended by nobles and ministers of state, some twelve miles outside the city. Throughout the thirty odd miles which we traveled that day we were constantly meeting parts of his retinue, camels carrying tents, horses and mules with cooking utensils and tent furnishings, every sort and description of hanger-on and camp follower, as well as thousands who had gathered by the roadside to see their king go by, throngs of beggars who had come out from Teheran to gather tribute from the passing throng.

It was a sight well worth seeing, and we esteemed ourselves fortunate to have witnessed the display and grandeur of his Majesty's camp in motion.

The following incidents are from Mr. Esselstyn's tours in Shariawr, Khatoonabad-Shareefabad and Ghilan and Talish.

At the shrine of — I made my stopping place in the coffee house and sent word to my old friend, —, the keeper of the shrine, that I would call on him in about an hour. In less than ten minutes he called on me, apparently much pleased that I had come. I gave him the upper seat in my dervish outfit and ordered tea and challian (water-pipe) to be brought. We began at once reading the Bible and talking about it, with the usual crowd of listeners standing round. Thus we spent a couple of hours, I for the most part doing the talking and reading, and he and the company the listening.

At the time of evening prayer we went together into the shrine, he to repeat the empty forms of the Mohammedan Litany, I to pray that God would touch his heart with the living Gospel of salvation.

I visited the deputy Governor, where I met Mullah — and his and half a dozen other men.

We talked and read miscellaneously for a time, and then they wanted me to explain the Christian view of the divinity of Christ, which I did briefly. They took exception to it, of course, and then Mullah — occupied half an hour in reply, during which I listened with the closest attention. He began with the a priori argument, talked of God and man, of their mutual relations, touched on a good many truths in a more or less rambling way, and actually talked himself out.

When he had finished, the company was all attention to hear my reply. I drew myself up with dress parade dignity and asked them if I should state my answer. They replied in the affirmative. I told them my reply was that I most heartily believed everything the Mullah had said. For a minute they did not seem to take it in, and then broke out in a hearty laugh as it dawned upon them that Mullah.

Then they accorded me an uninterrupted half hour of close, polite attention.

When I finished, the two Mullahs put their heads down close together and whispered for two or three minutes, then turning to the company and addressing me, they said, "It is now nearly prayer time. We will hear you again concerning these things." And thus ended our two hours' interview, with many Persian expressions of courtesy and good will and the understanding that we should meet again.

That day Mrs. Esselstyn went to several houses, in each of which a company of women gathered varying in number from half a dozen to twenty-five, and she read and talked to them. In one house they were baking bread, and when the baking was finished a woman who was so fortunate as to be able to read took "the Book" and read while Mrs. Esselstyn talked. The woman who read repeatedly exclaimed, "Wonderful! wonderful! how sweet! I never heard of this book before."

In another house were twenty-one married women, only three of whom were the only wives their husbands had. All the others shared their husbands with one or more other wives. The deputy Governor told me that he had two wives, and that out of fourteen children only one was living.

The Amed-i-Saltaneh is the Governor of Persian Talish. He is a man of perhaps sixty years, slight built, swarthy complexion, and sinewy in appearance. He goes to bed by daylight and takes his morning meal about the middle of the afternoon, his midday meal about the time ordinary people are going to bed, and dines long after midnight. This custom he has adopted for his personal safety. He freely exercises the power of life and death, and accordingly has many enemies. He has several hundred soldiers always at hand, and a good part of them mounted, and twenty-four hours of every day several dozens of these have their horses saddled and bridled at the door.

The people of the Talish are the most uncivilized I have worked among in Persia. Their occupations are mostly rice culture on the flats and stock raising in the highlands and mountains. They have a reputation for all kinds of crime, and on that account I had difficulty in getting a muleteer to go with me. I found the weather intensely hot, though it was not summer, yet the vermin abundant and the food scarce and poor quality. One result was enervation for myself, the servants and the horses. The people live on boiled rice and sour milk. Bread they make in only very few places, and meat they seldom kill. Forage for the horses was difficult to get. One twenty-four hours the horses had nothing to eat but rice, and my own two horses came back from the journey very thin and much pulled down in strength.

I camped two nights at Kargarood. The people were friendly and begged for books, but I was sold out. Finally one young man begged so hard that I sold my own Persian Testament that I have preached out of for years. This is the place where two years ago they would not let me stay over night; threatening my life if I did so, and made me pay ten cents apiece for three eggs.

Dr. Jessie Wilson spent almost the entire year in Kazvin, having for her associate a faithful Nestorian Bible woman named Layah. She writes:

One can scarcely realize what an undertaking it must have been for Layah to leave home and friends and work that she had been engaged in for eighteen years among her own people and at the age of fifty-five start on a long, perilous journey, full of hardships, to a strange city, to work among people enemies to her nation and to her religion.

An interesting part of my medical work has been among the few patients whom we have kept in the house for treatment, the period of their stay varying from a week to two months. It was impossible to resist the pleading tones and tears of some of these patients, whose only hope lay in being under proper medical treatment and having good nursing and food. "Oh, don't send me away! I have come from a village far off, and I have no place in the city to go; let me have a corner in your cellar, and I'll be good and not trouble you," said a lad of fifteen, as he lay, too weak to move, underneath the trees in my yard. We could not refuse him, and were rewarded by seeing him restored to health. He was a little shepherd boy and took great delight in committing the twenty-third Psalm to memory, and later, when he was dismissed, he said, "I shall never forget what I have been taught, and when I am out on the mountains tending my sheep I'll say this Psalm over and over to myself." In the evenings Layah would sit talking to the patients and their friends, teaching them some passage of Scripture or telling them something of the wonderful life of Him who went about doing good, healing the sick and having compassion on the multitude.

The women, both of the villages and tents, lead hard lives, doing the heaviest work, and after tending their flocks and churning in the early morning, going out into the fields and spending part of the day there or in the desert, under the broiling sun, gathering thistles and camel's thorn to store for winter use, while the girls who are too small camers thorn to store for winter use, while the girls who are too small to do this work have as hard labor for their size, carrying their younger brothers and sisters round strapped to their backs and weighed down by the burden. "If I believe on Jesus will He make my burden light?" said a poor woman sitting at my feet and looking up inquiringly into my face in one of those tents. "Because, if He will," she continued, "I'll believe on Him, for I am always so tired." In the fields, or underneath the trees, or in their desolate homes, by reading, singing, praying or talking with them, and teaching them reading, singing, praying or talking with them, and teaching them some simple verse of Scripture, we have tried to show them the true way, and have always found attentive listeners and those to whom the message has come with special power.

Of one of the villages visited in his tour in the Elbruz Mountains and of his general impressions of the tour, Dr. Potter writes:

As we were standing in plain view of the whole village, the men began to gather to the number of a half dozen or more. After a time the Mullah invited me to sit down. There happened to be a couple of large millstones lying on the ground just there, so I took the one lower down the slope and invited him to take the upper one, and the men seated themselves on the ground. I explained my purpose in visiting their place, and begged permission to explain to them the way of salvation. This was granted, but with no apparent interest in the matter. However, I proceeded to explain the way of life, dwelling especially upon the condition of mankind as lost sinners, the nature of sin and its necessary consequences, and the divinely provided remedy, reading the passages from the Persian New Testament to establish my points. The men listened well and I was permitted to get pretty well through the explanation of the Gospel method of justification before the Mullah, who was an ignorant man and not well posted as to the stock arguments against Christianity, began his objections. He said that they had their own way of salvation; that Jesus, Son of Mary, had commanded that we must repent and believe on Mohammed. I handed him the Testament, and asked him where? I told him that it was not so written in the Book, and turning to the first of Mark, I read them the command of the Lord that we must repent and believe the Gospel. As information is a good thing, I urged him to buy a copy of the Book, as it is sold at the moderate price of about fifteen cents, but he pleaded and wished me to give him a copy. This request was not granted, but I am not sure that it would not be advisable to give the book where personal conversation seems to show there is sufficient interest to ask for it, on condition of their promising to read it. How can we expect a man to buy a book that he has been taught to believe has been corrupted so as to oppose his religion?

The Moslems do not seem to be hungering and thirsting after the Gospel. If one can overcome their indifference sufficiently to gain their attention, there is almost sure to be some one in the company who will presently sound the note of opposition and scorn.

The great advantage it would be to have a physician in the company on such an evangelistic tour was very manifest; medical help in these out-of-the-way places was earnestly sought. Our Lord sent forth His disciples to preach and to heal the sick, in this land the healing art will not only secure the physician a cordial welcome, but will also greatly conduce to a kindly reception of the preacher who comes with the physician.

The road traversed was constructed by the late Shah about ten years ago, and is one of the main thoroughfares to the province of Mazendaran; but it has been allowed to go to ruin, and in many places is terribly rough and in others very narrow. In several places the carcasses of animals were visible in the valley below, and one in the river, which had evidently fallen off the road to their death.

CHURCHES.—Of one of the converts added to the Persian Church the report relates:

It seems as if the God who of old instructed the patriarchs by address and vision is in these last days moving upon the hearts of men in the same way. Last autumn a young baker named—came to the missionaries asking to be baptized. The story which he told was something as follows:

One night, as he slept, Jesus appeared to him and said, I am the Saviour, and if you wish to be saved you must believe on me and become a Christian. He paid little attention to this and went about his work as usual. But a few nights later he had another dream. He stood near one of the city gates and saw great throngs of men surging forth. He asked whither they were going and for what purpose. They replied, "We go forth to meet Christ who returns today?" "If that be true," said he, "I too will go, for I believe on Him." But all the multitude turned and shouted, "No, first go and be baptized." This dream had such an effect upon him that the next morning he went to one of the two Armenian priests in Teheran and asked for baptism. He sent him to the other priest, who was educated in our boys' school, who, after a little instruction, sent him to the Mission.

It was just before the party started for Hamadan to attend Annual Meeting, so he was referred to the Armenian ex-pastor, now in charge of the Bible Depot. By him, and later by the missionaries, he was instructed. He was very ignorant, not being able to read, but he grasped the principal Gospel truths in a comprehensive way. The clergymen of the Station were so impressed by the earnestness and sincerity of the man that March 30, in answer to repeated requests for baptism, they told him that he should be baptized when he had committed to memory the Ten Commandments, the Lord's Prayer and the Apostles' Creed. Having complied with these requirements, he was baptized May 18, by Dr. Potter, in the presence of some of the missionaries and native brethren.

During the past year more inquirers have come for religious conversation than for several years past, a number of whom seem deeply in earnest. Some come from curiosity and occasionally one to impress the missionaries with his learning.

Twice, extended conversations have been held with the Chief of the Behaees in Teheran, at their solicitation, and they were unable to show any good reason for their religion when compared with the religion of Christ. It is hoped, however, that this "new religion," which is now spreading so rapidly in Persia, may be the opening wedge for religious liberty and freedom from persecution.

The Armenian Church is still without a pastor, but a better spirit prevails in it than a year ago.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—

Educational work in Teheran is, at the present, in a period of transition. The conditions to-day are quite different from those which prevailed but a few years ago. The Persians of the capital city are fast becoming convinced of the value of education. The establishment of no less than thirty schools in Teheran during the past five or six years gives testimony to this statement, as does also the fact that some of the Persian young men are going to Beirut and various European cities to be educated.

In view of these changed conditions, Mr. Schuler, who has had charge of the Boys' School, but now transfers it to Mr. Jordan, writes:

It may be premature to suggest the founding of an institution of higher education in Teheran. But to one who is watching the growing possibilities of educational work, it must be evident that the time is not far distant when the conditions will demand the establishment of a college, either within or near the capital city. Whether that institution is to be Christian or Moslem depends very largely upon our desire and decision.

During the year there were 121 students in actual attendance, an increase of twenty-one per cent. over the previous year. Of these, sixty-two were Armenians, forty-six Moslems, ten Jews, one Parsee, and two Americans. The receipts from tuition were 222 tomans. At the commencement, held May 9, diplomas were given to eight young men from the commercial course, five of whom were Armenians and three Moslems.

The Girls' School, Iran Bethel.—

School opened Wednesday, September 18, with twenty-nine girls in their old places and nine new ones. This number increased in a few days by nineteen former pupils and sixteen new ones, to seventy-three; but rather than pay tuition some of these dropped out, and the permanent roll became sixty-one. Of these nineteen paid fifty krans, twenty-one paid twenty-five krans or more, and twenty-one paid ten krans or over, and all of these bought their books. Only twelve were excused from paying—bright girls from six poor families.

In January a Mohammedan came, bringing his seventeen-year-old wife to put her in the school for half a day. He readily paid the fifty krans for her tuition, and she began with her a, b, c's in both Persian and English. She especially enjoyed her Bible lesson and would go home and repeat them and discuss this new religion with her husband. She sometimes brought her baby boy to visit us.

We spent the last two weeks of school in examinations, showing good progress made and hard work done. Girls of ten and twelve years recited all of I and II Peter. They could name the places visited on Paul's journeys and tell when visited and what happened at each place. The "babies" of six and seven years, some twelve of them, who had been in school only since September, had learned the Lord's Prayer, the Ten Commandments, one hundred and two questions in the Catechism, besides many Old Testament stories, and could tell much of the life of Christ. One Moslem girl recited perfectly the i, xxiii, xxiv, xxv, xxvi and xxvii Psalms, and knew much of the life of our Lord. All had done good work in their own language and in arithmetic, and the older girls in English and history as well.

MEDICAL WORK.—The medical work in Teheran has been limited on account of the absence of any male physician. Although the hospital has been closed, however, Dr. Mary Smith has continued as before the efficient work of the dispensaries. She writes:

If there is a monotony in this routine work, it comes not from a lack of variety of patients or of the diseases to which they are subject, for they come from all classes and conditions of life, with requests as various, some asking for a medicine to take away freckles and to make them beautiful, others with serious maladies which threaten life. But be they rich or poor, all alike are needy and suffering and make the same pleas for healing or relief. No matter what the station in life, there is the same dread in the hearts of all, that the husband will become dissatisfied with them and take another wife. This is a story heard day after day, and yet one to which the heart cannot become hardened.

Some two or three patients have been taken in during the year, each one staying several weeks with us. The request of others for admission we have felt obliged to refuse, as we were not prepared to care for them.

The English service has been carried on as usual for the English community and Dr. Potter has rewritten an extensive tract on the fundamentals of Christian belief and duty designed to present the Gospel irenically to the Mohammedans, and it is hoped soon to issue this from the press of the Church Missionary Society at Ispahan.

HAMADAN STATION.

CHURCHES.—There are three churches connected with the Hamadan Station—St. Stephen's, made up of Armenians; Peniel, attended by Jews and Moslems, and Lilahan, some distance to the southwest, made up of Armenians. The young physicians trained by Dr. Holmes and Dr. Wilson have been most efficient in the evangelistic work of the Station. Some of those who have been baptized during the year have been the result of their work.

Mirza David was chiefly instrumental in starting a movement to gather the Jews on Saturday P. M. to hear a popular lecture just before the regular Saturday evening service. All the leading church members took an interest in this work, and once or twice the attendance was good, but the superintendent of the Israel Alliance schools saw the interest of these meetings and called a meeting in the Synagogue at the same hour, and the lectures were soon discontinued.

There are ninety-two names on the roll of the Lilahan Church, one that of a Jew.

OUT-STATIONS AND TOURS.—One new out-station has been added during the year, namely, Nehavend, opened through the influence of one of the young physicians.

Mirza Moosa, M,D., is so well and favorably known in all that region, and is so fully trusted by Moslems as well as Jews, that we were not surprised last year when the Zafar-a-Sultan, then Governor, whom he had been attending professionally, promised him that he would provide a room and contribute to the support of the teacher, if the Station would send a man who would, beside the school work, give special lessons to his children. Then we had no teacher who could be spared, but this summer we were able to send one, who carried letters from this doctor to the Zafar-a-Sultan and to others. He had been appointed Governor of Shiraz, but the teacher arrived in time to see him and present his letter. He received the teacher very kindly, employed him to teach his son and daughter, and pays four tomans per month of his salary for two hours' teaching in the evening.

Kermanshah continues under the care of Kasha Mooshee, whose fidelity and effectiveness increase every year. The work in Lilahan has been very unsatisfactory. It has suffered through the disintegrating and unchristian influence of an independent native Plymouth Brother. Miss Montgomery reports:

If there seemed any probability that the Plymouth Brother who is there would remain and if that society would take up the work and refund the money that has been spent in buildings, I would advocate withdrawal, leaving the field and throwing on them the responsibility of the work, but I could see no prospect of either of these things happening, for I feel sure that when their representative there has bought all the carpets for which he has a commission, he will leave the place and the work. In view of this, and especially because their man who is there seems to have dropped all aggressive evangelical work and to devote all his attention to drawing people away from the Church, to whose allegiance they voluntarily pledged themselves, we have advised the pastor to go quietly on with his evangelical work, and specially to show his love for the people and his interest in them by taking up the School work and doing what he can, with the help he can find in the village, then when the other leaves something can be done with the people. The pastor is in a very difficult position, and he feels very strongly the injury done him by this man, who assured him he had no intention of returning to Lilihan, when the pastor said to him, "If you think of going back I will not go there," and yet as soon as the pastor was comfortably settled there he came and undermines his influence and hinders his work, but the pastor is a good, earnest man, and seems only desirous of advancing Christ's work in the village and surrounding districts.

The work at Sheverin has been maintained, and the location of Dr. Jesse Yonan, a Nestorian physician educated in America, at Senneh, has opened opportunities for special evangelistic work there. He had obtained the favor of the Nose-ul-Molk, who is an Oxford graduate, and much more enlightened than most Persian Governors.

There have been four tours made by the Station, one by Mr. Watson and Mr. Jordan, who spent part of the year in Hamadan, going to Kermanshah and Senneh; another by Dr. Blanche Wilson and Miss Charlotte Montgomery; the third by Mr. Euwer on foot, and the fourth of forty-eight days by Miss Annie Montgomery, Miss Lienbach accompanying her part of the time. Of a native brother who accompanied Dr. Wilson and Miss Montgomery, Dr. Wilson writes:

Mirza Tatevos was with us on this trip, and his bold and persistent evangelistic work so far surpassed our feeble efforts that we felt we could not think of our part as evangelistic at all. At every village in which we stopped on the road, in the houses to which we were called or into which he invented an entrance, and in his own room, he was constantly to be seen, Bible in hand, trying to teach the way of life to whomsoever he could get to listen.

Of her visit to Nehavend on her tour, Miss Annie Montgomery, reports:

Saturday morning I arrived in Nehavend and was greeted by throngs anxious to see a foreign lady. We managed to get the wagon to the door without anyone being killed, for which I was thankful; but in a few minutes the yard and the surrounding roofs were thronged, and I could only get quiet by promising I would meet the women in the Jewish Synagogue two hours after noon, and that I would see the men in the same place two hours to sunset. The women sent for me several times, but I waited till the appointed time, and such a babel I found and sat among for a couple of hours only those can understand who have seen a similar curious throng. They begged me to speak, but I told them I knew they only wanted to see the sight, and I would sit where they could satisfy their curiosity, and I only attempted to talk to those gathered near, inviting those who wanted to hear me read and speak, to come and hear me Sabbath morning. Soon a rather fierce-looking man came in and dismissed the women, and then the men filed in. They were more orderly, and the chief Mullah asked me to speak. I told him as it was the time for their evening prayers, I would prefer that he would proceed with the service, which they did. After the reading of the "Law and the Prophets" and the recitation of the prayers, with their faces towards Jerusalem, they again asked me for my message. Wishing to introduce the teacher to them, I had him read Genesis 3:15; 49:10; from Isaiah 9, 10 and 52, and the last two verses, and also 53, Daniel 2:37-45; Ezekiel 36:22-38; 37:1-4, and then one verse from the New Testament. "Brethren, my heart's desire and prayer for Israel is that they might be saved." I told them that was my desire for them, that they might be saved, and thus become inheritors of all the promises which we had been reading and which God is ready and waiting to bestow upon them, and because of this desire I had come.

MEDICAL.—Dr. Wilson reports:

Two thousand seven hundred and ninety-seven patients have received medicine in the dispensary, and the friends and attendants who came with them have numbered five thousand five hundred and ninety-six, making a total attendance of eight thousand three hundred and ninety-three. Twenty major surgical operations were performed, with eighteen good recoveries, one death from acute general tuberculosis, which was well established when the patient came to us, and one still doubtful. Three cataract operations and two small operations for entropion covered our eye surgery, and of minor surgery we have had seven breast abscesses and between twenty and thirty other abscesses.

Of the evangelistic work done in the dispensary, Mrs. Hawkes writes:

On three days in the week the women who gather in the waiting room have listened to reading of the Bible and explanation, usually with marked interest on the part of some. Perhaps that culminates in the answer given by one Moslem to another who began clamoring for medical treatment. "Let us go," said she; "this is better than being doctored; this is doctoring for the end of life." Another day a woman said to the reader, "You Franks are the true Moslems; we are the infidels."

There has been additional work for the women in women's prayer-meetings, through the Jewish Girls' School, in a way that can never be officially reported, by the simple object lesson of the freedom and purity of a Christian woman's life as illustrated in the missionaries. "Khanim," said a Moslem woman in one of the villages, to Mrs. Hawkes, after having watched her and Mr. Hawkes together and having noted the way in which a Christian husband treated his wife, "Khanim, I have been watching you and Sahib. We never saw anything like this in our village before. Your prophet did well for you Christian women. Our prophet did not do well for us. I shall have words with him when I meet him in the next world."

Through contributions of the friends of Mr. Whipple, a tablet will be put up on the wall of St. Stephen's, in memory of Mr. Whipple, and several wards for hospital purposes have been constructed as a Memorial.

EDUCATIONAL.—The Faith Hubbard School.

School opened in September with teachers and pupils all in their places. During Annual Meeting one of our teachers was married, but there was another ready to take her place who has proved herself very efficient as teacher of the Persian girls. This class numbered twenty-two Moslems, and it was interesting to watch the change in them as their minds wakened up to take in new ideas. The more advanced of those girls read all four Gospels and part of Acts, as well as some of their own Gulistan.

In May we were favored with a visit from the Hon. Lloyd C. Griscom, United States Ambassador to the Court of Persia. Referring to our visitors' book, I find this written over his signature: "I believe that I am the first official representative of the United States to visit the Faith Hubbard School, and as such and in my private capacity I have the greatest pleasure in inscribing here some small expression of my appreciation of the admirable work which is being done. I have visited and inspected the whole school, and was given an opportunity to witness the working of the classes. I leave with a deep impression of admiration for those who have made the school what it is, and I congratulate them on what they have accomplished.

At the same time the Hon. Major Napier, military attache of the British Legation in Teheran, paid us a visit. He also writes: "I have been very much interested in this admirable school, and am full of admiration for the excellent system of instruction and the kind discipline displayed, and have learned a great deal myself from visiting the classes. Wishing it every prosperity in its noble and self-sacrificing work, I shall carry away very pleasant recollections of my stay here.

Four young women received diplomas.

The number enrolled this year was one hundred and fifteen. these, ninety-four were girls, forty-five of whom were boarders. Among the girls were twenty-two Moslems and four Jews.

Boys' School.—After Mr. Watson's departure, the school came into Mr. Wilson's charge. Fifty-three boys were in attendance, of whom four were Jews, thirteen Moslems and the remainder Armenians.

The studies have included five languages, Armenian, Persian, Arabic, Hebrew and English, physical and political geography, mechanics, arithmetic and algebra. Instruction in the Bible has been given to every class and in every language except Arabic.

URUMIA FIELD.

The general survey of the field, prepared by Dr. Labaree, states:

The rage for America among the Nestorians is more widespread than ever. It is taking away the theological students, teachers, printers and useful church members, and in many other ways, it creates conditions unfavorable to spiritual growth, but we recognize that these are the almost inevitable results of the progress of ideas and the development of God's own providence. We believe that we must wait simply for the unfolding of God's deeper plans, when we shall discover the full proofs of His unfailing wisdom in all this ferment.

THE CHURCHES.—Notwithstanding the spiritual lethargy which has characterized so many of our churches the past few years, we have reason to think that the pastors have done fairly faithful work. A good deal of visiting in the hamlets has been done by some of them, these places being more open than any time since the invasion of the Russians. And generally, in the larger villages, conditions have been more favorable than for the late years previous. Messages have come from the villages wholly Russian, saying, "Come and preach to us."

A number of churches held revival meetings during the Week of Prayer, some with, and some without missionary aid. As a rule, these services were attended by large numbers. Some, we hope, found the Saviour in these meetings. But there has not been the general and deep spiritual awakening which we longed and prayed for. The annual meeting of the General Synod of the Native Church was held last Fall in the village of Geogtapa. This body is one of the leading influential agencies for the maintenance and development of the Native Church. Its meetings are conducted with a good deal of enthusiasm and a fair amount of good order. The topics discussed take a wide range, touching upon the spiritual, moral and educational welfare of their nation.

The number of independent workers supported from abroad, Plymouth, Brethren, Lutherans, Baptists, are multiplying in our field, and if all who are seeking similar support in Europe and America succeed, there will be a decided surfeit of high-priced laborers in this very contracted field. Were they to branch out and with very genuine missionary zeal to preach to the Moslems, they might be very welcome, but as it is, they cannot but be a hindrance to the whole cause of evangelical Christianity in the country.

Notwithstanding, however, all the drawbacks in the spiritual conditions around us, and the blemishes upon the escutcheon of this Evangelical Church through lack of zeal and the worldliness of its members, it is still looked upon by the world around it as of purer doctrine and as standing for higher moral and spiritual ideals than the other Christian communities in the same vicinity. Many of its members maintain before the Moslems and other nationalities, a high standard of truthfulness and integrity. An elder in one of the churches, a stone mason by trade, recently was employed on a job for a prominent nobleman of the When it was finished, the mason said to the nobleman: "Let some one come and measure my work and you will please pay me accordingly." The nobleman_replied, "Why so? Why bring some one to measure your work? Don't you know that your word with me is as good as that of any Moslem high priest?" And the man was promptly paid according to his own measurements. The same elder owns a vineyard on shares with a Moslem residing in the city. The Moslem accepts unhesitatingly, any charges this Christian brings in, or any division of the products he makes.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—There are two native Evangelists, Kasha Shimoon, who works among the Ali Illahees and the Moslems, and Kasha Yonan, among the Jews and Moslems. Kasha Shimoon relates that:

The past summer he met a seyyid from the city in one of his village tours and the seyyid asked him: "How many converts have you made, Kasha?" The Kasha replied that he did not know of any. "But," said the seyyid, "I have heard that such a hadj and such a mollah and such another have accepted your teachings." A conversation followed of some hours, sometimes in the presence of others and sometimes by themselves. At the close of the interview, the seyyid, while expressing his desire for another interview, said to the Kasha, "When you talk with us on the matters of our faith, in the presence of others, do not attack our religion, for then we have to defend it, whether we wish to or not, but say those things to us privately." In another interview with a Khan and a seyyid, the Khan took the side of the Christian seyyid throughout, asking the seyyid at the close what he could possibly say to all the arguments advanced. The seyyid was silent. Similar instances are occurring on nearly every trip he makes, indicating the deep dissatisfaction of many Moslems with their own faith, while they make bold confession that the truth lies with the Christians.

Kasha Yoman's work is in the city, among the Jews and Moslems, Among the Jews, he has free access to their homes, their synagogues and to their weddings and their funerals, and preaches the gospel plainly to them. There are many who seem glad to listen to him and some who chide their religious chiefs for ignoring the Kasha's Gospel teachings.

A long tour was made last Fall by native workers to Sakkiz and the surrounding region. Sakkiz is a town of 4000 Mussulman houses and 100 Jewish, or some 25,000 souls. In the vicinity there are 250 villages with a population, including that of the city, of 80,000, or 100,000 souls. This population is chiefly Kurdish, but has a sprinkling of Jews. A number of these have lately become Moslems. Our evangelists remained in Sakkiz two months, giving their attention chiefly to the Jews, many of whom gave them a very cordial reception. They report during their stay some 1300 persons as having heard the Gospel from them. On their leaving the place, they were begged to come again and some parted from them with tears.

There are now in the different mission fields in Persia on tours, etc., some thirteen Nestorian workers engaged chiefly in preaching Christ to the Moslems. A request was sent us from the agent of the British and Foreign Bible Society at Ispahan for a number of Nestorian colporteurs, the agent stating that he could find no man like minded with the Nestorian colporteur Benyamin and Kasha Mooshe of Kermanshah for work among the Moslems. Later, however, replying to our offer from London, he reduced the call to one person. This one, we expect to send at the beginning of the new year.

Of the attitude of mind among the Moslems and their openness to religious discussions, Dr. Labaree writes:

I was recently at a village church in which there is a plain deacon of staunch faith and an active worker for Christ. He is in the habit during the winter of taking his Bible to the stables where his Mussulman neighbors congregate for warmth and social intercourse and there read to them the stories of the patriarchs, etc., and from these, he leads up to the story of the Gospel.

At this same village I met the acting pastor, who had come from another village for the Sabbath services, and had his Turkish Testament in his hand from which he was reading at odd moments. I asked him what he was doing with that, and he replied that he carried it with him as an aid to religious conversation with Moslems whom he might meet here and there. Nearly every company of Church members, numbers some who count it a privilege to preach Christ to Moslems wherever opportunity occurs; Nestorian carpenters and masons, in plying their trade among their neighbors in the villages, are wont to be very zealous with them in reasoning with them on religious matters.

The Persian Moslem relishes discussion. He is not loth to see his own religious teachers shown up to be untrustworthy. He is probably the first to charge them with hypocrisy. The rottenness of his own government and the failure of Islam to remedy existing evils are also points he descants heartily upon. From high to low denunciations of rulers and mollahs is a favorite occupation of their leisure hours. But another point in which at present they speak with fervor is the superior claims of Protestant Christianity above all other religions. There is a growing hearty recognition of the incomparable elevation and purity of the teachings of Protestantism and of the nobler lives and characters it produces. These facts give our preachers ready access to the Moslem ear and constitute a grand opportunity for them, which we are constantly pressing upon their attention and consciences.

While we cannot but appreciate the favorable opportunities for evangelistic work among the Moslems in our field, we must not overestimate their significance. It is not wholly a new condition with us. Even thirty years ago, our evangelists, like Kasha Moshe of Tabriz, found in the vicinity, the same general attitude among the Moslems, a friendliness in religious discussions among nearly all classes of the population, and our book-shop was frequented by considerable numbers.

One colporteur, wrote me recently, that he had held religious conversation with over two thousand Moslems on one trip, many very interesting ones, but that he had found scarcely more than six persons who seemed really interested in the salvation of their souls.

In his report on the evangelistic work of the Station, Mr. Coan writes of one tour:

From Sulduz, we went to Soujbulak, where we spent three of the most delightful days of the tour. One cannot go to Soujbulak from unworked ground without being impressed with what has been done there.

Many called and all came to talk on religion, showing a good acquaintance on religious matters that was gratifying and surprising.

One man in high position, owning many villages, a man of most impressive bearing and dignity, talked with an earnestness and seriousness that were touching. He has thoroughly given up all hope in Islam and openly said that Christianity was the only true religion. He told me if there was any religious liberty, he would make it the business of his life, not only to openly confess Christ, but preach Him everywhere he went. "Islam," said he, "is rotten to the core; there is no hope in it, and until we renounce it for the pure teachings of Christ, there is no hope for us as a nation." Longing for religious freedom, he said, "Why do not you, instead of spending your strength in a vain effort to win converts who cannot come out under the present restrictions, put all that strength in to obtain religious liberty?" I asked him what inclined him to Christianity, and he said the thing that had impressed him was, that there must be something in a religion whose followers went so far and were so anxious to teach it to others. "We," he said, "are ashamed to tell you what Islam is. You can be proud of your religion." Our greatest joy was in meeting with one young man who had fully accepted Christ and was full of his new joy. He came every day and often two or three times, and as soon as seated, would open his New Testament and beg us to teach him. Shamasha Shmuel said that this man had in several large gatherings, where the relative merits of Christianity and Islam were being discussed, made bold attacks on Islam, that no one had been able to answer, showing it in its true light. He had read and was deeply interested in "Sweet First Fruits." He asked for Baptism, but it seemed better to give him a little more training in Christian Truth first.

Of the interesting work in Geogtapa Church, of which Mr. Morehatch is the Pastor, the report states:

In less than a year, the congregation has been brought up from less than 100 to 300 and 400; the work of the Church has been thoroughly organized and two societies for Christian Endeavor have been formed, with sixty members; a sewing society has been formed that has made and given away over 20 toman's worth of clothing; the school building that cost so much proved faulty and was taken down to the foundations and rebuilt without aid from the Board, making now the best and most complete school building on the plain, and finally, although a poor Church, they have raised in cash for the pastor's salary and work 416 tomans, with pledges of 150 towards the school if a good teacher can be found.

The one weakness of Geogtapa for years has been its school. One of the reasons for this has been the number of competitive free schools and the poverty of the people, who felt they could not pay what we asked, when free education was furnished elsewhere. This year, efforts were made to get the very best teachers possible. In spite of disappointment along that line and the cruel and harmful effects of a free school, supported from America, that took away over 60 scholars, our school has been gradually brought up to the highest number in years, over eighty, wholly through the indefatigable efforts of Miss Dean and Mr. Morehatch.

The difficulty arising from the presence of an independent Mission can scarcely be overstated. Mr. Coan refers to it in his report:

The very gravest problem is how to deal with the many increasing independent missions that are annually creeping in. Every year brings back men who have gone abroad and obtained an independent work with far larger salary than we can give here. These have in no case settled in needy districts, but they have come right here and simply drawn our congregations. Responsible to no one, they are an increasing menace to the work and doing all possible to divide the Church of Christ and break down self-support. The sad fact is that with all to hamper us here and to discourage, our worst enemies are the Christians at home, who either in ignorance of the facts which is inexcusable, or else in a spirit that is worse—believing every man that comes along, take him up, spoil him for all usefulness and then send him back to be a thorn in the flesh of the Mission for the rest of his life. In the great majority of cases, there is no money that is more wasted and no work more harmful than this.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.

The College.—The general tone of the college has, it is thought, been good along spiritual lines. It is scarcely possible, however, to expect any deep attention to spiritual culture or that any high devotion to ministerial service should prevail under the existing strain of the movement towards America. The same movement is creating a desire for the study of English, which it is difficult to control. Even in our village school, the demand for the teaching of English is emphatic and the missionaries are blamed for the apathy in the matter, which is claimed to be so important to the prosperity of the community. We are not surprised at this trend of opinion and feeling. A similar condition of affairs exists in the Mission to Syria, only in greater force. Their report states that their schools are full because of the English which is taught in them, a weapon which they say seems destined to vanquish the opposition of Jesuit priests and Greek monks. We cannot put quite so high a value upon this study of our educational work, but no one could observe the intense delight of the parents at the English recitations of the graduating pupils from the preparatory department last Summer and not realize the profound conviction among our Protestants that this was an invaluable privilege for their sons to prepare them to take up work in that Eldorado of their hopes, America. We need to handle this exigency with much discretion, not sacrificing our true evangelistic aims, nor our hold upon the people as leaders and guides.

In Mr. Shedd's absence, Mr. Coan has had charge of the College and reports as follows:

Theological Department	6
Medical Department	6
College Preparatory
Total

In the College, itself, there is a grand chance to build up character. The very best in the nation in the way of its youth are gathered here for self-improvement. Great changes are taking place and a progressive spirit is in the air. It is impossible and not right to expect that many of our young men will settle down here with the terrible restrictions that are placed on them by their Moslem masters and neighbors. The situation gets more unbearable every day and all who have been awaked to the possibilities of life and caught the vision of liberty cannot but be restive. Some will stay and fill greatly needed places, but only by such a readjustment of the situation as will make it possible to do so. Others will go abroad or into the professions. It is given to us to have them during their formative period and to influence their characters for life. This is the only place where such character and training can be formed and given, as shall enable them to stand against the increasing temptations of position and wealth. What we need is a more vigorous manhood, one characterized by honesty, truthfulness, sincerity and frankness and the ability to tell the truth under all circumstances and at all times. Above all, it is ours by personal contact and effort to make the highest appeal for a humble, earnest, self-sacrificing, consecrated life. God is certainly opening great doors in Turkey and Persia and Russia. Here are people wonderfully preserved, most providentially situated, and in many ways splendidly adapted to the great work of the evangelization of these three lands. Unlike the Armenian race, they are not proud, have no political ambitions, nor are they naturally adapted to business. Affectionate, easily touched, responsive to appeal and effort, they are easily led, and while lacking some of the more vigorous qualities we so long to see, may we not hope that these will come in time? We have had examples of what God's grace is able to do for them and the past history of their missionary achievements is certainly one of which they may be proud.

FISKE SEMINARY.—Miss Wilbur and Miss McConaughy feared at first they would not be able to open the Boarding Department.

When this word reached the villages, however, there was so much disappointment, that it was finally thought best to allow such to come as were willing and able to pay all expenses of food, fuel, lights and a share of the wages of the bakewoman, as we had expected the mountain girls to do their own cooking. As a result, we had 34 girls who boarded in the building. Of these, only 11 actually paid the twelve tomans, at which a careful estimate put the expenses for the eight months. Eight girls who were very anxious to come, but who were unable to pay the necessary amount of money, were given a room. With a little money, they bought wood and oil and their parents brought them each week, bread, cheese and other food. These girls were under the same rules as to study-hours, time of meals and domestic work, as were the regular boarders. The plan worked better than we had feared, and aside from some little difficulty in getting the parents to come or send the food at a fixed time, there was little confusion, and we felt that it was an advance in the line of self-support.

The total attendance during the year was eighty.

A class in plain sewing was organized, including the whole school, in which a course such as is used in mission schools in America was introduced. The boys became much interested, as well as the girls and many did really good work. It was surprising to see how neatly the little Belshazzars and Amans and Naamans could run a seam or turn a hem. We hope this year by the help of the under teacher to develop this branch into classes for plain sewing, cutting and fitting, and Persian embroidery; the latter being a means of earning money, a valuable acquisition in this country, where so few avenues of self-support are open to women.

Very interesting Christian Endeavor work has been developed by Miss McCoraughy in connection with the Seminary. In nearly thirty villages, societies have been organized to the great advantage of the work.

Miss Van Duzee's work among the Mohammedan children and women has been most effective. Dr. Labaree writes as follows:

There has been more than usual social intercourse between the ladies of our station and Moslem ladies of the higher classes in the city, which has led to much very interesting religious conversation. So much have the ladies been encouraged by the cordiality of their welcome in these Persian homes, by the eagerness with which these calls have been returned, and by the open-heartedness with which these Moslem women enter into conversation on practical religious topics, such as the need of divine aid in the training of children, prayer, and the teachings of Jesus for every day life, that the study of Turkish for higher equipment in such conversations has quite absorbed the thoughts of several of our ladies this past Summer.

And Miss Van Duzee adds:

Both Mohammedans and Jews begin to realize as never before the change which has come to the Nestorian nation through the power of the Gospel and how its men are lifted to positions of respect and honor and they long for the same for their own sons and daughters, while they do not wish the Gospel which lies at the foundation of all.

MEDICAL WORK .- Dr. Cochran writes:

The difficulties under which the physician and surgeon labor in a country like Persia are many. Exaggerated notions of the healing power of our medical science over some diseases, are as difficult to meet and combat, as the want of confidence in the ability to remedy other conditions. Among our own Christians who know us and trust us, we no longer hesitate to do what we believe to be the best for the interests of the patients, but when we undertake a serious case, be it medical or surgical, among Mohammedans, and especially among those who know but little of us, or who are persons of high positions and with a large following, the conditions are entirely different and much time must be spent in explaining the exact situation, as far as they are capable of understanding it, and giving them a personal prognosis. One of our patients was a Kurdish Sheikh from the region of Mosul, who came here for an operation. After one examination and the recommendation of a simple salve to allay his distress, this man developed typhoid fever. He himself, as well as his attendants, regarded this new illness as the direct result of the application of the salve and the man was removed to a neighboring Kurdish village, where he daily grew worse, and after a few days, all hope of his recovery being abandoned, the poor man was borne on a bier and the caravan started for their distant home. friends who had brought their chief, did net wish him to die in a foreign land, nor above all, did they wish him to die in a Christian hospital, any more than we did, and so they hurried him over the border into Turkey, where he died. During their stay in the Hospital and in the village two of the Sheikh's attendants took a course of treatment from us, which so signally helped them, that they insisted that it was impossible that we had purposely killed their chief; and Sheikh Sadik of Nochea, is reported to have assured them most positively that we could not use anything that would harm their patients, and that he put implicit confidence in us and would at any time trust any of his family to our care and treatment. Among a large number of people, however, we have the credit of being the direct means of this noted man's death.

Fortunately, there is another side to this story, for I am sure it is the experience of all physicians in these lands, that many are most grateful for what is done for them, even if the result be unsatisfactory, and when the sick recover, the physician is regarded as the means which God has been pleased to use, and the people are not slow to show their gratitude and love. In a work like ours, where patients often come from a distance, one cannot travel in any direction without meeting those who have been benefitted, and the effort made by these persons to show their appreciation is often very touching. The journey down from Tiflis here, has been no exception to this rule. In the few hours that I spent at Tiflis several Armenians, Moslems and Syrians did their utmost to show their gratitude and affection. On the Erivan plain, an Armenian who had been in the Hospital, was most persistent that I stop over and be his guest. At Julfa, the governor of that district, who is passport officer as well, returned me the money which I had sent him as the usual fee for the visit, and called soon after to explain that money taken by the Persian Government from those who did so much for the country would be sinful. The Custom House Chief rebuked his men for even allowing my trunk and hand-bags to be stopped at the office, remarking that surely a doctor should be allowed to bring whatever he desired into a country for which he had done so much. telegraph operator at the same place, a Urumia man, called to say that the wires were at my command, without charge, if I desired to telegraph in any direction. At Alma Saria, there was a cavalry escort under orders from the Governor of Khoi, to accompany me to the Urumia borders; and at Saatlui, a man whose son had been healed here this Spring, seemed really disappointed that I would not go and take breakfast at his house, and hastened to bring a large quantity of beautiful grapes. And so this work has its reward right along, from day to day, as well as its difficulties, anxieties and dangers. But the greatest reward and satisfaction comes from the fact that this relation which is formed between physician and patient, and which often continues for years, gives, frequently, the opportunity of bringing an influence to bear upon him which is helpful.

In the Hospital, we have treated 406 patients the past year. 238 of these were men and boys and 168 were women and girls. Of these 300 were Syrians, 59 Mohammedans, 46 Armenians and 1 Greek. Total attendance for the year by the medical force was 9119, counting the 406 hospital patient as single attendances.

MOUNTAIN FIELD.

The Rev. B. W. Labaree and Mr. Sterritt report for the Mountain Station, Mr. McDowell having reached the field in time for the Mission meeting.

The greater part of the mountains have been quieter this summer than for many years past. Our early fears of great disturbances have thus far not been realized. It seems that almost all of the Kurds and local Sheikhs have united with Sheikh Mehmed Sadik, son of the famous Obeidullah, in an effort to crush Sutu, the chief of the Uramer tribe, who, it will be remembered, is the one who has been of late years attacking Jelu, Bas and Thoma. This quarrel among the Kurds themselves has given the Christian tribes considerable security, and yet in Tiary, the conditions are as bad as ever. It is reported that 36,000 sheep have been carried off from that tribe since the Spring. In the Summer time, the greater part of each village moves to higher and cooler regions to stay with the sheep. Here they form quite large encampments for self-protection, living in caves or rudely constructed huts. To the people these "Zumany," as they are called, form a most attractive and charming summer resort. To us travellers, they seemed the hottest, dustiest and most desolate of places, as they were always near a spring or bank of snow in the lowest part of the valley. But this assembling of people from different villages in one place, gives our preachers exceptional opportunities for work. Several report large attendances at the services and uninterrupted privileges in presenting the truth to many new hearers.

Mr. Sterrett has been most of his time living in the mountains, acquiring in this way a direct knowledge of the conditions and increasing his influence among the people. He says wisely:

Such a stay among the people, it is hardly necessary to say, is very valuable. One is not only forced to use the language and thus acquires it more rapidly, but he also gets better acquainted with the people. There is always much formality when a foreigner comes among them for a few days' stay, and this formality is a veil which conceals from him their real life. With a longer stay, the formality disappears and one gets a better acquaintance with their ideas, natures, habits of thought as well as habits of life, than a few days' residence can give. I saw the people at work, plowing, planting, irrigating their fields and gathering in their harvests. I heard their cry of "hawar" for help, and saw the men hastily arm and rush off up the mountain sides to guard their flocks and herds from the attacks of robbers. I saw them bring back one of their number dead, having been shot in repelling such an attack. I attended a number of funerals and was there in the month when weddings are celebrated. I visited the house of mourning and the house of rejoicing. I often heard the loud wrangling of the women. I saw a real village fight, when walnut clubs were freely used and when stones were thrown by everybody, men, women and children. Undoubtedly, a long residence will give the missionary a very good acquaintance with the people.

TABRIZ STATION ·

The Tabriz Church, having no pastor, has paid the expenses of a travelling evangelist for six months, paid its incidental expenses, and sent thirteen tomans as a contribution to Korea. Four boys from the school were admitted to membership and one woman from Salmas, and two boys and a girl to probation. Native evangelists have done considerable touring.

Miss Holliday and Mr. Pittman have devoted almost all of their time to itinerating work, finding open doors everywhere. Miss Holliday writes:

During the past year, I have spent six months in touring and six in Tabriz, and have visited twenty-one places. Some of them twice. The longest time spent in one place at once was seven weeks. The shortest, a day or so. Most of these places were inhabited by Turkish Moslems or Ali Illahees, and the predominant aim in touring has been to reach these classes rather than as heretofore, the nominal Christians of our field. It was very sad to see the ruin worked among the Moslems through opium and strong drink, in which many of the upper class, both men and women, indulge to excess. Moderation is a virtue quite unknown to the Turk, and besides the afore-mentioned articles used mainly by the wealthy, the people use tea and tobacco in such quantities as to be a serious menace to health.

We have thought it best not to make flying visits but to stay some time in each place, to become acquainted with individuals as we cannot in a night's sojourn, but we have been careful not to stay too long. As a rule, ten days or two weeks has been the limit and we wish to leave while some, at least, still desire our stay, and to return again after some time has elapsed.

She writes of a Koordish Sheikh who has been very much interested in the Gospel, and to whom Garabed, Miss Holliday's most efficient Armenian associate, had been making a visit:

Giafar Aga, who controls many Koordish villages on the border between Persia and Turkey, and who is a friend and acquaintance of the missionaries, who have been in Salmas. As soon as Garabed reached the village, Giafar Aga sent for him and Garabed found him surrounded by about sixty of his under-chiefs and retainers. Being asked who he was and why he came, Garabed replied he was a Heft Deivan Armenian and his business to call men to repent and seek salvation. The Aga said, "Shall I go to Heaven?" Garabed replied, "Over the door of Heaven is written, 'Robbers, murderers, drunkards, etc., cannot enter here.'" The Aga said: "We whom you see here, are all by trade robbers and murderers; how can we be saved?" Garabed said: "Repent of your sins and believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and you shall be saved." Taking the 15th of Luke, he preached to them for about an hour. Giafar Aga then said to all present: "This man has my permission to go to all the villages under my rule. If any man molests or injures him, he must answer to me." Garabed remained ten or twelve days and visited the Koords in their camps, as they were still in the pastures in tents.

Of his work and his conclusions from it, Mr. Pittman writes:

The opportunity for work among the people and the spirit of unrest and inquiry among them continues. To give them the Gospel by systematic touring, both by missionary and natives, seems to be the work before us now. It seems advisable to encourage and urge our native helpers to spend as much time as possible in touring, for, first, there are no established churches in the places in which our helpers are located to demand all their time, and second, our helpers are few and widely separated and there are many districts destitute of evangelistic effort, except as they may be reached by these helpers. Besides this, the helpers accomplish more and better work when touring than at their home. For, at home, there is the temptation to occupy their time with their own little affairs or socially with their friends during the week and then prepare on Saturday afternoon or Sunday morning for the Sunday services. A busy Armenian said to one of our helpers: "Don't you get tired sitting in the house doing nothing all the time?" I find that I, myself, have more time for work while touring than at home. Our helpers have done well in the amount of touring accomplished and I hope they will continue it. I am glad this Station has been careful in its selection of helpers, as is seen by the small number of them. It seems that a considerable amount of touring will have to be done by missionaries in this field, as qualified and consecrated helpers are not forthcoming. Therefore, another man for touring in this field, I trust will be found next year. A missionary and a native helper make a good combination for touring. Each can learn a great many things from the other, and what the one lacks, the other supplies for the work. We need your prayers, that those of us that come much into contact with these native helpers, may be a blessing and inspiration to them.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.—Memorial Boys' School.— Mr. Wilson reports:

A few Moslem boys continued to attend. This year the number has been increased to twenty-five. Some of them come only for special lessons. To hold them better, French was introduced to the curriculum and a teacher employed. The boarders were twenty-two. Of these four professed conversion and united with the Church. A class of two were graduated from the Common school course and are this year pursuing the High school course. This year's class consists of five promising boys.

GIRLS' SCHOOL.—

The burden of the school, which had rested on Miss Beaber alone, has been manned most efficiently by Miss Drake, while Mrs. Van Hook's coming will cause a much more thorough following up of the pupils in their homes.

MEDICAL WORK.—Of the medical work for men Dr. Vanneman writes:

The dispensary, as usual, has been open every week day morning. The attendance has been equal to any previous year. The average morning attendance being twenty-six. The dispensary reaches all classes of people and when we have better dispensary accommodations, we hope to make our dispensary more effective as an evangelistic agency. My assistant is a converted Moslem and though he often speaks very plainly to Moslems, they have always received it in good spirit. Fanaticism each year appears to be decreasing, shown by the freedom with which the patients receive our medicine and by the freedom with which they talk on religious subjects. Our influence is ever reaching out to more distant villages, some patients coming a six days' journey.

The medical visits to the homes are probably the most important part of my work. These visits during the past year have been considerably more than any previous year. These visits, except for near places, are mostly consultations with other physicians, European and native. This rule, we have had to make on account of lack of time. We are situated in the center of a large city, with the sick all about us and it is impossible to answer every call, so the distant cases we can only accept as consultant to some Persian doctor in charge.

With the present facilities for my medical work, the work in the homes gives more opportunity for spiritual work than the dispensary. In the homes, they seem more free to talk and more sincere. An old Moslem patient and friend, who was a prominent government official, sent his carriage for me and my assistant several times to come and see him in his last fatal illness. He wished to see us especially for spiritual conversation. He professed to accept Christ as his Saviour, but hesitated to come out openly except in the presence of his oldest son. The reasons he gave for concealing his faith were that if he should be known as a Christian, they would bury him as a dog and also that the worldly prospects of his children would be destroyed, even to the taking away of their property by their own Moslem relatives.

Summary:
Attendance at dispensary	,960
Medical visits to patients' homes	320
Receipts for yeartomans. I	.516

In the Whipple Hospital for Women, there have been eighteen in-patients and out-patients 6,856. Dr Bradford writes:

The outside medical visits have amounted to 999. Out of these, fifty-four represented long and difficult cases and in forty-three, an operation was required. What an opportunity it had afforded to see their lives during these hours, sometimes twelve and twenty spent in their homes. How often among the Moslems we have seen the child, and in some cases the mother, sacrificed by the ignorant, prejudiced women. If an anaesthetic is suggested, one positively asserts: "If that is given she will die." If to a patient burning with a fever, I administer a pill and give her with it a glass of cold water, they hold their breath in dismay and exclaim: "We have not given her water for three days. It will make her worse." What a smile sometimes the patient has given me and she will ask: "May I have it again?" Their bondage to superstition is seen again and again. After the patient is put to bed, a sword is unsheathed and the circuit of the room made by scratching the walls with its point; then it is passed around the patient and if a somewhat generous impulse seizes them to include me in this sure protection from the evil eye, they rub it around my skirt. Three onions are pierced with a spit and placed near her pillow. This is to scare the jinns, as they are supposed neither to like the sharp iron nor the strong smell of the onions. Three eggs are put to soak in a bowl of water and must stay at her bedside until she is well enough to go to the bath and be restored to the privilege of saying her prayers. Written prayers, which are to bring good luck, are found soaking in drinking water or in other most unexpected places. There is usually some one who constitutes herself umpire as to things clean and unclean and often the burden she imposes is grievous to be borne. In some houses, it was such a relief that they did not seem to regard these requirements. one place, the husband was angry because his wife should be sick at night and keep the Hakim Khanim out so late. One of the women whispered to me: "It is because he wants to go and smoke his opium." At one time, the brother of my patient came to call me and wept audibly all the way back to the house. At the gate, the husband met us with the word that she was dead. The brother sprang at him as if he would choke him and then they poured such a torrent of reviling at each other. I was glad to beat an immediate retreat. At one house, the mother of my patient required four women to be constantly with her to keep her from injuring herself, so violent was her grief and fear for her daughter. Their petitions for help are addressed to every name with which the history of the Sheahs has made us familiar.

PHILIPPINE MISSION.

Manila: occupied 1899. Missionaries—Rev. J. B. Rodgers and Mrs. Rodgers, Rev. J. Eugene Snook, and Rev. L. B. Hillis.

ILOILO: on the Island of Panay; occupied 1900. Missionaries—J. Andrew Hall, M. D., and Mrs. Hall, Rev. Paul Doltz and Mrs. Doltz.

DUMAGUETE: on the Island of Negros; occupied 1901. Missionaries—Rev. D. S. Hibbard and Mrs. Hibbard, W. H. Langheim, M. D., and Mrs. Langheim, and Rev. W. O. McIntyre.

CEBU: on the Island of Cebu; occupied 1902. Missionaries—Rev. A. A. Pieters and Mrs. Pieters. En route, Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Pursell.

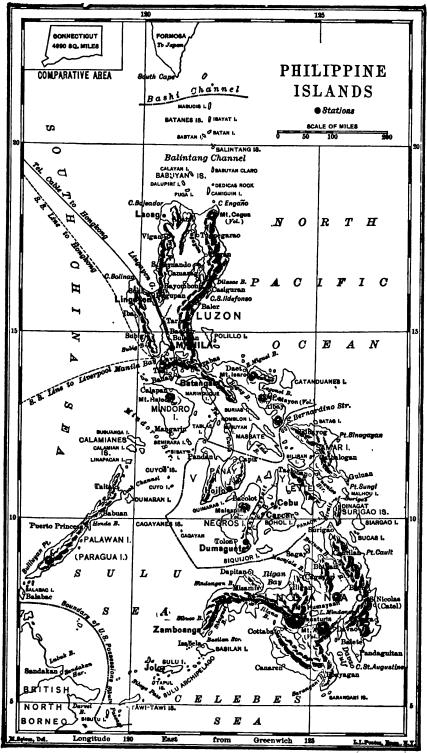

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. D. S. Hibbard and Mrs. Hibbard.

During the year the Philippine Mission has been enlarged by the addition of a new Station at Cebu, Capital of the Island by that name, and the authorization to the Mission to open still another Station at some point on the Laguna de Bay, to which further reference will be made.

Reinforcements have been added, consisting of Rev. L. B. Hillis, Rev. and Mrs. Paul Doltz, Rev. and Mrs. Alex. Pieters. Mr. Hillis has been assigned to English-speaking church in Manila. Mr. Doltz the Iloilo Station, and Mr. Pieters to Cebu. Rev. Leon C. Hillis was compelled ill return to this country on account of serious health, and to resign his connection with the Mission and the Board, which was regretfully accepted. Rev. D. S. Hibbard has also been compelled to return to this country on account of serious and persistent disease.

During the year a special visit for the purpose of evangelization has been made to the Philippine Mission with the approval of the Board, by Rev. Geo. F. Pentecost, D. D. Dr. Pentecost spent months in the Islands visiting the three principal stations in the Mission, but spending the most of his time in Manila where he was heartily received by the Mission and by the people. He also received various tokens of approval by Gov. Taft and other individuals prominent in position and authority. His preaching is reported as having been of the most pungent and faithful character.

From accounts received from the Philippines, it is evident Dr. Pentecost's brief mission was a marked success.

Somewhat disheartened at first by the prevailing apathy shown on the part of American representatives of the Government, the army and various civilians, he constantly gained in influence until toward the last he attained to a high degree of popularity; especially after preaching one or two patriotic sermons to large audiences he found the army and people thoroughly in sympathy with him. An invitation was received from the veteran organization of the "Soldiers of the Spanish and Philippine Armies, to preach to them a patriotic sermon on the next Sunday morning. At the hour appointed, nearly a thousand of the veterans marching to the strains of the Star Spangled Banner, hied them to the tabernacle, and together with the civilians present, filled the building with a vast concourse of people. The sermon touched the audience deeply."

This won for the speaker the good will of the whole community. On the evening of the same day Dr. Pentecost preached on "Protestantism in the Philippines, its Kelation to the Government, Roman Catholic Church and the People." Governor Taft was present. The sermon was received with marked approval and has been published.

Dr. Pentecost in his correspondence urges very strongly a comprehensive and liberally sustained movement in the Philippines, and as if to indicate the purpose of Divine providence in the matter, one goodly response has already been received, and another from a liberal friend of the Philippine cause who says:

God has already given me quite an increase, and I think a part of the first fruits will be well bestowed towards building the new church at Manila. If you can secure a good man of commanding influence to assume the charge, and can raise $50,000 you may rely on me for $10,000 towards it. Please, however, keep this confidential, so far as keeping my name out of the Reports is concerned.

Are there not many other earnest Christian people in the Church who upon reading this virtual challenge will follow the example of this liberal contributor and make up the $50,000 to be used not perhaps in one church, but for church building in Manila and other stations of the Mission.

Dr. Pentecost has extended his special evangelistic visits to China and Japan, where he is at present preaching the Gospel with power.

The Mission report speaks of the year as prosperous on the whole though greatly disturbed by the prevalence of cholera during some of the summer months. It says:

The opportunities for preaching the Gospel were never so great and we must make use of them by increasing our force and developing the effectiveness of those already at work, both Filipino and American,

MANILA STATION.

Of the congregations, two composed of Filipinos and one of American-speaking people at the Capital, the report speaks as follows:

In the city of Manila the growth has been about even in all three of the congregations, and the membership added to each has been about equal. In the original congregation of Trozo, as it is called, the Christian Endeavor Society has been most active and helpful both in encouraging the members in the ordinary activities of a Christian life and in developing and discovering those who promise to become preachers. This congregation was organized on the lines of our church government, by the election of two elders and two deacons. Some of the older members of this congregation have lost their zeal and have dropped away from the services for family reasons or to save their places, which while a matter of regret and sorrow does not occasion surprise.

The Tondo congregation which began last year with so much promise (in the newspapers) has developed steadily as an earnest congregation, though it has never fulfilled the designs or met the hopes of its originators. We have gained much with it, however, as our best preachers and workers have come either from that congregation or from that section. The "prominent men" who were so enthusiastic at the beginning, long ago disappeared with the exception of the two leaders, Buencamino and Pae, who are as faithful as ever.

We have a good Sunday-school organized by Mrs. Jansen and carried on now by Mrs. Rodgers with the aid of a number of American and Filipino teachers.

The Ermita congregation has gained greatly during the year, especially in the months that Mr. and Mrs. Jansen lived in Malate. In this as in the other congregations, the individual life of the congregation is greatly aided by the C. E. Society. It gives the members a chance to exercise their gifts of government in a way that will prepare them for work in the management of the churches later on. Tondo is organized with alders and decease but the Ermita congregation will not ganized with elders and deacons, but the Ermita congregation will not elect for some time.

In addition to the services connected with these three churches, regular services are held each week in eleven other places, generally in a small house or court-yard. The report says:

Outside of Manila, the congregations in Bacoor, San Roque and old Cavite are organized with a temporary organization and have grown stronger. The weakest of the last year, Kawit, has become the strongest of the three. A number of persons have been baptized and the native evangelists have visited several times two or three other neighboring towns.

The English-speaking church was carried on during the year successively by Rev. W. O. McIntyre, Rev. J. E. Snook and Rev. L. B. Hillis. The latter arrived September 13, 1902, and took charge of this important work without the advantage of experience, as he had but recently left the ١

Theological Seminary. Many and serious difficulties have been encountered, and yet the present condition and outlook afford much encouragement. The chief difficulty lies in the fact that the soldiers who largely compose the congregation, are almost constantly on the move from place to place. For example, Mr. Hillis' report says:

The Tuesday evening prayer meeting had grown in the last few weeks until the troops which formed most of its support, were ordered home. At the Thursday evening meeting which is largely a reception, fifty to seventy-five soldiers are sometimes present. There is a Junior Endeavor Society which was formed in the last few months.

Transportation in the city of Manila is a serious matter for the English congregation whose residences are widely scattered. There is no street car service and the livery charges are excessive:

"Owing to constant changes," says the report, "most of the members on the church roll have gone home or are in other provinces. Of the affiliated members, 43 are at home, 10 in the other provinces, 15 not located. Only 19 are on the ground. Of 55 members, 27 united by letter and 28 on profession. About half of those who are on the rolls are regular in attendance."

· Notwithstanding all these difficulties, Mr. Hillis says:

Nevertheless this is one of the most encouraging fields in the world. There is opportunity for all there is in a man. With all the other denominations are doing, there is still here a parish of some thousands of young men to be mterested in the church. The Trozo church has been planning to secure their own pastor, and as a result the interest has greatly increased and the attendance nearly doubled. The Chinese work in Manila has been growing in an encouraging way.

The work upon the Laguna de Bay which has been in the hands of Rev. J. E. Snook was greatly disturbed and impeded by the prevalence of cholera for two or three months. Several places have been visited on the Eastern shore of the Laguna. The report says of them:

Everywhere interested, or at least curious, audiences have listened to the preaching. Another year when there is a missionary who has the Tagalog language in the field, we feel confident that this section will show great fruit. Mr. Snook has determined to build a steam or vapor launch for his use on the lake, or bay, and we feel convinced that this will lessen the difficulties of itinerating greatly.

Since the reception of the Mission report, the Board has authorized the formation of a new station at some point on the Laguna de Bay, and has taken steps for pushing forward vigorously the securing of a launch, and also of one or two additional missionaries to accompany Mr. Snook in opening a new station on the Laguna. The difference between being compelled to traverse the irregular coast line without good roads, with few bridges, no general means of transportation for visiting the many flourishing towns on the Bay, or on the other hand the advantages of moving on straight lines across the Bay with a swift and comfortable launch are so great that every practical mind must see it at a glance and general interest and enthusiasm be shown toward its realization.

The letters of Mr. Snook state that with the towns lying on the coast and those accessible at short distance therefrom, the territory encompassed would be equal to the whole State of Massachusetts.

Manila Station has received during the year 175 members on profession, though this is less by a few than were received last year. But it is not a mere numerical gain which has encouraged the Mission. The spiritual uplift of the field is one of the best elements of the work. The report says on this point:

In regard to the general features of the work, the way in which many of the members are developing spiritually is most encouraging. The Gospel has been the power of God unto salvation to many of the people. Those who were morally paralyzed recover their uprightness, one of our members was a drinking man and in his drinking spells, it is said, he was "almost as bad as an Anglo-Saxon." His wife and child had to flee the house. Now he has changed completely.

There is as yet, however, a deeply-rooted impression among the people that the Americans and the American churches are groaning under the burdens of redundant wealth, and the necessity of developing self-support is but feebly comprehended. Five evangelists are under process of training in Manila Station. One of these is supported by the Christian Endeavor Society of the English congregation. A second one is spoken of as possessing great power in preaching and in winning the people in the outlying towns. He will soon be ready for ordination. These men have been preaching as laymen for some time, but are now expected to devote their entire strength to the work. The other evangelists are men who are busy in their secular vocations during the week, but preach on Sundays and in the evenings. Both are effective men. Several other young men render more or less assistance in conducting services. A chapel has been dedicated in the town of Pasig. The report says of this:

A launch load of people went up the river and helped in the service. Binan and old Cavite and Angustias and Tondo in the city, have part of the material ready to build as soon as they can secure the necessary funds. We had hoped that all three places should have had their houses ready ere this.

A lot has been secured for the Tondo (Filipino) congregation, and a good building has been erected, furnishing accommodations for about 500 people. The position is favorable for prosperous work. A lot was also secured in Ermita, and a contract was signed for the purchase, but it was found to be in hopeless litigation and accordingly the contract was relinquished.

The English congregation have been subjected to many vicissitudes through the change of temporary supplies, but the arrival of Mr. Hillis in September to take permanent charge of the congregation has proved a salutary provision. The Station report strongly recommends the establishment of a station at Albay or Sorsogon which are in the extreme southeast part of the island of Luzon.

The question of establishing in Manila a training school for Christian workers, receives favorable consideration in the report. This plan was proposed by Rev. Dr. Ewing of India many months ago, while on a special visit to the Philippines to aid in organizing our educational work. It had been hoped that Mr. McIntyre would have charge of this work at Manila, but the Mission regarded it as essential that he be transferred for a time at least to Dumaguete to aid in the educational work there. Regret is expressed in the Manila report that workers there engaged should have so been drawn off to the support of the work in the Visavan stations.

Reference is made to the movement called the "Iglesia Catolica Filipino," or the new Filipino Catholic Church. This movement under the direction of a priest named Gregoreia Aglipay who had been in the Filipino army and was for a time ecclesiastical governor, and who was appointed by Aguinaldo as chief bishop of the Iloilo church, still maintains its protest, and dissent against the power of the Pope, and his friars. No reform is proposed in place of Romanism, but only a break with the Pope and the hierarchy. It is, however, another evidence of the popular prejudice against the friars and the old Catholic regime. Aglipay professes sympathy with the work of the Protestant Missions and the Filipino Protestants have strong hopes that this movement will in some way inure to the benefit of our Protestant Missions.

ILOILO STATION.

The retirement of Rev. Leon C. Hills, our only clerical missionary at Iloilo, on account of broken health, and the substitution of Mr. Doltz, who is entirely ignorant of the language has necessarily impaired the mission work at that station. The absence for three or four months of Dr. Hall on a visit to Japan on account of the sickness of Mrs. Hall involved another hindrance. Still the Mission report speaks hopefully of the work:—"We rejoice in the steady progress and the opening of considerable new work in the country districts."

Regular weekly services at Iloilo are the main chapel services at 5 P. M., Sunday-school at 8 A. M., another in a different part of the city at 10 A. M., still another elsewhere at 3 P. M. Service is also held at the hospital at 5 P. M. in Visayan and there has been a Tagalog service at 7 P. M. on Tuesday, general services on Wednesday, prayer meeting on Friday. These details are given to show how thoroughly packed is the programme of services held by our missionaries and their native assistants at Iloilo. Meetings have been held also in the suburbs of La Paz, Moro and Oton. Four or five meetings have been held especially for the women. The report says:

In caring for this work we have had the help of two paid workers, one of whom is our language teacher, and some six male and temale workers whose services are voluntary. The services thus enumerated have been fairly well attended.

A beginning has been made in itineration this year and has been exceedingly gratifying in its results. Everywhere the village people received us gladly and listened eagerly to the preaching of the Gospel. We have generally a crowd of from fifteen to thirty people who follow us from village to village, and help us sing and gather in the people for these services. They would generally walk a long distance to attend the Sunday services in Iloilo. Several visits were made to Leon and San Miguel, two large interior towns and to a number of small villages. In the village of Batuan consisting of five or six hundred inhabitants, the people are practically all Protestants. People are everywhere anxious to hear the Word, except where the priests have poisoned their minds. The English services have been attended with greater interest than ever, owing to the influx of school teachers and others. The last act of Mr. Hills before leaving the field was to organize the congregation into a regular church. Letters written by Dr. Hall, since the receipt of the Station report, indicate great persecution visited on the poor people in some of the remote districts. This does not consist so much of religious intolerance, as of robbery and lawless bands. The people have suffered also from unsatisfactory crops and from cholera. The work of our missionaries is one which demands the exercise of much sympathy.

There are evidences also that the collection and absorption of taxes by Filipino officials has become very oppressive, and more so in the ratio of distance from Iloilo.

MEDICAL WORK.—This has been more or less curtailed, necessarily, by the absence of Dr. Hall for a time and perhaps still more by the attention which he felt it to be necessary to give, particularly in the absence of Mr. Hills, to evangelistic work, a branch of work which, though an unordained layman, Dr. Hall has eminently sucessful. The small hospital about a year ago by private subscriptions, and placed under the care of Dr. Hall, has been abundantly useful during the outbreak of the cholera. There is a municipal hospital, but it has been little better than a failure owing to mismanagement of the officials in charge. Hall is anxious for ordination, that he may give his whole time to preaching and meanwhile he asks that a physician and surgeon may be sent out to conduct the medical department.

The Station report expresses great regret at the loss experienced in the removal of Mr. Campbell, an earnest Christian layman, who had rendered valuable aid in the Christian work of the Station. Mr. Campbell had moved to another place of residence owing to the demands of his business.

DUMAGUETE STATION.

The addition of Mr. McIntyre to the force at Dumaguete in June last, greatly increased the efficiency of the Station, and particularly in the management of the Silliman Institute. This school has enrolled 114 students, varying in age from ten to twenty-one years, and in all stages of advancement. They have come from Negros, Cebu, Panay and Luzon, and principally from Oriental Negros. About seventeen of these youth are non-paying students and are working their way in the school. The class exercises of the week number 165, which involves the almost incessant labor of the regular instructors. The use of the English language in the instruction given is more and more in demand. The work of erecting college buildings is progressing fairly, though with many obstacles. The reports speak highly of the friendly spirit and practical co-operation of the provincial governor and other prominent persons at Dumaguete in all that pertains to the school enterprise and the general plans of the Station. A more open door and a more cordial welcome could hardly be wished for. The fact that Dumaguete is a station of exceptional salubrity and exemption from disease, has been shown in the fact that Dr. Langheim has by judicious and watchful care and sanitary precaution saved the community to a large extent from the fearful ravages of cholera which visited Iloilo.

Religious services have been maintained and good results have been attained by Mr. McIntyre. As a larger army post is to be established there, it is expected that this element will show a large increase. A Spanish Bible class and a Spanish afternoon Sunday service have been attended by students and other residents. Two of the old students, strong and active young men, have professed faith in Christ, and several of their relatives residing elsewhere have signified a desire to do likewise.

MEDICAL WORK.—The medical work of Dr. Langheim has been varied and exacting, especially when taken in connection with the valuable services rendered at the Institute as one of the instructors. At the same time, he has important duties as general superintendent of the Board of Health for Oriental Negros. Dr. Langheim's personal report says:

Since the opening of medical work at the Dumaguete Station, it has been well received by the natives, and despite the fact that there has not been time to learn the local or Visayan dialect, and that on account of the iliness of Mrs. Langheim, an absence for three months from the field was necessary. The summary for the year ending December, 1902, shows: Total number of treatments, 1,635, of which 1,082 were at the dispensary and 553 visits were made to the houses of patients. The number of surgical cases was 210. Of the 553 visits, 71 were made at night.

The need of a hospital building became so imperative that the Board granted Dr. Langheim the privilege of using $1200 granted by the Government for the superintendency of the medical work in the district, for the purpose of erecting a small hospital. The medical work of Oriental Negros, with a population of 150,000, has but three physicians, the army surgeon, a Filipino doctor and the medical missionary.

In addition to the medical work in the villages, and the work of instruction in the mission school, Dr. Langheim has given much attention to the sanitary work of the local Board of Health. At Dumaguete as at all our stations, a great need is now felt for enlargement of our force. The work is spreading beyond the power of the Board to meet its claims, at the same time that its promise of fruitfulness is becoming greater from month to month.

CEBU STATION.

The opening of this station was effected September, 1902. Mr. and Mrs. Jansen were at the request of the Board detached from the Manila Station and sent there for that purpose. They were followed ten days later by Rev. A. A. Pieters and wife. Some weeks were necessarily spent in "house hunting," which proved to be a difficult matter. It was scarcely accomplished when the dengue fever attacked some of the missionaries, while Mrs. Pieters was taken ill with typhoid fever only five days after her arrival.

The first native audience consisted of only five persons. It now varies from thirty to forty at each service. such services are held within the week. The class for Bible study has at the request of those most interested been instituted. Those who attend are studying with a view to helping their fellow-men to a knowledge of Christ. Sixteen bright young men are on the class roll. Mr. Vicente Sotto, editor and proprietor of the Spanish and Visayan paper, has become interested in the Gospel, and is doing much in his editorial column to help forward the work. He is translating a number of striking Spanish tracts, and publishing them. They have already been heard from in some of the remoter islands. A number of members of a prominent native club have declared their intention to identify themselves with the Presbyterian Church when such a church will have been founded. Sunday services in English have been held by Messrs. Pieters and Jansen from the first.

R'AJABUREE: population 5,000, province 240,000; on the Po River, Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station 1889. Missionaries—Rev. E. Wachter, M. D., and Mrs. Wachter, Rev. R. W. Post and Mrs. Post.

PITSANULOKE: population 5,000, province 240,000; on the Po River, 225 miles north of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station 1889. Missionaries—Walter B. Toy, M. D., and Mrs. Toy, and Rev. A. W. Cooper and Mrs. Cooper.

NAKAWN: population 10,000, province 400,000; on the eastern side of the Malay Peninsula 500 miles south of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station 1900. Missionaries—Rev. C. E. Eckels and Mrs. Eckels, and W. J. Swart, M. D.

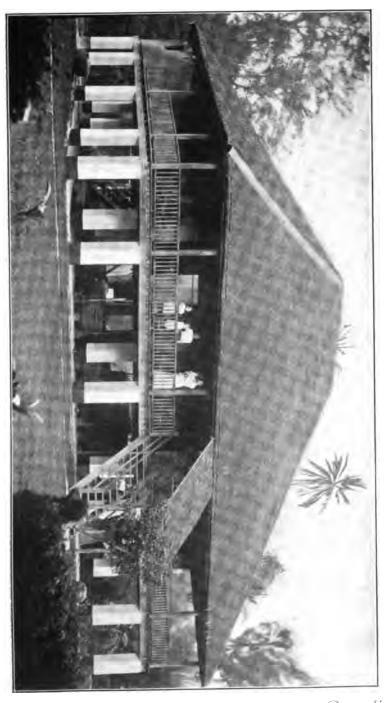

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. and Mrs. W. G. McClure, and Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Dunlap.

One of the most important events of the year was the visit of Rev. Arthur J. Brown, D. D., and Mrs. Brown. They visited all the Stations of the Mission except Nakawn, and the missionaries and Christians were greatly cheered by their presence and encouraged by their counsels. Some very important changes and suggestions were the result of Dr. Brown's observations on the field.

In February, Miss Ellen C. Parsons visited Siam, and personally investigated the work. Such visits are greatly appreciated by the missionaries, who would be glad to welcome the friends of missions in their homes more frequently.

An epidemic of dengue fever, early in the year, prostrated nearly all the missionaries for short periods; otherwise the health of the missionaries has been generally good. However, it is a regretable fact that Dr. and Mrs. Boyd and Mr.

and Mrs. Armstrong have been compelled to return to the United States under conditions of ill health that make it improbable that they will be able to return to Siam.

It is a matter of great importance and gratification that the various departments of work in the Mission have become largely self-supporting. The Press, the larger Mission schools, and the medical work have practically reached that point; and the churches ask nothing from the Board for their support. A movement has been started also among the young Christians in the capital toward a national church to be established and sustained wholly by native means, thus showing that Christianity is striking her roots into the soil.

The crying need of the work in Siam is more men; to adequately supply the existing stations, to open new stations, to do general touring, and to better equip the Mission schools. The Mission asks for four new ordained men, a medical missionary, a qualified male teacher, two young ladies, and means and men sufficient to open a new station at Puket. There is immediate need also of at least four new buildings.

BANGKOK STATION.

The new residence for Mr. Snyder has been completed. The new buildings for the Christian High School are still unfinished, but will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. A new godown for the use of the Laos and Siam Missions has been erected as an addition to the Press building, thus meeting a much felt need and at the same time giving increased room for the press work.

EDUCATIONAL.—THE CHRISTIAN HIGH SCHOOL.—The work of the school has gone on uninterruptedly; though Rev. J. A. Eakin, the principal, has been compelled to give almost daily attention to the erection of the new buildings three miles distant. Miss Galt has taught the classes of the sixth grade, and she has successfully managed the boarding and dormitory department for special students, which was only an experiment last year.

There has been a good religious interest among the students. Special meetings, held during and after the week of prayer, resulted in nearly all the older boys expressing a decision to accept Christ as their Saviour. Three of the Seniors have united with the church.

The school reports a total enrollment of 186, average attendance 108, number of boarders 50. Five young men were graduated last March.

These young men are in demand for positions of trust. A high official is quoted as having said: "We will gladly take all your graduates for public service, because they are the type of young men we need." This school greatly needs an additional qualified lay teacher from America.

HARRIET M. HOUSE SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.—Miss Edna S. Cole is principal of the school. She has given instruction in Standard VI, and has had a multitude of other duties required by her position. Miss L. J. Cooper has the work of Standard V, vocal music, and the sewing class. Miss Bissell has given instruction on the piano, in addition to her language study. "The Siamese teachers have been faithful to every trust."

The course of study combines Bible lessons and Christian instruction, with the Government Code. It is believed that the best results are obtained in this way.

The school reports an enrollment of III pupils, IOI being boarders, average attendance 90. The accommodations have been crowded to the utmost and many applicants have been turned away.

A primary day-school for girls, on the lower Mission compound, has been under the direction of Mrs. Eakin; its purpose being to create a desire for knowledge which can be secured by entering the Harriet M. House school.

MISSION PRESS.—It has worked under special pressure throughout the year in the prospect of being closed during the furlough of Rev. J. B. Dunlap, the manager. Much of its work has been for the American Bible Society, adding 50,000 portions of Scriptures to the stock. The Mission has on hand over 100,000 volumes of religious booklets in the vernacular, together with several thousand tracts and leaflets.

The Daybreak has also been published monthly; but will be discontinued at the end of the year, on account of the great difficulty of providing for it or making it self-supporting in the circumstances.

The Press must necessarily do much job work in order to self-support, but it has the reputation and the satisfaction of doing the best work of any press in Siam. The departments of Government and business men, when wanting special work done, usually apply to our Press. All this is due to the energy and efficiency of the present manager, under whom it has grown to be what it is.

EVANGELISTIC.—Rev. E. P. Dunlap, D. D., has devoted as much of the year to general touring work as his health would permit. When not able for touring, he has assisted with the evangelistic work in Bangkok, and has prepared some Christian tracts. He made a tour of two months in the Nakawn and Bandon provinces, accompanied by Mrs. Dunlap and Rev. Yuan and wife. Aside from their visit to the Nakawn Station, "they made a ten days tour in canoes up a mountain stream to a settlement never before reached by missionaries." They held two preaching services daily, ministered to many sick people, left many tracts, and registered a number of inquirers. At one place they baptized six converts, one being an aged nobleman who, with four sons and four grandsons, sat down at the Lord's Table. At Ta Chee they found a faithful elder ministering to some twenty Christians, and the people interested in building a chapel.

Rev. F. L. Snyder has made monthly visits, from one to three days each, to Ayuthia and Paknam, where he has held preaching services and has done much visiting among the people; he has also done much evangelistic work in Bangkok, especially in connection with the Nara (now Banmaw) and Rajawong chapels. He has been much hindered, however, by his building work.

Rev. B. T. Boon Itt was transferred from Pitsanuloke Station to Bangkok at the time of Dr. Brown's visit. His work has been especially to organize and encourage the young Christians of Bangkok, and to lead them along the lines of self-support and independent growth. As a result they have purchased property and are erecting a church building and they expect to employ and support their own pastor, all from native sources. There is no more important feature or encouraging sign in all the work of the Mission than this.

First Church, Sumray: Sabbath services, Sabbath school, and the midweek prayer-meeting have been regularly maintained. Miss Lucy Dunlap and some of the missionaries have assisted in the Sabbath-school, and Miss Galt has held a Bible class for women that has been full of interest.

Pastor Yuan has suffered much from sickness, he accompanied Dr. Dunlap on one of his tours in the hope of regaining his health.

Second Church, Wang Lang: Rev. J. B. Dunlap supplied the church throughout the year. Five new members have been received. The audience is composed largely of of the pupils of the Harriet M. House School. They have a Band of King's Daughters, the object of which is to keep the members in touch with each other, to promote growth in grace and to do some useful service. They have given twenty ticals to the famine sufferers in India, eighteen ticals to general Christian work, and have seventy ticals for the new church.

Third Church, Rajawong: This church is composed chiefly of Chinese Christians. It has no building, but worship in a rented room which is kept open every day. Kroo Choy is Mr. Snyder's faithful helper in this church. The Siamese language, the Chinese in more than one dialect, and the English are sometimes brought into requisition in the various services of this church. It reports a membership of eighty-four, of which twenty-six were added this last year.

The church has contributed to Home Missions (in Siam), 61 ticals; incidentals, 12; Deacon's fund, 15, and to the American Bible Society, 21. Total, 109 ticals (about $27 gold).

Mrs. J. B. Dunlap and Miss Lucy Dunlap have conducted an interesting Sabbath-school in connection with the Banmaw chapel.

PETCHABUREE STATION.

This Station was fairly well manned in the early part of the year, but was much weakened toward its close. Mr. and Mrs. McClure left in August for their furlough. Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong have been compelled, by ill nealth, to return to the United States. Dr. W. J. Swart has been transferred to Nakawn Station; so that Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Jones, with only three years experience, were left to carry the whole responsibility of a work calling for not less than two or three experienced families. Later they were joined by Dr. and Mrs. E. B. McDaniels, recently arrived from America.

EDUCATIONAL.—Day-school for Boys: Mrs. Mc-Clure had supervision of the school until March, then Rev. R. C. Jones took control. The attendance was very small during the first term; but after the long vacation, the school was removed to a more suitable room, the tuition was somewhat reduced on the lower grades, and two teachers were employed. Improvement was perceptible and the enrollment increased to twenty-nine, with an average attendance of nineteen. Christian instruction is emphasized at all times; and the superior teaching of our school is generally recognized, though the zeal for free native schools in the city, both for boys and girls, has attracted many children who would otherwise be in our schools. The time has not yet come when it seems practicable to reopen the school for girls.

MEDICAL.—The medical work has been growing steadily, and Dr. Swart and his helpers have done much to make it a power for good as a mission agency. Daily morning prayers, Sabbath services, an open reading room, and much personal work among the patients, have made favorable impressions on many hearts; and some have expressed a desire to become Christians.

The whole number of patients treated was 2286. There were 77 inpatients, 120 visits made to the homes of the people, 21 major operations, 66 minor operations, and 3400 sales at the dispensary. The increase of major operations, especially, shows the growing confidence of the people. Receipts have more than covered expenses.

EVANGELISTIC.—A number of short tours have been made into the surrounding country; one as far as Rajaburee, and many hundreds of people heard the Gospel preached. Licentiate Boon was the faithful helper of the missionaries in all kinds of evangelistic work.

Street chapel services were held in the city on Sabbath afternoons during the greater part of the year. Hundreds learned something of the Gospel story there. The ever-changing audiences were from all the surrounding villages, thus the good seed was sowed "beside all waters."

A special evangelistic effort was made in June, in which all the missionaries and native Christians participated. The aim was to flood the city with God's Word, and to stir it as we had never before done. Leaflets were printed in the Siamese language, containing verses of Scripture and brief pointed comments. The city was divided into sections, and each section was assigned to a missionary and a Siamese Christian, who went in company, leaving a leaflet at each house and shop and temple throughout the city; and many were given to people from the villages. This was repeated with a different leaflet each day from Monday until Saturday, 2,000 each day; then 4,000 invitations were issued preparatory to the following week of special preaching services. This was preceded and accompanied by much prayer. The result was a profound stirring of the city. A multitude of people flocked to the first preaching service such as could not half be accommodated in the mission chapel. Many attended out of curiosity, certainly, thinking that something unusual was to be done; and they were eager to know the interpretation of the words, "The kingdom of heaven is at hand," which was the startling announcement of the first leaflet. Some thought it was the announcement of the completion of the new railroad; others thought that some foreign power was taking possession of Siam; while others understood that it had some spiritual import. Good audiences of interested listeners assembled twice daily for eight days.

Soon after that, special services were held in the Chinese language for several days; for there is a large Chinese population as well. Several Chinese began to take interest in the preaching. One was baptized and about a dozen others were enrolled as inquirers. A number of these have since applied for baptism. They began almost immediately to suggest plans for a new chapel for the Chinese.

Mrs. McClure and some of the Christian women also conducted Sab bath afternoon classes that were attended by large numbers of children and adults. They worked in neighboring villages during the dry season, and in the city after the rains began.

The opening of the new railroad between Petchaburee and Bangkok, this year, will greatly facilitate the work of the Station; though it will also introduce many hindering influences. Missionaries are the forerunners of Christian civilization; but they are usually followed closely by unprincipled Europeans and Americans whose lives do much to counteract the good work done. There are hundreds of such men in Siam to-day. The curious circumstance occurred recently, in the construction of this new railroad, that heathen Chinese workmen refused to obey the orders of their Christian (?) overseers to work on the Sabbath. Again, on a certain Sabbath, these Christian overseers, through drink and disagreement about their work, came to blows and joined in a disgraceful fight, which was witnessed by a crowd of the Siamese people. The lives of such men inevitably cause the reputation of Christianity to suffer; though fortunately the Siamese are learning to recognize the difference between them and the missionaries.

RAJABUREE STATION.

The burden of all the departments of work rested on Mr. and Mrs. Cooper during the first half of the year, except for the few weeks that Dr. Boyd had charge of the medical work. Dr. and Mrs. Wachter returned from their furlough in July.

This Station, like some of the others, has never been strongly enough manned to permit much aggressive evangelistic work to be done. This fact has led the Board to seriously consider the advisability of consolidating this Station with Petchaburee, thirty miles distant, in such a way as to lessen the local routine work and thus free more men for the general evangelistic work. The local work, in an encouraging state of growth at both Stations, however, offers a serious difficulty to practical consolidation. This Station is on the line of the new Petchaburee railroad and will experience the advantages and disadvantages arising from that fact.

EDUCATIONAL.—

The Suriwong School.—Mr. Cooper had charge of the school throughout the year. Mrs. Cooper also devoted several hours each day to the school, giving instruction in music, penmanship, drawing, etc.

The total enrollment for the year was seventy-four, including thirteen girls. The average attendance for the various months ranged from twenty-three to fifty-two pupils. "It is encouraging to note that the attendance has steadily increased during each month of the half year." "We greatly need a second teacher for primary work; and the increasing school revenues will warrant pledging his salary whenever it is possible to secure a suitable man."

The free temple schools still flourish, but their competition no longer seems to interfere, to any great extent, with the patronage of our self-supporting pay school, even in the vernacular grades.

MEDICAL.—The dispensary was kept open all through the year, even when there was no resident physician. "Every afternoon the sick had the opportunity of obtaining medicine from Kroo Koo, who has proved himself a very valuable and efficient helper."

Mr. Cooper had the oversight of this department until the return of Dr. Wachter, who has carried on the full work of the department since July. Dr. Boyd had charge of the medical work and greatly relieved Mr. Cooper for a few weeks. Dr. Swart was called over from Petchaburee occasionally during the year.

The medical work, both here and at Petchaburee, has profited by the presence of so many railroad officials and employees. It is freely patronized by Government officials also; and it has a great influence in the way of securing a favorable hearing for the Word and kind regard for the whole work of the Mission.

EVANGELISTIC.—The usual Sabbath-school and preaching services have been maintained, with increased attendance during the latter part of the year, but the fewness of the workers has made it impossible to undertake any outside touring.

PITSANULOKE STATION.

Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Toy have faithfully held on in very trying circumstances, and have kept up all the departments of work as fully as possible. Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Boon Itt took a much needed vacation for six months, and were afterwards transferred to Bangkok. Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong were not able to be with them even for company, and the other Stations could not spare any of their workers to go to their assistance; hence Dr. and Mrs. Toy were alone throughout the year. Yet Dr. Toy was able to report cheerfully, saying: "It is with much gratitude and hearts filled with thanksgiving that we look back upon the year just completed." Though tied down so closely, without the possibility of a vacation, still there was no serious illness in their family. They were blessed by the birth, in October, of a son, Albert Edward. They were occasionally cheered by brief visits from passing Laos missionaries, and by a short visit from Dr. and Mrs. Brown just at the beginning of the year.

Dr. Brown was greatly impressed with the importance of this Station as a centre for missionary operations and desired to see it better manned, so that it might more fully undertake the great work awaiting it.

Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Cooper have just been transferred from Rajaburee to re-enforce the work at this Station.

PROPERTY AND BUILDINGS.—Dr. Toy's residence has been almost completed. Material has been purchased and stored for the new house and Mr. Cooper has been instructed to proceed with the erection of it, under the direction of the Property Committee.

The Mission authorized Dr. Toy to make minor changes in the plan for the hospital, which His Excellency The High Commissioner has now offered to erect in memory of his mother, recently deceased.

EDUCATIONAL.—During the first half of the year, Dr. Toy took charge of the boy's school and taught the English classes. When it was known that Mr. Boon Itt would be retained at Bangkok, Dr. Toy felt that he would have to close the school; but his assistant teacher, Kroo Tean Pow, offered to take charge and do what he could to keep up the school until re-enforcements should come, considering it unwise to let the boys return home and thus lose a year of study. He bravely and successfully carried the whole burden of the school through the last five months, with the assistance of a couple of student teachers.

The average attendance was twenty-nine pupils, eighteen of them being boarders. This year, for the first time in its history, the school fell short of self-support. On account of the absence of Mr. Boon Itt, the full amount necessary was not contributed by the friends of the school.

Rev. A. W. Cooper has been appointed to take charge of the school this year. Christian instruction and devotional exercises are always a feature of the school.

MEDICAL.—The work of this department has steadily grown, though Dr. Toy has not been able to give his full time to it, because of so many other demands.

The lack of a hospital building has been a great draw-back to the work and the recent disturbances in the Laos country have delayed the work of securing subscriptions for the new hospital. However, there is good reason to believe that there will be little difficulty in getting the entire amount necessary to complete the work this next year, as all the officials and people are greatly interested in it.

Systematic religious instruction and regular services for the patients have been practically impossible, from lack of suitable accommodations. About 1600 patients received treatment, and 175 visits were made to the homes of the people.

EVANGELISTIC.—Regular Sabbath services have been maintained through the year, and 105 ticals and 18 atts were contributed. It was all applied toward the improvement of the chapel building.

Itinerating has been impossible in the circumstances, though the station is planning to lay much stress on this branch of the work when the force is sufficiently increased.

Interest has been shown by the boys in school, and some of them seem ready to accept Christ, but none have yet dared to take the step that will set them at variance with their friends.

NAKAWN STATION.

Mr. and Mrs. Eckels have been alone at the Station during the greater part of another year. Conditions of travel were such that Dr. and Mrs. Boyd could not reach them until March. About a month later Mrs. Boyd began to show signs of serious illness, and they were compelled to go to Singapore for medical advice; and on July first they started for the United States to seek medical treatment that could not be risked in that debilitating climate. It was a matter of great regret to themselves and of disappointment to the Station that they could not remain. To be so often deprived of associates and helpers in the work would have made Mr. and Mrs. Eckels despair were they not possessed of such dauntless, self-reliant spirits.

For a period of two months, at the beginning of the year, they were entirely cut off both from postal and telegraphic communication with the other Mission Stations, five hundred miles away. They were at the same time without medical assistance had they needed it. Fortunately they have had fairly good health throughout the year and have been abundantly blessed in their confident trust in God.

BUILDINGS.—The chapel was thoroughly renovated and repaired in the early part of the year.

A residence for a physician has been under process of construction, but the work has been delayed by the difficulty of getting building materials ready.

A third residence is still necessary for the full equipment of the Station.

MEDICAL.—Dr. W. H. Boyd had charge of this department for a few weeks about the middle of the year. Aside from that, the burden of the work has rested on Mr. Eckels, in such a way as to claim a large portion of his time; for the medical work has steadily increased during the year.

In one month there were 459 dispensary attendances, 13 out-patients requiring 48 visits, 59 persons prescribed for, 55 dressings of wounds, ulcers, etc., four minor operations, and 416 sales and donations of medicines. The work of the other months was in the same proportion. Receipts were far beyond the estimates. Ticals 1200 were estimated as the probable receipts for the entire year, but 1800 ticals were taken in during the first six months.

Nai Kot, a Christian man, has given faithful and efficient assistance in this department.

There is a splendid opening for medical work at this station, and Dr. W. J. Swart has been transferred from Petchaburee Station to take charge of it. It is his desire to erect a memorial hospital to the sacred memory of Mrs. Swart, who yielded up her life among the Siamese people there, a triumphant witness for Christ.

EDUCATIONAL.—The boys' school was open throughout the year, but with a small attendance. The teacher, Kroo Chaang, assisted as language teacher for Dr. Boyd, and as interpreter in the dispensary a part of the time.

EVANGELISTIC.—In addition to all the extra drafts on Mr. Eckels' time, he was able to maintain all the regular church services, with an attendance about the same as last year. Mrs. Eckels also had a class for children each Sabbath morning; though, in the latter part of the year, it was changed to a class for women preparing for church membership.

Obviously, Mr. Eckels had little time for evangelistic work away from the Station; but in September, the Station was visited by Dr. and Mrs. Dunlap and Rev. Yuan and wife, as stated above. The Station and the church were greatly refreshed by their visit. Preaching services were held twice daily for some time, which were well attended by the Christians and some others.

A communion service was held at which there were eleven applicants for church membership. Three of these were wives of members, and from Mrs. Eckels' Bible Class. All were enrolled in the inquirer's class for further instruction. The visiting brethren also held services at Haw Moke and other out-stations where there are Christians. There were some baptisms and some were added to the roll of inquirers.

NORTH LAOS MISSION.

CHIENG MAI: on the Me (river) Ping, about a month and a half by Laos boat, or 500 miles in an air-line, north of Bangkok; occupied as a Mission Station 1867. Missionaries—Rev. Daniel McGilvary, D. D., and Mrs. McGilvary, Rev. D. G. Collins and Mrs. Collins, J. W. Mc-Kean, M. D., and Mrs. McKean, Rev. Howard Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, Rev. C. H. Denman, M. D., and Mrs. Denman, Rev. J. H. Freeman and Mrs. Freeman, Rev. William Harris, Jr., and Mrs. Harris, Rev. Roderick Gillies, Miss Isabella A. Griffin and Miss Margaret A. McGilvary.

LAKAWN: on the Me Wang, four days' land journey, 65 miles southeast of Chieng Mai; occupied as a Mission Station 1885. Missionaries—Rev. Jonathan Wilson, D. D., Rev. Hugh Taylor and Mrs. Taylor, Rev. Robert Irwin and Mrs. Irwin, M. D., C. C. Hansen, M. D., and Mrs. Hansen, Rev. C. L. MacKay and Mrs. MacKay, Miss Kate N. Flesson.

Pre: on the Me Yom, four days' land journey, about 65 miles, southeast of Lakawn; occupied as a Mission Station 1893. Missionaries—Rev. J. S. Thomas, M. D., and Mrs. Thomas.

NAN: on the Me Nan, five days' land journey, about 80 miles, northeast of Pre; occupied as a Mission Station 1894. Missionaries—Rev. S. C. Peoples, M. D., and Mrs. Peoples, Rev. David Park and Mrs. Park, Rev. Henry White and Mrs. White.

CHIENG RAI: on the Me Kok, eight days' land journey, 110 miles, a little east of north Chieng Mai; occupied as a Mission Station 1897. Missionaries—Rev. W. Clifton Dodd and Mrs. Dodd, Rev. W. A. Briggs, M. D., and Mrs. Briggs, Rev. C. R. Callender and Mrs. Callender.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. D. G. Collins and Mrs. Collins, J. W. Mc-Kean, M. D., and Mrs. McKean, Rev. Wm. Harris, Jr., and Mrs. Harris, Rev. Robert Irwin and Mrs. Irwin, M. D., Rev. W. Clifton Dodd and Mrs. Dodd, Rev. C. R. Callender and Mrs. Callender.

In very trying circumstances, the Mission has made notable advances. Its working force was seriously depleted. Rev. W. F. Shields, after "a hard and lonely service in charge of all the work of Pre Station," has now accepted service in the home land. Miss Julia Hatch, for health reasons, was finally compelled to resign from the Mission. So we have lost and the home church has gained three workers.

But the most serious depletion of the Mission force did not occur until after the beginning of the rains, and the completion of the principal evangelistic tours of the year. Then an unusual exodus of missionaries occurred for furloughs, nearly all of them overdue. Of the twelve missionaries (six families) now in this country, all except one missionary came during the year. Each family needed medical treatment—most of them surgical—and all are now gaining in health. The depletion promises to be only temporary, and, with a rainy season gap between, it has been partly balanced by the return of three families from furlough and the arrival of two new families and one new single ordained missionary.

A civil disturbance has greatly hindered the work in Pre, Lakawn and Chieng Rai. The Western Shans—in contradistinction from the Laos and Siamese, who are Eastern Shans—are subjects of King Edward VII. An attempt on the part of the Siamese officials in Pre Province to collect taxes from these Western Shans resulted in an insurrection. No missionary's life seems to have been in danger from any intentional violence. Indeed the moral influence of the missionaries seems to have been increased rather than diminished, and the ultimate effect will be a gain in our work. But the temporary effect is an upsetting of plans and routine work in the three stations named.

In spite of this depleted force of missionaries and these disturbed and disturbing civil conditions, many advances have been made, as will be seen in the reports of the several Stations. Especially noteworthy is the advance in self-support and self-propagation along lines evangelistic and educational. All the churches meet their own congregational expenses. The record shows that an increasing number hire their own evangelists for Home and Foreign Missionary work. A tour to the Ka Mu country, in the French Laos States, shows at once the crudity and the unusual promise of this Foreign Mission work by the Laos churches.

Scarcely less rapid is the self-support movement along educational lines. A state of semi-famine in Pre complicates the matter of self-support in the Boarding School there, and in all the stations there are problems yet to be solved in connection with higher education. But the station reports show an advance in the number and efficiency of the parochial schools. all of which are self-supporting.

CHIENG MAI STATION.

Owing to the departure of the Messrs. Waites for China, as intimated in last year's report; the continued absence of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Freeman; and the leaving of Dr. McKean in March and Mr. Collins and family in June for furloughs; this Mother Station has been very inadequately manned. Here are located the Mission Press, the two Higher Schools, the Mission Training School, and the Treasurership of the Mission; all this in addition to the regular Station work, which in this case is larger than in any other Station. For example, there are ten churches to be bishoped, as over against three in Chieng Rai, which ranks next to Chieng Mai in this regard. The medical work of Chieng Mai has long called for two physicians instead of one; and being the seat of government for the Siamese Laos States, the official and social demands are greater than elsewhere. No wonder we are told regarding Mr. Harris, who staid bravely at his post until January 20th, 1903, although his furlough was over-due more than a year, that "with so many and various duties, it seemed at one time that he would be unable to hold on until the work could be given over to others."

The Campbells and Freemans returned November 26, 1902, bringing with them Rev. Roderick Gillies. Never were workers more sorely needed nor more warmly greeted. A great feast was made for them by the Christians of Chieng Mai and Lampoon Provinces.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Although there were so few bishops, nine churches out of the ten are mentioned in the Station Report as having been visited; and the inference is justifiable that the other one, San Sai, which is one of the most accessible from the Station, had visitation also.

As worthy of special mention we quote:

"Licentiate Chia Langka has been most faithful in his parochial visits to these churches,"—the three in Lampon Province—"and in his labors among them and their heathen neighbors."

"Rev. Puk was assigned by Presbytery to this Station, and has been of great service in the work of visiting the distant churches and

"Early in the year Dr. McKean paid several visits to this (Me Pu Ka) church, and helped them in securing teak with which they hope to build a chapel this dry season."

Mr. Harris reports as follows:

"Me Dawk Deng Church has closed another encouraging year. Eleven persons have been received into full communion in the Church, several of whom were converts from Buddhism. I have been able to spend thirteen Sundays in this church, besides a week or so in visiting among the congregation. The church employed their own evangelist to labor among their Buddhist neighbors for about two months, his entire support coming from the native Christians. A large number of the congregation also engaged in this work gratuitously. The members of the church seem to be deeply interested in this evangelistic effort. They believe that Buddhism is breaking down all about them; the old time Buddhist ridicule, contempt, and intolerance, are giving place to respect for Christianity, and courteous, often eager, attention to the preaching of the Word. We confidently expect a large ingathering in the near future."

But what seems most remarkable is that, at his advanced age, Dr. McGilvary has been able to accomplish so much in these evangelistic lines. In January, 1902, he made a tour of three weeks to visit the Muang Pao and Chieng Dao churches, about sixty miles north of Chieng Mai. It was at Muang Pao that he was joined by Mr. Collins, and the sixteenth Laos church was organized then and there.

"The remainder of the dry season was spent by Dr. McGilvary in visiting the scattered flock connected with the Chieng Mai Church, of which he was appointed Stated Supply. All of the distant villages were reached, and most of the individual families visited, from Me Ao, thirty miles south, to Sa Luang, twenty miles north of the city. The nearer villages have been visited, and the evangelistic work in the city has been carried on by Dr. McGilvary since the rains began in June. Of the work in the city Dr. McGilvary writes, that the work of visiting the Buddhist monasteries, seems to have been unusually hopeful. Three abbots of three leading monasteries in the city profess their disbelief in finding salvation in the observance of the ethical principles of Buddha. They are strongly attracted to the doctrines of the Bible; but their position makes it difficult for them to break loose from the present bonds by which they are held. Special prayer is asked on their behalf, that God may open up the way for them to openly profess themselves disciples of Christ. Their example would have a wonderful influence on the community."

There have been thirty-eight accessions to the Chieng Mai Church on profession of faith, six more than last year.

As the best possible evidence of the hold which the Gospel has upon the hearts of the elect ladies of the First Church, Mrs. Denman reports:

"The Women's Missionary Society as having held eleven meetings, with an average attendance of thirty-nine. The women themselves have contributed twenty-five rupees, and the foreigners attending, thirty-seven rupees. Twenty-four rupees of last year's contributions have been expended in sending two native evangelists, in and about the city of Chieng Mai, and thirteen rupees have been sent to the school for the blind in Canton."

EDUCATIONAL.—There are three Mission Schools in Chieng Mai, and a number of Station Schools. From Mr. Harris' report of the Mission Boys' School we quote:

"Fifty-seven boys were enrolled during the first term and fifty-two during the second. There are several reasons for the smallness of the school. First, the steadily increasing emphasis on self-support still comes hard to people who used to have their children taught, fed, and sometimes clothed free of charge. Second, the government schools.

Third, the Christian parochial, elementary day-schools now do at infinitely less cost much of the primary work formerly done by the city schools. Fourth, the inferior quality of Siamese taught in the schools. Fifth, owing to the Station being but half manned during the year, it was impossible to work up the interest in the out-stations." "During the Fall term Mrs. Denman took charge of the school music. Seven boys united with the church during the last term. The new school plant is most needed."

Of the Girls' School, Miss McGilvary writes, in part, that it "has held its usual terms of sixteen and twelve weeks respectively. During the first term thirty-five pupils were in attendance, and during the second, forty-nine. I might say that the reasons given by Mr. Harris for small numbers in the Boys' School are equally applicable to the Girls' School. As a rule the girls were faithful and conscientious. Ten girls were from heathen homes. The term closed happily with a Christmas tree."

The third Mission School in Chieng Mai is the Mission's Theological Training School, of which Dr. McGilvary says:

"A short session of three weeks was devoted to the Training School. We had an interesting class of eighteen enrolled. At their own request the time was spent in a review of Genesis. In the devotional exercises of half an hour, passages were chosen that would be helpful in their village work."

Perhaps the most significant educational item in the Chieng Mai report is this:

"Several parochial schools were organized, conducted and supported entirely by the native Christians this year."

So completely were these schools under Laos management that the report adds:

"We have not received definite reports as to the size and duration of these schools as yet."

Educational work has begun to be not only self-supporting, but self-governing and self-propagating.

MEDICAL.—We glean from Dr. Denman's report:

"For over ten years Chieng Mai has been asking for two physicians, and during the first three months of the year it was our privilege to try the experiment. Both Dr. McKean and Dr. Denman found plenty to do, and no difficulty in the division of labor. . . . There has scarcely been a time during the past twelve months when both the old and new wards have not been full. . . . There have been more than two hundred inpatients in the hospital, sixty-two of whom underwent operations of a serious nature; everyone of these patients has heard the Gospel, many have shown considerable interest, and a few have accepted Christ. As heretofore Ai Keo, the faithful nurse, has done much in teaching and living the Gospel, and during the last months he has been assisted by a blind man who came to try if an operation would restore his sight. Though a heathen when he lost his sight, he now knows several books by heart, and can tell the Gospel story with a great degree of minuteness. More than sixty men have been employed in vaccinating. It has been the aim to have these men do as much evangelistic work as possible; and while it has been imperfect, hundreds have heard the Gospel message, and hundreds of tracts have been distributed."

"Mrs. Denman's visits to the hospital have been much appreciated by many of the patients, and have been the means of interesting many of them in higher things."

LITERARY.—The year marks a new literary departure. Dr. Denman has begun the publication of the first Laos newspaper. It is a modest monthly, called The Christian News. It begins right, i. e., at the bottom. It will grow with the growth of the Laos Church; and this will mean, by God's blessing, a healthy growth.

MISSION PRESS.—Until his departure in June Mr. Collins pushed the work in this department with his usual energy and fidelity:

"No one has been formally put in charge of the Press since Mr. Collins left, but it has been run on the partnership plan, Dr. Denman and Mr. Harris being the partners. During the four months in which it has been impossible to give it close supervision there has been less work turned out. A new cylinder job-press was put in place before Mr. Collins left which has added greatly to the efficiency of the Press."

The principal work done for the Mission during the year has been an edition of 1,000 copies of the revised Gospel of John, a preliminary edition of the new Hymnal, and of the Tune Book to accompany it. A book of Laos Synonyms, a Book of Forms for Christian Worship, a monthly edition of the Laos Christian News, and the quarterly letters in English, complete the list.

LAKAWN STATION.

Dr. Wilson was absent practically all the year, first accompanying his daughter, Miss Margaret, as far as Hong Kong on her return to the United States. "In China Dr. Wilson was taken ill and his return was delayed till August. He had arrived to within a day's travel of the city (Lakawn) when he was compelled to return to Bangkok, by the broken up condition of the country, resulting from the Western Shan insurrection. It was the middle of November before he could again reach Lakawn."

Mr. and Mrs. Callender had been transferred by the Mission to Chieng Rai. Immediately after annual meeting they began preparations for the trip, but sickness prevented the final consummation of the transfer. First, Mrs. Callender was taken sick, and then, just as she was beginning to recover Mr. Callender was prostrated. As soon as they could go, they were sent to our mountain sanitarium; but failing to gain the strength needed, the physicans recommended immediate furlough. They got started in June. Sorest trial awaited them. A few days after they sailed from Bangkok, a message was received from Minister King, announcing the death and burial at sea in one day of Rolland and Kenneth, their two youngest sons.

Mrs. Irwin, our physician for the year, owing to extra pressure of special cases, herself broke down and retired to the sanitarium in February.

As Dr. and Mrs. Hansen were absent on furlough, the actual workers at the Station most of the year were Mr. and Mrs. Taylor and Miss Fleeson, and their work was much broken into by the Western Shan insurrection.

In addition to the illness of Mr. and Mrs. Callender and Mrs. Irwin, the Station has been bereaved by the death of Rev. Hugh Taylor's father. Although not under appointment of the Board, the example of this aged saint was an important factor in the life of the Church of Lakawn. "A special bond of union seemed to exist between him and all the aged members of the church." Taken all in all, the year has been one of great distraction.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Again in this Station, as in Chieng Mai, one is impressed by the emphasis laid upon this fundamental department of work. Mr. Taylor seems to have visited all the Christian villages, which we are told extend in each of the four directions for a distance of two days' travel from Lakawn. He also visited Munag Ngao, four days to the northeast, where live a goodly company of Christians, whose membership is in various other churches of the Presbytery. He reports having visited the districts of Muang Ngao, Pra Yao, Muang Wang, Che Hom and Me Tui, to the north and northwest. On his return from this northeastern to northwestern circuit he took his family with him, and spent five weeks in the Muang Yao and Bau Kuang districts to the west. The church has had a year of blessing. Seventeen souls were added, fifteen of them on confession of faith.

The report of beneficence is noteworthy. The missionary members of the Station contributed to the church 231 Rs. The native membership contributed 368 Rs, or about six days' wages each; and cash for wages is hard to get in Lakawn Province. This church contributed generously to Foreign Missions, Home Missions and Education, met its own expenses, cared for its own poor, and for many lepers outside the church, and still has a healthy balance left in the church treasury.

EDUCATIONAL.—It may be that the civil disturbances are to prove a blessing to the educational work here. It is true that the routine work of both Boys' School and Girls' School was broken into; but that fact may throw the Lakawn Christians more upon their own resources and make the starting of parochial day-schools all the easier. Indeed the Boys' Boarding School was turned into a Day School for its second term. Mr. Taylor writes:

"The second term of the Boys' School was necessarily left mostly to the natives. The school work for the year has consisted of one term of sixteen weeks for the Girls' School and one term of thirteen weeks for the Boys' School and a day-school for the boys of eleven weeks."

The total enrolment of the Boys' School was fifty-seven; Girls' School, fifty-four.

MEDICAL.—This department suffered most this year. Mrs. Irwin, M.D., was not in rugged health any of the time, and before many months had to turn over all hospital and dispensary work to Mr. Irwin. He is a druggist but not a doctor of medicine. He and Mrs. Irwin left Lakawn in the latter part of June. From that time until Dr. Hansen's return the medical work did not have a doctor or a druggist to oversee it.

The following are some of the notes which Mr. Irwin left as to the medical work up till June 26: Minor operations, 43; patients in hospital, 44; calls for medicine, 1,712; visits, 306; deaths (only!) 2.

The prospects for next year are brighter. Dr. Wilson, Miss Fleeson and Dr. Hansen and family have returned, bringing with them as new reinforcements Rev. C. L. MacKay and Mrs. MacKay. Mrs. Irwin's health, at last accounts, was improving under treatment in California.

PRE STATION.

There is only one family in the Station, Rev. J. S. Thomas, M.D., and Mrs. Thomas. And Mrs. Thomas was ill for some time from a fall and was absent more than two months on account of the Western Shan insurrection. We cannot do better than quote from Dr. Thomas' report:

"During the year the work seemed to progress satisfactorily till the 25th of July, when the (Western) Shan rebellion broke out. . . .

Within three days there was not one Siamese person in the province—all were either killed or had escaped. About twenty-three were killed.

. . . About August 16th the Shans fled to the north.

Even now, the latter part of November, the intense excitement shows little signs of abatement. The intense excitement of the people has left little room for mission work among them. Yet the work has not stopped."

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Again only one Bishop and few mature Christian workers, but note the emphasis upon this work of planting and training the church. Dr. Thomas says:

"The native workers have done much touring. The sixteen or more villages having Christians have all been visited by the missionary, and services have been held in their homes and those villages. Many other villages have been visited by the workers."

"The members of the church have been faithful in attendance on the Sabbath services. The collections have been and will be used in evangelistic work and for repairs to the church building. The number added to the church on profession of faith is eighteen, and seven children have been baptized."

God has very signally blessed Dr. Thomas' methods of Sabbath-school work and his conduct of daily evening prayers. In both these lines of service Dr. Thomas elicits and develops the native worker while keeping himself in the background. Such training makes self-reliant men, women and children. Concerning the daily evening service the Doctor writes:

"At this service we have had more than fifty in attendance at times, while the average number has been more than twenty-five. During the last four months of commotion these daily meetings have been blessings. The patients and their friends have freely attended, while the Christians in the vicinity have been drawn hither for comfort. Here the people were told the condition of affairs from day to day and their fears were quieted by prayer. It is through this channel that most of the eighteen have entered the fold."

We must not forget to mention the very interesting woman's prayer meeting which Mrs. Thomas conducts every Saturday afternoon, which from ten to sixteen women attend, each taking her turn in leading the meeting. The women seem to grow in grace, as well as in self-confidence and in a knowledge of the Scriptures.

EDUCATIONAL.—During the first half of the year the school was in session for three months, with an average attendance of about seventeen. Ten of these were boarders from villages eight to ten miles away. During the past year the parents could not furnish rice for these children and in view of the fact that there will not be one-fourth of a crop of rice in the province this year, the same will be true again.

Evidently the conditions have been unfavorable for self-supporting boarding school work. Indeed none of the Mission boarding schools are wholly self-supporting. Either Pre must establish self-supporting day-schools or get an appropriation and a lady teacher for a boarding school. Neither will be easy; the former will be in line with the general policy of the Mission.

MEDICAL.—During the year more than 125 patients have been in hospital, remaining an average time of more than 18 days. More than 1800 visits have been made to the sick, and more than 3,500 people have received medical aid from the dispensary. This, with all the work and care of the church, and writing more than 300 letters, besides the many mimeograph letters—all this has kept us too busy to think of the lonesomeness of the situation, but not so busy as not to wish many times for help. The dispensary receipts for the year have been Rupees 1,580.

NAN STATION.

Dr. and Mrs. Peoples and Mr. and Mrs. Park were the Station force. With the exception of short health trips of each family to the mountain cottage they spent the year at work. In the end of the year Mr. and Mrs. Park went down to Bangkok for a health trip for Mrs. Park and to meet Mr. and Mrs. White and conduct them up the river.

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—Work was carried on in the main Station, in Chieng Kam, a district in the northwestern part of the Province, under the care of Rev. Wong; and in Chieng Kan, a district in the northern part of the Province, where regular services were maintained under the conduct of a layman of the town.

Dr. Peoples mentions several hindrances to vigorous evangelism:

"Medical work was sometimes burdensome; house building; the unstable condition of Mrs. Park's health; and the Western Shan uprising in Pre, the excitement of which soon spread to the other provinces. The church, however, advanced steadily. Twelve new names were added to the roll, two by letter and ten on confession. The attendance upon church services was good and the contributions of the people encouraging. The congregation paid the salary of Rev. Wong, in Chieng Kam, and they have several hundred rupees in store toward the building of a new house of worship in the pear future."

Once more we are impressed by the prominence given to evangelistic itineration.

"In the months of January and February, Dr. and Mrs. Peoples made a tour of about two months through the districts in the northwestern part of the province, similar to the trip taken by them the previous year, as far as Chieng Kam. In Chieng Kam they found the fatthful evangelist, Kam Ai, having done good work during the year. He was then making a courageous fight against a terrible scourge of small-pox that was working havoc among the people. He had vaccinated 187 persons: the lives of many of these persons he had saved from certain death. With this cloud of pestilence hanging over the people, it was impossible for the missionaries to do any aggressive work. They spent ten days in the village of the evangelist, visiting and instructing the Christians and catechumens, and dispensing medicines; but in many cases it was impossible for those interested to come to the missionaries, neither could they go to the homes of the inquirers, because of the epidemic. At the end of the visit, eight (8) persons were baptized and received into the church."

Thence they crossed over the mountains to the east and came to Chieng Kan. At this place ten days were spent visiting the Christian families and teaching. Two adults and one child were baptized.

"In the month of July, Dr. Peoples made a second tour, of about three weks, up to Muang La, to fulfill a promise of a visit to the Christians of that region, made early in the year. The route passed through ten districts of the province; as far as possible, by a different course from that previously traversed."

Dr. Peoples says that this was his first experience in touring in the wet season. It has several advantageous features, which he enumerates, but, he adds in closing, the six weeks necessary to get rid of the fever accumulated during a month's tour in the rains is a distinct drawback.

EDUCATIONAL.—This year marked the inauguration of regular school work, under Mr. and Mrs. Park. Whether the school is a self-supporting day-school or a boarding-school the Station report does not make clear. Mr. Park enumerates difficulties. One is that "the children of school age in Christian families are very few." Another is that "it has been exceedingly difficult to secure a suitable teacher."

"But for six weeks, during the past year, we had a very encouraging session. The average attendance was about twelve, though for a week or so it reached as high as seventeen. None of the children knew how to read; but during these six weeks several of them had learned 60 or 70 words, whether written or printed.

"Unfortunately, rice planting came, and our teacher had to return to Chieng Mai. However much we regretted it, the school had to be closed for want of a teacher.

"Our trip to Bangkok, caused by the condition of Mrs. Park's health, broke seriously into our plans. We had just found a very promising young man, a Siamese, one of the dispensary patients.

"When we started down the river, the roof and floor of the temporary school house were nearly completed, and shortly after we left, Dr. Peoples had this man take what children he could get and teach them half of each day. The opening services, each morning, were conducted by one of the Elders."

For three months two nights of the week, Dr. Peoples conducted a class composed of the Elders of the church, in an analytical and typological study of the book of Genesis.

MEDICAL.—The medical work moved on at about the same pace that it took last year. The money receipts were less than was anticipated owing to the withdrawal of a large foreign corporation and the loss of patronage:

"Nevertheless, the medical work is steadily growing in the strength and breadth of its influence in the community. There is a constantly widening range of applicants for medicine and treatment, and the regular patrons are becoming further and further removed from any dependence upon native medicines.

"There are almost daily calls for surgical operations, most of them of a minor character. Eight stone cases were successfully operated upon.

"The evangelistic influence of the department has been very satisfactory. This is doubtless owing to the fact that all of the assistants are men of energetic Christian character, and of influence in the community."

HOUSE BUILDING.—House building is a heavy tax upon the missionaries' time and care in this Station.

Dr. Peoples's house, which, at the close of last year, was in the foundation stage, is now practically complete. On the 15th of June the building was far enough advanced for occupancy. From that time the work was intermittently carried on until, at present, December, 1902, it is about finished.

"During the year, Mr. Park has secured, for his residence, the posts, the door stuff, some of the heavier material and a few boards. He is now about ready to begin work on the foundation, which means the under pillars. It has proved to be about impossible to secure teak, which is the most desirable building material, and he is going to make the experiment of using other woods for all of the board lumber, except door stuff and flooring for the verandah."

CHIENG RAI STATION.

At the last annual Mission meeting it was voted to make this a three family Station. Mr. and Mrs. Callender were to be added to the force. Their prevention through illness, their enforced return to the United States, their bereavement at sea have been mentioned in the Lakawn Station report. At last accounts both Mr. and Mrs. Callender, after a long time and protracted treatment, were beginning to build up in strength again. The furlough of Mr. and Mrs. Dodd was overdue. Mrs. Dodd was needing medical and surgical treatment, and the Station physician urged that the furlough be taken after the touring season this year, though it left only one family in the Station. As the boat-start for America had to be made from Chieng Mai, Mrs. Dodd remained there, doing what work she was able to do as a member of the Hymnal Revision Committee, and receiving every hospitality from the members of Chieng Mai Station. The family left in June. Mrs. Dodd has been receiving the needed treatment and is gaining in health and strength.

Dr. Briggs says:

"It will be seen that there has been but one family in the Station during the year—with similar prospects for the coming year. This is not so great a hardship for the missionaries as it is for the work."

EVANGELISTIC WORK.—As in the other Stations, this has received greatest emphasis. The whole report can be grouped about the life of its three churches.

Mr. Dodd visited the Christians of Muang Nawng Kwang three days southwest from Chieng Rai, and Mutang Fang, five days west, on his way home from mission meeting. He also visited Chieng Sen, two days northeast, as he was starting to the French Laos States. Dr. and Mrs. Briggs made a longer visit to the M. Nawng Kwang district and visited Muang Pan, two days south, and Muang Tung, three days east. Dr. and Mrs. Briggs were all alone in the Station, even separated for a time in order to accomplish more, Mrs. Briggs and the children visiting one out-station and Dr. Briggs another. Hence Dr. Briggs says:

"We are able to report that every out-station has received a missionary visit at least once, and some of them have been visited twice, and even three times. But these visits were necessarily short.

Nevertheless, good solid work has been done by the Laos Elders and other Christians.

And not without results. The Laos Christians have been very faithful in evangelistic work. In addition to the paid evangelists which the church sends out and supports, at least two Christian men have gone out every Sabbath afternoon to preach the Gospel in the city."

But this very activity of the Laos Christians emphasizes the need for missionary oversight and co-operation in the present stage of the work. Dr. Briggs very discriminatingly says:

"The people are so constituted that they prefer to hear from the missionary himself before being satisfied as to the genuineness of the Gospel message. In the plan of campaign, therefore, there is, first, the testimony of local Christians; second, that of the evangelists sent out by the Laos Church; third, the clinching testimony of the missionary. The most difficult part is the oversight of the first two sections of that plan."

As to the growth of the Christians in grace Dr. Briggs says:

"The edification of our young and scattered churches demands efficient oversight. The growth of the Christians depends on, first, personal contact with the missionary; second, personal effort in Christian work; third, personal study of God's Word; fourth, personal continuance in public, family and private worship and prayer. We refer only to the means through which the Spirit ordinarily works. The missionary must be counted in all of these means in the early stages."

The work of the Holy Spirit has been very manifest in the lives of some of our Christians. Several manifestations are instanced.

(1) "The average offering (for the support of the Gospel) per family has increased." (2) "The Sabbath-school, under the guidance of Mrs. Briggs, with the day-school teacher as superintendent, has made good advance." (3) "Efforts to advance the cause of personal and home cleanliness and tidiness, though in some instances discouraging, are on the whole bearing good fruit. The Siamese officials were heard to say that the only clean places in Chieng Rai belonged to the Christians." (4) "General thrift is increasing among the converts. These officials found they could get no one in Chieng Rai to laundry their clothes, save among Christians. The same applies to building, joinery, bicycle repairing, etc." (5) "The Laos are not a martial people, but Christ is giving them the true soldier spirit. When the Western Shan excitement was at its height, the officials tried to get messengers to ride in haste to Chieng Mai, but neither by threat nor entreaty could they get any one until they requested two of our young men, who replied they were willing to go if the missionary so desired: and they went. At another time the lives of all the Siamese in Chieng Rai were saved by the brave and timely actions of a few Christian young men.

When the W. Shans attacked the city, the Christians (practically alone among the residents) remained at the city.

It was a pleasure to hear the Laos Governor of the province remark: "The conduct of those in Chieng Rai who have et tered the Christian religion is truly worthy of praise."

As to baptisms:

"While encouraging inquirers to unite with the catechumens and to take a stand as believers, we have kept baptism from some who have been catechumens for over a year, but seem to need further probation." Again some candidates ready for baptism could not be visited, owing to the insurrection. The total baptisms were therefore only six, with two children of the church received into full communion, in all eight on profession. Twenty-five new catechumens were enrolled, making forty-seven in all."

EDUCATIONAL.—The educational work of the Station is wholly in the hands of the church. There are two schools.

The day-school for children of both sexes has continued since February, four hours every morning, except Sunday. It is taught by a former pupil of the Chieng Mai Boys' School. All expenses have been met by the parents of the children. The other school is very young. One of the girls who studied in the day-school here and had taken a term in the Girls' School at Chieng Mai now teaches under the direction of Mrs. Briggs a class of women, on the veranda of the physician's house, every afternoon. The aim is to have every Christian, young and old, able to read the Word of God.

MEDICAL.—The medical work of the Station is not as large in proportion to its church work as in other Stations. There are no Europeans and few Asiatic foreigners. But the soul saving power of bodily healing work is the same as elsewhere. The physician reports:

"The new dispensary assistant has been a great help in every way. He and his wife are both faithful Christians. At least one new believer can be traced to their work. The receipts have increased, so that we hope to more than pay expenses this fiscal year. The scheme of minor branch dispensaries, begun by Dr. Denman, has been decidedly encouraging this year. Christians in distant places can buy medicines, thus avoiding a temptation to employ spirit doctors. Outsiders are beginning to depend considerably on the Christian medicine. This year two new families have been won by this means."

THE REGIONS BEYOND.

Led by Dr. McGilvary, the North Laos Mission has extended its labors beyond the Siamese Laos States. Especially did the tours of 1897 expand the Mission's vision and enlarge its sympathy to take in the Laos people in French, British and Chinese territory. And the blessing of God upon the apostolic labors of Dr. McGilvary in 1898 gave us a definite hold in French territory at Muang Sai. This is fifteen hard days' journey from Nan, our nearest Station.

The work began among the Ka Mu', a large hill tribe extensively scattered in Indo-China and China itself. Since 1898 the work among the Ka Mu believers has had to be done by Laos evangelists, paid by the Laos churches.

By Mission and Presbytery appointment, Mr. Dodd took with him Laos helpers, paid by the churches, and visited these Ka Mu Christians February and May, 1902. By the power of the Spirit speaking from the Word, some abuses were corrected; forty-nine new members were received to the Lord's table; thirty-six children were baptized; one whole village of fifty-five adults entered as catechumens, and six other villages announced their intention of doing the same. But no permission has yet been obtained for establishing a Mission Station in French territory. The oversight of this Ka Mu work meanwhile naturally falls to Nan Station. For the sake of this Ka Mu work, and also in order to the working of all the Southern French Laos States, Dr. Peoples makes a strong plea for a strong Station at Nan.

MISSIONS IN SOUTH AMERICA.

CENTRAL BRAZIL MISSION.

BAHIA: founded 1871; 729 miles northeast of Rio de Janeiro. Missionaries—Rev. W. A. Waddell and Mrs. Waddell, Miss A. B. McPherson, a colporteur, and two teachers.

CACHOEIRA: founded 1873; 45 miles west of Bahia. Missionaries—Rev. H. J. McCall, Mrs. G. W. Chamberlain and Miss M. B. Axtell; two teachers.

SERGIPE: founded 1886; the State north of Bahia. Missionaries: At Aracaju—Rev. W. E. Finley and Mrs. Finley, Miss Williamson and two teachers. At Estancia: Rev. C. E. Bixler and Mrs. Bixler.

VILLA NOVA DA RAINHA: founded 1900; 250 miles north of Bahia. Missionaries—Rev. Pierce Chamberlain and Mrs. Chamberlain.

July 31, 1902, the Central Brazil Mission lost, by the death of its senior member, the Rev. G. W. Chamberlain, the counsel and co-operation of one who justly ranked among the "Great Missionaries" of our time. No other Christian worker in Brazil ever held friendly relations with so many persons in every walk of life or exercised so great influence for the Master.

From the chief magistrate to the convict, from the most cultured ladies to illiterate slave women, from hoary-headed statesmen to little children, all sorts and conditions of men felt the warmth of his all-embracing Christian sympathy, and heard from him the Word of Life, Feeling himself "debtor to all men" he made all Brazil his debtor by forty years of dauntless service. When the Father called him home, housands felt themselves bereaved. While men in Brazil call upon God his work will last.

In September ill health obliged Miss C. E. Hough to return to the United States, and later to sever her connection with the Board.

A diagnosis of cancer made by some of the best physicians of Bahia caused Mr. Waddell to seek the advice of American specialists. The diagnosis was found incorrect and he returned to the field at once.

With the exception of the cases mentioned, the health of the missionaries has been good.

The Rev. H. J. McCall, who has labored in Pernambuco

Digitized by Google

eleven years as a member of the "Help for Brazil" Mission, was appointed to the Cachoeira Station to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Chamberlain. He took up work in the field in March, 1003.

Mrs. G. W. Chamberlain and Miss Axtell have moved from S. Felix to Cachoeira (the cities are on opposite sides of the Paraguassir River), and the name of the Station has been changed to correspond to the post-office address.

North Bahia Station has been renamed Villa Nova da

Rainha Station for a similar reason.

Central Brazil is passing through a very severe financial crisis. Two years (1898-1900) of famine in the interior, the great depreciation in sugar, tobacco and coffee (sugar has sold at 1, tobacco at 3 and coffee at 3 cents at the port), and a most vicious system of taxation, combined to destroy values. All the native banks failed. Money was unattainable. Factories shut down. Building operations ceased. The poor were and are on the verge of starvation. The spiritual effect is deadening. The enterprises of the local church languish for lack of means. We rejoice therefore that times are improving.

Some idea of the religious condition of the field may be gained from the facts that Bahia City, with 250,000 inhabitants, has two mosques, thirty fetish temples, and eighty-five Romish churches, and that raising goats for pagan sacrifices is a profitable industry.

"But spiritualism," says Mr. Waddell, "is the greatest religious obstacle to the progress of the Gospel in this region. The superstitious subsoil created by the decay of the mixture of ancient paganism, aboriginal spirit worship and African fetichism, known as Romanism, just suits the plant. The medium is on the look-out for minds that are dissatisfied with the priests and satisfied with themselves. The 'ism' poses as the Gospel with Twentieth Century improvements. Once accepted it fills the man's soul with dense blindness, and if later he sees his error, his capacity for intelligent faith is ruined.

"Few Christians fall into spiritualism. Few spiritualists become Christians. Church and seance recruit from the same class. In many cases the question of a soul's destiny resolves itself into the question whether a Christian or a medium first gains his ear. Spiritualism has been particularly active during the past year."

During the calendar year 1902 the Mission as a whole received ninety-two new communicants. The opening of a "Reserved List" of those members whose whereabouts were not known cut down the roll somewhat and the net gain was only seventy-four.

Since the organization of the Mission 651 communicants have been enrolled, of whom 467 are now in full membership within and 31 without the Mission borders.

BAHIA STATION.

The illness and death of Mr. Chamberlain imposed upon Mr. Waddell the impossible task of caring for the evangelistic work of both the Bahia and the Cachoeira Stations. The work in Bahia City is concentrated in a central church with suburban out-stations calling for pastoral care, while the Cachoeira field consists of widely scattered groups visited at irregular intervals.

Bahia suffered more than Cachoeira from scanty attention. Services were, however, maintained at the church and all the outstations, and by the devoted efforts of the elders and members progress was made all along the line. Several embarrassing matters of discipline even were settled by the elders in a gratifying manner.

In February, 1902, the congregation began the erection of a church building on land already purchased. The edifice will contain a main hall and a chapel, seating 300 and 100 respectively, and a school room, a pastor's study and store rooms. The corner-stone was laid April 21, the thirtieth anniversary of the organization of the church and of the baptism of the first converts in North Brazil.

Through the devoted efforts of the people the main hall was ready for occupancy January 4, 1903. The building was erected without aid from the United States.

In April a Christian Endeavor Society was organized. This has done much to develop the young people as Gospel workers.

Two of the young men have determined to prepare themselves for the ministry should the way be clear. They are pursuing their preliminary studies without other expense to the Mission than the time given by some of the missionaries to a part of their instruction.

A book store was opened on one of the principal streets under an arrangement which diminishes the expense to the Board of this important department. Book sales have increased about fourfold.

For two years the Bahia school has been trying to offer school facilities to every child of the church and to prepare Christian teachers for every department of its work.

These objects have in great measure been attained.

Small suburban schools taught by Christian girls and night chools bring the opportunities for study near to every family. The parents are helping support these schools and the expense to the Mission will be very light. In two of the suburbs the believers are preparing to build school house chapels to ensure the permanency of their local schools.

Miss McPherson has superintended these schools and acted as principal of the central school.

CACHOEIRA STATION.

The year has been full of blessing in this Station. The church of Cachoeira, S. Felix, Murityba, received sixteen new members in 1902. New churches were organized at Orobo and at Palmeiras, the former 115, the latter 230 miles west of Cachoeira. Seven new members were received at Orobo to thirty-three at Palmeiras during the calendar year, In January, 1903, twenty-five more were received at these points.

	Jan., 1900. Members	Jan., 1903. Members
Cachoeira, &c.	11	58
Orobo	II	· 41
Feira	8	11
Palmeiras	0	43
	30	153

Several others received during the triennium have removed from the field.

The greater part of the members recently received, especially those in the Palmeiras field, have been led to Christ through reading the printed Word. Some of them, when first visited, were more inclined to examine the missionaries, to see whether their dectrines tallied with the Bible, than to be examined by them, and it was only when convinced that their visitors were Biblical in their doctrines that they sought explanation of those passages that had proved too difficult for their unaided study.

One man traveled eighty-six miles on horseback to meet the missionary and, being too late to see him on that trip, repeated the journey in the rainy season to assure himself at the mouth of one of God's servants that there was pardon in Christ for him, a sinner. The glad light in his face when he at length took in the truth in all its fullness was most beautiful.

Every member of the congregations of this Station seems imbued with a sense of his responsibility as a messenger of Christ. In the Palmeiras district especially many of the members give all their spare time to evangelistic effort, so that for twenty miles around the Gospel is proclaimed to every household.

Various efforts have been made by the Archbishop to stop the progress of Protestantism and several delegations of friars have been sent to the points where interest was greatest, but without serious effect. The notorious corruption of the priesthood renders such efforts nugatory.

Persecution has not been lacking. At Varzea, near Palmeiras, the houses of the believers were stoned, their cane fields fired, animals wounded and threats of greater violence freely made. In this case the patience of the persecuted wore out the wrath of their foes, and lately they have had peace.

In Murityba a long list of aggressions on the part of the emissaries of the parish priest culminated in the use of a powerful bomb, thrown into the prayer-meeting. Though the building was seriously shaken only one person was badly injured. The vigorous intervention of the governor prevented further outrage.

The congregation of Cachoeira is worshipping in its new house, which has a main hall (seating 220), a chapel (seating 90) and a school room. They still need to raise $1500 to complete their property.

Members of the congregations of Orobo and Palmeiras have donated lots, and money is being raised for the erection of church buildings.

Mr. McCall, recently appointed to this field, spent August, 1902, at S. Felix as a visitor and by his earnest and well-directed work did much to aid the church.

SCHOOLS.—The S. Felix School under Miss Axtell and the school home under Mrs. Chamberlain are a model of what a Mission school should be. The growth of the Church of Cachoeira, especially among the better classes, is largely to be ascribed to their influence. To parents who love their children intelligently they are an irresistible argument for Protestantism.

A normal class of five girls was graduated in 1902.

Two most flourishing Sabbath-schools are maintained by this school; one in S. Felix, the other in Cachoeira.

The Feira School continues small. It has been put in the hands of one of the young Brazilian teachers.

Miss Justice has been transferred to S. Joas do Paraguassir, where a wealthy man has built a school and dwelling house for her use. Desiring Protestant school privileges for his grandchildren, he contributes eighty per cent. of the running expenses of the school.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper, lay evangelists, supported by personal friends, are laboring at Orobo in connection with this Station. Mrs. Cooper has opened a little school, thus offering educational privileges to the children of this congregation.

Two young men who desire to prepare for the ministry are studying with Mrs. Cooper. This is an experimental year at their own expense.

SERGIPE STATIONS—ARACAJU, LARANGEIRAS.

In September Mr. Bixler removed from Larangeiras to Estancia and the division of the field ordered by the Mission went into effect. The greater part of the territory heretofore regularly visited and a liberal portion of new territory forms Mr. Finley's field; while the former southwestern frontier of the work and a large new district became the Estancia field.

In Aracaju the work has been most encouraging. The congregation is composed of better material than any other in the Mission except that of Palmeiras. The individual standing of the members is probably higher than in any other church. The audiences are good and attendance regular. The Sabbath-school averages seventy-five and divides the honors of efficiency with those of Cachoeira. Christian Endeavor, men's societies, boy's league and all the auxiliary societies of an American church are possible, and those that appear desirable are maintained under the direction of the members of the Station.

The congregation contributes liberally and could do much toward the support of a pastor. As no Brazilian is available for this post, their contributions have been applied to the incidental expenses of the church, to the support of a theological student, to the accumulation of a building fund and to a fund destined to serve as a reserve when a pastor can be secured.

Of course the strength and energy of the church causes headstrongness on the part of some of the new Christians, both in doctrine and in practice, but in the Providence of God Mr. Finley has been enabled to avoid snags and to guide the church most successfully.

Nine members were received during the year and two young men are studying for the ministry; one aided by the church, the other at his own expense.

At Larangeiras conditions are substantially unchanged. At Socorro, between Aracaju and Larangeiras, a very encouraging work is opening. Larangeiras and other interior points revived somewhat during the early months of the year while Mr. Bixler was visiting them, and Mr. Finley reports a continuance of interest. Twelve members have been received at the various interior outstations.

The terrible financial depression diminished the enrollment of the boarding departments of the Aracaju school, but the day pupils fell off very little, and the school, under Miss Williamson's direction, has continued to be the most respected school in the city and a valuable auxiliary to the evangelistic work.

At Larangeiras believers are contributing liberally to maintain a school for their children.

ESTANCIA.

The year was half out when Mr. Bixler began work in this city. From the first he has had good audiences. It is too soon to judge as to the probable results here, but the outlook is encouraging.

The up country out-stations assigned to this Station have been the scene of much persecution, with the usual result of confirming the believers.

No school work has as yet been done in this field.

VILLA NOVA STATION.

Two of the six parishes of the Mission are under the care of Mr. P. A. Chamberlain, with residence at Villa Nova. The smaller parish has only about 30,000 square miles, but in compensation the other exceeds 100,000. He has divided his time between the two.

In the Villa Nova district the question of discipline mentioned in the last annual report has been in large measure settled, and revival and rehabilitation have begun. Villa Nova and vicinity and Querinades, especially, present hopeful features.

A trip made to the south of the district showed much interest existing in Jacobina and Monoda Chapeo. A goodly number of inquirers was enrolled.

The long trip made to the Upper San Francisco field resulted in awakening interest at several points. The little church at Sta Maria was found faithful. The renewed lives of its members are witnessing for Christ before the people of that whole region, and it is evident that many are impressed.

Mrs. Chamberlain accompanied her husband on this trip and her teaching was of great value to the women and children of the little groups of believers.

Seven members were received at various points in the field, and a young man has begun to study for the ministry. His study will be without expense to the Mission.

IN THIS COUNTRY:

The report of the South Brazil Mission refers in its opening to the changes that have occurred on the field as follows:

The South Brazil Mission has closed another successful year. There have been some few changes in our numbers. Rev. J. T. Housten, who has given efficient help at Florianapolis for two years past, was compelled to return to the United States in October. His place was supplied almost at once by Rev. J. B. Kolb, who upon his return to Brazil was transferred to the South Brazil Mission and located at Florianapolis. This makes it possible for at least one member of that Station to travel through the State where the work is developing with wonderful rapidity.

Mrs. Landes joined her husband in September after an absence of four years from Brazil.

Our Mission shares with that of Central Brazil in the loss by death of Rev. G. W. Chamberlain, of the Brazil Mission, before its division into two Missions. We have felt his death as much as if he had been still one of our number. The greater part of his missionary life was spent in the State of Sao Paulo, and his kindly face was known to all our churches. His unselfish life will always be an inspiration to those who knew him.

The political situation seems more satisfactory than it has for some time past. More of harmony and an earnest desire is manifested by those in authority to seek the go d of the country. The hard times and excessive taxation in the past have interfered with the business interests of all classes, and have greatly discouraged the people. This condition of things is only partially relieved.

The health of the Mission has been in the main good, though Mr. Lenington suffered much for a time with acute ague for relief from which he spent a month in Parana. This furnished him a good opportunity to see something of the work at Curityba and elsewhere in that province. He speaks in glowing terms of the work of Sr. Lino Da Costa who spent a part of the month of March at Florianapolis, preaching to large audiences in the theatre which the Governor consented to open for the purpose. "He was the first Protestant Brazilian minister who had preached in Florianapolis, and the effect on the people was good. They can no longer say that our work is a work of United States agents who desire to bring Santa Catharina under foreign rule as our enemies have so industriously proclaimed."

FLORIANAPOLIS STATION.

"April was a glad month to us in our work," says the Station report, "and on the first Sunday, thirteen adults made profession of their faith." During the following week, Mr. Lenington visited three outstations where he received nine on profession. One of these was a man of much influence, a physician of sixty years of age. On Sundays he gathers his sons, daughters, sons-in-law and daughters-in-law and many of his neighbors in his house, and explains to them the Word of God. It is believed that all the family will accompany the father and mother in the step which they have taken. Subsequently six more persons were received from this district. In September the missionaries rejoiced in another harvest home. Ten were received into communion. A new church building was dedicated at San Francisco where six more were added to the church. building is spoken of as very convenient, with seating capacity for 200, though over 400 were present at the dedication, which was an interesting occasion.

Florianapolis and its surrounding towns should be the object of one man's undivided work, and the southern, most populous part of the state is as yet untouched. The work is spreading rapidly in that direction. Mr. Lenington has preached 122 times, in twelve different places, and has received forty-two persons on profession and baptized twenty-one children. The San Francisco church has now thirty-five adult members and owns its church building. Florianapolis has sixty-eight members, and has dismissed ten to other churches, while there are twenty others scattered in different towns along the shore.

Mr. Kolb's report speaks of the shipwreck which he and his family suffered on their way to Bahia. The "Wordsworth," on which they had taken passage, struck a sand bar just off the coast at an early morning nour. All lives were spared, however, and there was no loss of baggage. They suffered much delay in finding other means of transportation to their chosen field. Mr. Kolb has commenced work earnestly at Florianapolis.

The reports from the Station make no statement as to the division of labor between Messrs. Lenington and Kolb. There are two chief centres, Florianapolis and San Francisco, in each of which there is a congregation. There are various smaller places nearby in which more or less work can be profitably carried on without extended and difficult travel.

RIO STATION.

Dr. Kyle, in reporting for the Friburgo Station, gives the following summary of his work up to that date:

The work in this field moves along steadily. There is more visible progress in the parts of the field taken up last year by the two young men who came out of the Seminary. They are earnest and devoted to their work and are winning the hearts of the people. One was ordained in January and the other in July by the Presbytery of Rio. Senhor Mathathias has been tried by persecutions but has stood his ground manfully and gained the respect of the whole community. During the last six months he has received twenty-five persons on profession of faith and his church organized in March has a membership of 135.

The other young man, Senhor Louro, was ordained a little more than two months ago, but he has already received fifteen persons on profession and others are preparing to unite with the church. The church of which he has charge was organized last December and has now eighty-five members.

Besides these I have received seven on profession since the first of May. Since my work at these principal points has been taken up by these young men I am starting work at new places or rather doing more at places where I had not been able to push it. It will doubtless be discouraging work for some time. Curiosity has worn away and genuine interest is a thing of slow growth. It tries the faith and patience to work on through this period of indifference.

Here in Novo Friburgo our congregation has lost several members by removal, but new faces are appearing at our services which are well attended. Last month two were received on profession.

As we look at the work from month to month, we seem to be moving slowly, but when I look back over ten years and remember that ten years ago there were almost no believers, and that in spite of removals there are now 280 communicants of our church in this field of East Rio and East Minas, I think I have abundant reason to "thank God and take courage."

In his recent report for the remainder of the year, he says:

Twenty more communicants have been received in this field. The two young men referred to are busy and their work is bearing fruit.

Dr. Kyle's report was prepared very briefly in order to be in time for the outgoing steamer.

PARANA STATION.

Mr. Landes at Guarapuava, gives an account of various trips made to different parts of his widespread field in Parana. He speaks of having made a series of visits to different points in company with Sr. Lino whose services were well received. During this trip he made thirty-five addresses. "As a rule his discourses were appreciated, especially in the larger towns," says Mr. Landes. "I spent all of January, up to the 4th of February, in taking him through other parts of the field."

Upon the return of Mrs. Landes, the family adopted Castro as their home, and the headquarters of Mr. Landes' itinerant work. Mr. Landes speaks of having received thirty-one communicants and baptized thirty-nine children, having in his itinerations traveled over 1600 miles. He reports that the church in Guarapuava has contributed during the year $650 toward their church building and for Home Missions. The new church building is nearly completed. In closing Mr. Landes' report says:

Our work goes forward slowly, but considering the hard times and the scattered condition of our church members, we cannot well expect it to go otherwise.

Many of our people have gone away from home to find work. Many have gone out into the country, from the towns and villages, to try cultivating the soil to gain a livelihood, work which they avoid as long as they possibly can.

I never knew business to be so dull in Brazil, as it has been for the last three years, especially in the State of Parana.

The people are discouraged in every business and enterprise, and it has a very discouraging effect upon our school work.

Mr. Bickerstaph, at Castro, reports "a year of perturbation and of slow growth, spiritually and temporarily, in the church." A young man who had been employed in the school and the occasional occupation of the pulpit has proved a sore disappointment, doing more harm than good.

The school was closed and all connection with this young man, of whom much had been hoped for, has been severed. The school was reopened under the care of a young man of Swedish birth and education, and who gives promise of being an excellent instructor.

In addition to this principal school there are five primary schools in the district at as many outstations, two taught by the ladies. Besides the local work at Castro, Mr. Bickerstaph had charge of over a dozen out-stations. Twenty-two persons have made profession of their faith in his field, and sixty-one children have been baptized. About $200 has been contributed by the people for various causes.

Mr. Menezes' report speaks of preaching and administering the sacrament in twelve different localities. Thirty-nine communicants were received by him on confession and thirty-seven children were baptized. Over 600 milreis were contributed by these small congregations. The church at Sengo is reported as having commenced to raise money for a new church edifice. A church at San Jose has done the same. The Catholic priest-hood have done their best to oppose Mr. Menezes' work, but without much avail. Bitter persecution has sprung up and one instance is given in which an armed company of disturbers attacked a private house in which a Protestant evening service was being conducted, with great violence, though no lives were actually taken.

EDUCATIONAL.—Misses Kuhl and Dascomb have carried on faithfully the work which has been under their care for so many years in the Curityba School. There has been more opposition than ever before. Meanwhile, business and all commercial interests have been well nigh paralyzed by the stringency of the times. Much of the trade of this region has been transferred to the Argentine Republic. Some of the most promising pupils have been withdrawn from the school by the removal of funds. It has been exceedingly difficult to collect as much from the fees as in the past, so that the effort of these two ladies to make the school as far as possible self-supporting has been a heavy task. The report speaks heartily of the assistance rendered by Miss Effie Lenington. Of the church, the report says:

The Curityba Church under the care of our young Brazilian pastor, Rev. J. M. Higgins, has grown in numbers and influence during the year. Besides the care of this growing church, Mr. Higgins has preached in Itaqui, Antonina and Guarapuava. In Antonina where his life was threatened he has now good congregations and the Christians are collecting money to build a church. In Guarahessiba he has been surprised to find how thoroughly the believers know their Bibles. The Christian Endeavor Society of the Curityba Church has more than eighty members. This year the Society had the great pleasure of making the last payment on the amount that the church owed the Board: the money being passed over to Rev. G. L. Landes to help build the church in Guarapuava. The Endeavorers have paid over $1,000 on the church debt. The members of this Society have held meetings in the Batel, Villa Isabel, Sierra Azul, S. Matheus, and in several private houses in the city. The church, Sabbath-school under the care of our efficient elder, Sr. Carlos Comelsen, numbers about one hundred.

SAO PAULO.

MACKENZIE COLLEGE.—An able report of Mackenzie College and the preparatory schools of Sao Paulo has been received by the Trustees of that institution, to which, although it is not directly connected with the Board, a brief reference may be made. This has been for many years one of the most efficient departments of the missionary work in Brazil. Its enrollment of pupils in various grades number nearly seven hundred. It aims to carry its grades of instruction through an ordinary college course, and to lay the educational foundations for men who are transferred to the Theological Seminary of the Synod of Brazil, which is also located at Sao Paulo. It has also been successful in the training of many teachers of both sexes for Christian schools in the Republic of Brazil. There are connected with the College system one preparatory school each for boys and for girls. For the last three or four years increasing attention has been given to the religious element in educational work. On this subject, Dr. Lane's report speaks as follows:

I cannot close this brief report without reference to the very satisfactory state of religious activities in school and college. A Y. M. C. A. Society has been formed that has a good strong membership. The C. E. Society, embracing Presbyterians and Congregationalists, continues its activity. The Sunday-schools and religious services have been well attended. The English preaching service was discontinued after Mr. Gammon's departure, for lack of an audience, but the Portuguese service, under the Rev. Erasmo Braga, an ex-student of the College, has been well attended, the assembly room being too small for the audiences. The prosperous evangelistic work among the Italians out of which a church has grown; the promising work at Atibaia, where a church will soon be organized, and the unique work at Juquia, are all largely the work of our college professors and students, though quite apart from its direct educational work. The spirit within the college, where more than half of the students are Protestants, is of sound Christian living and example. Christian life and the study of God's Word form the strong background of school and college life, and refute the carping criticism of casual observers and disgruntled employees, that we employ too many non-Protestants on our teaching force.

Our relations to the Protestant churches are cordial, and we have students from all evangelical denominations among our pupils and students. The entire body of students of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary is taking preparatory studies in Mackenzie College and we are making special modifications in the classical course to meet the requirements. The Seminary Board of Directors decided that there should be no theological teaching in the Seminary this year, as none of the students had yet finished their preparatories. Our attitude is one of frank friendliness seeking no official recognition, but offering freely the best we have without restrictions, other than that these students follow some regular course and submit to the reasonable college regulations. We offer entire support to four Presbyterian students who are recommended by the Seminary Board; as a matter of fact we had eight all last year.

CHILE MISSION.

VALPARAISO: the chief seaport of Chili; population, 120,000. Missionaries—Rev. James F. Garvin and Mrs. Garvin, Rev. W. L. Schmalhorst and Mrs. Schmalhorst, Miss Martha V. Fulton, teacher in Escuela Popular, Alberto Moran.

Santiago: The capital of Chile, 120 miles southeast of Valparaiso, with which it has railroad connection; population, 200,000. Missionaries—Rev. W. H. Lester, Rev. W. E. Browning, Ph. D., and Mrs. Browning, Rev. W. B. Boomer and Mrs. Boomer, Mr. Palmer, Mr. Haeberle, Mr. Hastings, Mr. McBride and Mr. Lindsay, teachers in the Instituto Ingles, Rev. Francisco Dies.

COPIAPO: about 400 miles north of Valparaiso; population, 15,000. Missionaries—Roberto Elphick, D. Depallens.

CHILLAN.

TALCA: Rev. C. M. Spining and Mrs. Spining, Miss Alexia Duncan, teacher.

CONCEPCION: near the coast, about 300 miles south of Valparaiso, connected with Santiago by railroad; population, 45,000; Tulio Moran.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. J. F. Garvin and Mrs. Garvin, Rev. W. E. Browning, Ph. D., and Mrs. Browning, Mrs. W. H. Lester.

In a small mission force like that of the Chile Mission, the absence from the field on furlough of two members of the Mission, Mr. Garvin and Dr. Browning, has been keenly felt, but by the removal of Mr. Boomer to Santiago and Mr. Schmalhorst to Valparaiso, the work has been provided for. The conditions of the field require a large amount of itinerating work, reaching sixty or seventy different centers. The report of the committee on itinerating work states:

The work of itinerating is no longer frontier work, nor is it confined to unorganized groups of sympathizers; on the contrary, it is rather visiting and revisiting from established centers the out-groups of long-standing existence, composed for the most part of Christians and often of church members. In the South some groups are visited twice a week, whereas in the north two or three visits a year are made to some groups. Thus the work is not the opening of new fields, although there are plenty of such to open; it is rather the cultivation of the ground already sown, the nurturing of the tender plant, and the developing to the Christian life. Not many have come to the meetings to hear the Gospel for the first time.

Much work has been done which is not presented in this report, for no center has pretended to give an itemized account of all the seed sowing done or the upbuilding accomplished. Thousands of tracts have been distributed broadcast and books have been sold. For the former Chili is offering a more open field every day, for the people are increasing in intelligence and the sense of independence. As truly might it be said that Chili offers a better field for all kinds of evangelical work. Almost the national desire is to see what is the truth.

SANTIAGO STATION.

INSTITUTO INGLES.—Mr. Lester has had charge since Dr. Browning's departure on furlough. He writes:

The religious work has been positive and aggressive:—Prayers in the mornings with exposition of Scripture; Bible classes among the regular boarders; a young man's Christian Association of over twenty; a regular preaching service on Sabbath evenings, which all the boarders are obliged to attend; English and Spanish Sabbath-schools, attended by fifteen to thirty-five, and more than all, the personal work in the class rooms and among the boys. Perhaps the methods of their work might be modified to advantage, but I cannot see how it can be emphasized more than it is. I have always questioned the value of schools as evangelistic factors, as compared with the more direct work of preaching. Without making comparisons, I no longer doubt the spiritual good effected, when I see what has been done in the graduating class—eleven young men, counting those of the commercial course, good, clean, manly fellows, and four of them earnest, active Christians.

TRACT WORK.-

On the little "Lowe" press there have been printed 154.416 tracts; some of these were of eight pages, some of two, but most of four. The total number of pages is 716,360, and the entire cost is 285 pesos.

THE NATIVE CHURCH.—

Mr. Diaz is in the best sense a pastor and he feeds his flocks. Some of the most delightful prayer meetings I have ever attended have been in the little Spanish Church. The Temperance work in the city owes much to the Church. All the members are total abstainers. Three meetings we held in the main audience room, which were filled to overflowing, attended by many prominent Chilians, who for the first time found themselves in a Protestant Church. This work, directed by Diez, is thoroughly Christian in character, and I am glad to say, he never omits to enforce the truth that all genuine reform must begin with a personal acceptance of Christ.

The subscriptions for all purposes reach the sum of 1800 pesos. This is encouraging, for the benevolence of the Church has steadily increased year by year, the amount asked from the Board lessened. The sum is given by members of the Church, some of whom contribute the Gospel Tenth, and not raised by contributions secured from foreigners.

CITY EVANGELIZATION.—Mr. Lester writes:

Perhaps nowhere in the country are the people more accessible to the Gospel than in Valparaiso and Santiago and perhaps nowhere else can such rich spiritual harvests be gathered. During the first six months of the year there were six chapels open in Santiago. Because of the lack of funds the number was afterwards reduced to four. In each chapel two services were held weekly, the average attendance being twenty-five at each service. Some of the meetings were largely attended, the places being filled to overflowing. Sometimes the power of the spirit was manifested and souls won to Christ.

The carrying on of these meetings was possible only through the co-operation of a body of men, some sixteen in number. They are all members of the native Church and have shown a zeal, faithfulness, and self-sacrifice in this work that has often rebuked my lack of faith. All of them workingmen, away from home during the day, and often arriving late and tired, they have never objected to the night work these meetings entail. On the contrary, they are eager to do something for their Master. I particularly notice in them a growth in knowledge and deepening of Christian experience. It is sometimes wonderful to hear the remarks of these unlettered men, qualified only by the fact that they have been with Jesus.

This class meets on Wednesday nights; a report of the previous week's work is given; arrangements for the coming week's campaign are made, closing with a short Scripture lesson and a few moments of prayer.

Of his impressions on taking up work in the Santiago field, Mr. Boomer writes:

The following are a few of the impressions made by my brief acquaintance with the work in Santiago: The field is large and open. I believe that four times as many chapels could be opened and advantageously placed, and that the attendance could be multiplied four or five times. There is one section of the city almost untouched, which contains half as many inhabitants as Copiapo Station.

I agree with Dr. Lester that the time is ripe for forming another church in the near future. Good foundation work has been laid; our present church cannot possibly supply the need, and hundreds and thousands of souls can be reached from centres distant from our present church building. I am also pleasantly impressed with the constancy and fidelity of the evangelistic class.

Mr. Diez and the members of the church, who have founded and sustained the oldest existing temperance society in Santiago among the Chileans have been the backbone of the temperance movement that has made itself felt throughout the length of the country. Its eleventh anniversary was held in the main audience room of the church in November. There were perhaps 300 persons present; among the speakers were ex-General Canto, Judge Alfonso, and Dr. Pena and Mr. Diez, Later another extemporized temperance meeting was held in the lower part of the church to hear Mr. Caine, a member of the English Parliament and a prominent temperance and Christian worker in Great Britain. The Intendant of the Province occupied the chair, and several Protestant ministers were on the platform. Now the mere fact of getting such men into a Protestant church to take part in such gatherings is a significant advance on the conditions of a decade ago, and as the Gospel element is not hidden, is a hope for the future.

VALPARAISO STATION.

Valparaiso is the centre of the commercial life of the country. saltpetre, iodine, and borax, the copper and silver and gold of the north. together with the hay and wheat and lumber of the south are all controlled in Valparaiso.

The population on land is 125,000, with a floating population of thousands more of the ships in the bay.

The work has been in but two points outside of Valparaiso—Vina du Mov, five miles from the port, and Los Nogales, seventy-five miles, near the line to Santiago.

In the port there are four centres of evangelistic work: The Church with its Sunday-school, Sunday evening preaching service, Christian Endeavor and midweck prayer-meetings; a Sabbath-school in the Escuela Popular, and for a part of the year a prayer meeting and like services in Placereo and an open-air Gospel service in Plaza Ectaurren on Sunday mornings early.

The work may be classed as evangelistic, educational, printing and charity. Under evangelistic is all the work of Valparaiso and that in the two points of Vina and Nogales: Preaching, Sabbath-school and Bible class work, and tract distribution. Under educational is classed the work of the Escuela Popular. The Heraldo Evanjelico and the Almanaque del Hagar comprise the printing, and the Sheltering Home the charity.

An edition of 2,300 copies of the Heraldo Evanjelico is published weekly, 1,200 going to paid subscribers, 700 to churches at special rates and agents for sale.

There are nine members of the Valparaiso Church living at Nogales, representing five families. There is a hall, spacious enough to hold 100, well furnished with benches and chairs, lights, books, stands and a piano, specially dedicated to Gospel work. All this is furnished by one member of the church there, with entertainment for the messenger all free.

ESCUELA POPULAR.—Miss Fulton, who has superintended the school, reports:

The great majority of the children come from the working class. They are the children of the shoemakers, carpenters, merchants, washwomen and dressmakers. They are for the most part poorly clad, and, hard as it is to say, poorly fed. The great purpose of the school is to help them, by putting them in possession of such knowledge as will enable them to rise from the dirty hovels in which the most of them live. By no effort of our own, not a few have come to us this year from the better class. Of this we were glad for two reasons—we believe it has a lifting effect on the poorer ones, and on the other hand tends to break up the class distinction which is so distressingly prevalent here. One day an aristocratic youngster came to me, crying. He had been decently thrashed by another boy. I inquired into the case when he explained that "that rag-muffin who just ran around the corner had whipped him."

The total number enrolled during the year has been 263.

Our Bible services have been made a feature of special interest and pleasure. Each day we have had a half-hour service, which has been attended by the whole school in a body.

The daily requirement of each child memorizing a verse of Scripture has well been applied.

CHILLAN STATION.

Two special efforts were made to get hold of classes not often reached, but without much success. One was by invitations mailed and delivered to the teachers who had come from this and the surrounding provinces to attend the Teachers' Institute; the other was by the personal delivery of some neatly gotten up programs and invitations to a special service commemorative of the tenth anniversary of the commemcement of the evangelical work in Chillan.

Those who are acquainted with other fields, north or south, and have come to Chillan, unite in testifying that this is a hard field. But during the little over ten years of work carried on there by our Mission, Gospel services have been held without a week's interruption, and there have always been hearers, thousands have been supplied with the printed message and thousands have heard it in the various meeting places or through personal work. Some four hundred have become members of the Sunday-school, about one hundred have united with the church, and others have been converted, or received their first impressions here and united with churches in other places.

Ot the work at Concepcion, Mr. Tulio Moran reports:

Eleven persons have made profession of faith during the year in our communion, and all have persevered except one. Perhaps as many more have been examined without the Church's esteeming them to be in condition to make an intelligent and firm profession. Some, however, have not been able to enter, due to the obstacles that have presented themselves to the legalizing of their marriage.

Concerning our new chapel in Rozas Street, "The Evangelical Herald," when it gave an account of its dedication, which took place the 12th of March, printed the following, which I copy, as it is an exact and concise account: This new centre of evangelization has an interesting history, inasmuch as it has come into existence thanks to the Catholic bishop of this city. About the middle of the year 1900, the aforementioned prelate sent to the Intendant's office a note in which he claimed that the public meetings and processions celebrated by the pastor, Tulio Moran, should be suppressed. The Intendant who governed the city at that time, a representative of the coalition, felt obliged to give ear to the claim, so that he signified to Pastor Moran with all the diplomacy by which he was characterized that it was inexpedient for him to celebrate such meetings in a public manner. brother defended his rights in the Press, and carried them forward, but then the police came into action and the pastor was led to jail by these watchmen and taken before both judges of crime, and finally one night he had to pass in cell No. 4 of the 1st precinct, as an infractor of the fourth article of the constitution. It was then that a Chilian gentleman, a merchant of the city, Mr. Julius Paris, indignant at the strange conduct of the authorities, offered to Pastor Moran the balcony of his house for preaching, and even a piece of the site on which his house stood for the building of a preaching hall. In view of such a spontaneous and generous offer, a subscription was commenced, collected principally by Mrs. F. S. Jackson. Brother Vincent Olivares, evangelist of Traigun, made the plans for the little chapel, to be built of wood, and at the same time offered himself to superintend the building, which has now been done and dedicated to the service of Christ, as we said, thanks to the Catholic bishop of this city.

Without interruption, every Sunday at 9 A. M., there has been preaching in the shade of a tree in the little plaza, "La Grua," situated in the northwest corner of the city. A few times since some brethren selected another point, also in the shade of a tree, for public preaching, two meetings being thus carried on simultaneously in the open air.

Before leaving Chillan to settle in Santiago, Mr. Boomer made an extensive tour to the north, of which he writes:

The distance traveled was about 3,000 miles, audiences aggregated about 3,000 souls, about sixty addresses were given, many tracts were distributed and conversations held. Delightful conferences were held with the scattered workers, new converts were received to church fellowship, baptisms and marriages performed and the Lord's Supper was celebrated three times. Our plans were altered by a severe storm, but even in this the hand of God could be seen, for we held services in Huasco, where we had not purposed doing, services which were evidently blessed. The meetings held were of varying character, sermons in English and Spanish, Bible readings and classes, testimony, evangelistic addresses, and a part of the way had with me a telescope organ, and used it for Gospel solos, as well as to accompany congregational singing. The music helped to open doors, and proved a considerable attraction to the services. I was impressed with the interest of my hearers, the openness of the field, the fact that the seed sown by others, as Dr. Allis, Mr. Lowe, Mr. Spining, Dr. Lester, as well as of those who more lately have traversed the same field, had been received into retentive hearts, also with the need for more workers.

TALCA STATION.

Talca, 35,000 inhabitants, reoccupied in 1897 after having been abandoned for twenty years. Workers: Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Spining, Miss Alexia Duncan, teacher in girls' school; Alfredo Suarez, native helper; Mrs. Suarez, teacher in day school. Work: Church and Sunday-school, itinerating, tract distribution, evangelistic work in penitentiary and police station, day-school and Girls' School, Mission treasurer.

The most interesting event of the year was the dedicating of the chapel, which took place the 18th of May, and called together what was doubtless the largest gathering that ever attended a Protestant service in this region. Several members of the Mission and other workers were present and took part in the service and the special meetings that were held the week following, with an attendance of from 125 to 250 people. The church services have been held the entire year without interruption and the congregation has steadily increased, reaching at times to 120 adults on ordinary occasions. The prayer meeting has followed the Christian Endeavor topics. The attendance varied between forty-five and seventy, except during the heavy rains.

The Monday evening Bible class met regularly from the first of March until the middle of December and studied verse by verse the entire epistle to the Romans. At the last meeting each member gave what was to him the most important lesson of the Epistle and each one quoted his favorite verse. The selections were gratifying, showing that in many cases the truth had not only been learned but also applied and experienced. This class frequently filled the pastor's study to overflowing and the average attendance was over twenty.

PUEBLO ORIENTE: This is a suburb, cut off from the main town by the railway tracks. A gentleman offered a room, rent free, and we began to hold services there in September. The second night the place was attacked by a mob of eighty fanatics incited by the priests. A brick building nearby furnished the necessary ammunition, and soon the windows were broken. Then the mob surged against the door, which happily resisted the first attack, and before a second could be made two mounted police bore down upon the crowd, firing their carbines in the air. The mob disappeared in the darkness and the little band of frightened "evangelicos" were permitted to go home, safe and thankful that they had been delivered from the hands of wicked men. The authorities tried to bring the guilty parties and several arrests were made, but as no one had seen them throwing stones, they were set free. The papers, however, ventilated the matter most thoroughly and for over a week the clerical paper came out with the most bitter anathemas against all Protestants and Protestant propaganda. The radical and liberal papers defended us and denounced the attack as a shameful demonstration of barbarism. The result was we had more free advertising, and had the attention of the public attracted to us and our work as never before. We have several interested and in regular attendance upon all our services, whose relations with our Church date from that event.

Work in the Penitentiary: Last year mention was made of the conversion of a desperado in the penitentiary. He has continued faithful and active in spreading the Gospel among his fellow-prisoners. A short time ago he wrote asking for instructions as to the formation and conduct of a Society of Christian Endeavor, saying that there were sixteen men whom he considered converted, and were desirous of becoming members. We are not allowed to go to preach to them, nor teach them to sing, nor even to distribute tracts and can only visit them for a few minutes once a month. We can and do send them packages of tracts and other reading matter. This year when the priest paid his annual visit to the prisoners, very few of them came to confess. Then he began to preach against the "heretical doctrines that had infested the establishment," saying that they were not of God but from the devil himself. Then he called for Filador Ortiz, the convert. He came and the priest exclaimed, "Savage villain," and poured out all sorts of abuse. Ortiz said: "I thought I had come to talk with a minister of the Lord, who, if I am in the wrong, would, in the sweet persuasive words of the Gospel, convince me of my errors, but I find I am talking with one of the vilest of men, so please leave me alone and with Christ my Saviour." So saying, he turned away and went to his cell, leaving the "Holy Father" foaming with rage and pouring our curses upon him. The priest did as much to weaken his own cause and advance the Gospel as one man well could do in a single meeting.

WORK IN THE POLICE STATION: At the invitation of the chief of police, Mr. Suarez went to police headquarters to give talks on temperance and moral subjects. Generally one or two members of the church accompanied him and the Gospel was preached and tracts were distributed. Two visits per week were made for several months. Thousands of tracts have been distributed at the close of meetings in the shops and factories and in the streets and on the trains.

THE GIRLS' SCHOOL.—

The school has met with the most bitter opposition, and had a hard struggle to keep alive. But neither Miss Duncan nor her co-workers lost faith in the project and good, honest work was done with the few who remained. The parents who, in spite of all efforts of the priests to the contrary, kept their children in the school, expressed themselves as highly pleased and warmly assured us of their continued patronage. Several families have promised to send their children next year. A very conveniently located house has been secured and the outlook for next year is hopeful.

The Escuela Popular had an attendance of forty-two chil-

The work at Taltal in the Talca field is under Mr. Elphick's He writes:

The new harvest consists of twenty-six who have been on probation, and will be received on full membership this month, making a total of thirty-six members.

The Sunday-school, having started last year with about fifteen, counts fifty at present. Last year about forty of them visited the hospital, gave presents to the sick, and sang hymns. This produced a very good impression on them and in the town.

The Gospel has been constantly announced to the people in the hospital, and many a time we have had to encounter the opposition of the priest, but without being hindered in the blessed work, as we are favored by the manager, who is impartial in religious matters, and answers the objections of the priest, saying coolly: "The hospital is for everybody." This is an exceptional privilege in Chile, as most hospitals are under the control of priests and nuns.

COPIAPO MISSION.

The territory of the Copiapo field is 500 miles long, and in width from the Andes to the ocean. The ports of the extremes are Huasco in the south and Tocopilla in the north, accessible only by steamers along the coast. Six railroads from as many ports lead into the interior and terminate in two or three branches at the bases of the foot-The industries are saltpeter in the north and mines; mines in the center, and mines and agriculture in the south. The population of the whole region is about 7,900 people. The largest city in which we have Gospel work is Copiapo, population about 9,000. Other cities are Taltal and Tocopilla, 5,000 each; Caldera and Chanoral, 1,200 each. The rest of the population is grouped in smaller towns, agricultural centers. Saltpeter oficinas and mines scattered from the coast to the Cordilleras, from one end of the district to the other.

During the year the Gospel has been preached in thirty-four different places. Regular services are held each week in thirteen. There are four chapels, held in the name of the Mission, two of which have been dedicated during the year, while there are besides five rooms used exclusively for religious purposes in so many other centers at no cost to the Mission or the cause. There are three organized churches with about 140 members, besides and in addition, at least 300 converts can be counted, not members principally because of the distance to the church centers. More than 2,700 pesos have been raised towards the expenses of the regular work.

Of the wide work carried on from Copiapo, Mr. Schmalhorst reports:

Inland from Copiapo some twelve miles, at Tierra Amorilla, several meetings were held during the first months of the year. The attendance was good, some fifty inside and often twice as many in the street, but the withdrawal of the leader and the difficulty of securing a room led to the suspension of the meetings for the present. There are four-families here and in the mines nearby. Tierra Amorilla has a mining population of 1,600 and of 3,000 within a radius of a few miles. It is handy to Copiapo and could be visited weekly for three pesos, besides the rooms for the meetings. Rent is high and two rooms, one for the meetings and one for the visitor, would cost $25 a month. There are mines nearby, employing from 100 to 300 men, where meetings could be held at no cost. The missionary in charge has been invited to visit them, but has not been able to thus far.

A few meetings and a great many private conferences were held in the early part of the year in the Pueblo, distance two miles to the interior from Copiapo. The Seventh-Day Adventists have upset the two large families that formed the center of the work there, and now these with some others from the Church of Copiapo, sixteen in all, have returned to the deeds of the law for their salvation. It might be said that these Adventists proselyte from the churches. Their work is not among the sinners unconverted.

To the Delcinea Mine, sixty miles inland, three visits have been made, and since September 1st three regular meetings a week have been established. This is the biggest copper mine in Chile and employs some foo men, thus the population is at least 1,000 souls. Every facility in the way of conveyance from the railroad terminus to the mine, entertainment and room for the meetings is graciously furnished. The employes themselves have taken steps to purchase a baby organ for their use; the organ has been ordered and by the 1st of January ought to be in their hands. There are a group of some sixteen men who sympathize with the Gospel and support it. All of them cannot be said to be converted.

Between Huasco and Caldera is the port of Carrizal Bajo, which opens to the mining region of the desert interior. In this rally meetings have been held in seven different places: Corrizal Bajo, Corrizal Alto, Canto del Agra, Astillas, Manganeso, Jarillas and Cerro Blanco. Visits have been made by Mr. Schmalhorst alone and with Mr. Boomer and by Sr. Olivares alone. Since June regular work has been carried on by Sr. Guiraga, a former helper and colporteur. This work has been at very little expense to the mission, due to the personal sacrifices and efforts of Dr. Palma, of Astillas Mine. Sr. Palma was himself once a colporteur and helper with the Mission. This was years ago. Since his employment in the valley he has been the chief support of the work. He is an indefatigable distributer of tracts and books. He talks the Gospel to all. Formerly he rode from five to nine miles to preach on Sundays, but now his family and business do not permit it. Last year he gave a month, his vacation, to visiting the different groups and soliciting subscribers for the Heraldo. He is one who when he was converted shut himself up in his room and passed some weeks reading the Bible and meditating the truths of salvation. So much by wav of parenthesis. It was in March and then in May that I wrote to Sr. Guiraga, together with Sr. Palma, and in June he came at our request. For two months he was supported by Sr. Palma at his own expense. Then he addressed a circular to the different groups in Chile, in which they were asked to contribute towards the support of Sr. Guiraga till the end of the year. Almost every group of the Presbyterian Church responded and several individuals of the Methodist. Thus Sr. Guiraga's support is assured till January 1, 1903.

Tocopilla is the point farthest north of our work and is a flourishing port of 5,000 inhabitants, supported by the product of seven oficinas and innumerable mines of the direct interior.

The work has progressed. Thirty-two have been received into the Church during the year, one has died and twenty have moved away. The net gain in members is eleven, which, added to the fifty-nine old ones, makes seventy actually on the church roll. A new chapel worth 1,000 pesos has been finished and dedicated free from debt and held in the name of the Church of Tocopilla. This chapel is in the Deseada Mine, but draws a few from two neighboring mines, the centre of about 150 to 200 miners.

The Board of elders of this church is one of the strongest, as the church itself is one of the strongest in Chile. The elders continue all services in the absence of their "pastor," and all of them are Chilians.

Mr. Depallens writes of the dedication of the chapel at Tocopilla:

The dedication of the little chapel of Mine Deseada was a spiritual event, which not only the evangelical people shall remember but many infidels and Catholics, who watched from the hills around to see and hear something. This chapel was built on ground given by the owner of Deseada Mine and two hundred pesos for the purpose. Mr. C. Nicholls raised the fund to eight hundred pesos, with which he himself directed the work of the pretty building.

Proud were the miners with such a good and pretty place of worship. Never before had I enjoyed myself so much in prayer meetings as in the middle of these dear brethren, whose earnest prayers raised me up, filling me with strength and courage. Many a time I had made up my mind not to go to the meeting, for I must say the distance is four miles, but when the hour to go came near it was impossible to deny myself to go to have a spiritual drink.

COLOMBIA MISSION.

Bogota: the capital of the country; situated on a plateau about 8,600 feet above sea level and four degrees north latitude; climate cool; population estimated at 120,000; occupied as a Mission Station 1856. Missionaries—Rev. T. H. Candor and Mrs. Candor, Rev. M. W. Graham and Mrs. Graham, Miss Jessie Scott, and Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Miles.

BARRANQUILLA (Bar-ran-keel-ya): near the northern seacoast on the Magdalena river; 12 degrees north latitude; hot climate; population estimated above 50,000; occupied as a Mission Station 1888. Mission-aries—Rev. W. S. Lee and Mrs. Lee, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, and Miss Martha B. Hunter.

MEDELLIN: capital of the Department of Antioquia; situated in a river valley about 4,000 feet above sea level; climate temperate; population estimated at 50,000; occupied as a Mission Station in 1889. Missionaries—Rev. J. G. Touzeau and Mrs. Touzeau, and Miss C. J. Riley.

CARACAS, VENEZUELA: capital; population 75,000; occupied tentatively 1897. Missionaries—Rev. T. S. Pond and Mrs. Pond.

IN THIS COUNTRY: Rev. and Mrs. T. H. Candor (returning), Mrs. A. R. Miles, and Miss C. J. Riley.

SPECIAL INTEREST IN THIS FIELD.—During the past year the eyes of the world have been turned upon this section of the Mission field as never before. Venezuela and Colombia have each attracted attention that will call for special thought and study from the politician, the economist and the philanthropist, as well as from the missionary.

The blockade of the Venezuelan ports, so far from being a slight wave on the southern sea, seems to have been a movement that reached to every shore and to have disturbed the waters of every sea. The civil wars which have devastated that country for so many years have greatly prostrated it, so that protection for life and property could not be fully granted, and the expenses which attend civil war have incapacitated the country to meet its financial obligations. Disputes about adjudicating these claims and delays in providing for their payment led to the blockade of the ports, and this in its turn added to the burden of the people.

The conditions in Colombia are not much better than they are in Venezuela. Civil war has also existed there for some three years. Life and property have been sacrificed in the same way. Very much the same class of claims exists against the country as we have seen in the case of Venezuela. However the case may be there, Colombia has an income from the Panama Railway and a prospective income from the Canal which will enable that country to meet the claims presented to the Government. The internal condition of the country is not as stable as could be desired and it calls for the same sympathy that we feel for Venezuela.

• EVANGELICAL MISSION WORK.—The mission work of the Evangelical Churches has not been pushed with the same activity in these countries which has marked it in many other lands. This is due in part to the fact that the people do not welcome the gospel. They do feel their need of something that will enable them to take their places alongside of the active industrial nations of the world, but they are not yet convinced that the true gospel of Christ in the hearts and lives of the people is the foundation of all real prosperity. God may continue to visit them with adversity, until they are brought in supplication to the Saviour's feet, and welcome the gospel message.

In the meantime the gospel is preached among them, but, except on the Isthmus of Panama and to a lesser extent in Venezuela, the greater part of the Evangelical Mission work in these countries has been done by our own church. centers about three points in Colombia and one in Venezuela. Bogota is the capital and the largest city of Colombia. It is situated on the highland of the interior, is some seven hundred miles from the seacoast, from which it can be reached only after some ten or twelve days' travel, and is yet unconnected with the rest of the world by railroad. Medellin is the second city in importance, but is almost as far removed from the sea coast, and as yet has no railroad. It is the center of the chief gold mining region of the country. Caracas is the capital of Venezuela, the largest city and the most important place in Venezuela. It is only a few miles from the sea and connected with its port, LaGuaira, by railroad.

CARACAS STATION.

There has been no change in the working force of this station during the year. Rev. and Mrs. T. S. Pond have charge of the work; which has been considerably affected both by civil war and foreign intervention from which the whole country has suffered.

Poverty and destitution among the people have followed in the train of these political strifes. Many families and individuals heretofore able to support themselves in comfort are reduced to penury. Almost all industries have come to a fatal pause, and thus many persons are actually suffering for the necessities of life. The Station was constrained to ask for benevolent contributions in order to relieve in some measure the widespread suffering.

It was to have been expected that mission work would have suffered as much as industry and commerce, but while these latter have been almost wholly paralyzed, the Station has seen one of the most prosperous years of its history. There was loss caused by the civil strife and the poverty. A number of the members of the church were compelled to remove from the city, but this loss was more than made good and there are now a greater number of adherents than ever before. Special interest has been manifested in systematic Bible-study, and as a result greater reverence has been shown for the authority of the Scriptures and a growing love for them has been developed. The publication of a paper, "Rays of Light," is believed to have been the means of enlightening some who could be reached in no other way, and also of preventing the circulation of some evil reports that cannot bear the light of the truth.

Christmas time was a season of alarm in the city, but of delightful joy in the mission chapel, in which, through the generosity of friends both at home and abroad, a tree was displayed with all the customary attractions. This occasion demonstrated the fact that the interest of the people in both the Church and School is greater than ever before. The help and the sympathetic presence of the Hon. and Mrs. Bowen from the United States Legation contributed to the pleasure of the occasion.

The Station records its profound gratitude for the continued good health of its members. Only one week's slight indisposition is recorded, and this did not interrupt public services. Yet the city passed through quite an extraordinary epidemic of yellow fever, due perhaps to the entrance of troops from other places. The fever carried off hundreds of people and among them were the young pastor of the German Colony and the Director of the German Catholic College.

The chronic state of civil war which has existed in Venezuela for so long and the consequent prostration of the country awaken sympathy in the hearts of all well-wishers and our Church through this Mission Station is doing what it can for the healing of the nation and for its peace and prosperity.

BOGOTA STATION.

There have been some changes in the personnel of this Station. Rev. and Mrs. T. H. Candor have been absent on furlough in the United States, but expect to be on their way returning to the field at the time of the publication of this report. Mrs. A. R. Miles is in the United States and Rev. A. R. Miles has notified the Board that he will withdraw from the work very soon. The retirement of Rev. and Mrs. Miles will be a loss to the work of the Station, and is deeply felt by all.

The civil war, which has been dragging along for some three years, was continued during the greater part of the year, but seems now to have been suppressed.

The "peso" or Colombian paper dollar, which should be worth 100 cents in silver, depreciated in value to one cent, gold, on the dollar, or even lower, while prices advanced accordingly.

It would be impossible to estimate the material injury to the country which has resulted from this war, and the moral injury has been correspondingly great. In fact the country is prostrate and it will require years for it to recover.

We believe that mission work will contribute to this end, and while it will convey special blessings to those who accept the offers of the gospel, it will also teach men to live in all honesty, purity and chastity and to uphold the just authority of the State.

The work of the Station has been confined to the two lines of Evangelization and Education, through the Church and the School.

EVANGELISTIC.—The troubled state of the country and the insufficient force at the Station have prevented itineration through the country places, but the work in the city has been maintained. It has been conducted along the line of Church work at home, with public preaching services, Sabbath School work, Christian Endeavor Society and Woman's Meetings. Up to the time of Mr. Candor's departure on furlough the Church work was in his care, but since that time it has been in Mr. Miles' charge. It was considered imprudent to try to hold evening services before December 1st last, on account of a "curfew edict" which required all persons not provided with passes to be off the street by eight o'clock P. M. The edict was revoked and evening services were resumed. The attendance, while not large, was good, and there has been some visible fruitage. Five persons were received on profession of their faith in Christ and five others applied, but are still under instruction. The contributions in money for the year have amounted to 2834.371/2 pesos, including 800 pesos contributed by one person toward the purchase of a new communion service, using the individual cup system. Foreigners contributed $6.50 gold for the object named. While nothing remarkable, the work is encouraging.

EDUCATION.—Co-education is unknown in Colombia. Separate education prevails even in the primary public schools, and in the educational work of this Station it has been thought best to make no innovation in this respect.

The School for Boys and Young Men has been under the care of Rev. M. W. Graham and the report for the year ending December, 1902, says: "This year has surpassed all expectations and has broken all records. The total enrollment was nearly double that of any previous year. The receipts were far in excess or any other term. This was due in part to a lessening of competition, for there was but one nominally Liberal School open. It was due also to our moderate prices. But there seems to have been some natural growth due to the excellency of the teaching and to the high moral tone of the school. We cannot tell how much of the present prosperity may continue. We are trying to maintain the same high standards and to introduce such improvements as are possible."

The report shows that the enrollment was 209; of which forty-two were in the Superior Department, thirty-seven in the Intermediate, sixty-six in the Inferior and sixty-four special students. A little more than seventy per cent. paid full tuition, eighteen per cent. paid part tuition and eleven per cent. paid no tuition. The total income from tuitions alone was 10,791.00 pesos, and from all sources 17,777.20 pesos. The total cost of the school, exclusive of the Director's salary and repairs and taxes on the property, was $55, gold, above the receipts on the field.

This institution at such small cost is doing a noble work, as it is permeated by the evangelical spirit of the gospel of Christ. The pupils are constantly under the influence of the gospel and an earnest effort is made to bring them to Christ, to apply the truth to their daily lives and thus to arm them against temptations.

The Girls' School.—This school, under the direction of Miss Jessie Scott, has continued its work during the year. It has met with stronger competition during the year than the Pow' School experienced.

Boys' School experienced.

As is true in almost all nominally Roman Catholic lands, the mothers of Colombia are more afraid to allow their daughters to come under the influence of Protestantism than their sons. Yet the school had an enrollment of sixty-seven, of which only fifteen were from Protestant families.

The regular teachers in the school were all members of the Mission Church and did their work faithfully. Bible lessons were given daily and the pupils all seemed more interested in that class than in any other. The little ones, especially, were always eager for the class and were delighted when, at the end of the year, the Testaments they had used were presented to them.

The school year closed November 14th with examinations attended only by the parents, all of whom expressed themselves as well pleased with all that had been done for their children.

This quiet but earnest work at Bogota may seem to be unproductive of large results, but seed sowing comes before the harvest.

BARRANQUILLA STATION.

This Station has passed through some special trials during the past year. Rev. Alexander Sharp and wife were obliged to retire from the work on account of the unfavorable effects of the climate; and all the members of the Station have suffered more or less from the same cause. The services in Spanish have been in charge of the Rev. A. L. Story and have been continued with very slight interruptions during the entire year, although the unfavorable conditions growing out of the civil war have made it a hard year's work.

The Girls' School, under the care of Mrs. Ladd, assisted by Miss Hunter and several native teachers, reached, in spite of the civil war, the largest enrollment it has ever experienced, one hundred and ten pupils, and good work was done.

The Boys' School, prevented from continuing its work for several months, because the civil authorities would not grant the necessary permit, at last secured permission and had seventy-five pupils on the roll at the end of the year. Mr. Lee had charge and reports good progress and the Station looks forward to better results with more peaceful times.

MEDELLIN STATION.

This Station has suffered from the civil war which has for so long a time afflicted the country. The work has been hampered through the inability to go out itinerating or to send literature through the country, and also by the poverty and preoccupation of the people which held back many from both Church and School.

Mr. and Mrs. Touzeau are alone at this point since Miss Riley returned to the United States. Yet the public church services have been carried on without much interruption even when the missionaries were absent from the city. A native church able to continue its own work is an end to be sought in all Mission work.

Permission to open the school was delayed for a month at the opening of the school year, but the necessary permission was granted and the work was carried on as usual.

We hope and pray that the way for the advance of the Gospel may be opened and widened and that the sorrows and losses suffered by so many may turn their hearts toward spiritual things. Superstition, error and indifference blight a country that under the Gospel might be the abode of happiness and prosperity.

DOCTOR BROWN'S VISIT.—On Wednesday, March 19, Dr. Arthur J. Brown and Mrs. Brown arrived in Beirut quarantine. After two days they began a tour of the Mission field, visiting Shweir, Suk el Gharb, Abeih, Zahleh, Baalbek, Hums, Tripoli, Sidon and Beirut, besides Damascus and Jerusalem. On April 18, the Mission met for conference with Dr. Brown and continued in session for nine days, after which he and Mrs. Brown embarked for the United States. The meetings attended by Dr. Brown were full of interest and the subjects of great importance, some of them requiring long and full discussion in which we had the benefit of Dr. Brown's large experience and clear judicial and judicious views. It was felt by all that the visit of such a man, representing the Board of Missions, was a blessing to each one of us personally and a strong impulse to our work.

DEATH OF MR. BIRD.—On August 30, Rev. William Bird, the oldest missionary in years and in service of the Syria Mission, was called away to his rest. His last illness, which was long and painful, was borne with much Christian patience and fortitude. His missionary life of nearly fifty years began in the day of small things in mission history, and by his faithful service he had no small part in bringing on the results of to-day. He was the model touring missionary, and the secret of his success lay in his love for the people. They regarded him as peculiarly their missionary and father, and all sects and conditions of people felt the bereavement as a personal loss.

RESIGNATION OF DOCTOR BLISS.—Rev. William Bird and Rev. Daniel Bliss, D.D., were born on the same day, August 17, 1823, and at the time that Mr. Bird ceased from his earthly labors, Dr. Bliss laid aside his office as President of the Syrian Protestant College, after a service of forty years in that institution. The alumni of the college, pupils of Dr. Bliss, invited him to a presentation on July 19, and costly presents were brought to him and to Mrs. Bliss by young loving hands and hearts in commemoration of his services to Syria and its people. And on November 22 a large company greeted Dr. Bliss' son, Rev. Howard S. Bliss, D.D., who has just entered on his duties as successor to his venerable father. This auspicious transition marks a new era in the history of Christian education in Syria, and calls for devout thanksgiving to God.

BEIRUT STATION.

The year has been one of unusual health to all, except Dr. Mary P. Eddy, who was laid aside from active work for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Freyer and children returned from the United States October 22. During Mr. Freyer's absence Rev. F. E. Hoskins had the care of the Press and Mission Treasury.

The resignation of Miss Alice S. Barber and her departure on June 2, though prompted by true filial affection and devotion to aged parents, was none the less a severe trial and a great loss to the teachers and pupils of the Seminary, and to the Christian community at large. This vacancy has been filled by the arrival of Miss Horne.

CHURCH.—The native evangelical church, under the care of its Syrian pastor, welcomed nineteen new members on profession. There has been a notable increase in contributions, a total of $340, notwithstanding the continual depletion of numbers by emigration. The spiritual tone and uplifting influence of the C. E. Society are causes for thanksgiving.

READING ROOMS.—The Christian Temperance Reading Rooms in the heart of Beirut have prospered. The fact that during the year 22,745 men and boys of all sects and nationalities visited the rooms to spend a profitable and quiet evening, or drop in during the day, free from the temptations and deleterious influences of the Syrian casinos and coffee shops, makes us doubly anxious to secure better premises and larger facilities for usefulness.

Mrs. Eddy has continued her usual women's meetings in the eastern quarter.

EVANGELISTIC.—In February the church, college and various girls' boarding schools were greatly stirred and spiritually blessed by the evangelistic services conducted by Rev. Saeed Juraidini, who spent a month in Beirut, often holding three services daily.

THEOLOGICAL CLASS.—Opened in Suk el Gharb May 21st with six students, who graduated November 12, and are now engaged in preaching and teaching.

EDUCATIONAL.—

BEIRUT FEMALE SEMINARY.—Miss Eliza D. Everett, for twenty-five years connected with this Seminary, died February 8 in Chicago, leaving the precious memory of a life spent for Christ and the world. During the visit of Dr. and Mrs. Brown a memorial service was held.

In January and February, in answer to much united prayer, the Spirit of God worked with visible power in the hearts of many pupils. Almost daily meetings were held, many of them conducted entirely by the girls.

"Few of us will forget those Sunday evenings in the parlor, when girl after girl made known her purpose to give her life into the keeping of Christ."

The class offerings for Foreign Missions have increased by one-third, the amount being $26. The Home Missionary Society, by much labor and sacrifice, contributed toward the expenses of the readings rooms and the support of a small Armenian boy in the day department.

Two pupils graduated May 1, after which the triennial meeting of the Alumni was held.

The number of pupils in the Seminary is 92. Of these 28 are Protestants, 34 Greeks, 14 Catholics, 4 Maronites, 6 Jews, 4 Moslems, 1 Druze and 1 Armenian. One-fourth of the pupils are children of former students.

MEDICAL WORK.—On the first of March, after seven weeks of search, Dr. Mary P. Eddy secured a temporary house at Juneh, a seaport twelve miles north of Beirut. A native sloop carrying her goods was wrecked, and her valuable outfit lost. A large building, centrally located and admirably adapted for the work, was occupied September 19.

At first Protestant work in this intensely bigoted Maronite district of Kesrawan was regarded by the people with distrust, but now there seems no limit to the numbers who come for aid. Many priests, monks, officials and leading men from several towns have called and asked Dr. Eddy to visit their towns.

The Juneh Government district contains 225 towns and villages. More than two hundred carriages pass the door every day, and over a thousand foot passengers form a motley, never-ending procession of Kurds, Syrians, Armenians, soldiers, priests and peasants. So many patients come for treatment that some must be sent away. Juneh is well adapted in location and climate for a medical mission undertaking.

PRESS.—Dr. H. H. Jessup has completed the manuscript for a commentary on the Pentateuch.

The growth of the Press will appear from the fact that in 1836 it consisted of two rooms, with a font of type and a small hand machine, capable of printing one form of twelve pages weekly in an edition of 2000 copies. In 1902 it is a large establishment with five steam presses and fifty workmen, ready to print three forms of thirty-two pages daily in an edition of 5,000 copies.

The Press is the center, or missionary exchange, for missionaries of twenty-five or thirty different societies in the Levant, its cash transactions during 1902 amounting to $225.000. It is also the depository of various Bible and Tract Society ties.

Relations with Constantinople have been very unsatisfactory. For more than ten months not a single permit to publish was received. A new printing machine was detained over a month in Custom House,

The total output of pages printed was 23,395,410, or 5,300,000 less than 1901—explained largely by delay in securing permits from Constantinople and paper from Austria. The number of volumes issued is greater than in 1901 by 13,000—the total being 103,000 volumes.

The American Bible Society still holds first place in calling for two-thirds of the total pages printed. Any book of the Bible, beautifully printed in Arabic, may be had for about two cents.

The American Tract Society has made a grant of $350.

The Russian schools still continue to be our best customers in Syria.

The Press report urges a decided increase in the facilities for putting into circulation the large stock of books and tracts now in store at the Press.

LEBANON STATION.

Late in April Rev. G. C. Doolittle and family left Syria on furlough. This departure, with the loss of Mr. Bird, has depleted the working force of the Station.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jessup welcomed to their home the youngest member of the Mission, Faith Jadwin Jessup, Jr., born in Aleih September 18.

Lebanon has been in the past and promises far more in the future to be the life and renovating power of Syria.

Operations of the year may be grouped under five geographical sections.

DEIR EL KOMAR.—This district contains many populous towns and villages, in some of which work was formerly carried on, but dropped by reason of retrenchment.

Baaklin is an important Druze government center. An English nurses' mission have a hospital here. Two large schools for boys and girls are under supervision of our Mission, maintained by funds from Great Britain. These are excellent schools. But progress among Druzes in spiritual things is exceedingly slow and discouraging. The day of their deliverance from semi-Islamic, semi-Gnostic superstition has not yet dawned. Like the Jews and Moslems they seem to stand as a test of the possibilities of the faith of Christianity to remove mountains.

At Deir el Komar a great and pleasing change is evident in public opinion toward our work. Only a few years ago the bigoted papal inhabitants were almost inaccessible. Schools and preaching have been a large factor in breaking up this icy seclusion, but the greatest agency was the life of Mr. Bird.

A special letter of condolence was sent to Mrs. Bird, signed by seventy of the leading men representing the various families of the place, asking for a special memorial service. On the evening of September 24th an orderly crowd of people, men, women and children, filled the court-yards of the schools and were on the housetops, and through the long service behaved in a most exemplary manner. Leading men testified to the purity of motive and singleness of purpose of his life, and through him extolled the gospel of the grace of God.

After a short interval occurred the funeral of the first Protestant church member of Deir el Komer,—a simple, earnest Christian for more than forty years. To hear the testimony of his fellow townsmen of other creeds to his piety and uprightness was most gratifying.

Attendance and progress in the day-schools has been good.

ABEIH.—All the usual work of the Station was kept up during the winter (of 1901-02). Also Mrs. Bird's Bible class and the sewing society. The Sunday-school was flourishing as usual. Three school examinations were held during the year, one of them unique, when the girls were taken to the house of the Druze ladies and examination held in the presence of these secluded women, who were much interested.

The large Capuchin Boarding School for boys, which had over a hundred pupils last year, has been given up this fall. Little progress was made by the pupils because of careless management and lack of responsibility.

RISHMEYEH.—Although the quarrel between the clergy and the people has been settled by the opening of the Maronite Church, and a "mission" was held and several preachers of repute made an extraordinary attempt to restore the ancient state of exclusive bigotry, yet the people have learned too much in these three years of evangelistic effort. Mrs. Dale and her daughter spent the summer here in earnest, self-denying work. To Mrs. Dale's wise management, at a critical time, in which her personal influence was more than a match for the wiles and violence of the priests, is due the continued progress. Two communion services were held. At the second two young people united,—the first fruits of arduous work.

Just at the close of summer the American Consul at Beirut received a letter from Pere Ignace, priest of Rishmeyeh. In it complaint was made that he and his defenceless school were abominably persecuted by the boys of the Protestant school. This letter, a humorous curiosity, utterly misrepresenting the true state of affairs, is probably the first instance in which a poor, innocent militant Maronite priest, surrounded by hundreds of his people, has been in danger of his life from a mere handful of timid Protestants.

SUKEL GHARB.—Good audiences have attended Suk Church. Some metropolitan churches of America have prayer-meetings more meagerly attended and less full of life than the meetings of this mountain church. Fourteen were received into membership.

SUK BOARDING SCHOOL.—Overcrowded class rooms and dormitories have brought new problems. Fair progress has been made in study. The tendency toward College education is increasing. Nearly 50 Suk boys are in college now.

Interest in religion was gratifying. Excellent results followed the intensely practical preaching of Rev. Saeed Juraidini. Sunday evening boys' meetings are often lively and full of spirit. The C. E. Society has twenty members. Nearly $45 were collected by Sunday-school and C. E. Society. Four boys united with the church, while several others were advised to unite with their home church.

During 1902-03 the number of pupils is the largest in the history of the school. There are 121 boarders, four lodgers and twenty-six day pupils. Forty-three eligible candidates were refused. Of the 151 pupils, thirty-six are Protestants, ten Druzes, four Moslems.

At Shweifat, Miss Proctor's schools had a very successful year. In other parts of this district the work has suffered, owing to retrenchment. It is a promising field.

ZAHLEH AND BUKA'A.—Thirteen members united with the Zahleh Church. The contributions to benevolence were much larger than usual.

The C. E. Societies met regularly with good attendance. The Women's Society raised $10 and the Men's $3.50. Zahleh Sewing Society reports eighteen meetings attended by all the various sects. $18.50 were collected and expended on materials. Eighty-one garments were made and given to the poor. Junior Endeavorers met fifteen times.

At last a fine, eligible property, well arranged and commodious, has been purchased for the Boys' Day School, and they are now well settled for good work. As the boys have to pass through a hostile Catholic district, they were at first set upon and beaten. But on the recent visit of the new governor of Lebanon the matter was laid before him, the father of the leading offenders were summoned and rebuked for such behavior.

An exceptionally good school is at Kobb Elias, where the attendance has been large and regular and progress steady.

The Meshghura School is meeting keen competition from a newly-opened Jesuit School conducted by four teachers.

Schools in Housh Zahleh, Furzul and Housh Barada have been closed to meet retrenchment.

At Ras Baalbek, Mrs. Dale and her daughter repeated their interesting experience of last year, at times cut off from the outside world by severe and prolonged storms. The new railway now passes near this town and brings it into daily communication with more civilized regions.

Shweir—boarding school.—Last year was unsatisfactory, owing to resignation of the head teacher and inability to find a good substitute. But the session of 1902-03 has begun well, under a college-trained head teacher. There are twentyseven boarders, twenty-one lodgers and twenty-five day scholars. The school, aside from teacher's salaries, paid its own expenses and had a balance of $30.

PRESBYTERY.—Lebanon Presbytery met in Abeih September 16th and spent three days in business and conference. Meeting in the home of Mr. Bird, considerable time was spent in recollections of him, who had influenced the lives of almost every member.

SUMMARY.—Thirty-three new church members, 2,400 in Sunday-schools, 2,620 in day schools, paying $360.

TRIPOLI STATION.

Mr. March and family returned from the United States May 13, and spent the summer at Suk el Gharb, where Mr. March gave instruction in the theological class. They received a royal welcome in Tripoli November 15.

There are over 2,000 villages in the Tripoli field, in only twenty-five of which is work in operation.

This year over 4,000 persons left the port of Tripoli for foreign parts, among them nearly fifty church members.

The work of the American Bible Society is appreciated more and more. The Holy Scriptures, secretly given to Moslems, may be a power for good in a land where open preaching to them is prohibited.

Books to the amount of $628 were sold from the Tripoli

PRESBYTERY.—The meeting this year in Hums was specially encouraging. Each church is ambitious for a forward movement, financially and in education. Financial debate had little place. Seeing the need, they have provided for it. The spirit of prayer was marked. A new Home Mission Committee provided for the support of two new schools. Plans were made for organizing two new churches.

An interesting work among the Nusaireh, arbitrarily closed some years ago by the government, has borne permanent fruit.

A merchant of the Nusaireh village, returning with goods from Hamath, spent the night at Mahardeh. He attended service and offered prayer. Everyone was thrilled by his eloquence, earnestness and faith, and he afterwards told them his story. Years ago he became greatly interested in the gospel as preached by the missionaries in his village. He sought divine guidance and was led to unite with the church. Complaint was made against him to the Governor, who said, "You cannot be a Christian, for you are descended from a long line of Nusaireh ancestry." "That may be, but for myself I say that by the grace of God I am a Christian." Bitter persecution followed, but he did not waver, and to-day is a consistent Christian, a living example of what a man can bear and conquer through the Spirit's power.

Murad Haddad, the only Protestant in Bir Sheen, when arrested on a false charge, said to the soldier sent to take him, "Wait until I go and bring my weapons." The guard followed him into the house as quickly as he could, rifle in hand, and was surprised to see Murad with only two books in his hands,—a Bible and a hymn book. These he used in reading to his fellow-prisoners and singing Gospel hymns. He was soon released.

Boys' Boarding School.—The recent decision of the Board authorizing the opening of a boys' boarding school in Tripoli, will be acted upon only with the understanding that it detracts nothing from the evangelistic work of the Station, or Mission. In view of the growing demands of itinerating, an additional ordained missionary will be needed. A conditional offer of $20,000 has been made for purchase of site and erection of buildings. Reputation must of course precede self-support.

Increasing dissatisfaction with the work of the Russian schools is noticeable. A prominent orthodox Greek said, "They spend money enough, but little beside prayers is taught. The Americans give the best instruction to be had in Syria. I have advocated the Russians and sent my children to their schools, but I did it to my loss." The Russians have thirty schools in the Tripoli field on which they spend annually $36,000. We spend $975 in our educational work.

Women's Meetings.—The ladies of the Station have been unremitting in their efforts for women and girls. Six weekly meetings were held, and much personal work done. Throughout the entire field a new interest and zeal have been manifested. A set of topics was prepared for use in the various places, and all are concluding a year's study of the Life of Christ.

The calling of Hanna Khubbaz to the pastorate of the Hums Church has proved a spiritual blessing. His wisdom and tact are manifest. Self-support, meetings for special prayer, neighborhood prayer-meetings, appointment of committees, oversight of near villages are encouraging features.

At Hamath the need of a suitable church and school building is acute. This important city, with its large Moslem population, the terminus of the new railroad, is worthy of a more suitable building than the present, where the temperature rises to over 100 degrees in summer, and the congregation and pupils must wade through mud in winter.

At Kharaibeh the brethren have taken a new start. Four persons have joined the church.

At Minyara and Amar religious interest is strong. Fifty-six have joined the churches in Tripoli field MEDICAL Work.—Human ailments are not on the decrease. 5,672 patients were treated during the year, 474 operations performed, 123 inpatients cared for.

The gift of land adjoining the hospital has made possible an entrance and steps leading up from the wide street, a boon to those who must be carried for treatment.

There is great need for a special ward for women, separated from the other wards. Nearly three-quarters of the operations are upon women and girls. Yet they are obliged to be placed in the men's wards. Governmental reasons preclude a canvass for funds in Tripoli. But the erection of a building would cause no objections.

Attentive audiences are found at the Dispensary Gospel meetings.

Good work has been done in the large prison (formerly a conspicuous Crusaders' castle). Many Bibles have been distributed. Sixteen days were spent at Hums. Clinics were held in the church buildings, with benches for an operating table. Sixty-five operations were performed, one-third of them for serious eye diseases. Over 1,000 prescriptions were given, mostly for Moslems. A liberal member of the Hums Church has promised nearly $400 for the erection of a simple building.

At Hamath (for seven days) a Moslem woman came with a jaw dislocated forty days before. She had tried hard to appease the "devil" who was holding her jaw back, once walking for twelve hours to a sacred tomb. She had suffered much at the hands of quacks and others. Chloroform and ten minutes hard work put the jaw back in its place.

During the year 262 services were held before clinics.

Operations upon members of non-Christian sects 259, of Christian sects 215; received in fees $435.

TRIPOLI GIRLS' SCHOOL.—Financially, the year has been very prosperous, with more full-pay pupils than ever before. The income from boarders was $1,270, and from day pupils $160, nearly enough to pay the expense for food. Tuition fees have been raised, and only one girl was lost on that account.

There are fifty-two boarders, and many applicants were refused for lack of room. Two girls were so desirous of obtaining a place, that without any encouragement, they came into the city and waited, at the risk of being sent home, for a vacancy which might occur. Fortunately for them some of the expected ones did drop out and they dropped in.

The entire number of boarders and day pupils is 135.

The graduating class numbered six.

The older girls have given much help in the general management of the house and the training of new pupils. Miss LaGrange organized a "Little Mothers' Club," whose twelve members each chose a young girl to look after.

Much of the interest of the school life centers in the C. E. Society. It touches all the girls in its missionary department to which all contribute, in its prayer-meetings which all have an opportunity to attend.

The larger girls have aided willingly in city mission work by going with those who conducted the Women's Meetings. During the summer these same girls helped the ladies in a tour among the villages.

We are trying to teach our girls to be missionaries, ready to speak a word for Jesus, whenever opportunity offers. Our ideal for the school is that it shall be, in some real sense, a missionary training home.

On Sunday evenings systematic instruction has been given to the older girls in methods of personal work. This fall, without any suggestion from the ladies, the church members banded themselves together to do daily personal work.

Religious interest has been steady, and several have been truly converted.

SIDON STATION.

There have been several changes in the Station force and many journeyings back and forth.

Rev. W. K. Eddy, who returned to his work at the beginning of the year, has again gone to America to represent our Mission before the home government, to urge the securing of recognition of our treaty rights in Turkey.

In April Dr. Samuel Jessup left on a furlough of six months. His daughter, Miss Fannie N. Jessup, left Syria with him, having resigned from the Mission. During her four years and a half in Sidon she helped much in the work, teaching at different times in each of the two Boarding Schools, beside helping in many other ways. She endeared herself to all, and her influence and memory will long abide.

Mr. Tenny Ford, for three years a faithful instructor in the Gerard Institute, left for the homeland at the close of the school year.

The fine supply of pure water from the two wells in the Institute yard is a great blessing to many, especially now that a portion of it is conducted to the street, that whoever will may take of it. In view of the presence of cholera to the south the possession of this pure water supply is a cause for special thankfulness.

Mr. Stuart D. Jessup, at one time a loved and valuable helper in the Institute, now returns with his wife to take more of the responsibility in the work, and also to make a home for his father, Dr. Samuel Jessup.

Loving and tender mention is made in the report of the illness of Mrs. M. P. Ford, who passed away soon after the Mission meeting in December. Of her meetings with the Seminary teachers one of them said: "We used to consider this one of the best hours of the week, as she gave us spiritual food for the coming week."

THE FIELD remains substantially as last year as to number of places occupied, though some changes and transfers have occurred.

Dibbeyeh, Kefr Jerra, Safed-Buttikh, Jezzin and Dibl are temporarily closed, while Ibnaful, Deir Keefeh and Raom have been opened, the people of Raom having paid thirty Turkish dollars.

Yarum in the needy southern district, where there are Moslems and Christians, is at last open and anxious for a school. "No hindrance at all," writes Miss M. T. M. Ford, "Jesuit teacher gone and the Catholics refuse to send another." A petition for a school was largely signed. A teacher has been found, two-thirds of whose salary Miss Ford will pay. She assists generously in thus helping in the salaries of several other teachers, and labors most unselfishly herself in this wretched district.

We rejoice to record the opening of a very promising work in Mughdushi, near Sidon, where nine years ago a member of the Station was stoned out of the place. A licentiate has been sent there, whose great zeal and earnestness have been before proved,-Masaad Daoud, who has been ten years in America and Egypt. He comes back to accept half the salary he received in Egypt, and has taken his family to Mughdushi, where they can find only the poorest house, and his only comment is:

Thank God, we are happy and satisfied so long as we see the people crowding the place night after night and a deep spirit of inquiry manifested.

Of the fifty-two helpers three are ordained pastors, ten licentiates, and eight teachers who also hold regular Sabbath services. There are twelve organized churches and twenty-five other regular preaching places.

Presbytery.—In August Sidon Presbytery met in Judeideh, a spirit of harmony and earnestness prevailing. The special item of interest was the ordination of two ministers, Rev. Habeeb Subheyeh, at work in Aleppo with an English Presbyterian Mission, and Rev. Taameh Rahhal, formerly of Zahleh, now at Hasbeyeh, the second oldest evangelical church in Syria. These services were both very impressive and the churches crowded with attentive audiences.

There have been nineteen additions to the churches on profession of faith.

In October a preacher visited ten or more villages along the coast north of Sidon. In one he was invited to the house of the head man of the village, and after conversation the sheikh arose and said before the priest and all the people, "We are ready to pay twenty-five dollars, if you will give us the benefit of an American school." The priest said, "Pay me the money and I will teach the children." The reply was, "Even though you paid us money, we would not let you teach our children, for you know nothing."

In summing up his observations of the trip the preacher said:

Former fanaticism found no place in the minds of the people. Letters of emigrants in America have exerted a beneficial influence. The desire of the people for schools is very strong. I was quite unprepared to see how white are the fields to the harvest, and the people in great need of the preaching of the Gospel.

EDUCATION.—Twenty-six day-schools have been in operation, with over 1,200 pupils. The schools of the British Syrian Mission are a valuable adjunct to our work.

SIDON GIRLS' SEMINARY.—At present there are forty-seven boarders. Many have to be turned away each year. The girls come from twenty-three villages. The total number of pupils, boarding and day, is 140. Of these ten are Moslems, two Jews, forty-three Protestants.

The graduating class of seven was unusually satisfactory. Five were church members, and all showed loyalty to Christ in their daily lives. One was the third of a family to receive a Seminary diploma, while a fourth is still in the school.

Our faithful and capable Arabic master, Daoud Kurban, who has lovingly served our school for nineteen years, has been called to the College in Beirut. He is a man of sterling Christian character, and is much respected by all.

This year every girl of the two higher classes is either a communicant or an applicant.

GERARD INSTITUTE.—Mrs. Wood, who has already done so much for the development of the Institute, has made a most munificent offer, such as has seldom been recorded (apart from legacies) in the history of missions. It has filled us with fresh courage and given us a new lease of life.

By transferring the Primary pupils to the new building on the Farm, they are more comfortably housed, the orphans receive better schooling, and the crowded condition of the city school is relieved.

The Shoemaking Department now has its own building The force of Syrian instructors has been greatly strengthened.

In July a class of three was graduated, all of whom are now teaching.

There are 137 full boarders, three half-boarders, eight roomers, and twenty-two day pupils of Institute grade, making 170. With the Primary scholars the whole number is 233.

MISSION TO THE CHINESE AND JAPAN-ESE IN THE UNITED STATES.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.: Mission began 1852. Missionaries—Rev. I. M. Condit, D. D., and Mrs. Condit.

JAPANESE: Missionaries-E. A. Sturge, M. D., and Mrs. Sturge.

PORTLAND, OREGON: Missionary-Mrs. W. S. Holt.

Los Angeles, Cal.: Missionaries—Rev. W. P. Chalfant and Mrs. Chalfant.

WOMAN'S OCCIDENTAL BOARD, SAN FRANCISCO: Miss D. M. Cameron, Superintendent.

NEW YORK CITY: Rev. Huie Kin, Superintendent.

This year closes a half century of work for the Chinese in California. It is hoped that when the precise date of the opening of the Mission occurs, that suitable anniversary services will be held, when interesting details from the years of work may be heard in some public way.

Though the Chinese are fewer in number, the work done for them has been as truly successful this year as at any previous time. This is true, not because of the actual number brought into the Church—though including San Rafael, Oakland and Alameda eighteen have been received during the year; but because all the old lines of work have been sustained, and new methods of activity indicate general advance in reaching the mind and heart of the Chinese.

LITERATURE.

The desire for literature has greatly increased. A full and well selected supply of Bibles, New Testaments, Tracts and commentariesis found in the Mission Library. A variety of educational text-books, as well as scientific and illustrated ones, are also kept. Larger numbers of all these have been sold this year on orders from California and Eastern Chinese in our own and other Missions.

Realizing the importance of a systematic knowledge of the great truths of the Bible given in a simple form that could be studied daily in schools, Dr. Condit prepared a booklet Catechism in English and Chinese. This little manual of truth, prepared for Sunday-schools especially, has had a remarkable sale in the Chinese schools here and in the East and in Canada. Nearly 3,000 copies have been circulated in the few months since it was printed, and only words of approval come back from superintendents and teachers where they are being used.

CHRISTMAS.

The Sunday-schools, Evening Schools, King's Daughters and its Helping Hand branch and the Boys' Club of our Mission held their Christmas Tree exercises in the church this year as usual, with the Woman's Home School, Occidental School, and Kindergarten. The audience of eight hundred, less than one-eighth of whom were our American friends, filled the church, and they were delighted. The general comment was that this was the best entertainment that has been given, and reflected great credit upon the teachers. The Kindergar-ten—little ones under seven—were especially interesting. The recitations showed improvement, and the conduct of the pupils was much admired. The singing by the church choir composed of both men and women, and the singing of a quartette by the Boys' Club, was a genuine surprise and delight to the audience.

SCHOOLS.

The Evening School has varied in its attendance.

In addition to the work in San Francisco, schools in Alameda, Oakland and San Rafael are under the general supervision of the missionary and native helpers, though financially supported otherwise. The San Rafael boys have done remarkably creditable work. Six have been baptized and received into the Church. Seven hundred dollars has been given for a Mission Chapel and Home by the young men, with a few supplemental gifts. The young men gave each a month's wages to purchase the building, and more afterwards to put it in a suitable repair, and now they occupy it with great joy in their hearts. Regular preaching has been carried on at each of these three places by the native pastors.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Sabbath audiences are most regular and attentive. Two services on Sabbath, and two prayer meetings on Wednesday, one for Christians, and one for pupils in the school; two sessions of Sabbath-school, Senier and Junior Endeavor Society, and Y. M. C. A. meetings fill up our church calendar. Six classes, with as many consecrated teachers, are found in the Sunday-school, studying the International Lessons. A collection by class is taken up the first Sabbath of each month. Dr. Drew, of Korea, a returned missionary of the Southern Presbyterian Church, has been able also to gather a class of eight or ten Koreans into the Sunday-school.

ORGANIZATION OF WOMEN.

The King's Daughters Circle, composed of the Christian women of the Church, has this year as in the past ten years, been under Mrs. Condit's personal supervision. The officers are Chinese, and the Committees for special kinds of work, are all Chinese. The meetings are large, usually more than a hundred women and children being present as guests, and by invitation of the "Daughters." They provide refreshmentstea and cake—and serve them. Opportunity is taken over their tea-cups to give invitations to come to church and Mothers' monthly prayer meeting. A Bible woman has been supported in Sun Neng, China, by the King's Daughters for two years. Last year this woman writes that she was the means "under the Holy Spirit" of bringing thirteen persons, whom she visited, to Christ. Dr. Niles, of Canton selected the Bible woman and looked after her work. A "Helping Hand" Circle, an auxiliary of the King's Daughters, was formed last year, composed of twelve of the young girls of the church, who meet to learn to sew, and who make garments for the poor children of Chinatown.

REFLEX INFLUENCES.

Our Chinese Christians, both men and women, are deeply interested in giving the Gospel to their people in their homes in China. Check Hom, with 300,000 people and twice as many more in the near villages around, is the centre of many of the homes of our Chinese Christians. They have this year bought there and put in repair, in a fine part of the city, a large chapel at a cost of $2,000 in gold. This was mostly raised among our Chinese Christians in this country. They are raising money to buy a house and lot for a girls' school, adjoining their church, which they have built in the large city of Sun Neng. Christians appreciate education for their daughters as well as sons.

JAPANESE WORK.

During the past year there has been a marked increase in our Japanese population. There are probably not less than eighty thousand of these people on the Pacific Coast, and fifty thousand in the state of California alone. They are to be found everywhere, in city and country. Two thousand seven hundred are at present employed in railroad construction in the Golden State. Because of the general prosperity of the United States, the presence of this army of strangers has called forth no expressions of animosity from American workmen, there being at present sufficient employment for all. Our hopes of greater Spiritual harvests from this augmentation have not been realized. The increase in numbers has enabled the Japanese to form social clubs, and provide various kinds of amusements, which have had a tendency to draw young men away from the missions. The Buddhists have also followed our plan, and provided mission homes in several of the larger cities, claiming all the unchristianized Japanese as their adherents.

Only a small proportion of the Japanese who come to this country are improved in character by their residence on the Pacific Coast. San Francisco has been called the smelting pot of the nations. Not everything that goes into the smelting pot comes out better for the experience. Those Japanese who are attracted to our missions, and come under the influence of the Gospel, are ennobled and purified; and often return to their own land, bearing something of the likeness of the Master; while many others, uninfluenced by Christian teaching, go back more debased in character than when they came.

THE JAPANESE CHURCH IN SAN FRANCISCO.—In both our San Francisco Mission Homes religious services have been conducted in Japanese and English twice each Sabbath and every Wednesday evening throughout the year. Twenty have been added to the church upon profession and one by letter, making the whole number received up to the present time 350. Those who received baptism were but a small proportion of those who heard something of the Gospel message, and have been more or less influenced by it, but have shown no design to take a decided stand for Christ. Several of our members have been graduated from the Theological Seminary; two are at present taking that course, and three or four others have the ministry in view.

THE COUNTRY MISSIONS.—Besides the two Mission Homes in San Francisco, we have comfortable Christian homes for Japanese young men at Salinas, Watsonville and Los Angeles. These missions receive no help from the Board. They are branches which have sprung from the San Francisco vine being composed principally of young men who were former members of that church and Y. M. C. A.

During the year, seven young men were baptized by Rev.

J. K. Inazawa at the Salinas Mission, and the first fruits have been gathered in the recently organized Los Angeles Mission. At Watsonville a few deeply interested young men are to be found. During the Christmas exercises (just held) in the last mentioned place, three young men came—like the wise men from the East—bringing their treasure, consisting of seventy-two dollars and fifty cents, to aid the Watsonville mission work. This was a genuine surprise to all present.

In all five missions the young men are organized into societies or Christian associations, the present membership in San Francisco being about two hundred, and the membership of the country mission being about a hundred more. Every member is expected to contribute a little towards the support of the work. The majority of these young men are supporting themselves by working a part of each day, and spending a considerable portion of their time in study, attending either the public or our mission schools. It is impossible for those so engaged to make large contributions, yet in this way sufficient for the rent and all the incidental expenses of these homes is raised; the appropriations from the Board being used to pay the salaries of the missionaries, native helpers and teachers. (During the past year the Board has appropriated ten dollars per month toward the rent of the Branch Mission Home in San Francisco. This was made necessary by the general rise in rentals. We hope soon, through an increase in membership, to be able to meet all such expenses.)

Most of the Japanese are earnestly studying our language and to assist them in this, we provide day and evening educational classes. The average attendance at the Haight Street Mission is sixty, and in the Branch Mission Home, thirty.

The same text-books are used as in the public schools, but in addition there are daily classes for the study of the Bible. The evening schools are always closed with religious exercises, consisting of singing, Scripture reading and prayer.

PORTLAND.

The work for the Chinese in Portland, Oregon, has been carried on as usual under the efficient superintendence of Mrs. W. S. Holt, who reports as follows:

When the year began our Mission was in quite a serious condition. Some of the young men decided to leave us because they could not have their own way, and we had to let go our native helper because of certain unwise actions which he had seemed to stir up in the young men. Indeed a decided effort was made to destroy the Mission, and one man told us distinctly if we did not do what they wanted, we could have no Mission. This little episode passed and our sky is clear and the sun is shining once more. Taken altogether this year has been among the most successful since the Mission was opened. Early in the year, notice was given that our rental would be advanced from $25 to $45 per month. This made it absolutely necessary for us to move. We hunted the town over and could find no building, within our financial reach, on the ground floor, so were forced at last to secure rooms upstairs in a business block on First Street. The location was central and the move has proved advantageous to the Mission.

A young man, who now serves as our assistant, reports as follows:

We have fifteen teachers, thirty-eight pupils and there will be more to come pretty soon. I do not know what to do with them. There are no tables nor any room for them, and indeed the chairs are hardly enough. Only five or six in our Mission will go to the cannery this year. The rest will stay with us, after the first pupil class. They are very hungry and thirsty after the Bible and singing. There will be four men to be baptized. They stay with me in the Mission until 11.30 P. M. every night. They are really good men. There are ten or twelve in my Bible class. It makes me shout and thank God for this opportunity. Everything in the school is prosperous.

This gives a glimpse of the work as it is to-day. It shows a promising condition. We have the largest number of pupils we have had in the school at one time for some years. Moreover there is a personal interest on the part of our Christians in the salvation of souls. When a "week of personal work" was suggested in the Presbytery, we took up with it in the Chinese Mission; it was interesting to see how eager and interested our Chinese Christians were. That there are so many in the school, and there is such a strong Bible class and four candidates for baptism is largely due to this personal work. We have received two members into the church already. The children's school is doing excellent work and the expense connected with it is met by the Woman's North Pacific Board. It costs nothing for rent, as they meet in the Mission room, used for the men at night. Of course the children's school is a day-school. There are twenty children in it and without this school they would have no religious instruction of any sort, for they all come from homes that are non-Christian. We are very hopeful for the future of this school. At Christmas time they gave a public entertainment which was much enjoyed by those who attended. They sang hymns, recited verses of Scripture and spoke little pieces in a very creditable way. We are fortunate in having an earnest Christian woman for the teacher. We have a splendid staff of teachers in the school and to their fidelity as well as to the care exercised and work done by Paul Johnson, the Chinese helper, is the success of the Mission due Personal visitation among the Chinese women and the work of the dispensary have been maintained, so far as possible, during the year. We are not so well situated for dispensary work as we were before, but our physicians in Portland are very kind and allow us to take any needy Chinese to their offices and in cases of extremity, will visit them in their homes and all this without any charge. The Chinese have contributed about $700 to the local Mission and we have taken offerings for the Foreign Board and have sent some money to China, and have spent something like a hundred dollars in miscellaneous matters connected with the growth of the Mission. $300 a year are contributed by friends in Portland for the men's mission and the Chinese day-school costs $100 a year. The other expenses of the Mission are met by the supplemental grant of the Board upon the recommendation of the Presbytery of Portland.

LOS ANGELES.

I have delayed sending in my annual report in the hope that I should have a report from the school at Santa Barbara, but for some reason the report is delayed. The continuing depopulation of the Chinese settlements, owing to the stringent execution of the Exclusion Law, continues to check the progress of Christian work in Southern California. This is the united complaint from all the missions of every denomination. In the course of the past year several of our Christians, including the elder who is best known to the local churches, Mr. Yip Kim Yao, have gone back to China. Mr. Yip expects to return this year. On the other hand, two or three of our Christians have returned from China.

The church on Wilmington street, of which I have been acting as Moderator of Session and virtual Stated Supply, is in fair condition. The Sunday evening services continue to be well attended, though the attendance rarely exceeds twenty-five. I think that there has been some increase of interest. Since my last report there have been two additions to our membership, both on profession of faith, making three since I took up the work. The whole membership now numbers thirty-three.

Since the lamented death of Mr. J. C. Salisbury I have been acting as superintendent of the adult Sabbath-school which meets at 5.15 P. M. each Sabbath. The attendance is small, seldom more than ten or twelve, which is partly owing to the hour. We are trying to find an hour more suitable, but it is not easy. Many of our "boys" are out in domestic service.

The day-school and primary Sabbath-school, under the superintendence of Miss Vella Wilcox, have had a good year. Most of the work is of kindergarten character, but as the children grow older advanced branches are added. The attendance at the day-school averages about fifteen and at the Sabbath-school (in which I teach the advanced class) is about twenty.

The night-school has been kept up as usual under the efficient direction of Miss Boone and her mother, Mrs. Noble, assisted at times by Miss Boone's sister. These devoted ladies give their services free of charge and at great sacrifice to themselves. The school is held at the church each evening except Saturday and Sunday. The attendance is small, seldom more than five or six, owing to the multiplicity of denominational schools of this character, but excellent work is done. It is from just such schools that the men now prominent in our church have come.

My reception-room and office in "Chinatown" has proved to be a useful adjunct to the work. The ladies have fitted it up in comfortable shape for me and I spend each afternoon, except Saturday, nere unless absent on other calls of duty. I have a supply of tracts which I give to the occasional caller. My friend, Dr. B. C. Atterbury, now practicing in Pasadena, comes to my office twice a week for an hour's dispensary work. In the nature of the case there are not many patients to be seen, but the effect of his consecrated work is most helpful, for it attracts to us men who would not otherwise come near us. Besides giving his time Dr. Atterbury pays half the rent of the little room itself, which amounts, in all, to five dollars per month. What we need most urgently is a suitable Chinese assistant to act as my agent in getting hold of the people, but no one can be found, although I have appealed to every place on this coast where we have work.

I have made three visits to Santa Barbara Presbytery territory and have several times visited our excellent night-school conducted in Santa Barbara by Mrs. L. H. Terry, a most efficient and consecrated worker. The school is supported by the Presbytery. It is attended by from ten to twenty young men, several of whom have professed Christ. Especially worthy of note was the Communion service held at the Mission there in the course of the meetings of Synod, when Dr. Condit and I jointly presided and Dr. Condit made a feeling talk in Chinese.

Strange to say, I have not been able to get an appointment to visit San Diego, where we also have a good school, but this has not been owing to lack of interest upon the part of the brethren there, but simply to the pressure of other matters, I suppose. I hope that I shall soon be given the opportunity which I have repeatedly craved.

I have considered that an important part of my duty here is to do what I can to stimulate a general interest in the cause of Foreign Missions. Through the Christian generosity of Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Harbison, of Pittsburgh, Pa., I have been enabled to purchase a good single stereopticon and, having secured the use of a set of the "China" slides from the Library Department of the Board, I have given, up to date, nine illustrated lectures in Los Angeles and the vicinity. I have made as many more addresses, without the lantern, in Los Angeles and Santa Barbara Presbyteries. These efforts culminated in my addresses as representative of the Board at the meeting of the Synod of California at Santa Barbara.

On the whole, our work for the Chinese here, while perhaps not showing special cause for congratulation in the past year, has by no means been done in vain. As an indication of what is going on beyond our ordinary notice I may cite an incident related by one of our Christians, a prominent business man here in Chinatown. He says that during this New Year's time when the restaurants are closed, he has been taking his meals with some relatives of his who are not Christians. He was surprised to observe that they did not make the idolatrous oblations at their meals which are universal at this season. Upon asking them about it they said: "Oh, we have not made offerings to the idols for many months. We are all the same as Christians." It is true here, as it is on the foreign field, that the progress of Christianity can by no means be measured by statistics.

In closing, I may say a word about the work for the Japanese. Though they were disappointed that the Board could not help them, they went forward and rented a small house for a boarding-house and night-school.

Several ladies have volunteered to teach them and they are holding their school regularly in the hope that the officers of the Board, when they visit Los Angeles at the time of the meeting of the General Assembly, may be able to extend them substantial help. They consider themselves under the general direction of Dr. Sturge of San Francisco, although I visit them from time to time, as I have been requested to do by the Committee on Foreign Missions of this Presbytery. They are a most interesting company of young men and deserve all encouragement.

OCCIDENTAL BOARD.

The personnel at the Mission Home, 920 Sacramento Street, remains unchanged. Miss Cameron, Superintendent; Miss Thompson, Matron; Miss Garrette, Teacher in Home School.

The health of this large family has been almost perfect during the past year, even man's arch-enemy, la grippe, having passed by on the other side.

Several thrillingly absorbing rescue cases have filled the hands, the hearts of the workers, and the courts of our city full for weeks at a time. Ah Fato, a little defenceless girl, having traveled through the departments of the municipal, State, and Federal authorities, and back again to the municipal guardians of the law in five days, and at last finding a permanent abiding place under the protecting roof of the Mission Home, the child having been given to its care by the courts. The little waif had been sold to Tong Duck for $450, and he had already received the first payment, a part of $2,000, that he was to receive as a price for the poor human chattel that he was selling into the most degrading slavery, when the Mission Home rescued her from that sad fate. A missionary writes from China, she has found one of the girls who was married from the Home and went later to live in her native land with her husband. "Ngun Ho is living in the midst of heathenism, but still remaining (after three years' absence) true to her Christian faith, and earnestly trying to lead the members of her husband's family to Christ." Does this work pay? is a question often asked.

HOME SCHOOL.—There are three schools under the care of the Occidental Board: the Home School, the Occidental School and the Chinese Kindergarten School. The Home School, Miss Garrette, teacher, is open only to the girls who live in the Mission. This, however, brings together a very heterogeneous group, embracing all ages, from little Yute Ho Ii, a baby of three years with a thrilling life history, as the voungest slave in America when rescued, to the oldest woman in the Mission.

There are thirty-three pupils enrolled in this school. The English branches are taught, and a thorough course in Bible study is given.

OCCIDENTAL SCHOOL.—Miss Carruthers, teacher. This school is located at 911 Stockton street, with a daily average attendance of forty. This, the place where the heathen young idea is trained into Christian minds. Rich indeed have been the returns from this harvest field. Rev. Ngn Poon Chew was trained in this school until he reached higher mathematics, as were other bright minds in the younger Chinese students.

KINDERGARTEN.—The Chinese Kindergarten is in its first year, and is bursting with the children of the girls who have married from the Home, and live near in homes of their own; also many little heathen ones from the heart of Chinatown attend here, and receive liberal training in the Bible study.

EVANGELISTIC WORK IN CHINATOWN.—The Evangelistic work of the Board is centred in Chinatown, which is full of superstition and heathen worship, the great mass unlettered, and only a comparatively few who can read.

The faithful house-to-house visitor, Mrs. Gow Wing, received her Christian education at the Mission Home. Six afternoons every week she is telling the story of salvation to her own people. Many of the women never leave their homes; they are in bondage, hence the needs of going to them. "I was in prison and ye visited me."

As the women come more and more in personal touch with Christian people, their homes are cleaner and brighter; they are more inclined to hear the truth, they worship idols less; do not bind the feet of their little girls, and in many ways give evidence of trying to lead a better life, and say they would like to be Christians. They make the Bible reader a sharer of their jovs and their sorrows.

The Evangelistic work is endeavoring to lift up the Christ every day to these people and are encouraged by the promise, "And I, if I be lifted up from earth, will draw all unto me."

The number of regular visits made during the year: Houses visited, 290; rooms visited, 489; women visited, 680; children visited, 840.

CHINESE IN NEW YORK CITY.

This work is under the superintendency of the Rev. Huie Kin, an ordained minister, connected with the Presbytery of New York.

The work among the Chinese in New York was commenced over thirty years ago, and has been under the care of independent organizations and the Boards of Home and Foreign Missions, and is now under the care of the Presbytery of New York, the Board of Foreign Missions making a small supplementary grant to meet expenses.

There are over ten thousand Chinese in New York city and Brooklyn, with many more in the neighboring cities, and it is increasingly evident that a well-organized and systematic work is of the utmost importance if these heathen at our very door are to be saved.

There are several smaller organizations at work among the Chinese in New York and vicinity, but the larger and most effective work can only be done by a well-organized and supported mission.

The Rev. Mr. Huie is doing all he can with the means at his disposal.

There are 257 on the roll of the Sunday-school held every Sabbath with an average attendance of nearly 100.

A preaching service is held after the Sunday-school, and is growing in popularity. There is also a school for the children in Mott street, including a daily kindergarten, to which the Chinese merchants send their children, and for which the City Mission has furnished a teacher, and a generous piano firm contributed one of the instruments for the use of the school.

SOME OF THE RESULTS.—During the past year eleven have been baptized and united with the Christian church, while eleven others have renounced their idols and are awaiting reception into the church.

Nine of the young men from the Mission school are engaged in missionary work in different parts of this country, and three have returned to their native land to tell what the Lord had done for their souls. New Orleans, St. Louis, Boston, Newark, Norfolk and Hartford have been furnished with effective workers from the scholars from the Mission School under Mr. Huie's care.

Organized Churches in the General Summary for 1902.

INTRODUCTION TO THE TREASURER'S REPORT.

Another year, the sixth in succession, has closed without a debt and the third in succession without the necessity arising for borrowing for the current work. So far as the records show, this is a longer period of prosperity than any which the Board has enjoyed in its history of seventy-two years. It is the more significant when it is considered that during this period of six years the Board has paid $35,000, the remnant of the last debt, and the appropriations have been increased nearly $250,000. This increase, however, barely brings the disbursements beyond those of ten years ago. In 1898 there were 696 missionaries under appointment, and 1776 native workers; in 1903 the number of missionaries commissioned and under appointment numbered 830; with nearly 2000 native workers. This affords a clear idea of the expansion of the work during the six years now ended.

The receipts from churches, Women's Societies, Sabbath-schools, Young People's Societies, individuals and legacies amounted to $1,049,840. As it became apparent that the income from these sources would be curtailed, the Board, during the closing weeks of the year, was compelled to decline many urgent calls from the field to meet the demands upon the missions in the expansion of the evangelistic and other departments of the work.

It is a matter of serious moment that the receipts from Churches, Women's Boards and Sabbath-schools show a decrease from last year; the Board naturally expected a substantial increase from these sources.

It was only the increase from Young People's Societies, legacies and individuals that saved the Board from closing the year without a considerable debt.

Digitized by Google

The amount received from legacies was $164,096.88, an increase over the average of the preceding ten years of $62,479.23. This indicates how seriously the work of the year would have suffered had it not been for the forethought of the friends who, during their life time, sustained the work by generous gifts and faithful prayers. It also emphasizes the duty and responsibility of the pastors of the churches to present clearly and frankly to the people, both from the pulpit and by personal conference, the remembrance of the Board when framing a last will and testament. The neglect or omission, on the part of those who should be most interested in the work, in the performance of this duty is painfully apparent in the large gifts from this source to educational and charitable institutions at home, and the comparatively small amount given in this way to mission work on the foreign field and at home.

The per capita amount received from congregational offerings was thirty-three and two-fifths cents per member. This is equivalent to one round-trip commutation fare which a business man pays daily in going to his business from the nearby suburbs of our large commercial centres. The per capita gift from the Sabbathschool scholars is represented by the meager sum of four and threetenths cents, less than one car fare. It may be true that the gifts to foreign missions by the children of the Church are taken to swell the amount given by the congregation or other organization. but this would hardly appear to be a proper method of instilling into the minds of the coming generations the importance and the privilege of sustaining a work so blessed and far-reaching in its fruitage for good. For many years the General Assembly has recommended special Foreign Mission offerings on Christmas and Easter Sundays, and the Board has prepared for free distribution Special Musical Services for these occasions. number have been used, and yet the offerings from the children have not shown as large an increase as was expected. The large amounts given by some Sabbath-schools is an evidence of what might be secured from this source if the officers of the schools once became interested in informing the scholars of the Foreign Mission work. Schedule of receipts from Sabbathschools by Synods is given as follows:

The receipts from individuals were $135,865.08, an increase of $21,155.92 over last year. While this is gratifying, it must be regretted that the number of individual contributors was 181 less than last year. Several most generous gifts were received from gentlemen who had been signally prospered during the year, and who frankly said that their gifts were thank-offerings for God's goodness. This source of income is one which may well be the topic of earnest conference and prayer by the substantial laymen of our great Church. Note.—The amount per capita is figured on the membership as given in the Minutes of the General Assembly for the previous year.

The splendid work that has been accomplished by some of the churches and Sabbath-schools only indicates what can be done by earnest and aggressive work. There are instances where comparatively small congregations, giving formerly perhaps $50 per annum, have increased their contribution until now they support a missionary at a salary of $500. In contrast to this some large churches, spending perhaps $20,000 in their congregational work, give barely $100 for the work abroad. A study of the amounts reported from churches by the Board, compared with the amounts reported to the Stated Clerk of the General Assembly in the Foreign Missions column of the Assembly Minutes, proves conclusively that a large percentage of the money reported for foreign mission work does not pass through the treasury of the Board of Foreign Missions. While the outside objects to which large sums are given may in many cases be worthy, it is true that some are quite unworthy, and may it not be a serious question whether such gifts are justifiable so long as the regularly organized work of the Church in this field is suffering from lack of funds? One instance may suffice. Last year a well-to-do church contributed say $800 to the work of the Foreign Board. This year the same church, in sending its gift of the same amount, directed that one-third of the amount should be given to outside effort totally apart from the work of the Board of Foreign Missions, and for which our Presbyterian Church has no direct responsibility.

In order to again impress on the Sessions and treasurers of the churches the importance of forwarding collections to the Board's Treasurer as soon as taken, a table is herewith given showing the receipts by months and quarters:

June	48,468 8	1
July	67,666 3	6
_		- $180,452 50	1st quarter.
August	$28,220 09	9	_
September	27,621 04	4
October	34,549 4	2
		- 90,390 ₹ 55	2d quarter.
November	$51,538 10	o	•
December	58,693 89	9
January	84,212 6	1
•		- 194,444 60	3d quarter.
February	$127,063 88	8	-
March	164,825 70	в
April	292,662 7	1
		- 584,552 35	4th quarter.

As the expenditures of the Board amount to approximately $80,000 monthly, or $250,000 quarterly, it will be observed that the receipts of the last four months of the year only exceeded the monthly disbursement. This places a very severe strain upon the Board, and could doubtless be remedied to a great extent if contributions were not withheld until the closing months of the year.

Special Gift Agreements.—The Special Gift Agreements, on account of the regular work on which the Board pays an income during the life of the donors, now amount to $146,900, an increase during the year of $21,500. This is a form of gift that should commend itself to those who wish to have their money invested in this work, and yet who'll require an assured income during life; there is no safer investment than this, for the guarantee is our great Church.

It has been gratifying to note the increased demand during the past year for the admirable literature published by the Board under the direction of the Home Secretary, Dr. Halsey. This is a promising indication and amply warrants the large expense incurred by the Board in the preparation and distribution of leaflets giving the latest phases of the work on the field. It is expected that the Bulletin will be issued at stated intervals during the coming year.

Cable Code.—The Foreign Missions Cable Code which for the past three years has been in preparation is now issued, and promises to be a most valuable assistant to the work of all the Foreign Missionary Societies of America. The Code has already been adopted by the following Boards:

American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions.

Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed Church in America.

Executive Committee of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. (South).

General Missionary Conference of the M. E. Church (South). Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Chinese Indemnity Fund.—Two installments of the Chinese Indemnity Fund have been paid, amounting to $40,354.50. The next installment is due July 1 and the final installment January 1, 1904. The relations of the Board with the Government since the trying Boxer outbreak have been most amicable. The Government officials have shown themselves always ready to comply with the reasonable requests of the Board.

The Board's Foreign Property.—Great enterprise and skill, as well as wisdom, have been manifested in the building operations in North China and Korea under Mr. H. B. Gordon, architect, and Mr. W. Russell, builder. The new buildings at Peking, Paotingfu and Wei Hsien are about completed. They are substantial in character and have been greatly admired by mission workers of all denominations. It is confidently expected that this substantial construction will result in a material saving in the annual expenditure for repairs. The Board has authorized an expenditure of $26,000 for the buildings of the Shantung College at Wei Hsien. These are now well under way. It is hoped that some generous church or individual will be led to furnish the money for this wonderful institution.

It is to be regretted that since the disturbances of 1900 the cost of building in North China has been increased about fifty per cent. This is due to the abnormal demand for materials as well as labor.

Interesting and impressive ceremonies attended the laying of the cornerstone of the Severance Hospital at Seoul. This splendid adjunct of the work in Korea will doubtless be in operation in the early fall. The sale of the Chong Dong property to the King was delayed for nearly a year, but on the return of Dr. Underwood negotiations were once more begun, and the King has provided a suitable site for the new mission buildings adjoining that of the hospital. The amount of money paid by the King will amply cover all expenses of this improvement.

The Press in Mexico City is now housed in the property owned by the Board, and the peregrinations of that institution have doubtless forever ceased. The Manager reports that it is a great satisfaction to be independent of the whims of the Mexican landlord.

The Mission House.—The mortgage of this Board on its one-half interest in the Presbyterian Building has been reduced to $70,000, and the pledges in hand are sufficient, when paid, to further reduce the mortgage to less than $30,000.

The rent roll at the present time is $126.450. Only four offices, of a total rental value of $1350, are vacant. In addition to furnishing the Boards of Home and Foreign Missions free office quarters, the building is yielding a net income which is increasing from year to year, as is shown in detail in Schedule 8, p. 389. The Joint House Committee gives careful attention to the operation and maintenance of this magnificent property, and there is no more popular office building in this part of the In order that a comprehensive view may be had of the movement undertaken by the General Assembly's Committee and the Committees of the Boards for removing the encumbrance upon the entire property, a combined statement is given showing the amount of the mortgages of the Boards of Home and Foreign Missions, the amounts paid thereon, the amounts remaining due and also the amounts desired to reimburse the Boards for the cost of maintenance during the early period of the occupancy of the building:

CONSOLIDATED STATEMENT OF THE BOARDS OF HOME AND FOR-EIGN MISSIONS AS TO THE MORTGAGES ON THE PRESBYTERIAN BUILDING.

The additional gift of $100,000 from Mrs. Rachel B. Crane, the second by her of this amount, may well be an incentive to others to complete the good work of speedily liquidating this indebtedness.

Field Treasurers.—The consolidation of Station Treasurers into one Mission Treasurer, as effected in the Western India, the Mexico and the Laos Missions, has proved in every respect satisfactory, and it is gratifying to the Board that the North India and other missions are likely to adopt this method during the coming year.

The Finance Committee.—To this Committee has been committed an increasing number of important matters regarding the financial interests of the Board. These have received as serious, and possibly more serious, consideration than had the matters concerned the individual interests of the members. The Board and the Church are truly indebted to the gentlemen comprising this Committee for their self-sacrificing and faithful work.

Financial Statements.—It is hoped that the balance sheet and accompanying schedules herewith presented will make clear to the Church the financial operations of the Board. The care and accuracy with which the records have been kept is illustrated by the fact that the books were closed Thursday evening, April 30, and on Friday evening, May 1, the balance sheet was taken off and the figures made ready for the printer. A study of the balance sheet will prove to those familiar with accounting the value of the system used and the high class of skill of the employees of the treasury department.

Expenses.—An analysis of the expenses for the year will be found in Schedule 5. This disproves the threadbare assertion of extravagance in the management of Church Boards. The percentages of disbursements in New York to the total sum received are as follows:

Administrative expense	4.33 1	per cent.
Disbursements not administrative	1.23	"
Disbursements directed by General Assembly	.82	"
	6.38

The certificate of the Board's auditors, Messrs. Patterson, Teele & Dennis, will be found on the following page.

CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS,

30 Broad St., New York. Boston, Baltimore, Columbus, O.

New York, May 2, 1903.

Hon. DARWIN R. JAMES, Chairman Finance Committee, The Board of Foreign Missions, New York.

Sir :--

We have examined the accounts and vouchers of the Treasurer of your Board for the year ending April 30, 1903, and have verified the Balance Sheet published herewith, which we believe presents the correct financial condition of the Board.

All moneys received have been properly accounted for. The statements of disbursements by Field Treasurers for the fiscal year just closed have not been received in New York at this date, and the surplus shown in the Balance Sheet is subject to change, according as the expenditures have been more or less than the appropriations for the past year.

Cash and securities have been verified either by actual count or evidences of deposit, and we believe the margin of safety between the book value and market value of securities is ample.

Respectfully submitted,

PATTERSON, TEELE & DENNIS,

Certified Public Accountants.
